WOODROW WILSON AS THE NEXT PRESIDENT

ALBERT PFAENDER, Democratic Leader in the Minnesota House, Who Predicts Woodrow Wilson Will Be the Next Occupant of the White House.

Try to Fool the People on Direct Election of Senators.

Sidetrack Keefe Bill and Pass Hybrid Production By Murray.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—For fear the Democrats would get credit for passing a bill for the popular election of United States senators, the Republican members of the senate yesterday afternoon deliberately chose to seize for their party the credit for murdering the measure.

The question was a special order for yesterday afternoon, with three bills to be considered: A hybrid production by Senator Murray, Republican, which was passed after numerous amendments had been adopted; a bill proposing the Oregon plan of direct election of senators by Senator Lende, Republican, which was indefinitely postponed by the author in the interests of getting a proper bill made into law; and the house bill by Representative Joseph R. Keefe of North Redwood, Democrat, which applies to Minnesota the Oregon plan with slight changes.

DUNN AGAIN PRESIDING

Speaker Returns After Illness and Is Given Warm Welcome.

Motion Requiring Two-Thirds Vote for Special Order Tabled.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The house had a quiet session after yesterday's storms. Speaker Dunn was back in the chair for the first time since his illness, and his appearance was the signal for a remarkable burst of cheers and applause, to which the speaker responded feelingly, saying that the kindness shown him by the members of the house during his illness convinced him that their differences were political and legislative, not personal. He admitted that he was still weak, and asked the house to be as good as it could.

The bone of recent contention, the motion to require a two-thirds vote to make a special order, was laid on the table on motion of Representative Fowler. This was the last day on which its defeat could be reconsidered, but the Fowler motion, while keeping it alive, averted further conflict today. The house has got into rather a nasty mood over the proposition, which is intended, it is said, to head off consideration of temperance measures, and it may be that it will be dropped in the interests of harmony.

HANSON BILL WILL PASS

Latest Report Is That Senate Will Agree to Reapportionment.

Likely to Be Made Special Order for Tuesday Evening.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—After all, the indications are that a reapportionment bill will go through the legislature and be signed by the governor, to be effective at the end of the present senatorial terms.

It won't be such a bill as justice demands and as the Constitution commands.

It won't be so good a bill nor so fair a bill as the Congdon bill, which the senate rejected by a vote of 36 to 27.

But it will provide a better and a fairer reapportionment than exists at present, and it will avert the calamity of a special session of the legislature—besides relieving Governor Eberhart of the vexing necessity of deciding between two dread evils—to call or not to call an extra session.

After adopting several amendments, all likely to gain votes for the bill,

COUNTY BOARD UPHOLDS LEWIS

Cass County Officials Believe Former County Auditor Is All Right.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of articles printed in local and outside papers reflecting on the competency and integrity of ex-County Auditor Arthur G. Lewis of Cass county, the county board has adopted resolutions expressing faith in him which declare:

"That said articles are absolutely and entirely without any foundation in truth or in fact whatever.

"That the books and affairs of said office of county auditor are in excellent shape and in all respects legal and proper.

"That we denounce said articles coming as they do at a time when Mr. Lewis, after an honest and faithful service of eight years as county auditor of this county, and after a residence here of more than twenty-five years, is leaving this state with his family to reside elsewhere, as a scurrilous, unwarranted and untruthful attack upon his character and reputation, and as wholly false and untrue."

Devils Lake, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Father Gall of Richardton, who was ordained but a few days ago as a priest of the Catholic church, saying his first mass at Kenmare, has been assigned by Bishop James J. O'Reilly as assistant pastor of St. Joseph's church in this city. The congregation of the local parish has grown to such dimensions in the past few years that one priest is no longer able to care for its spiritual needs.

MAY ATTACK CHIHUAHUA

Insurrectos With Madero Are Equipped Ready for Instant March.

Rumors of Peace Conference Are Again Started at El Paso.

San Andreas, Madero's camp, near Chihuahua, via Laredo, April 8.—With every insurrecto provided with ammunition and ready for instant marching orders, the impression grows in camp that Madero's objective point is Chihuahua city.

Senor Garibaldi, a descendant of the Italian patriot, and a veteran of many Central American revolutions, has just completed a reconnoitering expedition about the city. He found many of the houses in the outskirts deserted, apparently on warning from the Mexican officials that all non-combatants should seek safety in the city.

The land nearby is rolling, almost barren of verdure and filled with ravines and rocks which form a natural breastwork. From within sight of the insurgents' ranks, the federal pickets may be seen on the hilltops. Skirmishes

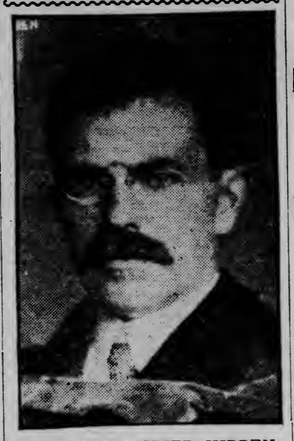
OVER 150 CONVICTS KILLED IN EXPLOSION IN AN ALABAMA MINE

MAY BECOME THE HEAD OF PRINCETON



PROF. JOHN GRIER HIBBEN, Who Is Under Serious Discussion for President of Princeton University.

Prisoners Are Hired From State and Worked By Contractors.

Mysterious Explosion Occurs Soon After Men Start Work.

But Twenty Miners Out of 190 Have Come Out of Mine.

Littleton, Ala., April 8.—It is feared that 150 state and county convicts have been killed by a mysterious explosion that occurred in the Banner coal mines near here, at 6:40 o'clock this morning. One hundred and ninety miners were sent into the underground workings this morning and up to 10 o'clock only twenty had been brought out alive.

Convicts, hired from the various counties through the state, are employed in the mines. Early advices from the scene are meager.

The explosion occurred at 6:30 o'clock and a large number are known to have been killed. Nearly 200 men are known to have been in the mine at the time of the explosion.

Twenty men have come out of the mine alive of the 190 who went to work this morning. It is believed the majority of the remainder underground are dead.

It is not known whether the explosion was caused by gas or dust.

FIVE NEW HAVEN BUILDINGS BURN

Many Families Lose Homes and Everything Contained Therein.

New Haven, Conn., April 8.—Five buildings which in area covered a block on the lower side of the city and adjacent to the manufacturing district were fire swept early today. The buildings destroyed in Franklin and Chestnut streets were a five-story brick, owned and occupied by the Lewis Hawthorne company, sash and blind makers; a four-story brick used by the John T. Doyle company, dealers in grocers' supplies and makers of preserved goods, and three wooden houses, each two and a half stories in height, occupied by many Italian families. The Hawthorne company's plant was in part occupied as a carriage factory by the Kilam Carriage company. The total loss is $200,000.

Soon after the fire broke out an explosion shook the neighborhood, due, it is thought, to ignition of a quantity of varnishes and paints.

The police had to drive scores of families from tenements in the neighborhood and only the early fall of the factory building walls relieved the danger. Those families whose houses were burned lost all their effects.

Deaths from Plague.

Amoy, China, April 8.—Twelve deaths from bubonic plague and five deaths from smallpox were reported here during the two weeks ending yesterday.

SEVEN PERSONS FATALLY BURNED

Mother and Six Children Victims of Explosion of Kerosene Stove.

Chicago, April 8.—By the explosion of a kerosene stove six children and their mother, Mrs. Luddie Podotil, were fatally burned last night at Clyde, a suburb of Chicago.

One of the victims, a 5-year-old boy, died today. All the others suffered fearful injuries from flaming oil.

The explosion occurred just as the mother had assembled the children preparatory to putting them to bed. Mrs. Podot'l attempted in vain to extinguish the fire on the clothes of her offspring while her own dress and the walls of the room were crumbling away.

The house was so quickly destroyed that it was with difficulty neighbors were able to drag out the helpless mother and children.

RAILROADS WIN CASE

State Railway Commission Enjoined From Enforcing Their Rates.

Judge Holds That Act of Legislature Violates Constitution.

Suit Brought By the Stockholders of Three Railroads.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Walter H. Sanborn, senior United States circuit judge, Eighth judicial district, in an exhaustive opinion handed down today, decided the Minnesota rate cases against the members of the Minnesota state railway commission on the grounds that the necessary effect of the reductions ordered was substantially to burden and directly to regulate interstate commerce, to create unjust discriminations between localities in Minnesota and those in adjoining states in violation of the commercial clause of the constitution and to take the properties of the railroad companies without just compensation in violation of the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution.

The suits were brought by stockholders of the Northern Pacific railway company, the Great Northern Railway company, the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad company against those companies, the attorney general and the members of the railway and warehouse commission of Minnesota, to enjoin the reduction of the passenger rates in Minnesota from 3 cents to 2 cents per mile, the merchandise rates 20 per cent to 25 per cent and the commodity rates 7:37 per cent.

The railroad companies had put all these reductions, except that on commodity rates, into effect and the cases were commenced and tried after the effect of these reductions had become provable. Full proof of the facts of the cases was made through many months before Charles E. Otis, special master, who reported the facts and recommended decrees in favor of the stockholders.

Judge Sanborn's Opinion.

Judge Sanborn rendered decrees today which affirm the report of the master and enjoin the enforcement of the reductions after June 1, 1911. He holds in his opinion:

"1—The acts of the legislature of Minnesota of April 4, 1907, chapter 97, reducing passenger fares within the state about 33 1-3 per cent, and of April 18, 1907, chapter 225, reducing commodity rates within the state about 7.37 per cent, and the orders of its railroad and warehouse commission of Sept. 6, 1906, reducing general merchandise rates within the state from 20 to 25 per cent, and of May 3, 1907, reducing in-rates within the state to distributing points by their natural and necessary effect substantially burden and directly regulate interstate commerce, create undue and unjust dis-

SEVENTY BODIES ARE TAKEN FROM COAL MINE

Fatalities at Throop, Pa., Are Greater Than Expected.

Members of State Rescue Crew Lose Their Lives.

Scranton, Pa., April 8.—Up to 9:45 o'clock this morning seventy bodies had been taken out of the ill-fated Pencoast mine at Throop, where fire yesterday entombed many men. The indications are that many others are yet to be found and the grim tragedy of the colliery will be far more awful than was anticipated.

The fire which started in one of the hoisting engine rooms in the "China" vein, 750 feet beneath the surface, the lowest working in the mine, did not do as much damage to the workings as had been believed. The fire did not reach the entombed men and the condition of their bodies shows that death was due to suffocation from smoke or asphyxiation from the accumulated gas. None of the bodies which were found in a heap in the blind gangway was in the least mutilated.

Forty-four of the dead have been identified. Many of the victims were foreigners and known only by a number or nickname. Their identification, therefore, was difficult. Heading the list of the victims is Joseph E. Evans of West Scranton, who was foreman of the United States rescue car, which was hurried to the mine from its station at Wilkesbarre. He was 35 years old. Dr. J. A. Holmes, director of the United States bureau of mining who arrived during the night, accompanied by D. W. Roberts, of the instruction department of the bureau, paid a high tribute to the heroism of Evans, who was leading a rescue gang into the smoke-laden mine filled with deadly black-damp. "There are martyrs in

ROOSEVELT HAS CUT OUT FARGO

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Col. Roosevelt cannot stop here when he passes through North Dakota next week en route East, as he has wired, in reply to an invitation, that his itinerary has been arranged so long in advance he cannot spare the time to stop here and accept Fargo's hospitality.

Last September the former president made the Labor day speech here, and his visit to the city was somewhat marred by a Socialistic painter, who sprang on the platform at the close of his address and charged the speaker with being a tool of the "interests." Fargoans wanted to demonstrate that they could entertain the colonel courteously, and made an effort to get him to stop off here next Friday on his way east.

HOTEL MAN KILLS WIFE

Shoots Her Because She Refused to Open the Hotel Bar.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with the murder of his wife, George Cook, the wealthy proprietor and owner of the Franklin house, is held a prisoner in the county jail. After drinking heavily about the city yesterday afternoon and last night, Cook returned to the hotel just before midnight. On the stairway he met his wife. When she refused to open the bar so that he might get a drink, Cook whipped a revolver from his pocket and shot her twice through the head. She died in a hospital this morning.

PASSENGERS ARE LANDED

Coming Storm May Damage Steamer Still Stuck on Reef.

New York, April 8.—"All safe ashore," was the message flashed by the commander of the steamer Prinz Freidrich Wilhelm to her owners as the big liner with the 1,720 rescued passengers of the stranded Prinzess Irene warped into the North German-Lloyd docks at Hoboken this morning.

After having all the Irene's passengers put on board her in the clean-cut work by wrecking crews and lifesavers off Fire Island yesterday, the Prinz Freidrich Wilhelm steamed into the harbor and up the bay to an anchorage off the Statue of Liberty, where she lay at anchor until 5:20 o'clock this morning.

Groups of relatives and friends of the passengers stood on the pier calling messages of greeting to those on board, for no one was permitted either to leave the steamer or to board her until the customs inspectors arrived. Shortly after 7 o'clock, inspectors boarded the vessel, and within a short time the hand baggage of the passengers—all they had been allowed to take from the Irene—was set out on the dock.

FARMERS CONTRIBUTING.

North Dakotans Rasing Money to Fight Ratification of Treaty.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Funds are being raised to pay the expenses of the delegates to Washington to oppose the Canadian reciprocity pact. Seven delegates were elected from the state at large, and each county was asked to send one. The farmers are raising funds by contributions for the latter, and the banks have offered to raise funds to pay the expenses of the delegates-at-large. A great deal of enthusiasm has been aroused over the matter, and opposition to ratification of the pact is growing stronger in North Dakota.

Physician Said Appendicitis.

Gall Stones Expelled by the Great Kidney Preparation.

I thought I would do you a favor and let you know what Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root has done so far for me.

About one year ago I was taken sick with a terrible pain in my right side. My family physican pronounced it appendicitis. About two weeks ago I received your Almanac and read in it about weak kidneys, and my back hurting me so much, I thought I would try your Swamp-Root and to my great astonishment, after using one bottle, I expelled three gall stones, which weighed 135 grains—just think of it. My kidneys are not well yet, and so I have concluded to continue with Swamp-Root. Mr. Schwake, the druggist, thought that it never was appendicitis and that the doctor had made a mistake. It was no doubt, gall stones that caused the trouble, or they would not have come away so soon after commencing with Swamp-Root.

I shall always praise Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root to all those who suffer from kidney, liver and bladder troubles and am very thankful that I ever discovered such a worthy remedy. I feel confident that it will cure me entirely of all kidney and liver trouble.

A TRAIN LOAD OF BARN DOOR HANGERS FOR DULUTH.

The special trainload of barn door hangers received by the Marshall-Wells company of this city during the past week has the distinction of being the largest load of barn door hangers that has ever been carried in the history of the world's commercial activity.

This fact was an excellent advertisement for the local house and also for the city of Duluth. The iron tracks for the door hangers, if stretched in a straight row, will cover a distance of twenty-nine miles. In addition to these thousands of pieces of small tracks, there were the other parts of the complete door hanger.

The train was covered with banners and big display advertsing matter, and in its trip from Chicago to Duluth attracted attention at every station along the road.

APPEARS FOR GOVERNOR

Attorney Stevenson Claims Action Against Chief Executive Is Not Valid.

William J. Stevenson, assistant to the state attorney general, appeared before Judge Dibell this morning and presented his arguments in the case brought against Governor Eberhart by Albert Woolsen, the old soldier who claimed that he was discriminated against when he made application to be appointed inspector of steam vessels. Mr. Woolsen was represented by Judge S. F. White.

Mr. Stevenson claimed that a suit cannot be maintained against the executive of a state. He claimed that an action against the governor was the same as a case against the state.

At a special term of court held last Saturday Mr. Stevenson moved to quash the alternative writ. It was the arguments on this motion that were heard today. Judge Dibell took the mater under advisement.

Some time ago Albert Woolsen petitioned the governor to appoint him inspector of steam vessels. The governor appointed Louis Boo. Mr. Woolsen claimed that he should have been given the position as he had shown that he was qualified to hold the job, having had thirty-five years' experience with steam boilers. He claimed also that under the state law he was entitled to the preference because of the fact that he is an old soldier with an honorable discharge from the United States army.

HIGHEST PRAISE FOR R. M. HUGHES

Washington, April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. M. Hughes of Aitkin, Minn., secretary to Congressman Miller of this district, won marked honors last evening in the annual debate at Georgetown university. Some weeks ago Mr. Hughes by a brilliant effort won a place on the debating team. Last night by masterly argument and moving eloquence he carried his team to victory. He was selected by all the judges as easily the best of all the debaters. It was also a vctory of the West over the East. The Washington Post this morning speaks of the debate as follows:

"The address of R. M. Hughes' last night won the decision in the second of a series of three debates now being conducted by the law school of the Georgetown university. The debate was held in Gaston hall and the two best orators will meet the winners of a previous contest in a final argument next May of the championship of the school. Joseph F. Walsh won second place.

"Hughes address was declared by members of the audience to be the best effort, both from the standpoint of oratory and argument that has been heard n Gaston hall in ten years.

"The proposition discussed was whether the initiative and referendum should be made part of the legislative system of the several states. John F. McCarron and Hughes carrying the affirmatve, and Thomas J. FitzGerald and Joseph F. Walsh the negative."

The judges were Judge Ashley M. Gould of the district supreme court, Judge Daniel T. Wright also of the district supreme court, and William D. Hoover, president of the National Savings and Trust company.

ELECTRIC CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Forty men interested in the formation of an electric club at the Head of the Lakes met at the Commercial club Friday evening and organized the Lake Superior Electric club.

The following officers were elected for the first year: T. W. Hugo, president; W. W. Winslow, vice president; J. B. Crane, secretary-treasurer.

It is the intention to hold meetings once a month, at which meetings papers of interest to the members will be read and discussed.

Any man interested in or identified with the electrical industry is eligible for membership.

DARBY'S RECRUITS IN ACTION AT CLEVELAND

FISHER, Duluth's New Catcher.

REINHART, A New Outfielder Who Has Shown Class.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Providing hard work during the off season as well as the playing season will get results, the Duluth team of the Wisconsin-Minnesota league ought to have a winner this year.

Manager Darby O'Brien has been at work ever since the close of the last campaign trying to sign up players which will strengthen this year's team and he believes that he has lined up some very promising recruits.

At present Manager O'Brien has ten of his recruits practicing daily at one of the local school grounds. Here the players have been getting a lot of practice and most of them are ready for the season to open. The Duluth team will open its exhibition series on Wednesday in Akron. Games will be played there with the Ohio & Pennsylvania league team on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. On Saturday and Sunday the team will play in Mansfield and from there, Manager O'Brien will take his club to Fort Wayne.

Among the players who have been showing up the best in the spring practice is Brittin, the shortstop who was with Saginaw in the South Michigan league last year. Brittin is a Cleveland boy. He is very fast on his feet, a strong thrower and good batter. At third base he ought to make good. Joe Leber, another Cleveland player, is showing up well in practice and will probably make good on the infield. Leber played with the Hinkels, the leading amateur club in the city last year and looks very promising.

Fisher is coming up to expectations behind the bat and will probably do. Fisher caught for the Sandusky independent team last year. Reinhart is an outfielder who has opened the eyes of Manager O'Brien. Reinhart looks every bit a ball player and he seems to have a position in the outfield cinched.

In scouting around for a first baseman, Darby O'Brien endeavored to get the man with the longest reach possible. He signed up Van Uum, who played with Marion in the Ohio State league. Van Uum stands 6 feet 4 inches tall and has a reach that extends nearly from first to second base. In addition to being able to grab wild throws with little effort, Van Uum is able to hit fairly well.

A few years ago Manager O'Brien signed Ed Kohl, a Cleveland boy. Kohl made good and is now with the St. Paul team in the American association. This year O'Brien has signed a younger Kohl for the Duluth team. According to Darby, young Kohl acts like a better ball player than his brother Ed did when he was the age of this boy. Young Kohl is an outfielder and he is a sensation in fielding.

While as yet unsigned, Virva may be signed to play with Duluth this week. He is a first baseman but can also play the outfield. His showing has been first-class in practice and Manager O'Brien may tender him a contract soon. Pitcher Blancke, who started at Sandusky, will go to Youngstown in a day or two to have Bonesetter Reese examine his arm. If the famous doctor can fix up the injured pitching wing, Blancke will rejoin the team at Mansfield.

The following players will join the team at Akron: Pitchers, Humm, Isler, Woodburn, Higley, Duell, Smith, infielders, Mountain and Carter, out outfielder, Downing.

Manager O'Brien thinks well of his team's chances for the season and, although he is not predicting a pennant winner, he has hopes of piloting the leaders.

SWOLLEN ANKLES AND BLISTERED FEET.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 8.—Swollen ankles and blistered feet that almost leave a trail of blood around the sawdust course in Tomlinson hall, where the six-day international walking and running race is being staged, hampered all except the leading team, Hoagland-Dineen, on the final days of the match.

Both Hollihan and Crooks, who compose the team that has held second place all along, are badly crippled by blisters and Hollihan's ankles are swollen almost to twice their natural size, but the walker purposes to finish his share of the going at 5:30 this afternoon. Thibeau, the French runner, who teams with Caustin of Chicago, showed better form last night and that team may hurry Hollihan and Crooks for second place.

The leaders have traveled 194 miles and 17 laps.

BUSINESS GOOD ON PACIFIC COAST.

Harry Pierce, manager of the Lyceum theater, returned yesterday from a trip to the Pacific Coast country. During his absence of three weeks Mr. Pierce, who was accompanied by Harry Baker of this city, visited San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, and on the return trip stopped over at Omaha, Kansas City and Denver.

"Conditions are looking very much better in the West," said Mr. Pierce. "The companies out for H. E. Pierce & Co., have done a very good business in the West, and from what the theatrical men said, there has been an improvement the past two months.

"Out in California we encountered ideal weather conditions. Already in Frisco they are talking about the coming Panama exposition, though it is some time ahead. They have wonderful enthusiasm in California, and the wonderful growth of Los Angeles and the strides that San Francisco has made and is making today, are very good examples of this.

"Los Angeles and San Francisco are very good show towns and seem to have been doing very good business. Altogether the times look very good on the Pacific coast, and the people out there believe that the country is on the verge of a very prosperous era."

Fear of Court Decisions Causes Liquidation—Dull.

The copper market was weak and dejected today. There was some liquidation as many traders believe that the supreme court will hand down a decision in one of the cases of interest to the market. It is believed that either the Standard Oil or the American tobacco case which have been before the court for a decision for more than a year may be decided. The general belief is that the decisions will be against the corporations but that the supreme court will point out a way whereby the companies can continue business with their present organizations without materially changing their forms. This being Wall Street's view of the situation the chances are that the decision will be totally different, if the late differences between Wall Street's views and various decisions can be taken as a criterion.

The copper market was featureless. North Butte was the only stock that displayed any strength. It sold from $27.25 to $28. Amalgamated sold at $62.50 to $62.25, Butte Coalition at $17.25, Calumet & Arizona at $49.50, Giroux at $6 and Greene at $6.37½.

The Boston Financial News, according to a wire to Paine, Webber & Co.: "The metal market has been rather quiet this week, but a fair business has been done. Prices are about the lowest touched as copper is selling for 12¼c and small lots for less. Lake is after the hand-to-mouth character as consumers see no reason for loading up and carrying stocks when producers are willing to do so for them. The result is that practically all the copper delivered to home consumers goes into immediate consumption. It is believed also that the invisible stocks of copper in Europe are smaller as exports were comparatively light during January and February. The situation is, therefore, in splendid shape to reflect an improved demand as soon as it sets in. There is reason to believe that deliveries during the current month will be fairly large, but in face of the production little is to be hoped for in the direction of favorable statistics."

News arrived today from several of the new porphyries, the most important being the announcement that Miami made its first shipment of three cars of concentrates, estimated to run 40 per cent copper, to the Greene-Cananea smelter. Two sections of the new mill are now treating 750 tons daily, and the third section was expected to start today, bringing the total per day up to 1,000 tons. The management is very well satisfied with the operation of the plant, and expects in four or five months to be treating 3,000 tons daily. At the Keystone further development work is said to be contemplated, though no information is given out. Two churn drills no longer in use at the Miami are likely to be moved to the Keystone property, and it is also said that the latter company will build an aerial tramway to the Miami mill.

Extensive improvements are to be made at the Washoe smelter at Anaconda and the Great Falls smelter is to receive a complete overhauling. It is true some improvements are now going on at both plants and more are contemplated, but perhaps not as extensively as stated in early reports. It is a well known fact that the smelting department of the Washoe plant is the equal of anything in the country today, and it is also known that the concentrating department is not what it ought to be and is not even up to the concentrating department of the Great Falls plant. Therefore, some extensive changes are in process of being worked out with a view of bringing it up to the very best in the country. Some new machinery is to be installed with the object of bringing great saving.

The Great Falls concentrator is said to be ahead of the Washoe, still it is believed that it can be improved and greater saving effected, and consequently similar improvements to those proposed in the Washoe will be made. The Great Falls smelter is an old building but the many improvements made and the amount of new machinery installed from time to time in the past few years, have brought it about up-to-date. President Thayer of the Anaconda company recently made a very thorough inspection of both smelters and he is satisfied that with the changes proposed the plants will be in a position to handle the ore as cheaply and to just as good advantage as any smelters in the country.

When the Butte & Boston Mining company was taken over by the Amalgamated on the basis of $100 per share it was regarded by many as somewhat in the nature of a crime, and possibly justifiably so, for the company at that time had no showing of financial strength or ore reserves, or anything warranting any such price, except a large stock ownership by inside interests.

But Butte & Boston has made good in an unexpected manner, and the last few outstanding shares of minority stock of the total 200,000 shares have recently been purchased for $150 per share. Every share is now in the treasury of the Amalgamated and Butte & Boston now enjoys the enviable record of the lowest cost production in the Butte camp, its copper having been produced within recent months as low as 6½c per pound, including every charge, and its properties have been developing into some of the important producers among the Amalgamated group.

Developments at the Sierra de Cobre property of the Greene-Cananea company have been meeting with excellent results and that the indications are promising that this mine will make a large producer. In fact, the most important of any of the developments during the past year at the Cananea mines have been those of the Sierra de Cobre.

The underground development at this property, which, owing to the steep topography it has been possible to open entirely by tunnels, has disclosed two different ore bodies, each varying from fifty to sixty feet in width. Drifting is now in progress to open these shoots along the strike, and from present indications as far as developed, the ore bodies are showing large and constant and in width.

A contract along which the ore bodies at the Sierra de Cobre make, can be traced for a mile, over the entire distance of which good copper croppings are in evidence. Up to the present time development has been confined to but three places on the outcrop, about 1,000 feet apart, where good ore has been encountered, showing that the ore bodies continue longitudinally. From these developments the outlook is regarded as very favorable for the discovery of new shoots within this mile of surface showings. Although the property is a new one and development has not proceeded far there is more than two years' ore exposed at the present rate of production.

The average grade of the Sierra de Cobre ore bodies is approximately 5 per cent copper and five ounces of silver per ton. In addition to these contents and particularly to the latter, which is above the average of the smelting material, the ore is practically a self-fluxing mixture, making possible a very low cost of production. This property during the past year assisted materially in bringing about the cost of 9.7 cents, which was made at Cananea, disregarding construction and improvements.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial says:

"Copper continues fairly active with prices unchanged. Lake is 12½ cents and electrolytic 12¼ cents a pound. The heavy volume of business in March promises to be duplicated in April. Exports during March proved to be quite large and there was a further small decrease in the foreign visible supply. Copper wire prices have been cut down to about 13 cents by extreme competition in the trade and heavy sales have resulted. Electrical business everywhere is very good. The adoption of plans for several big hydro-electric development enterprises, and the arrangement for the electrification by one company of 479 miles of railroad in England, and of other steam lines and terminals in different parts of the world, make it apparent that the coming year or two will be a period of steadily increasing copper consumption. It is probable that consumption will increase even more rapidly than production for several years to come, and should industrial expansion be resumed in this country, the world's metal surplus will be absorbed very quickly.

"The report of the Copper Producers' association for the month of March, which will issue today, is expected to show a further slight increase in the American visible supply. It is not improbable, however, that this will be the last month this year to record an expanding surplus. The heavy sales of copper in March should be followed by a considerable increase in deliveries during April. With any decided improvement in the American consumptive demand there is practically sure to be heavier foreign buying as European consumers are watching the market very closely and planning to lay in big stocks of the metal at low prices.

"Some of the leading students of the metal situation have presented arguments from time to time that the growth of copper consumption follows or accompanies that of iron and steel. A report of the United States geological survey, which has just been received, forms the basis for the following comparisons:

1904	16,497,033	812,537,267	45.47	45.32
1905	22,992,380	900,907,843	57.10	36.50

"Comparison of the figures in the foregoing table makes it clear that the existing copper surplus is wholly due to the failure of the mining companies to curtail production following the 1907 panic. The output of iron was reduced nearly 40 per cent in 1908 as compared with 1907, while copper production was larger than in any preceding year. The curtailment of iron output in 1908 made possible a very large increase in 1909. The output of copper also increased and, notwithstanding the remarkable expansion of consumption, the surplus built up in the last half of 1907 and the year 1908 remains unconsumed and is responsible for the prevailing low prices.

"The iron and steel business is beginning to show indications of improvement, notwithstanding that railroad construction is practically at a standstill. It would seem probable that the relatively low price of copper should tend to increase the demand for it and cause the consumption of this metal to greatly outstrip that for iron and steel this year and next. I believe that copper is selling as low now as it will, and I expect it to have an advance of several cents a pound before it sells under 12 cents."

OKLAHOMA LOSES IN PIPE LINE CASE

Court Holds That State Law Interferes With Interstate Commerce.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Walter H. Sanborn, presiding judge of the United States circuit court of appeals, today filed the order of the court in the appeal of Governor Haskell and others of the state of Oklahoma from the order of the circuit court of the eastern district of Oklahoma in what is known as the pipe line cases.

The circuit court of appeals enjoins the state of Oklahoma from interfering with the pipe lines.

The opinion of the court holds that Chapter 37 of the laws of Oklahoma of 1907, discriminates against and preventing use of pipe lines across the highways of the state to transport such gas out of the state violates the Constitution of the United States and is void.

The court further holds that the prevention of the sale of that gas or oil is taking valuable property without just compensation in violation of Article 55 of the amendment to the national Constitution and is not justified by any power of the state to conserve its natural resources.

DEER KILLS ITSELF.

Frightened Animal Plunges Into a Barbed Wire Fence.

Houghton, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. S. Prickett of Sidnaw, proprietor of Roycroft farm, tells of the accidental killing of a deer the other day. The farm hands saw the deer in the morning running across the farm in front of the stables and going up the track. Evidentaly it had been chased out of the woods by wolves. A short time after this appearance the deer came running back across the farm, having been headed off by Sidnaw dogs. The frightened animal almost ran into the stable door, then turned and ran into a barbed wire fence, which caught it across the throat. The deer was thrown back on its haunches and then fell over with a broken neck. The farm hands killed it to stop its sufferings.

The deer was a good-sized doe. Mr. Prickett told the farm hands, who are new men just imported from Eastern states, that this incident would mean they could have plenty of venison in season. The men dressed the deer and hung the meat, but Mr. Prickett was informed afterward that a game warden had seized the venison and had sent it to the poor farm.

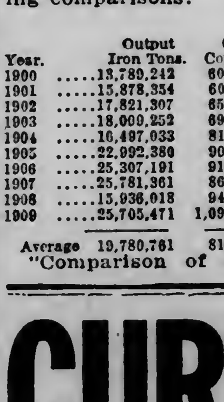
CURES OF MEN!

Wrought Scientifically By Progressive Medical Specialists—Most Complicated Diseases Give Way to Their Methods.



If you want to see the revelations of science used in the service of suffering humanity you must see the Duluth Specialists. Among citizens of Duluth and Superior the reporter today found in the crowded offices men from Bergland, Mich., Cloquet, Calumet, Mich., Ballard, Wash., Chicago, Bemidji and Aurelia, Iowa, with Tumors and festering Cancers, Gall Stones, crippled from Rheumatism, ulcers of legs and the most rare diseases. Their fame has reached far beyond the borders of our state and crowds their offices almost daily.

There are people who bear the mark of pain and suffering from disease of long standing, and, asked why so many men suffer, they explained that constipation and stomach troubles cause self-poisoning. To relieve this trouble, men are forming drug habits and become slaves to it, although they know very well relief is only temporary, and their condition is worse than before. If you feel tired in the morning and you detect your skin to be sallow, your tongue coated and you have a feeling of fullness in your abdomen, you may know that your intestines are diseased and they cannot perform the work of digestion.

You are getting pale and losing flesh and your feeling tells you that you are a sick man. You have started the process of self-poisoning, your blood is diseased and your blood vessels harden, which slowly but surely prepares your grave and your suffering is a long one.

Rectal Piles cause cancer and many other diseases. The bad and stagnant blood is forming piles, and these in turn result in a train of other diseases, as cancer, constipation, rheumatism, sciatica, pain in the back, kidney trouble, heart and liver diseases and nervousness. These specialists are most wonderful in curing all these diseases, and also Bright's disease, catarrh and lung trouble, bronchitis, blood poison, rupture, pelvic and bladder trouble, eczema and all skin diseases. If you have any ailment and you want to know all about it you are invited to consult the Progressive Doctors. Consultation is free. These doctors can cure your disease for they have studied in the best universities here and in the old country. They are well professioned in the science of healing chronic diseases of men. Offices are corner Superior street and Lake avenue, Duluth.

Is This Man Gifted With Strange Power?

TEST READINGS FREE TO ALL DULUTH HERALD READERS WHO WRITE AT ONCE.

Attention of the mystically inclined seems to be centered at present upon the work of Mr. Clay Burton Vance, who, although laying claim to no special gift of supernatural powers, attempts to reveal the lives of people through the slender clue of birth-dates. The undeniable accuracy of his delineations leads one to surmise that heretofore palmists, prophets, astrologers and seers of divers beliefs have failed to apply the true principles of the science of divination.

It is not to be denied that astrologers have excited the interest of enlightened people of all ages, but there have been many earnest thinkers reluctant to accept the theories of the ancient Chaldean science. One can only judge the potency of the science of Astrology by a personal application of its principles. To have all the cardinal events of your life spread out before you; to read an undeviating description of your true character, habits and inclinations, is proof positive that the mighty power that shaped the universe and set the hands on the dial of time to mark the destiny of man has not left us without the means through which we may know ourselves, through which we may fathom the mysteries of life. Asked to explain the method by which he gives his delineations, Mr. Vance replied: "I have simply resurrected an ancient science and moulded it into a key to human nature."

The following letters are published as evidence of Mr. Vance's ability. Mr. Lafayette Redditt writes: "My Reading received. With the greatest amazement I read, as step by step you outlined my life since infancy. I have been somewhat interested along these lines for years, but had no idea that such priceless advice could be given. I must admit that you are indeed a very remarkable man, and am glad you use your great gift to benefit your clients."

Mr. Fred Dalton writes: "I did not expect such a splendid outline of my life. The scientific value of your Readings cannot be fully appreciated until one has his own Reading. To consult you means success and happiness."

Arrangements have been made to give free test Readings to all readers of The Herald, but it is especially requested that those who wish to avail themselves of this generous offer make application at once. If you wish a delineation of your own life, if you wish a true description of your characteristics, talents and opportunities, simply send your full name, the date, month and year of your birth, and also state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss. Send your letter to Mr. Clay Burton Vance, Suite 542, No. 14 Rue de Richelieu, Paris, France. If you wish you may inclose 10 cents (stamps of your own country) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Please note that 5 cents postage is required on letters posted to France. Do not inclose coins or silver in your letter.

KILLS THE DANDRUFF GERM

Stops Falling Hair — Others Imitate and Make Similar Claims, but the Genuine and Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer is Newbro's Herpicide.

The discovery of the dandruff germ as the cause of all hair troubles is not a recent event. Prof. Unna gave the germ theory to the world in 1887 and two years later Sabouraud by his experiments with a rabbit proved beyond a doubt the actual existence of this germ.

On the heels of this establishment of the germ theory came the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide. This was the first and only remedy for the destruction of the dandruff germ.

There have been other preperations alleged to kill this germ, stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. But Newbro's Herpicide really does these things. For this reason it has long been known as the original remedy and the only one that is genuine.

Don't be fooled by preparations which are trading upon the marvelous success of Herpicide. Remember you take no chances with Newbro's Herpicide. It is absolutely guaranteed.

For sale by all druggists.

Applications at good barber shops.

The Herpicide Company, of Detroit, Mich., Dept. R., will send a sample bottle and booklet upon receipt of 10c in postage. Lyceum pharmacy and Lenox drug store special agents for Duluth.

OAT CRUSHER, INVENTED BY E. ENGLUND.

E. Englund, a blacksmith, residing at 2701 West Third street has invented and constructed a new type of a machine for crushing oats. One of the new machines is in use at Pittsburg Coal dock, No. 2 on lower Garfield avenue.

Mr. Englund is employed at Dock No. 1, of the Pittsburg company at 305 Garfield avenue. He says that although he has applied for a patent, he does not know whether he will engage in the manufacture of the machines or not. The one in use at Dock, No. 2, crushes oats for the horses used in hauling coal wagons. Crushed oats makes excellent horse feed. The crushing process, it is claimed, predigests the food.

TEMPLARS GO TO TWO HARBORS MEETING.

L. A. Simonson, chief templar of the first district of Minnesota for the Swedish Independent Order of Good Templars, and fifteen delegates from local lodges, left on the Two Harbors, where they will attend the annual convention of the district lodge, which convenes tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Among other matters, the district lodge will take steps to assist the Duluth lodges in entertaining the delegates to the grand lodge meeting in Duluth, June 22, 23 and 24.

EXPECT TO RAISE NEEDED GUARANTEE.

At its meeting last evening the school board promised to contribute $100 a year to the $722 guarantee needed for the extension of the water mains to the Ensign school district. The hillsiders are now satisfied that there will be no trouble in raising the balance and the only matter which is giving the West Enders any concern is the choosing of the route over the hillside.

Dies After Long Illness.

After suffering from cancer for many years, Sigvard Anderson, aged 43, died late yesterday afternoon at his home, 2621 West Courtland street. He leaves a widow and three children. He belonged to the longshoremen's union and also to the Modern Woodmen of America.

The funeral will be held at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, 2118 West First street and at 2 oclock from the First Norweglan - Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street. Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor, will officiate and burial will be in Park Hill cemetery. The longshoremen will attend the funeral in a body.

Edwin Apel Dies.

Edwin Apel, 13 years old, an orphan, died at the home of his stepmother, Mrs. Louisa Apel of 2113 West Fourth street this morning, following a several weeks' illness of heart trouble. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Olson & Crawford, 2118 West First street. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon from the undertaking rooms to Union cemetery. Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norweglan-Danish M. E. church, will officiate.

Zimmerman Funeral.

Many people attended the funeral of Jacob Zimmerman, pioneer resident of the city, who died Thursday. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms. Rev. W. E. Harmann, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, officiated, and burial was made at Forest Hill cemetery.

Beta council, No. 2, Modern Samaritans, of which Mr. Zimmerman was a member, attended the services in a body.

Revival Services.

A. Risinger and M. Berglund will conduct special revival services Easter week at the Swedish temple, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, commencing on Easter Monday. The services will be conducted in the English language and are expected to draw out many young people.

West End Briefs.

The funeral of George T. Wilton, aged 19, who died yesterday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Wilton of 2701 West Helm street will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Grace church to Forest Hill cemetery. The Modern Woodmen of America, of which the young man was a member, will attend the funeral and Rev. J. H. Murray of Grace M. E. church will officiate.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Frederica Larson, 45 years old, who died Wednesday, from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms and First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. Rev. Swaney Nelson officiated and burial was in Forest Hill cemetery.

Miss Leonora Olson, who has been a guest of her sister, Miss Emma Olson of 2814 West Michigan street, has left for Portland, Ore.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna L. Paulson, wife of Nels Paulson of 1114 Garfield avenue, who died yesterday, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms and at 2 o'clock from the First Swedish Baptist church. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor, will officiate and burial will be in Park Hill cemetery. Mrs. Paulson was 49 years old and besides her husband leaves six children.

house this morning. One, introduced by Representative Ribenack of Duluth, increases to twelve the number of high schools in a county that can get state aid.

Another by Representative Mattson, appropriates $12,000 to pay the state's assessments for drainage ditch No. 95, in Roseau and Kittson counties.

Another by Representatives Orr and Fuchs of St. Paul, makes the mayors of cities of more than 50,000 ex officio members of boards of water commissioners, boards of fire commissioners, boards of school inspectors and boards of police commissioner.

On motion of Representative Nolan the house reconsidered its vote of yesterday barring the public from the Roosevelt meeting next Friday night, and left the matter to the committee that has been appointed to have charge of the arrangements. The committee will try to devise a way of avoiding the alternative between having the capitol flooded by the people of the Twin Cities and excluding the public altogether. An attempt probably will be made to have the ex-president address the public from the steps of the capitol.

The house passed a bill raising the salaries of county superintendents of schools and a bill reorganizing the state agricultural society and putting the finances of the state fair under the supervision of the board of control.

A bill by Representative Holmberg, regulating the grading and sale of apples, came up, but Representative Knapp of Chisholm opposed it in behalf of Duluth commission merchants, who pointed out that it would work a hardship on dealers without benefiting the public, and it was laid over to Monday to consider amendments offered by its author.

On motion of Representative C. H. Warner, Senator Gunn's bills for the relief of settlers on government lands which have been certified to the state were made a part of the special order on local bills Monday evening.

The house committees on education and normal schools recommended for passage the senate bill giving the normal school board authority to grant degrees to graduates.

At noon the house took a recess until afternoon, the first Saturday afternoon meeting of the session.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

SOLD UNDER THE HAMMER

Was Popular Resort in Days When Duluth Was Frontier Town.

The ordinary sheriff's sale is commonplace, but today that official conducted a sale to which an unusual amount of interest attached. He put Boyle's European hotel and cafe under the hammer. It was bid in by the holder of the mortgage.

The name "Boyle's" is known all over the city. Scarcely a man or woman who has resided here any length of time but who has heard of it. Since its establishment in its present location at 319 West Superior street, in the early days of Duluth, its fame has extended throughout the Northwest, and it is familiar to hundreds of people in the Twin Cities who frequent the "lobster palaces," for Boyle's was as noted as any of them in this line in its day.

The passing of the place into the annals of the past carries with it a twinge of regret to scores of the old timers in Duluth. They spent many hours there, with other congenial friends who made merry around the tables and at the bar. When it was in the heyday of its glory a veritable golden stream poured into its coffers. The name recalls the days when many of Duluth's now wealthy men were laying the foundations of their fortunes. Rough and ready, coming in from their explorations on the iron ranges or from the great lumber camps which they were building up, they turned as if by instinct to "Boyle's." Here they met the others of their fellows, coming and going, "swapping" experiences, narrating hair-breath escapes, and often "staking" one another for the next trip, which they always hoped would make them rich. Duluth wasn't much better than a frontier town on a fairly large scale in those times, and to the men who were here then, the mention of "Boyle's" is a reminder of them.

But recently it seems to have lost its "hold." The patronage has not been what it was and the reputation of the upstairs wine rooms was none too savory. In an attempt to re-establish it, the place was completely remodeled throughout, but the effort seems to have been useless. It has been "hanging on" until the last hope was futile, and the result was the sheriff's sale today.

the Ellis Island inspection force before being permitted to land.

A touch of humor was lent to the landing by one young woman who carried a shore hatbox with at least twenty-seven cubic feet of space inside. She got the privilege of salvaging her hat from the Irene by substituting it for one of her suit cases. It was too near Easter to take a chance of leaving the Paris millinery creation down the bay, she declared.

Storm Is Coming.

Lone Hill Life-Saving Station, L. I., April 8.—Daybreak today showed the stranded steamer Prinzess Irene in a position which varied only a few degrees from that of yesterday. The efforts of the tugs at high tide and the action of a veering wind had swung her nose a little further off shore, so that she presented less of the broadside to the watchers on land.

The changing of the wind into the northeast and the appearance of grayish clouds on the horizon were the items that attracted chief attention from the life-savers as they took their early morning observations through the lifting haze. Although the wind was scarcely more than a breeze, there were indications which the weatherwise regarded as ominous. "A northeaster and a hard blow coming," was the way it was interpreted by surfmen.

However, with the passengers all safely landed, and the keel of the big ship flat in a bed of sand, a blow of moderate intensity will not have the terrors for the captain and crew which it would have had twenty-four hours ago. The fleet of tugs anchored near by insured ample assistance in emergency, while the bulwark of sand piled upon all sides of the liner's keel was regarded as a protection from sudden disaster.

The work of lightering the cargo began at 7 o'clock. The cargo will be an easy one to handle. It consists for the most part of lemons, macaroni and similar products of the Mediterranean, packed in small cases. Only one lighter was available for the work when the transfer was begun, but two more were on their way, one from New York and one from Boston. With fair weather it was expected that a considerable proportion of the cargo could be moved in forty-eight hours. Experts on the shore were of the opinion that dredges would be found necessary to shift the sand from about her keel before the Irene could be floated.

The customs authorities sent Inspector Dunbar out to the Lone Hill station at daybreak with orders to board the Prinzess Irene and superintend the lightering of the cargo.

In just five hours and ten minutes yesterday afternoon the 1,720 cabin and steerage passengers on the stranded North German Lloyd liner Prinzess Irene were transferred to the deck of her sister ship, the Prinz Friederich Wilhelm, and one hour after nightfall they were safely on their way to New York.

every cause," he said. "Our's has poor Evans for its first."

Rescue System First Used.

It was the first time that the federal rescue system was brought into action in the anthracite coal region and Evans is regarded as the real hero of the day. It has not yet been definitely established how he came to his death. One theory is that in adjusting his helmet, after bumping it against the low roof of the smoke-filled gangway, he released it slightly from his head and in doing so inhaled black damp. Another theory advanced by Dr. Holmes is that Evans may have died from carbon dioxide poisoning. He said the air exhaler in the helmet is generated by the oxygen and breathed again. A wearer of the helmet, Dr. Holmes said, who overexerted himself might meet the fate that befell Evans, if there is much gas in the mine. "It is like a man running uphill. The supply of fresh air is not sufficient and a man wearing a helmet dies from carbon dioxide."

The revised list of the English-speaking victims of the fire, in addition to Evans, is as follows:

WALTER KNIGHT, mine foreman, married, five children.

ISAAC DAWES, fire boss, married, four children.

JOHN MAY, company hand, married, three children.

JOHN GREGSON, company hand, single.

EDWARD HART, tender, married, three children.

JAMES WALLACE, company hand, married, six children.

THOMAS MacWALTERS, miner, married, five children.

MICHAEL GALL, miner, married.

HARRY ROTHWELL, miner, married.

LAWRENCE RITZ, doorman, married, one son.

Others among the victims are: John Stroyak, who had five children; two sons, Stephen and John, Jr., one a door boy, the other a driver, perished with him. Victor Wasdenik and his two brothers, Emil and John, all miners, were also among the victims.

Rescue Gangs at Work.

All through the night the rescue gangs kept at their gruesome task of picking up the dead who lay strewn along the farther parts of the ill-fated tunnel of the Pancoast colliery, from off which was the chambers and headings into which they had entered for their day's toil. Before midnight twenty-one bodies, including that of Foreman Evans of the government's rescue car, had been placed in an improvised morgue in the engine house near the head of the shaft. At 4 o'clock this morning there was another garnering of twenty-one additional bodies and these, one at a time, were hoisted to the surface and carried into the temporary morgue erected by the company. There the company's paymaster, Carl Raymond, Claim Agent P. A. O'Boyle, George Cooper, secretary of the miners' local union, and John E. Jones, outside foreman, were engaged in making identifications. As fast as an identification was accomplished the body was passed out into one of a score of dead wagons which undertakers from all parts of the Lackawanna valley had lined up. The eagerness with which these were grabbed up by the undertakers and their employes called forth imagination from the onlookers, some yelling "body snatchers" at them as their ambulances were hurried away.

Stories of Brave Deeds.

Stories of brave deeds done by rescuers are being told today by miners who had been warned of the fire in time to make their escape. It is related that Councilman Perry, Mine Foreman Knight and Fire Boss Dawes perished as a result of their going into the depths of the mine to warn others of their danger. They were overcome before they could return to safety.

There is a difference of opinion among mine workers as to whether the men who lost their lives could have been saved. Some think that if all men in the underworkings had been immediately notified that there was a fire in the mine, all could have gotten out before the workings became filled with smoke and gas. Others believe that it was impossible for any man or boy in the blind gangway to make his escape as the black damp quickly penetrated every part of the "China" vein beyond the fire zone. It gets its name from the fact that it is the lowest vein in the mine and therefore nearest to China.

The bodies of the dead showed that all had made a hard struggle for life, burying their faces in the culm and wrapping their coats about their heads in an effort to ward off the poisonous air.

Disaster Worst in History of Section.

The disaster was the worst in the history of the hard coal fields in this section, exceeding the number of dead in the terrible Twin Shaft disaster near here some years ago, when fifty-one men and boys lost their lives by entombment.

When searchers for bodies came to the surface at 9:45, with twelve more victims they reported that four other lifeless mine workers were lying at the bottom of the shaft, making the total number recovered up to that time, seventy. The searchers reported that the victims were found in heaps and in groups of three, five and six.

James T. Roderick, chief of the department of mines of Pennsylvania, arrived at the Pancoast colliery early today and will make a thorough investigation. He will be assisted by the state mine inspectors of this region.

The Pennsylvania legislature is still in session and it is likely that further legislation to protect miners and mine property will be presented as a result of new lessons learned in this latest mine horror. All anthracite mines under the law of Pennsylvania must have second openings so that the underground workers may have at least two chances of escape, and legislation may be presented to provide that where gangways extend a long distance from the main roads in the mines some sort of an opening shall be made to bring out men that are cut off from travelling the main roads that lead to exits.

in environs have been almost daily occurrences.

News reached camp of the attack at Aldama last Saturday when at dawn the federal troops came upon the insurgents and killed thirty while they slept. The killing of eighteen noncombatants, including a girl, who out of curiosity had looked out of windows, was described by Madero as a massacre.

More Peace Rumors.

El Paso, Tex., April 8.—It was learned today that peace conferences, temporarily in relapse by reason of misdirected telegrams and code message confusion, have not been abandoned, but with the clearing up of communications loomed larger than ever.

The two Maderos, father and brother, respectively, of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the insurrecto commander-in-chief; Rafael Hernandez, the so-called go-between, and Roque Estrada, attorney for Don Francisco, the younger, maintained their silence of the last week, but from an authoritative source it was learned that they will leave here by automobile for San Andreas, Chihuahua, within the next seventy-two hours. At this place the rebel leader has established headquarters.

The government has furnished satisfactory assurances of their safety.

The quartet, in their personal capacities only, will seek to impress the insurrecto leader with the broad view which, in the field, among his own enthusiastic followers, he scarcely can be expected to retain.

Primarily it will be necessary to impress him with the view that to prevent anarchy Diaz must remain at the head of the government for some months at least.

criminations between localities in Minnesota and there in adjoining adjoining states, violates the commercial clause of the Constitution, article 1, section 3, and are void.

Violate Fourteenth Amendment.

"2—These acts and orders which prescribe maximum fares and rates, that bring from their respective Minnesota intrastate businesses to the Northern Pacific company an annual net income of only 2.909 per cent, to the Great Northern company an annual net income of only 2.359 per cent, and to the Minneapolis & St. Louis company an annual net income of only 2.47 per cent of the respective values of their Minnesota properties devoted to those businesses, prohibit a fair return upon these values, take the properties of the companies without just compensation, violate the Fourteenth amendment to the Constitution, and are void.

"3—The power to regulate commerce among the states was granted by the people to the nation in the Constitution is exclusive, may be exercised to its utmost extent by the use of all means requisite to its complete exercise and no state by virtue of its police power, or any other power it possesses, may restrict this grant or the plenary exercise of this power, for these inhere in the supreme law of the land and are paramount to the powers of the states.

Rates National in Character.

"4—The fares and rates of transportation in interstate commerce are national in character, susceptible of uniform regulation and so far as the nation has not regulated them are free from regulation by virtue of the commercial clause of the Constitution.

"5—The nation may regulate interstate fares and rates and all interstate commerce.

"To the extent necessary completely and effectually to protect the freedom of, and to regulate, interstate commerce, but no farther, it may by its congress and its courts affect and regulate intrastate commerce.

"To the extent that it does not substantially burden or regulate interstate commerce, a state may regulate intrastate commerce, fares and rates therein within its borders, but no farther. It may enforce regulations of intrastate commerce and its fares and rates which only incidentally or remotely affect interstate commerce. But state laws, orders and regulations concerning intrastate commerce or the fares or rates therein, which substantially burden or regulate interstate commerce, or the fares or rates therein, are beyond the powers of the state, unconstitutional and void.

"And where the attempted exercise of the power of a state to regulate intrastate commerce or the attempted exercise of any of its other powers, impinges upon or conflicts with the constitutional power of the nation to protect the freedom of, and to regulate, interstate commerce and the fares and rates therein, the latter must prevail because that which is not supreme must yield to that which is supreme.'

A Judicial Question.

"6—The effect and neither the terms nor the purpose of state regulations determine whether they substantially burden or only incidentally or remotely affect interstate commerce. And this is a judicial question which each court must decide on its own responsibility on the special facts of the case before it, and in the decision of which must obey the Constitution rather than the law-making department of the government.'

"7—The nation has the power to forbid, and by the act to regulate commerce, 24 Stat. 379, it has prohibited, undue discriminations between localities in different states wrought by unreasonable differences between intrastate and legal interstate rates caused by the reduction of the former by the acts and orders of the officers of a state.

"8—The facts considered and held:

"The unavoidable effect of the general and sweeping reductions of intrastate fares and rates in Minnesota made by the acts and orders considered, was and is substantially to burden, directly to regulate and to discriminate against the interstate commerce of the defendant companies, and to create undue and unjust discriminations between localities in Minnesota and those in other states in violation of the commercial clause of the Constitution.

Entitled to Fair Return.

"9—The just compensation secured by the fourteenth amendment entitles the defendant railroad companies to a fair return upon the reasonable value of their property in Minnesota devoted to the public use of transportation. Such a return is just to the public as well as to the carriers.

"10—Under the evidence in these cases the cost of reproduction of the Minnesota properties of the defendant companies devoted to the public use of transportation is more persuasive evidence of their values than the market value of their stocks and bonds, or the original cost of their acquisition and construction.

"11—Rate-making looks to the future and is a legislative function.

"Rate-judging, determining whether or not rates made are confiscatory, is a judicial function.

"There is a presumption in the first instance that legislatures and commissions make reasonable and just rates and clear proof is requisite to overcome it.

"But when after fares and rates have been tried by actual use for months, after plenary proof of their effect and other facts determinative of the issue confiscation vel non has been made before a master learned in the law who finds the fact, the legal or judicial presumption that his findings are just and right, while not conclusive, is superior to the original presumption that the rates were just and reasonable.

Interest Necessary Expense.

"12—Interest on the cost of reproduction of railroad property at 4 per cent per annum during one-half the time requisite to acquire and construct it, is a necessary expense of reproduction and may be lawfully allowed as such.

"13—Apportionment on the basis of revenue is the most reasonable and equitable method of assigning the value of railroad property in a state used for transportation to the various classes of its business in order to determine the reasonableness of fares and rates.

"14—A net income of 7 per cent per annum upon the value of railroad property in Minnesota devoted to the public use of transportation is not more than the fair return to which a railroad company is entitled under the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution."

Negro Lynched.

Lawrenceville, Ga., April 8.—Shortly after midnight a mob of 200 masked men stormed the jail here and secured a negro, Charles Hale, arrested earlier in the night for assaulting Mrs. C. C. Williams. They took him to a corner in the business part of the town and after stringing him up on a tree riddled his body with bullets.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VIRGINIA BIRTHS EXCEEDED DEATHS

Health Statistics of the Range City for Year Ending, March 31.

Virginia, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There were 370 births and 218 deaths in Virginia during the twelve months ending March 31 last, according to the report of the board of health just made public.

Speaking of deaths the report says: "The death reports include 4 from diphtheria, 4 from scarlet fever, 22 from typhoid fever, 7 from tuberculosis, 23 from pneumonia, 1 from measles and 43 from accidents. The balance from various other diseases and including still-borns and premature births."

Cases Quarantined.

Speaking of contagious cases quarantined, the report says:

"We have taken care of, quarantined and disinfected 30 cases of scarlet fever, 11 cases of smallpox, 33 cases of diphtheria, 5 cases of erysipelas and 1 case (transient) of tuberculosis, making a total of 72 cases, a decrease for the same period of the previous year of 45 cases. Of the above number, 21 were taken care of at the City Detention hospital. Aside from the above, there were a number of cases of measles which were investigated but not quarantined. Upon advice from the state board of health we have also looked up emigrants who were bound for this city from the cholera-infected districts of Europe. We had a considerable number of cases of typhoid fever during the summer and fall months of 1910, with a total of 22 deaths. Of this number only 4 can be attributed to the city proper, the others being brought in from mining locations, lumber camps, etc. After investigation, the cause of the epidemic was attributed to flies, which were unusually plentiful on account of the extremely dry season, the use of well water and water obtained at mines and lumber camps. The epidemic was particularly severe in the North Side addition, where sanitary conditions were not perfect, and where patients were segregated in boarding houses and could not be isolated to any great extent.

Fumigation For Year.

"We have disinfected during the year a number of private residences for tuberculosis and erysipelas. The Franklin school has been fumigated twice, South Side school once, South Side school once and the second grade of the Roosevelt school once on account of contagious diseases among the scholars of these schools. The present status of contagious diseases existing in the city and location is as follows: Two cases erysipelas (transients) in city detention hospital, three cases of scarlet fever in Franklin location and two cases scarlet fever in the city.

"Our system of garbage collection has been fairly successful and a great improvement over previous years. We need another garbage wagon as the city has grown rapidly, one wagon cannot cover the territory and take care of garbage properly.

Hope For Incinerator.

In the matter of an incinerator we hope to have it under way this summer as I am informed by the Oliver Mining company that they have just completed the measurements of a piece of ground and will shortly submit a long term lease for same so that the erection of an incinerator to take care of garbage, etc., will we hope soon be a reality. We are really forced to get such a plant on account of new additions being platted in the vicinity of our present garbage grounds.

"While we are erecting an incinerator steps should be taken to erect a city slaughter house at the same time and place, as we have had some complaints of parties killing cattle out at the present garbage grounds and leaving the offal lying around instead of destroying it.

P. R. COSGROVE IS REAPPOINTED

Well-Known Gilbertite Again Given Charge of Light and Water Plant.

Gilbert, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular meeting of the water and light commission Thursday night, Peter R. Cosgrove was reappointed superintendent and his salary placed at $100 per month. The salary of the secretary of the board, D. M. Mouser, was set at $25 per month. The bonds of the superintendent were placed at $2,000 and those of the secretary at $2,500. It was decided to ask the village council to pay into the water and light fund each month the sum of $5 for each hydrant.

F. C. Smith, whose general store was badly destroyed by fire March 25, has decided to close up his business here and will move to Rockland, Mich.

The Gilbert team and Curtiss' Kittens of Virginia bowled a series of three games here Thursday night, and the Virginia boys won by two pins. The total scores were 2,422 and 2,420. This is the third game between the two teams and was to decide the range championship.

Snow Prevents Baseball.

Owing to the ground being covered by three inches of snow, the opening game of baseball, which was to have been played here this afternoon between the Eveleth and Gilbert high school teams, was postponed.

The Athenian Literary society of the high school gave a literary program yesterday afternoon at the high school to which the public was invited. The program follows: Piano solo, Blanch Frederickson; reading, Ina Beldo; reading, Mildred Stevens; reading, Lempi Hyovalti; vocal solo, Elsie Freeman; reading, Mary Erb; piano solo, Arlene Hoskins; reading, Gladys Caine.

KING DENIES REPORT.

Contractor Has No Idea of Building Hibbing Hotel.

"The story in Hibbing and Duluth papers that I contemplated building a large hotel in Hibbing is without foundation," said W. F. King, a Duluth contractor, to The Herald today, in refutation of a Hibbing news item printed on the range page under a Hibbing date line in Friday's Herald.

"There is not a word of truth to the story and I wish you would deny it," said Mr. King very emphatically.

ELECT TEACHERS APRIL 18.

Virginia School Board Will Make Decisions Public Then.

Virginia, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The teachers' committee not being ready last night with its list of teachers seeking re-employment, the school board put the matter over to April 18. The John A. Johnson school fire escapes have been changed to conform with regulations.

The building committee was authorized to get bids for work involved in the connecting of the Central school, now heated with stoves, with the Roosevelt school, heated by steam. The board is anxious to give the old school the more modern system of heating. The schools are only two blocks apart.

KINNEY WANTS PROTECTION.

Mass Meeting to Consider Organizing Volunteer Department.

Kinney, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The needs of this growing community in the way of better fire protection are becoming so apparent that a call has been issued for a mass meeting next Tuesday evening with the village council to organize a volunteer department.

There are now seven business houses and close to 100 residences in Kinney and it is generally felt that some steps should be taken at once for better protection against fire.

The village council is advertising for bids for an engine house in which to place a chemical engine, and it is expected that steps will be taken toward the purchase of an engine at the next meeting of he council.

TOWN BOARD OF WHITE HOLDS FIRST MEETING.

Aurora, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town board of the town of White held their first meeting of the year and selected August Stenglo as chairman of the board. The bonds of the treasurer were placed at $25,000. The overseer of highways was allowed a salary of $75 per month and the clerk was allowed $25. The pay of laborers on the roads the coming season was fixed at $2.10 per day. Dr. R. P. Pearsall was appointed health officer.

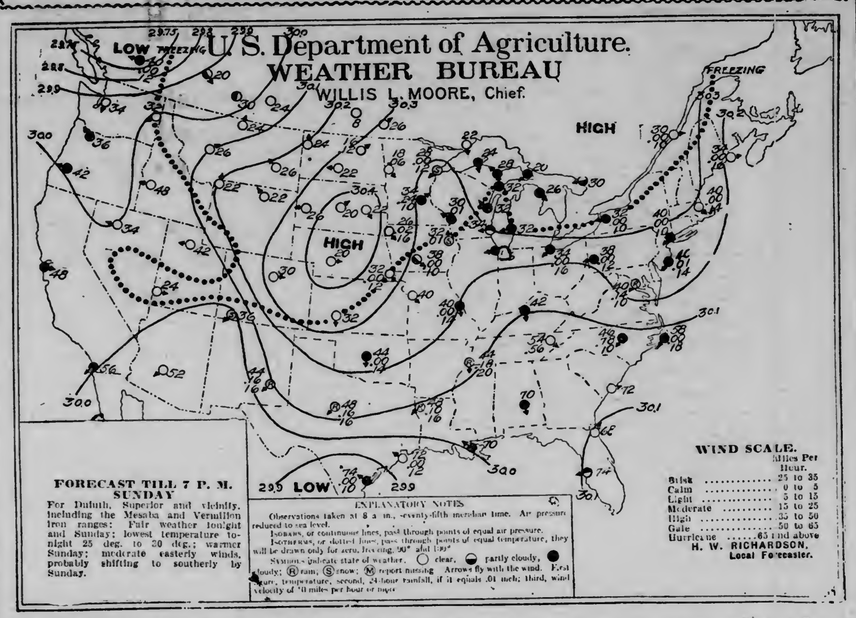
OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



WARMER

At last! The weather man comes across with a fair and warmer prediction for tonight and tomorrow. If he makes good, there will be rejoicing. The temperature wasn't so bad last night and today isn't cold, but there was another snowfall this morning, and the sun is having a hard time breaking through the clouds today. Let's hope he makes good on this fair and warmer thing It's about time for old man Winter to go to sleep.

Raw, cold weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:33 and it will set at 6:46 this evening, giving thirteen hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight. Fortunately, today is not Friday, the thirteenth.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours light snow or rain fell over Eastern North Dakota, Minnesota, Western Wisconsin, Iowa, Eastern Nebraska, Missouri, New Mexico, Northern Texas, Northern Louisiana, Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia principally as a result of the low pressure condition overlying the West Gulf region. Temperatures have risen somewhat over the Upper Mississippi valley. A low pressure area over British Columbia is causing somewhat warmer weather in the extreme Northwest. The high pressure over South Dakota has caused colder weather over Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska and South Dakota. At the Head of the Lakes the weather will be generally fair during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, April 8.—Forecasts for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Local snow this afternoon or tonight; Sunday fair.

Minnesota—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; warmer Sunday and in west portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; rising temperature Sunday.

Iowa—Generally fair tonight and Sunday; warmer Sunday and in northwest portion tonight.

North and South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and probably Sunday; warmer tonight.

Shipping forecasts: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperature 25 to 32 deg. in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

PROCTOR CLUB PLANS BANQUET

Commercial Club Will Entertain Notable Visiters Next Tuesday Evening.

Proctor, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The event of next week which is being eagerly looked forward to will be the second annual meeting and banquet of the Commercial club to be held in the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

The banquet will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church and preparations are being made to serve an elaborate menu. Several prominent men from Duluth and West Duluth have been asked to attend and several important questions of vital interest to Proctor citizens will be discussed. Rev. C. W. Ramshaw will act as toastmaster. Charles Rossiter of Proctor and Alderman L. A. Barnes of West Duluth will speak on the street car question. J. W. Kreitter, superintendent of the D. M. & N. railway, and Prof. Frederick Bass of the state university will speak on the sewerage question. H. G. Gilderman, chief of the Proctor fire department, will tell of the plans of the department regarding the tournament to be held here in July. Steve Raetz, secretary of the club, will read his annual report. Father Walsh will speak along Commercial club lines. Proctor's own orchestra will furnish the music for the evening.

Mrs. J. E. Code will entertain the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church next Thursday afternoon, April 13, 1911.

Takes Indianapolis Job.

J. S. Brown, who has been an employe of the Missabe railroad for the past eighteen years as engineer, left last Saturday for Indianapolis, Ind., where he has accepted a position as traveling representative for the Delena Signal Oil company. Before his departure the members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers presented Mr. Brown with a beautiful diamond stick pin. Mrs. Brown and son, Walter, will remain here until school closes, when they will join Mr. Brown in Indianapolis.

The members of St. Rose's church will give an entertainment at the Savoy theater on Tuesday evening, April 18. The program will consist of a drama in two acts entitled "Among the Breakers" and vocal and instrumental music by home and Duluth talent.

The Proctor Junior baseball team will give the Easter Monday ball at the hall. The ladies of St. Rose's church will furnish the supper.

"CONDUCTOR JIM" ON "A PREFERRED RUN."

James Burwick of Two Harbors, Minn., formerly known as "Conductor Jim," will speak on "A Preferred Run" at the Y. M. C. A. mass meeting for men tomorrow afternoon.

Burwick was formerly addicted to drink and everything that goes with it, but he reformed, became allied with the church and for some time has been interested in religious work. For one year he traveled with Evangelist Chapman, addressing railroad men. In the summer he runs regularly on the Iron Range and in the winter he preaches. Two years ago he had a narow escape from being elected as a state representative on the Prohibition ticket.

Miss Brown will sing.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health.

Can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me. All druggists.

She Broke Down Entirely

Lantz, W. Va.—Mrs. Tebe Talbott, of this place, says: "I had been troubled with womanly ailments for some time, and at last I broke down entirely. I got so weak I could scarcely walk across the room. Thanks to Cardui, I improved right off. Now I do my housework, and am feeling well." During the past 50 years, more than a million women have been benefited by taking Cardui. You must believe that Cardui will help you, too, since it helped all these others. Cardui is a safe, harmless, vegetable remedy, of positive, curative merit, for women. At drug stores. Try one bottle. It will surely help you.

PLANNING FOR SUMMER MONTHS

Weekly Entertainments Will Probably Be Continued at Y. M. C. A.

At a luncheon and meeting of the booster committee of the Y. M. C. A. held last night, plans were discussed for continuing the weekly entertainments during the summer months.

It is probable that a moving picture machine will be purchased and moving pictures will soon be made a feature of the entertainments.

The plan to turn the lobby into a palm room and serve light refreshments on the evening the entertainments are to be held met with favor. This plan will probably be worked out and eventually made a feature.

There are still two more "pops" to be held this year. The next one will be on April 18. After that the programs will be made lighter for the summer months and the entertainments will continue at regular intervals.

The booster committee consists of Guy E. Warren, Russell McLean, A. J. Frey and S. T. Dingman.

The moving picture machine will soon be purchased and installed in the auditorium. Travel, educational and comic films will be shown. The association may secure a regular weekly service of films.

During the summer picnics will be held under the auspices of the association. At these picnics all sorts of out-of-door games and athletic stunts will be pulled off.

WILL MAKE PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Both Culver and Gorman posts, G. A. R., are already beginning to plan on their annual celebration of Memorial day.

Committees will soon be appointed. They will meet with the Spanish war veterans and the citizens' staff and together the arrangements will be made.

Last year there were not enough soldiers to supply the different schools. This year the Spanish war veterans, the Sons of Veterans and the citizens' staff will also be asked to supply the schools with speakers.

FOR ROBBING UNCLE SAM

Alleged Postoffice Thieves Arraigned Before Court Commissioners.

Two of Prisoners Claim They Found Stamps Beside Railroad.

Andrew Cooper, Billy Zaba and John Kosh, charged with the burglary of the postoffice and store of Charles Morse at Cromwell, Carlton county, Tuesday night, were arraigned before United States Commissioner T. H. Pressnell this morning. They all pleaded not guilty and asked for hearings. Cooper's hearing will be held next Friday morning and Zaba and Kosh will have their hearing Saturday morning before Commissioner Pressnell.

There is some doubt as to whether Zaba and Kosh will ultimately be charged with the burglary, although a charge will be laid against them of attempting to dispose of stolen postage stamps. The two men claim that the stamps they had in their possession when they were arrested were found near the railroad track. The authorities believe Cooper is the man responsible for the burglary and are inclined to accept the story of the other men.

Cooper was noticed getting on a train at Wright Wednesday morning after he had purchased a ticket for Duluth. His appearance excited suspicion and Sheriff McKinnon of Carlton county was notified. He met the train at Carlton and arrested Cooper. Cooper was in the toilet for some time while the train was going between Wright and Carlton, and he is believed to have thrown the stamps out of the window.

Zaba and Kosh were selling stamps at Sawyer, in Carlton county, Wednesday evening. The sheriff and a deputy went there and arrested the two men. They admitted they had been selling the stamps, but claimed that they found them near the track. A revolver, which had been stolen from the store, was found at the point where the two men say they found the stamps.

Morse's store was entered Tuesday night and one, two, three and four-cent stamps amounting to $44.20 in all were taken, besides a number of articles from the store. The United States government authorities are concerned with the taking of the stamps only, and Cooper will be prosecuted on that charge.

United States Deputy Marshal George J. Mallory went to Carlton yesterday afternoon and brought the prisoners to Duluth. They are held at the county jail.

NEW CUYUNA BUILDING.

First State Bank Contemplates Putting Up Fine Structure.

Cuyuna, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The First State bank will soon commence the erection of a large new home. The building will be of brick and the largest building of its kind on the Cuyuna range. C. W. Wedgwood, the cashier of the local bank, is one of those who take a great interest in the welfare of the city.

The "malt shop" dealers on the Cuyuna range, nine in number, were arrested Wednesday and taken to Brainerd, the county seat, charged with selling intoxicating liquor without license. They were all released on bail, and the trial of the accused men will come off next Monday.

H. K. Dimmick, the townsite agent, manager of the Dower Lumber company, and who is otherwise largely interested in the new Cuyuna range, is having two large buildings erected to be used for new business enterprises. Mr. Dimmick is a great believer in the future of the Cuyuna range.

Frank Buchanan is erecting a structure on Foley street. The building will be completed in a short time and will be used as a drug store and postoffice. Mr. Buchanan is the postmaster.

T. R. Foley of Aitkin, who is heavily interested in Cuyuna properties, was transacting business here Thursday.

The new baseball club elected these officers: Manager, A. Levant; captain, L. W. Thomas; secretary and treasurer, R. W. Wedgwood. A new ground has been secured on the Federal Mining company's land and will be put in excellent shape as soon as weather permits. A grandstand will be erected at a cost of $500.

FAMILY'S CLOSE CALL.

Polk County Farmhouse Burns During the Night.

Crookston, Minn., April 8. — Early Thursday morning the farm home of Mrs. Anna Stien, near Girard, in western Polk county, was burned to the ground, the inmates barely escaping with their lives. When the fire was discovered, they grabbed a few articles of clothing, but did not have time to put even their shoes on.

Not a piece of furniture or anything else was saved from the house and it is not known whether any insurance was carried. Mrs. Stien is a widow with several children and much sympathy is felt for her.

New Cumberland Paper.

Cumberland, Wis., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Cumberland Journal, edited and published by Leslie L. Carr and B. B. Hart, made its first appearance today. The paper is an eight page weekly and will be Republican in politics.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

A celebrated New York Aurist has been selected to demonstrate to deaf people that deafness is a disease and can be treated successfully in your own home.

He proposes to prove this fact by sending to any person having trouble with their ears a trial treatment of this new method absolutely free. We advise all people who have trouble with their ears to immediately address Dr. Edward Gardner, Suite 973, No. 40 West Thirty-third Street, New York City, and we wish to assure them that they will receive by return mail absolutely free, a "Trial Treatment."

COFFEE HEART

Very Plain in Some People.

A great many people go on suffering from annoying ailments for a long time before they can get their own consent to give up the indulgence from which their trouble arises.

"I became satisfied some months ago that I owed the palpitation of the heart from which I suffered almost daily, to the use of coffee, (I had been a coffee drinker for 30 years) but I found it very hard to give up the beverage.

"One day I ran across a very sensible and straightforward presentation of the claims of Postum, and was so impressed thereby that I concluded to give it a trial.

"My experience with it was unsatisfactory till I learned how it ought to be prepared—by thorough boiling for not les than 15 or 20 minutes. After I learned that lesson there was no trouble.

"Postum proved to be a most palatable and satisfactory hot beverage, and I have used it ever since.

"The effect on my health has been most salutary. The heart palpitation from which I used to suffer so much, particularly after breakfast, has disappeared and I never have a return of it except when I dine or lunch away from home and drink the old kind of coffee because Postum is not served. I find that Postum cheers and invigorates while it produces no harmful stimulation." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ten days' trial proves an eye opener to many.

DETAINED IN QUARANTINE

Family of Hielil Hantvarg, on Way From Russia, Held at Boston.

Will Not Reach Duluth in Time for Feast Planned.

The hopes of Hielil Hantvarg of having his wife and children, whom he had not seen in eight years, with him for the Passover feast, which is particularly dear to the Jewish people, were shattered yesterday when he received notice yesterday of their detention in Quarantine at Boston, Mass.

Last August he sent transportation to his wife and three children for passage from Libau, Russia, to Duluth. She so timed her departure that she would rejoin her husband immediately before the commencement of the Passover. And it was a sad blow to the husband to receive the notice of their detention.

The authorities wished to be assured that the woman and three children would not become public charges. They make it a point to investigate all such cases carefully and demanded that they be satisfied on this point beyond any doubt before they are allowed to proceed. If this proof is not furnished they are sent back to the country from which they came.

Hantvarg told his plight to Jewish friends whom he has made in the four years which he has been located in this city. They immediately busied themselves in his behalf. The proper affidavits were prepared and plenty of signers were secured, who signed them. The stated that Hantvarg is a business man of the city, who has a furnished home awaiting the coming of his family; the wife and children will not become public charges, and that, if required, satisfactory bonds to that effect will be forthcoming.

The affidavits were dispatched through the mails last night. It is thought that they will amply satisfy the immigration authorities at Boston, and that the wife and children will be immediately started on the last lap of their journey to this city, reaching their destination the latter part of next week. Their difficulties have been enhanced by their inability to speak a word of English.

STEAMER CAUGHT IN ICE AND CRUSHED TO PIECES.

North Sydney, C. B., April 8.—Caught in the great fields of drifting ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the steamer Harlaw was crushed to pieces yesterday. The 130 men on board escaped over the treacherous ice jam to St. Paul's island, where they are being quartered tonight cut off from communication with the mainland except by wireless.

Immediately upon being informed of the wreck, the government steamers Lady Lawler, stationed at Halifax and Earl Grey at Pictou were dispatched with supplies to take off the marooned men. It is expected they will reach the island today.

the senate committee on reapportionment last evening voted unanimously to recommend the Hanson bill for passage, and decided to move Monday morning, when the report is made to the house, that it be made a special order for Tuesday evening.

That is the earliest possible moment, as under the rules one day's notice must be given of a motion to make a special order, and the day is to be taken up with the appropriation bills, which are a special order for Tuesday in the senate as well as in the house.

Ninth District Rearranged.

One senator was added to the membership of the senate by the amendments adopted last evening. This was the result of amendments offered by Senator Marden of the Clay-Wilkin-Becker district. His purpose was to prevent joining Becker county with Norman, and in order to do that he had to rearrange the greater part of the Ninth congressional district, with the result that he creates by his amendments, which were adopted by the committee, the following senatorial districts:

Becker and Hubbard counties.
Pennington and Red Lake counties.
Clay and Wilkin counties.
Norman, Clearwater and Mahnomen counties.
Wadena and Todd counties.

Each district, except the Pennington and Red Lake district, which will have but one, will have two house members.

Senator Coller, who objected to joining Scott and Le Sueur counties and wanted to attach Scott to Carver, proposed amendments rearranging the Third congressional district as it was in the Congdon bill. This would have left adjoining districts incomplete and would have necessitated radical rearrangements of the bill. Besides, Senator Klein of Carver county objected to having his county joined with Scott. So the Coller amendments were rejected.

Effective in 1914.

The committee adopted an amendment proposed by Senator Lende, which takes Lincoln county out of the Fourteenth district and adds it to the Fifteenth, with Lyon and Yellow Medicine, without changing the representation of the two districts.

Effective in 1914.

Senators Sundberg, Hanson and V. L. Johnson explained that while they all preferred to have the bill effective at once, and were on record by their votes on the Congdon bill, they would vote for the new bill in any event.

Senator Lende said that if he voted for it with the amendment, his enemies in his district would say that he changed because he did not want to cut his term in two; but other members of the committee assured him that nobody would suspect him of such a thing.

Senator Rockne spoke for the amendment in behalf of those members of the senate whose districts are eliminated from the bill. He said that no legislature never even legislates a justice of the peace out of office and it shouldn't legislate senators out of office. So far as those whose districts are unchanged are concerned, he said they were entitled to no consideration.

The amendment was adopted, Senator Lende voting against it.

Unless something happens to change things, the outlook last night was not only that the bill will pass the senate, but that it might pass by a pretty large vote.

It will then go to the house, and while it will not get so many votes there as the Congdon bill, it will probably pass.

A Spring Tonic A Body Builder

EMBLEM OF PURITY AND EXCELLENCE SINCE 1860

is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, and as none but sound, clean grain can be malted, it has for its base the most carefully selected grains of the field. It is a predigested liquid food in the form of a medicinal whiskey; its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

It is a gentle, invigorating stimulant and tonic that influences for good every important organ of the body. It is a remedy that should be in the family medicine chest. It is especially valuable for use at this time to enrich the blood and rebuild the system that has become run down and weakened from the long strain of winter.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

Get the genuine; sold by druggists, dealers and grocers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Medical booklet and doctor's advice free on request.

BOOKLET ON ZENITH CITY

Anniversary Edition of Duluth Trade News of Rare Worth.

An edition celebrating the tenth year of its existence has been issued by the Duluth Trade News, published by E. L. Millar at 130-132 West Michigan street. It carries 170 pages, is printed on a fine grade of paper, typographically artistic, copiously illustrated, well edited and printed. The cover page is in several colors. It is indicative of the many industries of this city. The publication carries a large amount of advertising and the editor was generous with special stories descriptive of Duluth and its vicinity. No better descriptive booklet on Duluth has ever been published in this city.

In pithy, vigorous language the resources, achievements and hopes of Duluth and its vicinity are described and epitomized. An interesting article details the history of the Zenith City. Another describes the many banking and financial institutions. The success of several well known wholesale houses is related in "little journeys" brimful of "human interest."

Clubs and societies, winter sports and pastimes, churches and public institutions are described by word and picture. The produce trade and the importance of this city as a distributing center for products of many descriptions are indicated by special articles and photographs.

Iron mining, marine activities, the lumbering industry and the grain trade are elaborately treated in lengthy stories of the history and development of these branches of commerce of which Duluth is the center.

Photographs show the beauty of Duluth's parks and the many elaborate homes of its wealthy citizens.

vide for the direct election of senators the natural thing to do was to pass the Keefe bill.

Instead, in spite of the warning that it is impossible to get a new senate bill through the house because of the congested conditions there, the Republican members of the senate passed what Senator Ole O. Sageng of Otter Tail county clear-headedly branded as a humbug, an abortion and a shell game.

Little Idea of Its Provisions.

It was made clear, during the debate, which lasted until nearly 7 o'clock last evening, that the Republicans who were backing the Murray bill had very little idea of its provisions before the measure was taken up. it provided, in its original form, for the nomination of party candidates for senator at the primary election and for a vote by the people at the general election upon the nominees. Then this curious provision followed: "Our representatives and senators in the legislative assembly as such officers are hereby instructed to vote for and elect the candidate for United States senator from this state who receives the highest number of votes at our general election held in accordance with the laws of the state of Minnesota."

That was the form in which the bill was introduced and recommended to pass by the senate committee on elections. There is no such thing in Minnesota as a "legislative assembly," and an instruction from one legislature to all subsequent legislatures to vote for certain candidates for senator has no more effect than a suggestion of moderation whispered to the north wind. Nevertheless, that was the original provision of the bill on which the Republican majority of the senate took its stand.

The absurdity of the measure is made clearer when it is understood where it came from—something that few of its friends knew, judging from yesterday's proceedings. It was a copy of a former senatorial election law in Oregon, before the present Oregon system came into effect. It was proposed under the initiative and adopted by the people of that state. Coming from the people, it was a mandate that had some force. Coming from one legislature and addressed to future legislatures, it was neither forceful nor binding.

After the Lende bill, which was very similar to the Keefe bill, had been disposed of, Senator Works moved that the Keefe bill be substituted for the Murray bill. He pointed out that there are only a few days left in which to do a lot of work, and that the house is "in a congested if not a chaotic state," so that there was no chance for a senate bill sent over at this time to pass that body.

Senator Murray opposed the motion, saying that if the house wanted to pass his bill it could make a special order of it and get it through.

"I understand the reason for your motion is," said Senator Haycraft to Senator Works, "that the house can't pass any more bills sent over by the senate."

"That is correct," said Senator Works.

"I would like to know," said Senator Haycraft with a twinkle in his eye, "if that includes the pending reapportionment bill." There was no reply, and none was expected.

Senator G. H. Sullivan said that the senate should not consent to have the Oregon plan crowded down its throat, as it would destroy what is left of party organization in this state.

Senator Fosseen of Minneapolis, Republican, moved as a substitute for Senator Works' motion that the senate take up the Murray bill, which was first on the special order.

Senator Dwinnell of Minneapolis, Republican, said that the senate should pass the Murray bill and keep the Keefe bill to see what the house will do with the Murray bill, and then if that bill falls in the house, the senate could pass the Keefe bill.

Urged the Keefe Bill.

Senator Glotzbach, Democrat, made an impassioned speech for the Keefe bill, saying that results, not party advantage, should be sought. There is nothing to be gained, he said, by nursing party government. The people have been so affronted by the rotten conditions resulting from it that they have been kept busy clearing out corrupt party organizations. This matter should be left to the people, as they can be trusted.

Senator J. D. Sullivan, Democrat, said that it was an absurd proposition to send the Murray bill over to the house, as that was the last that would be heard of it.

"The Murray bill," he said, "is simply a scheme to sidetrack the whole thing. The Keefe bill makes the people's selection of a senator mean something. The Murray bill makes it meaningless. If the senate really wants to meet the popular demand for direct election of senators, it should pass the Keefe bill, which has already passed the house and can become a law in twenty-four hours."

Fosseen's motion to take up the Murray bill was carried, 35 to 20, by nearly a strict party vote. Handlan, Democrat, voted for taking up the Murray bill, and Gunderson, Republican, voted against it. Otherwise the vote, which was as follows, was strictly along party lines:

For the motion—Anderson, Benson, Boyle, Clague, L. O. Cooke, Dale, Denegre, Duea, Dunn, Duxbury, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunn, Hackney, Handlan, Hanson, Hayeraft, Johnston, Klein, Lende, Murray, Nelson, Odell, Pugh, Putnam, Rockne, Saugstad, Stebbins, G. H. Sullivan, Sundberg, Swanson, Thoe, Wallace, Wilson—35.

Against the motion—Ahmann, Cashman, Cheadle, C. F. Cook, Donaldson, Glotzbach, Gunderson, C. D. Johnson, L'Herault, McGrath, Moonan, Pauly, Peterson, Poehler, Sageng, Schaller, J. D. Sullivan, Van Hoven, Weis, Works—20.

Absent or not voting—Bedford, Carpenter, Coller, Froshaug, V. L. Johnson, Marden, Olson.

Senator Moonan offered an amendment to the Murray bill striking out all after the enacting clause and substituting the provisions of the Keefe bill. This was lost by a strictly party vote, except that Gunderson, Republican, voted with the Democrats.

Sageng Is Sarcastic.

Senator Sageng, Populist, then analyzed the bill and discussed it with cutting sarcasm.

"This Murray bill," he said, "is not worth the paper it is written on. The only thing in it that makes the people's choice binding on the legislature is the absurd langauge of Section 4 (the provision quoted above). It is an abortion from beginning to end. It doesn't protect party lines. Under the Keefe bill candidates for the legislature have a choice whether or not they shall sign the pledge binding them to vote for the people's choice. This bill directs them all to vote for the man who gets the highest vote. The only advantage in it is that it gives legislators a chance to dodge the whole business by saying that they are not bound unless the people of their districts happen to vote for the man who gets the highest vote.

"It is a confidence game on the people of the state, and that's all it is."

Senator Victor L. Johnson said that he couldn't see how this legislature can pass a law making it the duty of subsequent legislatures to vote for any certain candidates.

Senator Gunderson said that if the legislature is going to pass a bill of this kind, it should pass one that has some meaning.

Senator Haycraft, chairman of the elections committee, Republican floor leader and chief of the anti-reapportionists, proposed an amendment cutting out the provision for a vote at the general election, leaving it merely a primary nomination of senators, and eliminating the section directing senators and representatives to vote for the people's choice.

"Now," said Senator Sageng, "the cat is getting out of the bag in good shape. There is to be no vote at all at the general election. The machinery proposed is only for party caucuses.

"If you think you can fool the people with a skin game like this, you are mistaken."

Senator Dwinnell and others thought there ought to be some way of binding legislators, and on motion of Senator Haycraft a recess of ten minutes was taken to whip the bill into shape, or as one senator expressed it, to "let the Republican party try to get its feet under it."

Murray Bill Carried.

After the recess the Haycraft amendment, changed so it left in the bill the direction to the legislators, amended so as to declare that it is the duty of the legislators to vote for their party nominees, was adopted, 36 to 24. The vote was nearly on party lines, except that Senator Handlan voted with the Republicans and Senators Gunderson, Sundberg and Wallace with the Democrats.

Senator Dwinnell offered a substitute for section 4, providing that wherever any candidate gets the highest number of votes at the primary election it shall be the duty of the legislators of his party to vote for him. Senator Dwinnell said he did not claim that the provision could be enforced, but it declared the policy of the state.

Feared Democrat's Election.

Senator G. H. Sullivan said that under the Oregon plan the minority party would arrange to have only one candidate, so its members could go into the majority party primaries and nominate the weakest candidate. "This is a plan," he said, "to elect a Democrat to the United States senate."

"The whole proceeding on the part of those pushing the Murray bill," said Senator Sageng again, "is to fool the people and make them think they have got something when they are getting nothing at all. It is child's play."

The Dwinnell amendment was adopted, 35 to 25, again by nearly a party vote.

Senator Moonan, Democrat, offered an amendment providing for a pledge to be signed by candidates, as in the Keefe bill. Senator Wilson offered a substitute pledging legislative candidates to vote as their districts voted.

"That," said Senator Duxbury, "would be a scheme to prevent the election of a United States senator. It would often happen that unless some members violated their pledges, there would be a perpetual deadlock."

Senator Rockne wanted to reject all pending amendments and pass the bill as it was.

"This is going far enough for the present," he said. "Let us copy after some safe and sane state, and not all the time after Oregon."

"If this thing of copying after Oregon keeps on," said Senator Putnam, "pretty soon all we shall need to do is to buy a copy of the Oregon statutes, change the word Oregon to Minnesota wherever it appears, and adopt it as the law of this state."

"That," said Senator Sageng, "would be a much more sensible thing to do than to adopt this absurd bill."

Senator Wilson withdrew his amendment, and the Moonan amendment was rejected, 21 to 37.

Schaller Opposes Bill.

Senator Schaller, Democrat, who had kept silent up to this time, entered the debate.

"Long experience," he said, "has made me a little shy when I see the roller being steamed up. Nevertheless, I think I should state why I am opposed to this bill. I might have voted for the Murray bill as it stood originally, but the Murray bill has been amputated, exscriated, and changed till its own parent could hardly recognize it. It does not do what I supposed was intended when the words 'election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people' were used in the campaign. I supposed that meant just what the words simply. This bill does not mean that. It means a primary nomination, a party caucus, not an election. It is strictly a party measure, and it does not appeal to me as a citizen. I care so little for purely party affairs that I have no further interest in it."

Senator G. H. Sullivan offered an amendment providing for a mutilated version of the Oregon pledge. Candidates "may" sign either one of two statements; one pledging themselves to vote for the choice of their party as disclosed at the primary election, the other stating that they regard the party verdict at the primaries as a mere recommendation, which they can adopt or not as they see fit.

This measure hadn't been considered for more than a few minutes when some of the Republican leaders realized that it went further than they had intended to go, and when opposition arose Senator Sullivan withdrew his amendment.

Senator Moonan, the ubiquitous author of Democratic amendments to Republican party measures, promptly re-offered the Sullivan amendment under his own name, and on the roll call enough Republicans joined with the Democrats to adopt it by a vote of 39 to 22. The most important amendment to the bill, therefore, is by a Democrat and was made possible by Democratic votes.

The bill as amended then went to a vote. Senator Sageng, explaining his vote, said that the measure reminded him of a story of a professor and some of his students who tried to puzzle him by skillfully joining together parts of several different kinds of bugs and asking him to tell them what this strange insect was.

"This," said the professor, after looking it over carefully, "is a humbug."

Murray Bill Carried.

"I can't follow the steam roller to absurdity," said Senator Duxbury, Republican, in voting against the bill. "I had rather vote for the Oregon plan than this. The Oregon plan offers a chance to prevent bad nominations, and this doesn't. Under the Oregon plan the people can correct party mistakes at the polls, but that is impossible under this bill."

The Murray bill was carried, 44 to 17, several Democrats joining with the Republicans.

The Keefe bill was then placed at the head of the calendar and it may be passed before the session ends. Unless it is passed there will be no step taken toward the direct election of United State senators at this session. The vote on the Murray bill was as follows:

For—Anderson, Bedford, Benson, Boyle, Cashman (Dem.), Clague, Coller (Dem.), L. O. Cooke, Dale, Denegre, Duea, Dunn, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Froshaug, Gunderson, Gunn, Hackney, Hanson, Haycraft, V. L. Johnson, Johnston, Klein, Lende, Marden, Moonan (Dem.), Murray, Nelson, Odell, Olson, Pauly (Dem.), Peterson (Dem.), Pugh, Putnam, Rockne, Saugstad, Stebbins, G. H. Sullivan, Sundberg, Swanson, Thoe, Wallace, Wilson—44.

Absent—Carpenter, Rustad.

Another Afternoon Wasted.

The house got into another snarl yesterday afternoon, and when it adjourned after a wasted afternoon, it was about near breaking up in a row as often happens.

Representative Christie moved that the vote whereby the Mattson-Hopkins resolution requiring a two-thirds vote to make a special order was lost, be reconsidered.

A call of the house was demanded. The call had proceeded only a little way down the roll call when it was moved that further proceedings under the call be dispensed with.

Representative Pfaender demanded a roll call on that motion, and got it. The house went from roll call to roll call, and from call of the house to call of the house, doing nothing and never even getting back to the Christie motion. The chamber was in a turmoil most of the time.

At one time during the proceedings Representative Rines, in disgust, moved that the house adjourn sine die, but the motion was not, of course, considered.

Representative Greene of St. Paul moved that the house buy itself a box of rattles to play with.

In the meantime, no business was done. The house is so far behind with its work that nothing of moment can get done except by making a special order of it, and the senate has ceased to worry about getting its bills over because it knows that it will be impossible for the house to pass them.

Two Important Bills Passed.

Before getting into this tangle, the house passed three bills, among them two important bills by the house committee on public lands, one providing for a commission to investigate the conditions of the public domain and present to the next legislature a bill consolidating the several departments relating thereto, and the other proposing a Constitutional amendment creating the office of commissioner of public lands separate from the state auditor's office.

Representative Albert Pfaender, the Democrat house leader, yesterday during the debate on the bill to disfranchise the cities in the matter of legislative representation, brought a round of applause by a reference to Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey. Somebody had said that New Jersey was trust-ridden.

Mr. Pfaender rose to a question of personal privilege, and challenged the statement.

"I call to the attention of the man who made this statement," said he, "to the fact that New Jersey lately elected to the first place in the state a man of the highest attainments, honor and integrity, and that that man was elected by the unin fluenced suffrages of the people of that state. That man, whom I predict will be the next occupant of the White House, is Woodrow Wilson."

Officers of Newspaper Corporations Not Personally Responsible.

New York, April 8.—Officers of a newspaper corporation cannot be held personally responsible for the newspaper publication of libelous matter. Such was the decision of the appellate division of the supreme court yesterday in the case brought by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., against S. S. Carvalho, president; Bradford Merrill, treasurer; and Edward H. Clark, secretary of the Star company, publisher of the New York American. The court orders all proceedings against them dismissed.

As officers of the newspaper corporation Carvalho, Merrill and Clark were arrested on the charge of criminal libel. The newspaper article for which it was sought to hold them responsible related to alleged abuses of workingmen by a corporation, which it was alleged, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., controlled.

TO LAY CORNERSTONE.

Ceremonies to Mark Building of Grand Forks City Hall.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the foundation laid and the brick work started on the new city hall the officials have begun laying plans for the laying of the corner stone and dedication of the new building. The corner stone has been ordered and will be three feet square and twenty inches deep provided with copper compartments in which will be filled copies of the city's newspapers, lists of present city officials and other documents and mementos of the occasion.

The ceremonies will be impressive and if present plans are carried out President McVey of the university will deliver the address. The date has not been definitely settled but it will be the early part of May.

NON-SUPPORTERS MUST WORK ON THE STREETS.

Sacramento, Cal., April 8.—Governor Johnson yesterday signed a bill providing that in case of a conviction for non-support, a husband may be sentenced to jail and be required to work on the public roads or other public works, the county paying $1.50 to his wife and children for each day the non-provider thus works.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say good-bye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend one, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K 94 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering power.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

FUNDAMENTAL CONDITIONS SOUNDER

New York, April 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Somewhat slower movement of trade is revealed in most of the reports from different sections. Fundamental conditions are undoubtedly sounder and better than in a long time past, but immediate business, while necessarily large in view of the constant requirements of an immense population, shows reduced activity for the time being because the period of retrenchment and readjustment is not yet ended. The optimism that prevails abroad, and especially in England, is beginning to have its effect in this country and must be counted as one of the influences working for improvement.

While there is evidence that consumers of iron and steel are showing less disposition to anticipate requirements than for some time past, the general situation presents several encouraging aspects, notwithstanding that bookings of leading producers are on a diminished scale. One of the favorable features is the steady reduction in accumulated stocks of pig iron, in spite of the fact that production during March rose to the highest point since July, 1910. Moreover, several furnaces have been added to the active list, and the combined output increased sharply last month.

On the other hand, current buying in pig iron is limited in practically all markets, Cincinnati being an exception, although it is notable that quotations there are not quite so firmly held. In finished materials, specific quotations are showing a falling off in most lines, but wire continues active.

While indications are not lacking that there has been some shrinkage in net profits as a consequence of the reduced volume of transactions, a steadier and firmer tone to the cotton goods market was given during the week by a recovery in prices from the low levels touched on side sheetings and 4-4 bleached cottons, and also by consistent purchases for the well established needs of a larger printer. Export trade has been better than a year ago.

The tariff agitation centering upon the wool schedule has naturally led to cautious operations on the part of all merchants handling dress goods and men's wear. The yarn markets, by inactivity on a broad scale, continue to reflect the curtailed output of many miscellaneous textile mills.

In footwear, some manufacturers are fairly busy, but others are feeling the lack of supplementary seasonable orders and their cutting rooms are especially dull at the present time.

Spring Humors and Tired Feelings Cured—No Trouble Since Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

More Than 40,000 Testimonials in Two Years.

MRS. B. GRAY.

"From what I know personally concerning the goodness of, and the cures by, Hood's Sarsaparilla, I heartily recommend it for all spring humors and tired feelings. I had eczema badly on my face, and also humors, which seemed to be brought on or developed by vaccination. I knew that my blood was in very poor condition. My face was very sore and I lost one eyebrow. Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me and I took a few bottles. The humor entirely disappeared, and I have had no more trouble since. I have heard very many friends and neighbors speak of the excellence of Hood's Sarsaparilla and cordially recommend it." Mrs. Bertram Gray, 248 Arnold street, New Bedford, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla expels from the blood all humors and all impurities that cause and promote disease, removes weak, tired feelings, creates an appetite, gives health and vigor. It has probably effected more cures than any other medicine. Thousands of grateful people testify to its beneficent work—over forty thousand in two years.

There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good" you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla today. In usual liquid form or in chocolated tablets known as Sarsatabs. 100 Doses One Dollar. It is prepared by C. I. Hood Co., Lowell, Mass., and is sold by druggists everywhere.

Nearly Smothered

Chandler, N. C.—Mrs. Augusta Lomax, of this place, writes: "I had smothering spells every day, so bad that I expected death at any time. I could not sit up in bed. I suffered from womanly troubles. My nerves were unstrung. I had almost given up all hope of ever being better. I tried Cardui, and it did me more good than anything I had ever taken. I am better now than I ever expected to be." Thousands of ladies have written similar letters, telling of the merits of Cardui. It relieved their headache, backache and misery, just as it will relieve yours, if you will let it. Try.

SHAKESPEARE UP TO DATE

High School Students Adapt "Merchant of Venice" to School Life.

Amateur Actors Well Received in Their Annual Senior Play.

With all the snap and ginger of a Cohan comedy, the senior play was presented at the high school last evening. "The Merchant of Venice Up to Date" was its title and it was under the management and direction of A. F. M. Custance.

The principals were all excellent and there was an individuality about the work of each which is unusual in an amateur production of this kind.

The play in itself was well worked out and the mingling of modern slang and the stately language of William Shakespeare produced a combination which was irresistibly funny.

The play opened with a street scene in Venice showing a group of football heroes surrounded by a group of high school girls giving their football songs and yells, under the direction of Raymond Hancock, yell master.

Stanley Lamb as the modern Shylock was probably the most finished and was rewarded for his good work with peals of laughter and enthusiastic applause.

George King fitted his part of the handsome big football player, Antonio, exceptionally well and everyone was glad that his wealth of hair was saved from the relentless Shylock.

Roger Lerch and Lloyd Le Duc displayed fine ability in their parts of Bassanio and Gratiano and made most delightful lovers.

David Wanless was a general favorite in his interpretation of the part of Launcelot Gobbo, the Swedish servant and his character work was one of the hits of the evening.

Chelsie Final as Portia and Irene Wardell as Nerissa were two charming characters, and played their roles with a charmingly natural manner. Miss Gladys Lenning played the part of Jessica in a pleasing manner and "Miss Lavinia Katchum," the teacher, was acted with ability by Miss Alta Hallock. Lydia Woodbridge as "Hulda," the Swedish servant, was delightful, and Mary Whipple's "Mrs. Gobbo" and Estelle Goering as Antonio's mother were also good characters.

Edwin Linderberg made a most formidable looking policeman, Howard De Vey was funny as the professor and Oswald Ringsred was a typical darky in his part of "Tubal." Joe Boyle was the mighty Duke of Venice.

Some clever little vocal numbers were introduced with the solo parts sung by Miss Marion Merritt, the demure little lass, Ethel Smith, the Swedish maiden, and Alice Farrell, the Bowery girl, who were all good.

A pretty little feature was introduced in the fourth act by eight dancing girls who did the "Lemon dance." These girls were: Misses Florence Olson, Ruth Neimeyer, Helen Smith, Eleanor Aske, Agnes Carmody, Bessie Warren, Lucile Gilbert and Mabel Cummings.

Those who aided Mr. Custance were: Stage master, Ben Nelson; assistant, Griffith McConaughy; and financial manager, Walter Glass.

The play will be repeated again this evening at the high school auditorium.

FOLLOW-UP CONFERENCE

Laymen's Missionary Movement Workers Will Meet Next Week.

The local committee working on the plans for the follow-up conference of the laymen's missionary movement at the Pilgrim Congregational church Tuesday and Wednesday of next week is meeting with a favorable response from all who have been urged to join in the movement. The campaign in Duluth last year was a very successful one and the results are expected to be more evident at the coming conference than they have been at any time during the year.

J. Campbell White, who will be one of the speakers at the coming conference, has an international reputation as a speaker to men. He has worked all over the United States in the laymen's missionary movement and has been prominent in world's conferences. His addresses are expected to be the feature of the coming conference.

REORGANIZATION OF THE BOARD

O. G. Olson Again Chosen President and R. Murchison Secretary.

The board of public works organized for the coming year at its meeting yesterday afternoon.

Olof G. Olson was re-elected president and R. Murchison was again chosen to fill the position of clerk. Mr. Olson has been a member of the board for many years, being reappointed for another term of three years by Mayor Cullum a year ago.

George J. Bloedel, former alderman of the Second ward, is a new member of the board. He has an extensive knowledge of city affairs and there is but little doubt that he will acquit himself most creditably in his new position. The oldest member of the board is A. J. Meldahl, who was appointed when R. D. Haven was mayor. His term expires next March. Mr. Meldhal is one of West Duluth's leading citizens and has given general satisfaction during the time he has been a member of the board. Mr. Murchison is one of the oldest officials in the city hall in point of service. He has acted as clerk of the board during that time and probably has a more intimate knowledge of the business of the board and the position and condition of the streets, alleys, sidewalks and sewers in the city than any other man in Duluth.

GRAFTON, N. D., COUPLE MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

MR. AND MRS. HIRAM HAYNES.

Grafton, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Haynes, pioneer residents of this city, hale and hearty at the ages of 79 and 71 years, respectively, have just celebrated their golden wedding. The event took place at the home of their only daughter, Mrs. H. G. Sprague, and their only grandchildren, Miss Cena and Vernon Sprague, served the wedding dinner.

Mrs. Haynes' maiden name was Lavina La Saur, and her wedding took place at Rochester, Minn. Mr. Haynes was a blacksmith and at the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in a Minnesota regiment. They came to Grafton twenty-eight years ago and engaged in farming. Mr. Haynes retiring some years ago.

TO ADDRESS COMMITTEE

Mayor Cullum Will Talk at Commercial Club on Workhouse.

Committee's Year Will End at Same Time as Club Year.

The jail, workhouse and workfarm agitation will come in for discussion at a meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club Tuesday evening, it is expected. At the last meeting of the committee, a sub-committee reported in favor of a workhouse and rock pile for vagrants and bums and a workfarm for drunkards and other petty offenders. The club as a whole did not go on record at that meeting, as Mayor Cullum, who was unable to be present, had expressed a wish to be heard on the subject.

At the meeting of the board of county commissioners yesterday, a committee which had been considering the subject reported against the workhouse project and recommended that the old jail be repaired for temporary use. The report of the subcommittee of the Commercial club is strongly against such action and the general committee will probably go on record Tuesday night.

The meeting Tuesday night will mark the end of the public affair committee's year and the annual reports will very likely be submitted. Heretofore, the committee has not held its annual meeting until after the annual meeting of the club, but it is planned in the future to bring the committee's year to an end at the same time the club year ends. The members of the committee will, however, hold over until their successors are appointed.

The annual election of directors of the club will take place Wednesday and the annual meeting of the club will be held Wednesday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. It is expected that at that meeting, C. A. Luster will again be elected president of the club, the policy in the past having been to elect the president for two consecutive terms.

The business of the annual meeting will be followed by a smoker and entertainment. A committee is at work arranging a program and it is expected a large crowd will be out to celebrate the termination of probably the most successful year in the club's history.

CHARLES E. ADAMS ASSUMES DUTIES.

Charles E. Adams, appointed special county attorney by the county commissioners in session yesterday, assumed his duties today.

He was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of William J. Stevenson. The resolution went into effect today and the term is up July 8.

Mr. Adams will soon move into the offices provided for the special county attorney on the third floor of the courthouse. Mr. Stevenson was moving out today.

From this time on Mr. Stevenson's duties will keep him at St. Paul a greater portion of the time. His duties for the state began some time ago, but he was here yesterday to be in attendance at the meeting of the county commissioners and today for the purpose of appearing for the governor in the case brought against him by Albert Woolsen.

STUTSMAN COUNTY TEACHERS MEETING.

Jamestown, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A two days' convention of Stutsman county teachers will be brought to a successful conclusion this afternoon with the final address by Dr. J. M. Gillette of the university faculty, who also addressed the gathering last evening. There has been a good attendance and the teachers have been addressed by State Superintendent Taylor, Prof. Crane of the city schools, Dr. Kroeze and Dr. Taylor of Jamestown college and Dr. Movius.

Golden Valley Pioneer Dies.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—Edward Sweeney, an early settler of Golden Valley, died early Friday at his home. He was 79 years old. His death was due to pneumonia, but he has been ill with a complication of diseases for several months. He took a homestead in Golden Valley in 1852 and was prominent among the older residents of that district. Surviving are three daughters and three sons.

RECEPTION FOR VINCENT

President of State University to Be Guest of Duluth April 19.

Commercial Club Committee Working on Plans for Entertainment.

President George E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota will be the guest of Duluth Wednesday, April 19. The Commercial club, which extended the invitation to Mr. Vincent to visit Duluth, has charge of the arrangements for his entertainment. A committee consisting of W. H. Hoyt, C. D. Brewer and F. C. Elston is making the plans.

Mr. Vincent is expected to spend the entire day in the city. He will be escorted around the city during the day, and in the evening will be the guest at a banquet and reception at the Commercial club. An opportunity will be given Duluth people to meet the new president of the university and it is expected a large number will avail themselves of it. It will be the first opportunity of Duluth alumni of the university to meet Mr. Vincent and they are expected to be out to a man.

Mr. Vincent has expressed himself as realizing that the University of Minnesota is a state institution, in which all parts of the city should be interested, which should extend its influence to all parts of the state and which should be supported by all parts of the state. He will find that Duluth people have a lively interest in the state institution and that they are ready to give the university and its officers every support and encouragement in their work.

CHURCH DIVISION CARRIES.

Final Action to Be Taken in Duluth in June.

Moorhead, Minn., April 8.—A decision favoring the formation of a new conference out of the Minnesota conference of the Swedish Lutheran church was reached at the session in this city.

It is proposd that the new conference be composed of the congregations of Northern Minnesota, as far south as Willmar, and all of North and South Dakota, which is to take the place, as far as the congregation within these boundries are concerned, of the old Minnesota conference.

A committee was appointed to draft a petition which will be brought before the Minnesota conference of which these congregations now are a part. This will be acted upon at a meeting and will then be recommended to the Augustana synod which meets at Duluth next June. This body will take final action.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT

Is Chosen for North Dakota Asylum at Jamestown.

Jamestown, N. D., April 8.—An important meeting of the board of trustees for the North Dakota state insane hospital was held here this week, all members of the board being present.

This was the occasion for an annual election of officers of the institution, and the board decided to make a change in superintendents, relieving Mr. McAllister, who was elected last year as superintendent, and on motion of Trustee Mitchell Dr. Will Hotchkiss of New Rockford was elected superintendent. All the other employes at present on the rolls were retained for another year.

It is not known whether any other arrangements will be made when the new board of control takes charge of the institution on July 1.

Remove Office to Marinette.

Marinette, Wis., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republic Lumber company has decided to centralize its operations in a short time and the office force will be removed from Chicago to Marinette. George Engelking, vice president and general manager of the big lumber company, will make his residence in Marinette and will bring with him several bookkeepers who are now employed in the Chicago office.

Inheritance Tax $24,376.35.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 8.—Following a hearing in the probate court the inheritance tax on the estate of the late Peter Truax was fixed by Judge Blum at $24,376.35, the largest tax of its kind ever levied in Eau Claire county. The value of the estate was fixed at more than $800,000, of which the widow receives $539,023, the rest being left to ten other beneficaries, among them being Ella Sprout of St. Paul, a niece, who receives $28,970.41.

Bayfield's Water Pure.

Bayfield, Wis., April 8.—Health Officer Dr. Hannum received the analysis of two samples of water and two of ice sent to Madison, to Director Ravenel, and the bacteriological examination by B. W. Hammer, analyst, shows good. Sample of water taken from the pumping station at the power house, analyzed March 29, shows no trace of impurities and was noted "water apparently O: K."

The Automobile

THREE CARS OF SAME MAKE

Famous Drivers Will Pilot Lozier Cars in Memorial Day Races.

White-Bonneted Cars of Stock Variety; Have Same Horse Power.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 8.—Three of the famous white-bonneted Lozier cars which were the marvel of the automobile racing season of 1910 have been entered in the 500-mile International Sweepstakes race to be held over the Indianapolis Motor Speedway track Memorial day, May 30.

At the wheel of the famous cars will be Ralph Mulford, national road race champion of 1910, and Teddy Tetzlaff, holder of the American road race record and of the American speedway 100-mile record, regardless of class. This is the first time that these two great drivers have been thrown together in competition and the outcome when they are both at the wheel of cars exactly alike will be watched with interest by motorists over the entire world.

The third Lozier car is entered by Dr. W. H. Chambers of McKeesport, Pa., and will be piloted by Harold Van Gorder, an Eastern driver who has figured more or less prominently in minor events. Van Gorder never participated in any of the big events. The car which he will drive is a regular stock model 46-horse power, a duplicate of the cars driven by Mulford and Tetzlaff. This car was recently purchased by Dr. Chambers, through the Lozier agency of Pittsburg, and while Van Gorder will drive as one of the Lozier team Dr. Chambers is backing him in his racing campaign and the car will be entered by him in various events during the season. Van Gorder has been driving cars since 1903. Two years ago he acted as mechanician for Harrison on the Weigel car in the Grand Prize race in France over the Dieppe circuit.

The racing history of Mulford and Tetzlaff is so recent as to be well known. Their driving entitles them to rank among the foremost drivers of the world. Tetzlaff has, perhaps, achieved a greater measure of success during the time he has been driving than any driver who has come into prominence during the last two or three years. He has taken part in only three races within the last year, winning all three of them. He holds the American road record, and his recent victory on the Los Angeles mile track when he defeated Ralph De Palma and his 90-horse power Fiat racer, in a 100-mile match race in the phenomenal average time of 81.08 miles per hour, indicates what may be expected of him in the circuit racing. Tetzlaff took away the 100-mile record from Ray Harroun, the Marmon pilot, who averaged better than seventy-six miles per hour at the opening of the Los Angeles motordrome in the spring of 1910. In the road race over the Santa Monica course in which Tetzlaff won the road championship, he averaged 73.2 miles per hour, taking the mark from Bruce Brown, who drove a Benz at an average speed of seventy-one miles an hour in the Grand prize at Savannah in 1910. Louis Chevrolet held the record previous to Bruce Brown, making 69.7 miles per hour, driving a Buick in the 1909 Riverhead road race. Ralph Mulford gained a national reputation when he drove a Lozier to victory in the Elgin road race at Elgin last August.

Announcement has been made by the Lozier Motor company that Lozier cars will compete in all the national circuit events of the season.

INFORMATION FOR TOURISTS

Routes, Hotels, Maps and Other Statistics Covered By Blue Book.

The first issue of the Automobile blue book series for 1911 will be the New Jersey section, volume 3. It will be ready for delivery about the middle of April and will contain more touring information, including new maps, additional routes, hotel and garage statistics than has ever been compiled before. As a special feature the volume will contain complete, with maps and detailed information, a large number of popular Southern tours, covering Florida, Georgia, Alabama, the Carolinas and other districts which have been growing deservedly popular among motorists within the last few years. No list of Southern tours in so extensive a manner has ever been compiled before. Reliable data regarding the condition and nature of the roads has been gathered under the personal inspection of the Blue Book's experts.

The Blue Book series will be issued this year, as hitherto in four volumes. No. 1 will be the New York volume and this will come out soon after the New Jersey edition. No. 2 will be the New England volume and this has been greatly improved over previous editions. No. 3 will be the New Jersey edition with the Southern touring department, while No. 4 will, as formerly, be published in Chicago, covering the Western territory and will show scores of new tours throughout the Middle West.

PRICE OF TIRES MAY BE ADVANCED

Rubber May Take Leap at Almost Any Time, Claim Agents.

At the present time automobile tires of every make are about 30 per cent cheaper than they were a year ago.

As the tires are the most costly part of the running expenses of a car, this is a big saving.

The present low price is not to last if the statements made by agents are true. They state without exception tires will soon go up in price.

The companies are said to be behind in their orders and as the demand is getting heavier as spring opens up, the price may be advanced. The price of crude rubber is also expected to take a leap at any time and the local agents are advising those who will need tires to purchase them while the price is down.

DEALERS THINK THEY HAVE A KICK

Local Auto Agents Want Outside Firms to Pay Wheelage Tax.

Local automobile dealers are asking that outside firms which send demonstrators to Duluth be made to pay the city wheelage tax.

It is claimed that outside firms send men and demonstrators here, use the streets to demonstrate their cars and take some trade away from the locals while paying for the use of the streets.

One firm claims that the outside firms have no money invested in Duluth and that their sales in this territory are "pure velvet." This firm thinks that this is unfair and already the matter has been taken up with the city attorney.

Every once in a while a firm sends a demonstrator to this city, uses the streets for demonstrating its car for some weeks, picks up a few sales and departs.

The Duluth men who have money invested in their business in Duluth and who have to pay wheelage taxes claim that this is unfair and they may join together to make the outsiders pay.

DAN CUPID TRIUMPHANT

Joseph O'Clair Changes Jail Bars for Matrimonial Bonds.

Last Chapter in Romance of Two Youthful Duluthians.

Joseph O'Clair and Miss Eva Arseneault, who recently eloped to a point in New York and were brought back on a warrant sworn out by the girl's father, by a deputy sheriff, were married this afternoon.

O'Clair was charged with abduction. The girl was said to have been under age. O'Clair stated that his intentions were honorable, and they were at his home in New York state when apprehended and brought back to Duluth.

Since they were brought back, O'Clair has been at the St. Louis county jail. Miss Arseneault has been devoting her time to getting him out.

The parents, it is said, have agreed to the marriage, and the charge of abduction against him will be dropped by the court, at the suggestion of the county attorney.

Nearly every day this week Miss Arseneault has either visited in person or telephoned the county attorney's office in her anxiety to get O'Clair out of jail.

She is said to have stated that the only reason they were not married before setting out on life's journey together, was that her religion forbade marriages during Lent. They intended to get married after Lent, she is said to have remarked.

They were a very happy pair of people when he was released from jail and the marriage ceremony was over.

HEARING ON ORDINANCE

Public May Have Chance to Be Heard on Lodging House Regulations.

Ordinance Will Probably Be Introduced Into Council Monday Night.

The proposed lodging house ordinance will probably be introduced at the council meeting Monday night. It was turned over to the committee on ordinances and resolutions, of which Alderman Wharton is chairman, last Monday night, but it was not introduced as the members of the committee desired an opportunity to read it carefully.

After it had been introduced the ordinance will be referred back to the same committee for consideration and a report. Considerable opposition has arisen to the ordinance in its present form, and it is likely that the committee will set a date for a public hearing befort it is submitted to the aldermen for final passage.

Investigation has shown that there is a great need for an ordinance regulating lodging house conditions in Duluth. Men are crowded into these places like cattle, without proper air, light or ventilation. Even adequate facilities for washing themselves are lacking in most of them. The bedding, in many instances, is vile, while many of the beds themselves are of wood, affording a prolific place for vermin. In numerous places are found the so-called "double-deckers," which consist of one bunk placed on top of another. The toilet facilities in all of them are inadequate, and it is not uncommon for the toilet to be located off the kitchen or dining room with the common washing sink in the same place.

The ordinance is stringent in its provisions for cleanliness and measures tending toward the benefit of the public health. It also makes the installation of sanitary drinking fountains on each floor mandatory, which is a new departure in the lodging house ordinances of other cities. It is likely that when the ordinance comes from the committee the second time some changes will be recommended, and that it will not be passed in its present form. The ordinance will not go into effect, according to its provisions, until next October, which would give those now in operation an opportunity to comply with its requirements.

The proposed amendment to the Canadian Northern franchise will likely be up for discussion, having been laid over a week at the meeting last Monday night. West Duluthians object to allowing the company to place a row of posts in the center of Fifty-ninth avenue west to support the trestle crossing the avenue.

Chief Randall of the fire department will submit his recommendations for fire hydrants to be located on the extentions of the water system which the water and light department has planned for the coming season. He will ask that over thirty new hydrants be put in.

The contracts for cement walks to be built this year will come up for confirmation.

NEW UNION DEPOT AT TACOMA COST MILLIONS.

Tacoma's new mammoth union station will be opened with elaborate ceremonies on April 28. This structure has been in process of erection for the past three years at a cost of several millions. Its opening will mark an epoch in Tacoma's history for the mammoth terminal will place that city on the list of great railway terminals of the country. The Northern Pacific will have its North Coast Limited train on display at the opening with new equipment throughout for visitors' inspection.

The new station has its entrance from Pacific avenue, in the heart of the business section of the city, and as a building it is a great addition to Tacoma's architectural features.

FARGO ELKS GROWING.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elks will hold their annual meeting tonight to hear reports of the officers for the past year and to install the recently elected officers. It is understood the net gain in membership has been about 100 and the total membership is about 500. The new officers to be installed are: Exalted ruler, Sam McDonald; esteemed leading knight, O. J. Morrow; esteemed loyal knight, G. H. Nesbitt; esteemed lecturing knight, Charles Brewer; secretary, E. R. Orchard; treasurer, F. A. Irish. Exalted Ruler McDonald will appoint the following: Esquire, C. P. Brown; inner guard, F. A. Bricker; chaplain, Wick W. Wood; organist, C. G. Baernstein.

MINE COLLEGE STUDENTS WILL PRESENT SHOW.

Houghton, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—"In Tobero" is the name of the harem skirt show to be put on by students of the Michigan College of Mines of Houghton, during May. The cast has eighty members. The chorus is an excellent one. The play was written by a nephew of George Ade and it is said that he was helped by the great humorist with much of it. The play will be produced at Houghton, Hancock, Calumet, Lake Linden, Iron Mountain, Marquette, Ishpeming and other northern Michigan cities. It may also be taken to Duluth. The students have been working on their show since Christmas.

Will Spend Week Here.

Owing to the impression Duluth has made on James T. Powers and the members of his company, and also because of the courteous treatment the members of the "Havana" company have received at the Spalding hotel, the company will spend the greater part of next week in the city.

It is against the principles of Mr. Powers to play during holy week. It was his intention to spend next week in Minneapolis, where he will open soon, but the courteous treatment received at the hotel and also the fact that Duluth has made a hit with "Jimmy" Powers and every one of his big company, has induced them to spend most of next week here, seeing some of the sights and also getting a much needed rest.

THE TEACHERS' RAISE.

The teachers, to be sure, do not get all they might ask, under the action of the board of education, but they do get something. The answer of the board to the plea for a bigger increase in salaries is that the city hasn't the money to give the bigger increase, and that answer is a bar, at least for the present, to any further claims. The teachers are to be congratulated on what they have gained. It is to be hoped that they may see the fulfillment of the hope held out to them of another increase in another year.

The Herald is not in sympathy with the opposition to increasing the teachers' pay that is based on the claim that they do not spend as much time in preparation for their profession or as many hours a day at work as some other people. The efficient teacher—and that is the kind we want in Duluth—is as much a possessor of certain natural qualifications as is the efficient business man, yet we never hear it said that a man is entitled to less money because he has natural ability than he would be if he were wholly a product of training. The teacher must spend three or four years in preparation, at least, and that is as much as is required of the lawyer, and very nearly as much as is demanded of the doctor. Then there are the necessities for unending study of methods, for contemporaneous reading, etc., that the teacher must meet. And anybody who thinks that the teacher's work begins when school opens and ends when the pupils are dismissed shows lamentable ignorance of the task that devolves upon those who teach the young idea how to shoot.

The paying of living wages to teachers is not a mere matter of sentiment, though their work is so important that it is hard to consider it entirely apart from the sentimental viewpoint. But there is nothing of sentiment, however much it may sound like that, in the fact that it is the teachers who determine, in a large degree, the trend of thought of every man and woman in the country, for the teacher's influence is felt during the formation of character, and it lasts as long as the lives of the pupils. This being true, it is essential that we have the best teachers in order that our children may have the best training and the best character. And the best teachers are not the cheapest, by a good deal.

Duluth's future does not depend entirely on the steel plant, or on the agricultural development of the surrounding country, or on the size of the business blocks, or on the character of the pavements or on the form of government. It depends, more even than on these, on the kind of citizens who make their home here. When we hire good teachers we build a good future for our city as well as for our boys and girls. When we hire a cheap grade of teachers we rob the city and the children alike. The present step is good, but it is only a step. We should not be willing to rest content with this. There are more steps to be taken, and when the time comes to take them Duluth should be ready to make the advance.

THE RED WING REPORT.

There is nothing surprising in the report of the legislative committee that was appointed to investigate the conditions existing in the boys' reformatory at Red Wing. As the evidence given before the committee was published from day to day it would have been impossible for the committee to have ignored some of the salient features of it, and by no other means could they have arrived at a conclusion other than that announced in their report. It is true that some of the boys sent to the reformatory must be dealt with severely. But that does not mean that all the inmates are to be treated as mediaeval prisoners might have been by cruel jailers. The general application of such measures as were shown to exist at the school is, furthermore, incompatible with the recognized methods of handling even hardened criminals, and these boys are sent to this school instead of the prison because they are not hardened criminals, but merely youths who may yet be brought to live honorably.

But there is another feature to the Red Wing matter that is not included in the report, though it would have been eminently fitting to have included it. That is, the extent to which the state boards that have supervision of such institutions were responsible for the conditions at Red Wing. These men are chosen to look after the interests of the unfortunates who are sent to the schools, as well as the management of the finances and other features of those institutions. If abuses of the system are allowed to grow and continue, it is these boards that ought to be held responsible. They are given the necessary power and authority to keep informed on conditions. If they fail they are negligent in their duties.

Minnesota does not want to become a breeder of criminals, or haters of the law and the government. The men who are chosen to look after the penal institutions have it in their power to safeguard her in this respect. It is their duty to exercise that power. It would be well, perhaps, considering the developments that were found in the boys' school at Red Wing, to take a look at some of the other state institutions. Not that there is suspicion of wrong at any of them, but on the general principle that neglect of the Red Wing school for boys may have been accompanied by neglect of some of these other institutions too. But whether this is done or not, the Red Wing matter should be a warning to future boards of control and boards of visitors as to what may happen if they are remiss in their duties. The affair is too deep a disgrace to the state to be allowed to repeat itself.

THE LAW'S DELAY.

One of the pet schemes of President Taft in his program of national reforms is the simplification and expediting of legal procedure, and in that he has the hearty support of the American public. Not that litigation should be made easier than is necessary. There are too many legal actions, even with the difficulties and discouragements that beset the path of the man or woman who courts the courts in the hope of getting justice or relief. But there are instances in which relief ought to be granted, and in which it can be obtained, under our system of government, only by application to some judicial tribunal, and yet in which there are so many delays, for one reason or another, with the ever-recurring items of expense, that the result is in fact little if anything short of absolute injustice.

On the same day, recently, the following three items appeared in the Associated Press dispatches throughout the country:

Washington, D. C.—Twenty years on the way, the suit of Mary Scott Woods and others against A. M. Chesborough and others in Marion county, Mississippi, today reached the supreme court of the United States. In 1891 a suit was brought in Marion county courts to determine the title to several parcels of land. It will be two or three years before the supreme court will reach the case on its docket.

Kansas City, Mo.—The trial of John J. Pryor, the North Side saloonkeeper and political heeler, for the murder of James Morton nearly five years ago, has been postponed again.

Kansas City, Kan.—Miss Katie Scalapino, 21 years old, died at her home at Twenty-eighth street and Barnet avenue, in Kansas City, Kan., late Saturday night from injuries received in 1907 when an explosion of dynamite in the Outer Belt railway cut near her home hurled her from her bed against a stove. Miss Scalapino was a daughter of Angelo Scalapino, a laborer. She was awarded judgment for $5,000 in the circuit court against the L. J. Smith company, which had the grading contract. The judgment was affirmed by the Kansas City court of appeals March 6, and an appeal was denied today, but Miss Scalapino did not live to receive the benefit of any of the money.

There are three instances in one day's news reports. The newspapers of the country furnish almost daily items of similar instances. There is neither reason nor justice in such a state of affairs. The people realize this, and so do some of the courts, which are refusing to consider technical hair-splitting as a fair means of obtaining true decisions.

THE DYNAMITER AND THE LAW.

Within the last year or two there have been a number of instances in which public buildings or private structures of one kind and another have been damaged by explosions of dynamite. There has been evidence in many of these cases that showed conclusively that the explosion was due to the deliberate work of some individual or individuals. Yet it is rarely that anybody is brought to justice for such an action.

It seems strange to the onlooker that this should be the case. Dynamite is stuff that cannot be handled effectively by anybody who happens to pick it up. There must be knowledge of how it exerts its destructive power, and of how to place it and set it off. Neither is it a commodity that is to be found lying around loose in any community. And again, it is a substance of which the average man stands in wholesome fear. Therefore the one who uses it for any purpose must be accustomed to its use, or must have had means of becoming well informed as to its adaptation and properties. All these things would seem to operate to make the tracing of the source of the explosions much more simple than is the case in the more ordinary crime of burglary or even of murder.

Another element that enters into dynamiting cases is the havoc wrought by such explosions. Assuredly the number of persons who would desire to wreck a building or a bridge, even though there might be no peril to human life in the act, must be limited. What motive could exist for such an act? Here again the field is so limited that it would seem as if it should be a comparatively easy matter to trace the responsibility.

It is often asserted that there should be more severe punishment meted out to men who engage in such an enterprise. Even that the example of Pennsylvania and other states in regard to attempts at wrecking trains, which in those commonwealths is punishable by death, should be followed in cases of dynamiting. But there is little object in this, unless one can first catch the dynamiter. A severe penalty has no terrors when a man can easily escape it entirely.

There is something queer, something almost uncanny in this frequent escape to safety of the guilty parties in dynamiting outrages. Whatever the cause, it will be a matter for congratulation when some official finds a means of running down the culprits and bringing them to justice. With the increasing frequency of such acts noted in the last year or two, such a means cannot be found any too soon.

THE AVERAGE CITIZEN AND GRAFT.

In an article in the current number of The Outlook, entitled "Is Democracy a Failure?" C. Norman Fay quotes a "veteran" public service man of Chicago, who, by the way, he does not name, as follows:

"The American people like grafters; they are all grafters themselves at heart, essentially dishonest, lazy and careless of their civic duties. Look at the shifting hordes of cheap politicians that they send year after year to the legislature, the city councils, even to congress, always changing but always grafting; the idle, incompetent and dishonest employes, drawing double pay for half work, now Democrats and now Republicans, but never any good; the vice-protecting police, the 'fixed' juries, the bungling legislation, the weak administration, the stinking corruption turned up all over the land from Atlantic to Pacific, wherever one strikes in the pick of investigation. Do you suppose the people would choose such governors if they did not like them? A representative government must fairly represent the mind and morals of the average citizen; a mind too small for the large affairs of the community, and morals too easy for its healthful control. The fountain cannot rise higher than its source."

That is not exactly a pleasing or a pretty conception of the minds and morals of the inhabitants of the "land of the free and the home of the brave." At first blush it would seem to have been dictated by a generous dinner of hot biscuits and warm pastry. Even though one may feel forced to admit that there is some truth in some of the statements of fact, such as the assertions that grafters are elected to office and that their kind are not confined to any particular political camp, there cannot be truth in the interpretation of motives which this unnamed person reads into the admitted circumstances.

One often-cited evidence of this fact is contained in his own statement, for he admits that such methods as these are followed by investigations. If the American people were content to let things go on in that way they would not bother about investigating anybody. Neither, if the people as a whole, if the average citizen, were steeped in and content with the spirit of graft and dishonesty, would the recurring discoveries of graft and corruption cause the stir they do throughout the country. Dishonesty never is shocked by dishonesty.

It possibly is true that, to some extent, the average citizen "has an eye to the main chance." But it is not true that he is ready to practice or condone dishonesty, either in private or public affairs. If that were the case no "reformer" would have even the slightest chance of success. Yet, see how strong a fight that element can and does make, and how often the man who makes honesty his war-cry is given popular support and public trust.

Perhaps this "veteran," being concerned in public service operations, was given opportunity to see only that darker side of American political life. It is to his class that the grafter makes his first and most often repeated appeal. Certainly he got but a distorted view of the "average citizen." If he doubts it, he might try running for some public office on a platform of graft and dishonesty, and see where he gets off at.

WONDERINGS NEVER CEASE.

Go into any drygoods store in town and stand a few minutes, and it's ten to one you will hear some woman say: "I wonder how that piece would go with my tan suit," or words of similar import. Go into a cigar store or other place where men are given to standing around and talking and you will hear somebody say: "I wonder who's going to get the pennant this year." Stand behind the chair of a school boy as he wrestles with a problem in mathematics, and after awhile you will hear him mutter: "I wonder if that's right." And if you could read the mind of the business man as he sits at his desk or walks the floor while considering his business and his methods, you would find there time and again the thought: "I wonder how that would turn out."

This wonder business is the most active occupation of mankind. The employer wonders whether he could save expenses; the employe wonders when he is to get a raise, the housewife wonders where the children are and what they are up to; the teacher wonders if the day is as long as it feels; the tired man wonders if he'll wake up in time and the wakeful man wonders if morning will ever come; the millionaire wonders if his dinner will agree with him and the tramp wonders where he's going to get his next meal; the baby wonders why mother or father or nurse is so cross, and the parent wonders what his children will be like when they grow up. And so on, ad infinitum, multum in parvo, fortissimo, pianissimo, generalissimo, chile con carne and all the rest.

And once in awhile somebody pops up and says in a meditative tone: "I wonder what it's all about, anyway." And immediately there is a babble of voices, some repeating his question, some trying to answer it, some laughing at it, some sneering at it—until finally the tumult and the shouting dies and the old game goes on again the same as ever.

It seems as if old Omar hit the nearest to the truth of any of them when he wrote that about being "hither hurried, whence," and "whither hurried hence." But Omar missed out on the biggest feature of all, and so do most of the other questioners. To put it in their favorite form, one might say: "I wonder why it is that when a man spends his time and his effort in doing his level best at whatever line of work he is in, at helping others when he gets a chance, or making a chance when none comes of itself, when he thinks cheerful thoughts and does only the things that are upright and honorable—I wonder why it is that his life seems worth living no matter how much of a fizzle other people's lives seem to be."

Now that is kind of queer, when you come to think of it. All around us we see things going as we are sure they shouldn't go; we see mean men prospering financially, and we see petty dishonesty and sometimes dishonesty that isn't petty, apparently thriving. We see others honoring men whom we despise and believe we have good reason for despising. And we see a lot of other things that are enough to upset faith in human nature. And yet, it's true that those cheerful, steady, honorable people seem to have the best of it.

It all sort of makes one wonder if the reason, if we could only see it clearly, isn't that we're here, not just "because," but for some kind of development that is best accomplished by right living and kindliness and thought for the welfare of others. Everything we see develops. It seems to be a law of nature. Well, we are a part of nature, and so it is reasonable to suppose that we are intended to develop, too. And somehow, the only kind of development that seems to amount to anything is that that comes with honor and cheerfulness and all that. So maybe there isn't anything so full of wonder in our being here and being as we are, after all. Anyway, one can't help wondering, sometimes, if that isn't the truth of the matter.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

PROTESTS AGAINST NEW COUNTY JAIL PROJECT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I note that the county board has decided that the workhouse is too expensive. The expenditure of about a quarter of a million dollars for a new jail is preferable to the expenditure of a few thousands for a workhouse or a work farm, I presume.

I would like to see the suggestion that a workfarm be established adopted. Cooping men up in jail doesn't do them any good. The whole penal system of this country is wrong and if the counties and municipalities don t start to correct it, the states will certainly not begin to act. The people should rise up and assert that they don't want their money spent to build a palatial jail for the housing of vagrants and drunkards. Let the unfortunate men have the benefit of the open air and good hard work that will make them understand that there is something in life besides loafing and living at the expense of society.

Duluth, April 7.

THE EASTER CHICK.

Washington Star: Pity the Easter chicks! The life of a little chick is hard at best. It must put forth vigorous efforts to break through the shell. Its coat of yellow down, or it may be black, is thin covering for a chill wind or a wet day. It has many infantile diseases to face, the pip and a long list of others, the names of which may be found in a poultry book. Its mother may be a fussy, quarrelsome old hen, who may never have attended a mothers' meeting and knows no more about raising chickens than some people who expect to make a fortune at it. In brooding the flock she may leave some little fellow outside the embrace of her maternal wings, and death claims it as his own. The chick must keep a wary eye on cats and hawks, and be on constant guard against the weasel and the rat. The chick has troubles of its own.

It should not be compelled to exhibit itself in a show window at the happiest season of the year. It is cruel to have it pecking around a window, deluded by some electric light into the belief that the noon sun is shining. The chicken is a domestic bird and it is not its habit to keep late hours. It not only believes in the old saw, "Early to bed and early to rise," but if given the chance will practice on the belief. Exhibition chicks, that is, Easter show-window chicks, nearly always die young. They cannot stand the pace of night life in a great city.

In Philadelphia officers of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have sent warnings to those dealers who sell live chicks during the Easter holidays. It is a cruel business. Few rag dolls, china dolls or Teddy bears long survive as playthings for a child, and a little chicken soon turns up its toes. The Philadelphia S. P. C. A. will appeal to the public not to buy Easter chicks, and will make a test case in the matter of any man caught selling them. A New York court two years ago convicted a man of cruelty to animals who sold newly hatched chicks for Easter toys and favors.

How Do Americans Pop?

San Francisco Chronicle: St. Petersburg—A Russian journal gives the following collection of marriage proposals typical of different nationalities:

A Russian—Natasha, my little dove, soul of my soul, I love you with my whole heart, with my whole being. I love you madly. I will love you unto death, and should troubles befall us, my love will conquer everything. Be mine, oh, Natasha!

A Frenchman—You are divine, ideal. Today I will press my suit before your parents, and you, my fairy, you will become my wife.

An Englishman—I am about to start on a long voyage and I shall be very lonely. I wonder if you would care to marry me and let us make this journey together?

A German——Fraulein, you are a notable woman. You have read and understood my book. I cannot tell you how much I admire and esteem you. May I dare to offer you my hand?

An Italian—Cara mia, you are fairer than the blushing dawn. Your voice is more melodious than the soft wind. Oh, let me kiss those dark locks of yours, and let those heavenly eyes not spurn me, for otherwise I must die. Live without you I cannot.

A Montenegrin—You are a handsome and a good girl. If you will marry me I will cut off two Turks' heads and lay them at your feet.

A Mouse Bullied a Cock.

New York Herald: One of the clowns with the Barnum & Bailey circus, now playing in Madison Square Garden, has for a pet a bantam rooster which will fight anything from an aunt to a locomotive, but when it comes to battling with a mouse he scratches and lies down for the full count of the referee.

Mr. Bantam was sleeping calmly in the cage with the baby giraffe in the menagerie yesterday afternoon when a mouse came nibbling around the cracked corn which the rooster had laid away for a rainy day. The gaze of the mouse and rooster met and the rooster took to the bars of the cage, but they were slippery and would not hold him, but not deeming himself far enough away from the mouse he took a few hops and alighted on the baby giraffe's head, where he perched with the air of a war strategist.

The mouse seemed to enjoy the performance and went on nibbling the corn, while the baby giraffe seemed possessed of the notion that she had received a new Chanteclear bonnet for Easter and wore it proudly.

A Prince Who Can Dance.

Boston Herald: Prince George of Servia is an intrepid dancer. It seems that etiquette forbids the cessation of a dance while his royal highness is on the floor. Recently the prince outdid himself. "The dance went on until the majority of the dancers presented a lamentable sight," according to the report of a foreign correspondent. "Half fainting, they ran after the prince regardless of step or time, and oblivious of all but the risk of being trampled on or dashed against the wall." The prince ignored timid remonstrances. He shouted to his friends: "Never give in! Show your mettle!" He ordered the orchestra to double the time. At last the conductor feigned sickness and the music stopped. "Next day many of the guests were confined to bed, too exhausted, even, to partake of food. Prince George went for a ride on a spirited animal, and complained to a comrade of the little opportunity for adequate exercise to be found in Belgrade.

Heber C. Kimball of Salt Lake City, as described by Artemus Ward, would have enjoyed the scene. "I am told he is a loose and reckless dancer, and that many a lily-white toe has felt the crushing weight of his cowhide mokitors."

Decline of Australian Rabbit Industry.

The Lancet: The rabbit industry in Victoria is stated to be slowly but surely disappearing. The first export of frozen rabbits was made in 1894, in which year 14,928 rabbits were sent to England. Next year the total was 431,716. In 1900 the total was 5,678,224, and in 1905, 10,258,556. Since that year the total has gradually declined till last year it had come down to 2,841,648 rabbits exported. Exporters and agriculturists alike are pleased at this result. The former have all their available freezing plants occupied with meat and butter and cheese, while the latter view the gradual extinction of the rabbit pest with composure.

An Indiana Rendering.

Valparaiso Messenger: Abbie Mae Harding rendered a solo Sunday at the church which was very affectionate.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Why Stay at Home.

Pine County Courier: James A. Tawney says that representatives to congress should not be ruled by the will of the people, but should be left to use their own discretion. Other representatives thought the same way about it and that is why the voter had them stay at home, where they ought to be as soon as they imagine that they are more important than all the people.

A Legislative Graft.

Royalton Banner: We understand that there is no law on the statute books legalizing the payment of claims in contest cases by the state. It seems to be a legislative graft of the most vicious sort that enables every cheapskate who enters a campaign to get his name before the public without paying a cent. If some of our modern gladiators of the legislative body would attack this evidence of rottenness instead of some of the fool propositions they waste their time over, they would strike a much warmer spot in the hearts of the taxpayers. But of course this would not be "senatorial courtesy."

Now Working Together.

Red Wing Republican: It's a queer turn of political affairs that the progressives and ex-Speaker Cannon are found fighting reciprocity shoulder to shoulder.

Party Platforms.

Foley Independent: Most of the legislators think that the only function of a party platform is to serve as a sort of wind shield during the campaign.

A Credit to His State.

Perham Enterprise: New York Democrats are to be congratulated on electing Judge O'Gorman to succeed Chauncey Depew in the United States senate. He is one of the foremost jurists of the Empire state, and a man of irreproachable character who will prove a credit to his state and nation in the United States senate.

Parcels Post Argument.

Buffalo Journal: Among the arguments for a parcels post no one has yet suggested that there would be a great gain in promptness in delivery of packages. The chief reason for paying the very high prices for express service is to save time in delivery over freight, but express moves very slowly. A letter travels from Buffalo to Detroit, Mich., in about thirty hours, by express it takes seven days, and the only difference between the freight and express is in the price.

A Splendid Character.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Dean Pattee, the head of the law college of the state university, has been called to the Great Unknown. His passing is the earthly exit of one who played well his part in life. He was a man of ability, splendid character, who loved his fellow men, and had faith in his fellows. He was a student, an able and logical speaker, and was known throughout the state. He had a high conception of the principles of his profession, of law, and he was in the true sense an educator. Personally he was endowed with a charm that held his friends, and their respect and affection grew with the years of their acquaintance with him. He was really an ideal citizen, and no greater praise can be said of any man.

EASTER.

Milwaukee News: A subscriber at Clinton, Wis., has asked the Daily News why Easter falls on April 16 this year.

Easter is a movable feast closely associated with the Jewish Passover, which accounts for the likening of Christ to the Paschal Lamb. Hence for the first centuries of the Christian church the resurrection was celebrated at the close of the Jewish Passover season.

The Christians, having chosen to begin their week on the day of the resurrection, following the words of St. John, "on the first day of the week came Mary Magdalene and the other disciple whom Jesus loved, to the sepulchre," leaders in the church came to the belief that Easter should fall on a Sunday, regardless of the day of the month, instead of on the closing day of the Passover, regardless of the day of the week. This decision was not followed uniformly, and for seventeen centuries there were differences of date for this feast day, and even today the Greek church observes a different date from that observed by the Roman and Protestant churches.

After several centuries of discussion and several changes in the arrangement of the calendar, the Roman and Protestant churches, about A. D. 1750, adopted the present rule for determining the date of Easter. Now Easter falls on the Sunday next following the fourteenth day of the Paschal or vernal moon, which is the first moon after the vernal equinox, which is March 21. In fact the calendar moon is not the real moon, but takes its date about two days in advance of the real moon.

By this rule Easter cannot come earlier than March 22, or later than April 25. This year the first moon after the vernal equinox is new on March 30, reaches its fourteenth day or is full on April 13, which is Thursday—Thursday when corrected to the date of the religious calendar moon—hence Easter is on the Sunday following, which is April 16.

In this connection it is interesting to note that although Easter celebrates the event on which Christianity is founded, its name, like the names of most of the Anglo-Saxon or Teutonic religious festivals, is taken from the old Teutonic mythology and is derived from Eostre or Ostara, one of the Norse goddesses of spring.

This correspondent also asks if Sundays are included in Lent. No. Sunday, the "first day of the week," made the Christian holy day on account of the resurrection taking place on the first day of the week, is always a feast and so is not included in the forty days.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Peace hath her victories—after we fight for them.

A woman can act natural if she has no object in view.

There are no medals on the man who poses as his own hero.

Silence may be golden, but silver will often close a man's mouth.

By re-leasing a piece of property a man takes a fresh grip on it.

It's cheaper to be good than it is to hire a lawyer to keep you out of jail.

Sometimes an old bachelor gets tired of one continued round of pleasure, so he gets married.

Often people lead a man to believe that they admire him, when, as a matter of fact, they are only trying to work him.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Next to being good there is the least fun in being sick.

If a man knows anything about selling dry goods he thinks it's about inventing flying machines.

When a bride's relatives begin to visit her it's a sign her husband has forgotten there ever was a honeymoon.

The more pleasure a man could give his family spending a holiday with them the more he'd rather go fishing.

A woman is never prouder of her husband than when, if she goes to church, it rains and her husband comes to meet her at the door with an umbrella so the congregation can see it.

Editor's Patience Exhausted.

Oakland City, Ind., Journal: If you violate the law you need not ask the Journal to suppress the news, because it will not be done. Court records are public property and of public concern. If you don't want the news published when it concerns you, you will have to quit making news that the public is interested in. The Journal makes this statement of its position now that the people of this community may be governed by it in the future. The frequency of bequests to suppress news in the last few weeks has worn our patience to the breaking point. If such requests are made in the future they are liable to be answered with more details and heavier headlines than would otherwise be given, and the statement will also be made that the parties involved asked to have the news suppressed.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Always on the Go.

"My husband keeps asking, 'When are you going to come to a halt? You've been ging on like this for the last fifteen years, and I see no prospect of your letting up.'"

The speaker was a buxom, genial women, who looked as if she might have just come from a meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union and be on her way to a gathering of the sewing society, to be followed later in the day by a church supper for which, as chairman of the committee, she was carrying a special responsibility. Meanwhile one pictured her husband as hungering for a little more of the old-time sociability around the fireside in the days before the wife had her fingers in so many pies.

This was a country woman. Her city sister is another type of the restless, ubiquitous woman of the period. Her activities may be quite outside of church circles and include a round of social galeties, the participation in a number of clubs with perhaps just a dash of philanthropic work to salve her conscience. Possibly her husband, too, grows hungry for her companionship, and maybe the children see more of their nurses than they do of the one who bore them, reminding us of the famous cartoon of a small boy crying on the doorsteps of his own home, who, when asked why he didn't go in, said: "The door is locked. Nobody is at home. Ma is at a mothers' meeting."

But this mania for going somewhere is not confined to one sex. It is characteristic of our stirring, progressive times when the majority of people have more engagements than they can profitably meet, when they flit from one entertainment to another, when they are hardly through any one thing before they say, "What next?"

And we have to confess frankly that most people like it. They may read approvingly books on the simple life, but they would prefer to have their neighbors practice it. They have no desire to live in some remote hamlet, away from the telephone and the trolley car. They say that life is much richer and more interesting when one is doing something or going somewhere.

And it must be admitted that it is idle to expect a general return to the simplicity and quietness of earlier days in the life of this great republic. We hae not multiplied our sources of enjoyment simply to abandon them all or to stigmatize them as harmful. Nevertheless, to be carried away by the tendency of our age, to be caught in the swirl of many activities is to lose one's individuality, one's power of repose, and ultimately one's best self.

Always on the go, but what are we going to do when we get to the end of the road? The limited will take you from one great city to another in a good deal less time than the slower trains require, but the main question is not how long it takes you to get to a place, but what you are going to do when you get there. Shall you employ the time saved in worthy and useful ways? This "going to things" is but an incident, a method, a mere procedure. The main thing is the goal. To go to things simply because others are going and you don't want to lose anything others may be getting, to go to things simply to keep moving is to abrogate the functions of choice, of nice discernment between what is worth while and what is trivial. People who "go to things" ought to learn to discriminate between the bad and the good, and between the better and the best.

When "going to things" destroys our relish for a quiet time at home with the children or with the husband or wife or with the grandparents or with some old friend, then beware. Mr. Fletcher, the expert on mastication, says that when a man ceases to enjoy a slice of bread, when his palate calls constantly for higly seasoned viands, something is the matter with his digestion or is going to be the matter with it ere long. When you have exhausted the ability of a good book, of a quiet hour of meditation, of a service in church, or a walk alone or with a congenial companion through lovely woods to yield you real enjoyment, something is the matter with your mental and moral state, you are acquiring intellectual dyspepsia and your moral fiber is becoming impaired.

Everyone disposed to periodic attacks of this modern spirit of restlessness needs to be anchored to things that are never in influx.

THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Life: Cobble—I should like to lend you that $10, old man, but I know how it would be if I did—it would end our friendship.

Stone—Well, old chap, there has been a great deal of friendship between us. I think if you could make it $5, we might worry along on half as much.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Pa, what is artistic temperament?"

"Foolishness that has succeeded in getting itself taken seriously."

Baltimore American: "I hear Mrs. Comeup is feeling very badly on account of being ostracised at that summer resort."

"Did it take?"

Boston Post: "I had not talked to him more than fifteen minutes when he called me an idiot."

"Gee! He didn't violate any speed limit in getting next, did he?"

Life: Briggs—Come, now, do you think that it is honorable to marry a girl that you don't love just because she has money?

Griggs—Honorable? Why, it's necessary!

Boston Transcript: She—So you've been up to see the Browns. Is their new flat very small?

He—Well, they've had to exchange all their statuettes for basreliefs.

Yonkers Statesman: "So you want to marry my daughter, sir?" said the grouchy old man.

"Ye-yes, sir," replied the youth.

"Do you take her for a fool?"

"Oh-oh—n-no, sir. That is not the reason I want to marry her!"

Detroit Free Press: "How uneasy that young man appears."

"Yes. I don't know whether he's afraid they're just going to call on him for a speech or whether he's just breaking in his winter flannels.

Buffalo Express: "That huckster who comes around here is a back number."

"I had thought that he carried a very satisfactory stock."

"Yes, but he sells his apples by the peck, instead of by the dozen."

Judge: Knicker—Did Jones run through a fortune?

Bocker—Quicker. He flew through it.

Chromo Sewing Machines Popular.

Consular Reports: Russians demand highly decorated sewing machines, and the more lacquered work in flowers and fantastic embellishments the better the article pleases. Only by close study of the wants of the people and by adapting the appearance of the machines to their peculiar tastes, such as bright colors, gaudy decorations, lacquering, nickeling and engraving. While the solid golden oak tables and drawers of light color are suitable to the American taste and Western Europe they do not appeal to the Russians, who require that the woodwork be of dark colors, such as mohogany or cherry, even though it is veneer.

A Wood Splitting Contest.

Dryden Herald: Three of the Hyer brothers attempted to break the record for cutting and splitting wood, made several years ago by members of their family. The contest took place at Cortland. The record of the elder brothers was twenty cords in 9 hours and 20 minutes; Saturday's work resulted in nineteen and one-quarter cords in 9 hours and 30 minutes.

At a meeting of the St. Louis county commissioners this morning, H. Smith was elected superintendent of county roads and A. Poirier was made overseer of the poor farm.

P. T. Barnum, the great showman, passed away at Bridgeport, Conn., last evening. He leaves an estate valued at $5,000,000.

About forty members put in an appearance at the annual meeting of the Duluth Boat club at the Spalding last evening. The following officers were elected: President, T. W. Hoopes; first vice president, Page Morris; second vice president, H. M. Peyton; treasurer, E. C. Jones; captain, L. J. Hopkins; secretary, H. D. Pearson; lieutenant, F. W. Parsons; ensign, E. H. Smith; directors, Henry Nolte, C. J. Kershaw and W. B. Silvey. The salary of the secretary was raised to $200 per annum. A committee was appointed to secure a new building site as the present lease expires April 1, 1896.

The Duluth News company held its annual meeting yesterday afternoon and elected the following directors: O. H. Simonds, O. P. Stearns, G. G Hartley, L. Mendenhall and B. F. Myers. Mr. Simonds was made president, vice Clinton Markell, and B. F. Myers was re-elected secretary.

The idea of a ship canal tunnel has been abandoned by the city and the original project of a swing bridge substituted. Excessive first cost is the only reason for throwing aside the tunnel idea. It is probable that the new bridge, on the plan of Albert Boller, which provides for a swing of 200 feet, pier to pier, the swing turntable to be located on the southerly side of the canal, built out a trifle into the stream, will be completed inside a year from this date. The total cost of the work will be about $400,000, and about $250,000 will be levied on the property below the canal that will be benefited.

Contractor Burke, who is driving piles for the Mitchell-McCune and Merrill-Ring sawmills, has decided to locate at West Duluth and leaves tomorrow for Bay City, Mich., to bring his family.

The Phoenix Investment company of West Duluth has elected the following officers: E. W. McCormick, president; J. E. Myers, vice president; S. S. Williamson, secretary; R. Crombie, treasurer.

Bingham, who pitched for the West Duluth baseball team in 1887, is coaching the Harvard nine this season.

N. B. Thayer, land attorney, is out once more after suffering several weeks with a broken leg.

The annual meeting of the Phillips Striking Machine company was held yesterday. Its business was merely nominal.

BUTLER'S MONUMENT

By SAVOYARD.

And again 's old Ben Butler an issue in Massachusetts, where such men as Henry L. Higginson, W. B. Hallowell, Moorfield Storey and James Ford Rhodes, representing much of the tradition and respectability of the old commonwealth, are opposing the erection of a statue at public expense in honor of Old Ben, who was once governor of the state. Here is what Maj. Higginson said:

"It is exceeding cruelty to Gen. Butler, on the part of his friends, to seek this thing again. All his failures and disgraces are matters of history. It is excessive cruelty to ask us to help pay for a statue. The war is over, and we are extending our hands to our Southern brothers. It's an insult to our state; it's an insult to the inhabitants of this country; it's an insult to the old soldiers."

"Mr. Rhodes, a historian, read a brief summary of Butler's war record, in which he gave it as his opinion that as a general Butler was incompetent. 'Butler used his position as major-general to feather his own nest.' He charged that during his occupation of New Orleans he allowed his brother to carry on a trade of great profit in cotton and salt between the North and the South. 'In 1860, when Butler went to New Orleans, he was worth $150,000. In 1868 he was said to be worth $3,000,000.'

"Mr. Rhodes said that he had brought out these facts at the hearing nine years ago, and had then said that unless refuted he would include them in the forthcoming volume of his history. No refutation has ever been received.

"Col. Hallowell read an extract from a speech by Gen. Kilpatrick, delivered in Salem in 1868, in which the speaker attributed the following remark to Gen. Butler, a statement which Col. Hallowell said had never been refuted: 'I am going to Charleston to influence the Democratic party to put into their platform the Dred Scott decision, and I propose to fight it out until I can buy and sell a nigger on the streets of Lowell as I can a pound of tea.'

"Col. Francis B. Hesseltine said: 'Let us have no more monuments in honor of any man who helped put down the rebellion. Time would fail me if I were to tell all the reasons why a statue should not be erected to Gen. Butler. I served under him. What campaign, what battle did he ever win? Failure and defeat is his record during the war."

With more brains than any other Yankee has been endowed with since Rufus Choate, possibly with more than any other since Daniel Webster hiked self, Butler was "outlawed from good society in his own home." Before the war he strove to be governor as a Democrat; after the war he was five or six years an active candidate for the Republican nomination for that office. Finally in 1882 he was elected governor as a Democrat and his administration was a continuous nightmare to blueblood Massachusetts. He was ever a terror to civilians whom he forced to be his enemies, and aristocratic Boston hated him as cordially as did the best element of New Orleans. Among the elect, Wendell Phillips was about his only friend, and the brothers Hoar hated him with the cordiality of the eternal old horned devil himself. The latter Butler was buried, a friend asked E. Rockwood Hoar, Grant's first attorney general: "Judge, did you attend the funeral yesterday?" Quick as a flash came the reply, "No, but I approved of it." The Hoars, father and sons, were famous for a nimble and a caustic wit.

George F. Hoar wrote his "Recollections," and it is a delightful book; but in it is a savage attack on the memory of Butler, the only ill-natured thing in the entire work. But Butler in a war of words was a match for any and all his foes and he returned o.ttimes two Rolands for every Oliver.

There is no doubt that Butler was a pronounced pro-slavery man in 1860 and doubtless it is true that he would have restored African slavery in Massachusetts if the power had been his. And he had illustrious precedent. Roger Sherman, the grandfather of his adversaries—the brothers Hoar—in advocating clause 3, section 2, article IV of the Federal Constitution, said that it was as much a duty to surrender a runaway negro to his master as it was to return an estrayed horse to its owner. It is history that John C. Calhoun was a student at Yale college. It is tradition that while there he was a frequent visitor to the home of Roger Sherman, the leading man of all the New England fathers of the Constitution, and it is not violence to reason to opine that the young Southerner imbibed some of his extreme states' rights views from Sherman, who was a states' rights man of the straightest sect.

Upon his return to Massachusetts after the war, Butler was chosen a member of the Fortieth congress from a district of which he was not a resident. That was in 1866, and immediately after the election he bought a set of the Waverly novels, which he read from lid to lid, while impatiently waiting for the first session of the body to which he was chosen. While serving his first term the president was impeached by the house of representatives. A majority did not want old Ben to have anything to do with the proceeding, but Thad Stevens forced him on the reluctant house and he was made one of the managers. In his book Butler tells how he knew the impeachment was coming and how he read the English state trials to be prepared for it, so far as the law was concerned. With much glee he relates how he tricked the other and hostile managers into giving him the opportunity to go off with all the applause. He said none of them—Boutwell, Bingham, Wilson, Logan or even Stevens himself — knew what a job they had on hand, and he remained mute, though diligently preparing for the emergency. He knew that if he asked to open the case it would be refused him. The others, except Stevens, had their minds centered on summing up. About forty-eight hours before the trial began, at a meeting of the managers, Butler, as if it had just occurred to him, asked: "Look here, who's going to open the case on the part of the managers?" There was consternation in the faces of all of them, and none answered. Then old Ben, in an injured tone and with a disgusted air, remarked like this: "Very well. I see that I was put on this board to do all the drudgery while you fellows get all the glory. But somebody must do it, and as we are greatly pressed for time, I'll now set about the preparation." They all pressed around him to thank him and express their gratitude, though he was stealing all the thunder there was in the case. One of the things for which they impeached the president was bad manners. William M. Evarts, chief counsel for the president, and another grandson of the same Roger Sherman was the grandfather to the Hoars, undertook to show the senate what was the standard of good manners set up by two of the managers of the impeachment—Bingham and Butler—whereupon he read from the Congressional Globe passages from a debate in the house of representatives between these two distinguished disciples of Turveydrop, in which Butler accused Bingham of the murder of an innocent woman—Mrs. Surratt — and Bingham retorted that the rogue of a lawyer Butler, who lived in a bottle and was fed on a spoon, could utter no slander. The matter under discussion was Charity, too, that is kind.

Some years before Butler's death John S. Wise and he were associated as counsel in important litigation before the supreme court, and on the eve of the argument they met at a hotel in Washington and held a consultation that extended far into the night. After they had thoroughly reviewed the case from every standpoint and fixed on a line of presenting it to the bench the papers were bundled up and they fell into social chat. After a while Butler, with some animation, said:

"By the way, Wise, I have at my home a very handsome vase, a fine work of art, that was presented to your father, according to the inscription it bears, but how it ever got into my possession is an insoluble mystery."

"No mystery at all!" roared Wise, "my father's mansion was over in Accomac county, near Fortress Monroe, and you stole it while you were in command down there."

Butler burst into a hearty laugh and said: "Perhaps you are right; but at any rate I shall make complete restitution by returning it to you," which he did upon his return home.

After eight years in congress Butler was defeated for re-election in 1874 and it is simple truth to say that the election of no man to the presidency of the United States occasioned such joy to his supporters as that defeat of Butler to the Democrats, North and South. His successful competitor was a man named Thomspson, "with a p," who was a most thoroughly advertised man the winter of 1874-75.

In the five-minute debates Butler had not his match in congress the ten years he was a member, for he was again elected in 1876. The scorpion lash of John Young Brown, was but an episode, as was the terrific excoriation by John Mitchell, the Irish patriot, closing with "beast, brult, devil!" But in the discussion of a public measure in a running debate on the floor Butler was the first man in congress as long as he was a member. If Stevens had not become superannuated before Butler appeared, or if Ben Hill had not been transferred to the senate upon the very date of Butler's re-entry into the house, a different story might be told. But Hill was partial to a set speech, Butler to a running debate.

There was a man in Kentucky, who, in running debate, was a match for Butler or anybody else—Humphrey Marshall. He had served in congress before the war and was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Forty-first congress in 1868. His successful competitor was young, eloquent, brilliant. While they were canvassing, the hot month of August, 1868, the late Senator Lindsay met old Humphrey on the streets of Louisville and asked him how he was getting on discussing issues with the young man.

"Discussing H—!" exclaimed the old fellow, who was less than six feet and weighed 400. "Discussing! Old as I am, I would sooner undertake to hem a sparrow in the trial began at a conference than to try to bring that young man to a discussion!" And off the old fellow went, mopping his brow.

If Humphrey Marshall had had the exalted character of Joseph R. Underwood, or Simon Bolliver Buckner, or John C. Breckinridge, there is no telling to what eminence he might have attained. As lawyer or debater he never met his master.

He was an inveterate gambler, and this story is told of him. When he was a member of congress some dozen score years ago, one day in the early afternoon he entered the famous Pendleton's place, which was deserted by patrons because of the raging of the impeachment—Bingham and Butler—whereupon he read from the Congressional Globe passages from a debate in the house of representatives between these two distinguished disciples of Turveydrop, in which Butler accused Bingham of the murder of an innocent woman—Mrs. Surratt — and Bingham retorted that the rogue of a lawyer Butler, who lived in a bottle and was fed on a spoon, could utter no slander. The matter under discussion was Charity, too, that is kind.

THE REVIVAL OF SCOUT CRAFT

Boy Scouts of America 400,000 Strong—A Tip Declined Leads to Big Results—Scout Movement a Peace Force.

By JAMES E. WEST,
Executive Secretary, Boys' Scouts of America.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

A Chicago publisher, W. D. Boyce, was lost while wandering about in the streets of London. After some bewilderment, a youth came up, saluted, and asked if he might direct him. Mr. Boyce cheerfully accepted the service. After being helped to his destination, he tried to reward him but the boy promptly saluted and said 'No sir! I am a Boy Scout and boy scouts never accept tips." Mr. Boyce asked further information and was directed to the office of Gen. Baden-Powell, who is the leader of the Boy Scouts in Great Britain.

Upon reaching New York, he gathered together a group of men and placed at their disposal $1,000 a month for four months to take the preliminary steps for the organizing of the Boy Scouts in the United States which is how the movement was brought to this country.

Geographically speaking the scope of the Boy Scouts of America is as extensive as the territory of the United States. Although the movement formally had its actual start June 1, 1910, by Oct. 1 there were scouting organizations in every state in the Union and in our three dependencies, the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands and Porto Rico. The idea has swept our land like wild-fire and at the present approximately 500,000 boys and 3,000 men as scout masters have been enrolled in the movement.

It is almost impossible to conceive of a single place of any importance in the United States that has not been touched by the genius of the movement.

The Boy Scout movement is essentially American. After two and a half years of experience in England and her colonies, the idea was brought back to its native soil, the United States. Many of the biggest men in the country, those who were at the head of most of our larger movements, believe that the Boy Scouts idea offers to America the greatest opportunity to raise the qualities of the boy and the man in all phases of life. President Taft has consented to serve as honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America.

Speaking in the terms of boyhood, the scope of the Boy Scouts of America is equal to the interests of boyhood itself. Between the ages of 12 and 18 the interests of a boy are general and reach all the way from the catching of minnows and tadpoles to finding God in the stars.

The Boy Scouts of America aims to supplement the various existing educational agencies such as the state, church, home, school, boys' club, Sunday school, boys' brigade, Y. M. C. A., Young Men's Catholic association, Young Men's Hebrew association, etc. Its recreational activity may be classified under scout craft, camp craft, tracking or observation, woodcraft, chivalry, life saving, health, patriotism.

The aim of the Boy Scouts of America is to promote the ability in boys to do things for themselves and for others. It seeks to teach a boy resourcefulness by a knowledge of wood craft and out-door life; it seeks to make him strong and healthy; it seeks to make him chivalrous and to do little kindly deeds daily for someone else; it seeks to teach him life-saving; it seeks to teach him patriotism and citizenship so that as a member of the nation he may give gladly of himself for the proper discharge of his duties as a citizen.

The Boy Scouts of America seeks to organize representative groups of men called local committees or councils in the various states and towns. Under the direction of this local council men over 21 years of age are secured as scout masters or scout leaders. Each becomes the leader of a troop which consists of at least three patrols. A patrol of scouts numbers eight, the eighth member being an older boy and the patrol leader. This arrangement guarantees adequate leadership and recognizes the gang instinct.

The scout idea takes the non-supervised leisure time of boys and fills it with recreational and educational activities. It teaches him facts about nature and citizenship and how to get the most out of life. At the present time all over the country there are insistent demands for field secretaries to organize and promote the work.

The scout idea is a peace movement. Every possible precaution has been taken to guard against it being likened to a military movement. We do not permit arms. The boys are not allowed to carry guns even in connection with the camp activities. Before he becoems a scout he must take the scout's oath, thus:

"On my honor I promise that I will do my best—

1. To do my duty to God and my country.

2. To help other people at all times.

3. To obey the Scout law."

And then after he has qualified he is put in the class of the tenderfoot, and after he has compiled with certain specified conditions, he is entitled to wear the badge of a tenderfoot. After thirty days of further study, if he passes a satisfactory examination and shows that he has a bank account of at least $1, he is entitled to receive promotion as a second class scout. After waiting another period and complying with certain conditions, he can become a first class scout. The whole field of scout activity is then open to him. If he desires to become proficient in any one line he can make a special study with a view of qualifying to pass the test which will entitle him to a merit badge for which he has to pay himself. Nothing is given the boy. We insist that he either pay for the badge out of his own allowance, or earn the money. We discourage the endowment of groups of boys by wealthy people.

The outlook before the movement is most promising. The 4,000 leaders can be multiplied and remultiplied before our task shall have been accomplished. Great though our outreach has been, the vast scope of territory of the United States seems to promise a larger chance for the application of the scout principles than any other country at present working with the idea. At the present time the scout idea has been taken up in nineteen different countries.

IN THE LITERARY WORLD

The country has been flooded with novels dealing with conditions in the South in the half dozen years immediately preceding the Civil war, the period covered by that struggle, and the years of reconstruction. The author of "The Prodigal Judge" goes back farther, to 1835, and gives us a picture of life in the interior of North Carolina and Western Tennessee at that time. The story has to do with the middle classes rather than with the planters and commercial interests. There might have been added many details of the lives of these people that would be interesting, but since the evident purpose of the writer was to portray particular characters rather than to "write up" the life of the times, and since he accomplishes his purpose to a reasonable degree, one can hardly quarrel with him for not paying more attention to matters that really had little to do with the story itself.

The handling of the central character is somewhat out of the ordinary. One finds one's interest in the earlier pages centered about the fate of a small boy who is left alone in the world through the death of the man who had been furnishing the means for his support. As the story develops, new characters come on the scene until the full personnel of the plot is revealed, but meanwhile interest centers principally in the boy, and it is not until one nears the end that the realization comes of a change of interest, a change that has subordinated the youngster, the chief performers in the love-drama and even the actors in the wider plot against the existing social system, to the character of the judge.

The judge himself is not a particularly valuable addition to the list of fictitious personages. He is shown as a man of great ability and considerable strength of character, who, suffering from experiences which are not revealed to us until near the end of the book, abandons himself to the weaknesses of the world about him and abuses the social order that refuses to rate him above his own valuation of himself as that valuation appears in his daily life. Even his first recorded act of kindness, directed toward the lonely boy, is prompted by selfishness and a debased appetite. It is not until the boy has won a place in the man's heart that the restoration of the better side of the judge's character begins.

When finally the judge realizes that he has something to give him a purpose in life the transformation becomes more rapid, but it takes a serious shock to arouse the prodigal to the exercise of his full power in his own reformation. Whatever lesson may be claimed for the story is, that neither consciousness of ability nor opportunity will suffice to make a man accomplish things and live up to his possibilities, unless they are accompanied by some interest that prompts him to effort; but that, given that interest, he may win the greatest victory of all, a victory over himself.

There is plenty of incident in the story—attempts at kidnaping and abduction, chases between the rougher characters of the country; a murderous assault in a lonely tavern; a plot to arm the slaves and incite them to an uprising; a duel; a fight on the water, and a sensational scene in a court room.

As a pure character sketch "The Prodigal Judge" falls short of what it might have been, for it deals with many incidents that have no actual connection with the central figure. As a historical novel it pictures conditions and scenes rather too vaguely to be of great value. But as a story that will hold the interest both through its plot and the manner of its relation, it is entitled to find favor with the reading public.

A simple, short, and pleasing story, evidently intended primarily for little ones who have advanced but a short way into the world of printed matter, but one that will prove thoroughly enjoyable to grown-ups as well. The scene, as nearly as it can be located, is laid in Childhood. The story is that of "Bessie Bell," a little girl who was left alone in the city where she lived was stricken with the scourge of the fever. The style is much like that of Kipling's Jungle Stories. It is pleasantly quaint, yet clear, and is marked by the repetition of phrase that is dear to the childish mind. An admirable gift book.

FOUR YEARS UNDER MARSE ROBERT. By Maj. Robert Stiles. New York and Washington: The Neale Publishing company. $2.00.

A new edition of a book that can hardly fail to interest the student of history, the reader of anything more than light fiction, and the veteran of any war. It tells the experience and impressions of a member of the Confederate army who was in more or less direct touch with Gen. Robert E. Lee through the greater part of the great war, and gives a wonderfully clear picture of the men who were ready to lay down their lives for the cause of the South. It is not rabidly partisan, as have been some other publications from the same house. The writer evidently tries to see both sides of the questions over which the two great armies fought, and it cannot be denied that he succeeds admirably in that purpose.

What makes the account doubly interesting is the fact that the writer was a resident of the North at the time the crisis came. His father, brothers and himself went to the South, and entered the army of the Confederacy. We are thus given an insight into the views of those who, though they might reasonably have been expected to sympathize with the Union cause, felt impelled by their beliefs to ally themselves with the opponents of the Union.

Far from being the least interesting portion of the book is that part devoted to a Southern estimate of Gen. Grant and his methods. In this Maj. Stiles is generous to the enemy, and his statement regarding the Federal commander shows not only the character of the subject as it was seen by the men he was fighting, but gives a yet clearer idea of the intensity of the Southerner's devotion to the cause of secession.

The style of the book is admirable. It is rather conversational in character, and leaves the impression that one has been talking directly to the author instead of reading his words. The account of the four years is full of incident, but such paragraphs are not roughly dragged in. They seem to belong naturally where they are found, and they are invaluable as illustrations of points the author seeks to impress.

With the bitterness of the long struggle all but forgotten, this view of the war as it appeared to "our friend, the enemy," is valuable both as a work of history and as a means to a more intimate view of features of a critical period in our country's life which hitherto have been unrecognized by the Northern people. It is well calculated to avoid the stirring up of sectional feeling. It presents the men from both North and South as fellow-beings, and helps materially to an understanding of the best elements that enter into the American character.

A complete handbook for art metal workers, giving every detail for making a great variety of useful and ornamental objects, such as book ends, desk sets, arts and crafts jewelry, hinges, drawer pulls, paper knives, letter openers, match boxes, tie and pipe racks, pad corners, etc. Like its predecessors in the series, this book is "written as you can understand it." It is plentifully illustrated, and includes diagrams to assist in laying out the work described. It should prove a useful volume to those who care to spend their spare time in "making things."

"The thinning ranks of blue" have been sung and resung by Northern poets, since the first encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Here is a poem taking up the Southern counterpart of a situation with which we of the North are familiar. The verse, as a whole, is rather ordinary, though there are occasional instances of lines of exceptional merit. None of it is as bad as much of the matter of the kind that is inflicted on the public. The author explains that the poem was "suggested by the account given of the decrepit appearance of the Confederate veterans during their march through the streets of Lumberton, N. C., at the unveiling of a monument to the memory of the Confederate dead of Robeson county, May 10, 1907."

Of Books and Writers.

Ralph D. Paine, author of "Ships and Sailors of Old Salem," etc., is now in New York. He came to see his publishers, Sturgis & Walton company, for whom he is writing a volume entitled "The Book of Buried Treasure," and dealing with piratical and other treasure troves which have been lost at sea and sought for the most part by genuine reasonable hopes of success, from the time they were lost or hidden to the present year of grace. Mr. Paine had another reason for this New York sojourn; a one-act play of his is now running in one of the New York vaudeville theaters. He wished to be present at the premiere.

Wells Hastings, joint author with Brian Hooker of the latest success in detective stories, "The Professor's Mystery," is a thoroughbred American. None of his ancestors came over later than 1640, and one of them was the first weary passenger to descend from the Mayflower. He is a New Englander and can eat baked beans and brown bread, but he can not go blisen, and his strongest dislike is the literary tea. He is a breeder and exhibitor of old English sheep dogs. He refuses to smoke Turkish tobacco. His favorite summer sport is swimming, but in winter he gets most of his exercise walking up and down when he writes.

After all, what's in a name! Two books recently published by the Macmillan company bear exactly the same title with the exception that one of them carries the indefinite article "An," while the other does not. And yet two more dissimilar works could not be found than Jaok London's "Adventure" and "An Adventure" by Elizabeth Morison and Frances Lamont. The setting of Mr. London's novel is an island in the South Seas and the story is one in which love, cannibals and finance figure, and excitement runs high. The book by Miss Morison and Miss Lamont (the names by the way being fictitious, and the only fictitious part of the volume) records the extraordinary adventures of two ladies who visited Versailles in 1901 and 1902, and there met with such strange experiences (the truth of which is amply attested) that they have furnished material for wide discussion by leading psychologists.

Harper & Brothers announce that they are reprinting six of their books this week: "The Elements of International Law," by George B. Davis; "The Story of the Rhinegold," by Anna Alice Chapin; "Peter Ibbetson," by George du Maurier; "Josephine," by Ellen Douglas Deland; "For King and Country," by James Barnes; "The Boys of '76," by Charles Carleton Coffin.

The publication of "Fortunata" by the Harpers has occasioned some comment upon the author, Marjorie Patterson. "Fortunata," as is now known, is the first book of a Baltimore girl just out of her teens; in fact, this young Maryland author is more or less of a literary counterpart of Amelie Rives of Virginia. Both are daughters of homes of culture and wealth. In both the literary talent has burst early into bloom; in fact, at so youthful an age as to make the writing of an elaborate work of fiction genuinely remarkable. A continuation of the parallel shows that Italy is the scene of Marjorie Patterson's "Fortunata" and Amelie Rives' "Pan's Mountain," published a few months ago.

Miss Caroline Fuller, the author of "The Bramble Bush," which the Appletons are just publishing, made an early entry into literature, her first story being printed when she was 13 years old. She graduated from Smith college in 1895, and brought out the same year a volume of Smith College stories, which are still popular. Music has always been her chief recreation, and since leaving Smith, where she was leader of the glee club, she has published several songs. She is extremely fond of children and animals, and would rather spend her time playing out of doors with them than in literature, music or society.

Congratulations are pouring in upon Mr. Charles A. Conant, author of "A History of Modern Banks of Issue" (Putnam), upon the fact that congress at the last moment made provision for the adjourned meeting of The Hague conference on international bills of exchange, to which Mr. Conant was last year the sole delegate of the United States. The item was stricken from the appropriation bill in the house on motion of Burton Harrison, son of the celebrated writer; but the banking community throughout the country sent such urgent appals for its restoration that that in the last day of the session, when minutes were worth their weight in gold, Senator Hale of Maine moved to insert it in another bill and Vice President Sherman declared the motion adopted without objection. Mr. Conant played an important part in the deliberations at The Hague, but insisted that he was only carrying out the views which he had set forth in foreign exchange and kindred subjects in the work for which the Putnams have found such a steady sale.

In view of the world-wide interest in the Boy Scout movement, the announcement of an authoritative book on the subject should be enthusiastically received by young America. Rupert Sargent Holland has written a story full of the flavor of the woods and water, and packed with wholesome adventure, entitled "The Boys of Birch Bark Island." It follows the rules of Boy Scouting as laid down by Gen. Baden-Powell and Ernest Thompson Seton, and will be issued by the Lippincott's in April or May.

Among the Magazines.

Among the leading articles in The World Today for April are: "States' Rights and the Senate," a forceful editorial dealing with the present status of states' rights; "The Telent in California," by John T. Bramhall, a strong exhibit of the race problem in California, as connected with the industrial situation; "The Industrial Awakening of the Upper Mississippi," by F. G. Moorhead, an account of the commercial results that will follow the completion of the big dam at Keokuk, Iowa. Other articles are: "The Watch Dogs of the People's Treasuries," by Frederic Irving; "On the Trail of the Emerald," by Walter V. Woehlke; "The Cub," by Thompson Buchanan, retold by Lucy France Pierce; "Our Arctic Boundary," by Thomas Riggs, Jr., and "Mr. R. Tuckerman; "People You Have Heard Mentioned;" "Brightening the Life of the Toiler," by Edward A. Halsey; "Making Cowboys Into Business Men," by Joseph E. Farow; "Caring for the Southern Mill Operatives," by Sloan Duncan Watkins; "Safeguarding Fraternal Insurance," by Clyde Allison Mann; "The Sculptor, Zolnay," by Rowan Douglas; "How a City Acts the Good Brother," by W. E. Williams; "The First Aid Car," by C. L. Edholm.

The leading article in the April McClure's is the story of "How Mrs. Stowe Wrote 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,'" told by her son, Charles Edward Stowe, and her grandson, Lyman Beecher Stowe. Many of Mrs. Stowe's letters telling of her life at that time, and the furore that greeted her great epic on slavery at the time of its publication, are published here for the first time. The latest installment of "Great Cases of Detective Burns" deals with anonymous letters and their writers. "The Newark Factory Fire," by Mary A. Hopkins, tells of the outrageous conditions existing in the factory that where the entire town broke out into lawlessness and lynched a boy, 19 years old, who was a United States deputy marshal attempting to perform his duty. Mr. Baker analyzes the causes which were responsible for this outbreak and fixes the blame on the big breweries and wholesale liquor merchants who abetted the local dealers in breaking the law. Three other articles in this issue are almost of equal importance; they are an article on "The Injustice of Personal Property Taxation," by Albert J. Nock; the second article of the series entitled "The Principles of Scientific Management," by Frederick W. Taylor, the originator of the new scientific theories; and an article by Albert W. Atwood on "The Great Express Monopoly," in which he describes the deal and contract between the United States Express company and the government whereby the latter has been obliged to pay unfair and outrageous profits to the former. "Of Peace and Good Will," by Paul U. Kellogg, is still another notable contribution to this issue. It is an interesting comment on Mr. Andrew Carnegie and his recent gift of $10,000,000 to the cause of international peace. "Indiana Politics," by Kin Hubbard is very funny and "When the World Busts Through," by William Allen White, is a fine political essay.

The April number of Woman's Home Companion is brimful, pressed down and overflowing with the spirit of Easter. It is a riot of joyousness, of truly Easter frocks, of new spring hats, of gardens, music, verse and entertaining fiction. But underneath the sparkle and lightness of the surface attractions of this magazine lies the splendid bed-rock of all its helpful departments and strong special articles. The fiction includes the second part of "The Flight of the Magic Carpet," a charming story of live, adventure and a motor car by C. N. and A. M. Williamson; "Mrs. Benson's Brains," by Anne Warner, a homely little tale of a mother who thought she had very little "brains," but proved the contrary; other contributors are Mary Heaton Vorse, Maude Radford Warren, Grace M. Sissons and Louise Forsslund. An Easter sermon by Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York city, is one of the features. This number also contains an Easter hymn by Richard Le Gallienne, illustrated by Earl Stetson Crawford, and an article on equal suffrage, "Why I Want the Ballot."

There are two novelettes in the April issue of Young's Magazine, presenting a marked contrast in theme and treatment—an idyl of primeval love vs. a study of modern society. The opening novelette, "Lost; A South Sea Eden," by Perry Newberry, is a sort of fairy tale for grown-ups, with love and adventure as the patron elves and gold as the wicked fairy. "Final," by Torquil MacDonald, the second novelette, though interesting and adequately handled, follows more conventional lines. It is the story of a woman in whom social ambition supplants every natural feeling, and who, by her very callous selfishness, defeats her own purpose.

The place of honor in Scribner's Magazine for April is given Sargent's portrait of Robert Louis Stevenson and to the "New Letters" edited by Sir Sidney Colvin. It is nearly twelve years since the two volumes of Stevenson's "Letters" were published. Since that time his fame has continued to increase and Sir Sidney Colvin, believing that a definitive edition of all his letters, including the Vailima letters, rearranged in the order of date, should be published, has included 150 hitherto unpublished. From these a most interesting selection has been made for the magazine. They are Stevenson at his best and every lover of him and his works will be glad to get this new glimpse of his bright spirit. Price Collier's fourth article, "From Mughal to Briton," is a remarkable summary of the origin and growth of English domination in India. Nowhere else in the same space can so much light be found on this most intricate subject. It is the real "Romance of the East." What he has to say about the munity is especially interesting. A. B. Frost, who has been living in France for several years, reappears with a number of most characteristic pictures to accompany "Shooting in France," by Ethel Rose. The shooting population of France really includes a large majority of the men over 16 years of age. Mr. Frost's pictures and those of Guy Rose are reproduced in tint.

The fact that the April Lippincott's contains a new and complete novel by Will Levington Comfort, author of "Routledge Rides Alone," is sufficient to make the magazine of extraordinary interest to the thousands who have enjoyed that "best-selling" book, but in addition that interest is amply "backed up" by the general excellence of the rest of its contents. Mr. Comfort's new novel is called "The Rising Road," and it is characterized by the same strength of plot, vivid scenic effects and excellent character drawing which earned for "Routledge" its well-deserved popularity. The scenes are laid in an island of the Philippines, where the natives are in revolt against the American occupation. The leader of the Filipinos is a renegade Spaniard, with whose daughter the American hero is in love. The road they traverse to happiness is a thorny one, but all turns out happily in the end, nor would the reader have it otherwise. There are seven short stories in the issue and all are so good that it is hard to pick out any that are worthy of special mention.

The Popular Science Monthly for April opens with an article by Prof. John C. Shedd, very fully illustrated with portraits and diagrams. W. E. Safford contributes an account of the work of Edward Palmer, the American botanist and collector. Prof. William Chase of the University of North Carolina writes on Freud's theories of the unconscious, which are at present so prominent in psychiatry. Prof. A. L. Guerard describes from his own experience military service in France. Prof. T. A. Cockerell writes on reality and truth. Prof. H. P. Fairchild on the cost of living and Prof. Graham Lusk, the eminent physiologist, of the use and abuse of alcohol.

Katharine Metcalf Roof's novelette, "The Mask of Truth," is the leading feature of the April number of the Smart Set. This is a story of the present day. The scene is laid in and about New York and introduces a number of characters that are to be met in certain metropolitan circles where something more than mere social position is looked for. This story centers around an international marriage that was an exception to the usual rule, in that the brilliant husband possessed both title and wealth while his American bride had only beauty. The action of the story is rapid and the characters are drawn with the delicacy and sure touch that characterizes this author.

The first April Popular is full of entertaining fiction. Among the stories are the following: A detective novel by William Johnston; a story of Alaska by Roy Norton, a story of the underworld by George Bronson-Howard, a humorous story by Charles R. Barnes, a grim tale of a viking in a modern setting by Herman Whitaker, a mystery story by Anna Katharine Green, a political story by Max Marcin, a whimsical yarn of a pseudo Indian mystic by Charles E. Van Loan, a sea story by Louis Joseph Vance, a college story by Ralph D. Paine, and a cowboy story by B. M. Bower.

H. F. Prevost Battersby, in a new novel, "Last Resort," published complete in the April number of Ainslee's gives a vivid picture of battle in South Africa, between British troops and the natives, a desperate encounter in which the safety of two English women is at stake with the lives of the small force of English. Besides this long story, are in this issue of Ainslee's ten short stories, two articles, and the last instalment of the powerful serial, "The Panther's Cub," by Agnes and Egerton Castle. Margaretta Tuttle tells a strong story of Mrs. Colin Carson's experience with a bounder cad in "For Idle Hands to Do." A reprint of a story of O. Henry's "Rouge et Noir," concerns the fate of a red-haired Irish-American and his loyal little

SAFE BLOWERS MAY HAVE SET FIRE TO SASH FACTORY

Early Morning Blaze Caused a Loss of Nearly $20,000.

Police Find Hole Bored in Safe and Hinges Removed.

Fire, which may have been set by a burglar, early today gutted the plant of the E. N. Nelson Sash & Door factory, Forty-sixth avenue west and Traverse street, causing damage of between $15,000 and $20,000.

In the factory office, where the fire started, the safe had been tampered with. A hole had been bored into it and the knobs on the hinges were removed. Late this afternoon the safe had not been removed from the debris and the police had not yet finished their investigation of the case.

The theory that the authorities are now working on is that the place was entered by burglars at an early hour this morning. It is believed that they bored a hole in the safe with the intention of blowing it. What happened next would be hard to guess. Either the explosive set fire to the office or the thieves accidentally set fire to the place by dropping a match or purposely fired the place to cover up their tracks.

The fire started in the southwest corner of the building and spread rapidly throughout the interior, badly scorching the ceilings, burning the lumber stored in the place and making worthless several new machines. The fire only broke through the roof in one place, this being in the corner where it originated. An investigation has shown that the blaze could hardly have started from defective wiring.

The fire raged for three hours and a half and the firemen from No. 8, West Duluth hall, fought the blaze, finally getting it under control. Mr. Nelson today stated that the plant was practically a total loss and the damage about $18,000, on which there was about $10,000 insurance. The plant was built last year and has only been operating a few months.

RICHTER TWINS ARE WELL KNOWN

They are 3 years old and both have had a string of misfortunes. Last fall Walter fell off a back porch step sixteen feet and was nearly killed. William was sickly and very delicate until he reached the age of 18 months. William weighs thirty-seven pounds and Walter thirty-two. The two youngsters are known by sight to the majority of West Duluthians.

HUGE SCOW LAUNCHED AT DULUTH SHIPYARD

THE ACME.

The new scow Acme, built for the England Towing company at the Marine Engine works of this city, was launched the present week and will soon go into commission. The new scow will be towed by the tug J. L. Williams and will carry pulp wood, ties and posts to points along the north and south shores.

Miss Marion England, daughter of Captain England, broke a bottle of champagne over the bow of the big scow, which was launched in the presence of a large number of people.

The dimensions of the new scow are: Length, 131 feet; width, thirty-four feet; and depth, ten feet.

The machinery of the scow was built by the Superior Iron works. The scow has steel derricks, being the first scow at the Head of the Lakes to be equipped with them, and also has a steam towing machine. It has quarters for twenty men and is one of the most complete scows ever constructed on the Great Lakes.

CHAMP CLARK, SCION OF THE HARD KNOCK

By RENE BACHE in the Indianapolis Star.

Of all men Champ Clark probably offers the best example of what may be accomplished by plain grit, hard work and undaunted courage, without backing of money or influence. Sprung from the plain people. Yes, indeed; and the plainest kind at that. For John Hampton Clark, Champ's father, was an itinerant dentist and went about the backwoods districts of Kentucky on horseback, pulling and tinkering teeth. It was all one to him whether the teeth were those of a human being, a horse, a dog or a cow. He treated them all alike for a modest fee.

This man Clark, the elder, was a good deal of what in these days would be called a "crank." He had a gift for offhand or extempore lecturing, and he would administer instruction by this means at any time to anybody, willing or unwilling, who might come along. His special hobby, however, was religion, and the doctrines he expounded, in intervals of tooth drawing, were of the most intensely hellfire-and-damnation-for-pretty-nearly-everybody variety. Champ remembers them well, for his father on more than one occasion took him along on his professional tours.

Incidentally, the elder Clark was a firm believer in discipline for children, and the beatings he gave to young Champ with a rope's end as punishment for comparatively trifling derelictions were such as to produce a painful and lasting impression. One of the worst of them was bestowed on an occasion when Champ had "played hookey" from school for the purpose of listening to the eloquence of J. Proctor Knott. The orator had been engaged to defend the accused in a murder case of local notoriety and the word-pictures he used in a highly imaginative description of the crime were profoundly interesting to the schoolboy, until his eye happened to meet that of his father on the opposite side of the courtroom.

His mother's name was Beauchamp—properly pronounced, as in England, Beecham—and thus it came about that the boy (destined to become speaker of the national house of representatives) was christened James Beauchamp Clark. But people would insist upon calling him Bowchamp. There was a James B. Clark in every town he came to in his subsequent peregrinations, and so he finally reduced himself to plain Champ.

Kentuckians, the Clarks of half a century ago had a few family feuds on their hands. Some of the Clarks were, rather "bad men," as the phrase is, and somewhat too ready on occasions with a "gun." Champ himself was reluctantly obliged to exchange bullets with an unfriendly person who ventured to "sass" him. This, however, was a mere "shooting scrape," as such things will happen between gentlemen, and not in any proper sense a duel.

Champ has always discountenanced fighting. He hates it. It is true that in boyhood days he engaged in a good many encounters at fisticuffs with other youths who showed him disrespect, but these happenings were unavoidable. A similar spirit of reluctance to engage in overt hostilities inspired his action when, some years later, he was practicing law in the town of Louisiana, Mo. Two notorious "bad men" more or less full of equally bad liquor, came into his office with the intention to "turn it inside out," and started operations by addressing quite a lot of abusive language to Champ's partner. So long as this continued Champ went on reading a law book which, in the absence of clients, had engaged his attention. But when the visitors drew revolvers he yanked out the drawer of his desk, produced therefrom a pair of pistols of the largest caliber, and excluded: "I'm in the fighting for this concern!" Whereupon the intruders were so eager to avoid further disagreeableness that they actually fell downstairs.

When Champ was 14 we find him doing odd jobs for nearby farmers and "clerking" in a country store. When he was less than 15 years old, he got a job as teacher in a rural school and, some of the pupils being older than himself, he "toted" a pair of heavy revolvers to enforce his pedagogic authority. Those were days when, in Kentucky, nothing counted like a "shooting iron." He had made up his mind that he must have a college education. He managed to accumulate by farm work $100. He hid the cash, all in paper notes, in a hole in the wall. Alas! the rats came along and ate it, chewed it up for their nests into fragments so unrecognizable that the treasury could not redeem it.

It was a dreadful blow. But was Champ discouraged? Put the question to that iron jaw which he wears in his photographic portraits. He had the jaw then, just as now. Consequently he went to work in the Kentucky backwoods school, and, supplementing his earnings as a teacher with whatever dollars he could acquire from other sources, at length succeeded in putting away enough to enable him to enter college. At just about this time something quite out of the ordinary happened. A man of the neighborhood known to be worth $30,000, offered to pay for Champ's college course. "Uncle Billy," as folks called him, said that any college would do, in Europe or America. The only condition he made was that Champ should become a clergyman. Champ declined. He said that he must preserve his independence.

Without anybody's help Champ managed to enter Kentucky university when he was 17 years old, and took the first place in his class. Six years later he was graduated with highest honors and a great reputation for Greek at Bethany, W. Va. It had been a long struggle, for in order to pay his college expenses he was obliged to keep on with teaching. He would teach school for a spell, go back to college, return to teaching again and so on until he got through.

His reputation for scholarship was so high that on the very day after graduation he received an offer of the presidency of Marshall college at Huntington, W. Va. Asked to make formal application for the place, incidentally stating his qualifications, he wrote: "To the Trustees: I have just been awarded my diploma at Bethany with highest honors. I am 23 years old, 6 feet 2 inches tall, weigh 170 pounds, am unmarried, a Kentuckian by birth, a Campbellite in religion, a Democrat in politics, and a master Mason."

But Clark, ever since he heard J. Proctor Knott address a jury, had wanted to be a lawyer. His original ambition as a boy was to become a prizefighter, but he got over that idea. Soon tiring of the business of presiding over a college, he took a law course at the University of Cincinnati and then went to Wichita, Kan., to practice. Unfortunately there was a total lack of clients, and after subsisting for eleven weeks on crackers and cheese, so he tells the story, he took a fresh start and landed in the town of Louisiana, in Pike county, Mo. Still the law did not prosper. Champ was obliged to take up teaching again, as principal of a school. Before long he was city attorney. Afterward he became prosecuting attorney of Pike county, and held the job four years, doing some lecturing and farming incidentally.

Champ Clark has written: "I can't remember back to a time when I was not at hard labor of some sort—on a farm, in a store, teaching school, practicing law, serving as a legislator. The happiest hours of my life were when I graduated, when I married and when my children were born; the saddest, when two of them died."

Like his father, Champ is a born teacher and lecturer. During recent summers he has received $1,000 a week for lecturing on Chautauqua circuits. Like his father, also, he is a great student of the Bible, and it has been said of him that he knows the book from cover to cover. He married the daughter of a Missouri planter, Genevieve Bennett, and has had four children. That he spoils his children he freely confesses—his recollection of the severe discipline of his early childhood being such that he cannot bear to punish.

Champ Clark is one of the biggest men in congress physically. Measuring two inches over six feet, he weighs 230 pounds, and his chest girth is forty-five inches. As speaker, he will be the second most powerful man in the United States. He will draw a salary of $12,500 a year and will have the free use of a motor car. But he will be obliged to pay for his own gasoline.

SNAPSHOT TAKEN OF CHAMP CLARK

Champ Clark was "snapped" as he went through Pittsburg the other day. The future speaker of the house was asked whether he was a candidate for president and he replied that he thought the Democratic party would go further and fare worse—and that it probably would. An amusing answer, but one in the making of which Speaker Cannon anticipated his successor. Perhaps Mr. Clark thinks he inherited the remark with the office.

Retires From Business.
John J. Haley, who has been in the restaurant business in Duluth for the last twenty-five years, has closed his place on Superior street and retired from the business to devote his time to other interests. Mr. Haley conducted restaurants at a number of different points in the city and was one of the best known men in Duluth in that line of business.

New Firm Making Good.
Among the progressive establishments that have been added to the growing list of Duluth business houses, none have made greater strides in the matter of popularity and patronage than the Aerial Cutlery Supply, located at 319 West First street. The store is under the able management of J. D. Phillips and carries a thoroughly up-to-date stock of high-grade cutlery and cutlery specialties. It fills a long felt want in the city for an exclusive establishment of the kind. One of the special features of the firm's goods is that every piece bears their brand. The firm does a retail business and supplies a number of salesmen, whose territory covers the northern part of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and which is steadily being extended.

Has Husband Arrested.
Louis C. Sundby was arrested this morning on complaint of his wife, who told the authorities that he had threatened to shoot her, Thursday night. She brought her husband to the police station with her. The authorities believe that his mind is slightly unbalanced. He will probably be arraigned in police court Monday on a warrant asking that he be required to furnish bonds to keep the peace. He doesn't deny that he threatened to shoot her.

To Sell Grass Contracts.
County Auditor Hilden will sell permits to cut grass from county lands on April 11. No bids will be received for less than 10 cents an acre and not less than forty acres can be included in a contract.

Mayor Back From St. Paul.
Mayor M. B. Cullum returned last evening from St. Paul, where he went to attend the sessions of the playgrounds' convention and to confer with members of the state legislature relative to bills of interest to Duluth. He was chiefly interested in that which will give Duluth control of the state dock property near the ore docks. He says that some interests are making efforts to so amend it that its usefulness will be crippled.

M. W. Alworth appeared in municipal court yesterday afternoon and entered a plea of guilty to violating the wheelage tax ordinance. He paid the usual fine of $7.50.

Y. W. C. A. Services.
At the vesper service tomorrow afternoon at the Young Women's Christian association, Miss Ada Campbell will give the last of her series of talks on "The Divinity of Christ." The subject for the day will be, "The Evidences of His Life." Mrs. G. Herbert Jones will sing. The service begins at 4 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. auditorium and all women interested are invited.

Six Patients Discharged.
Judge S. W. Gilpin of the probate court was notified of six dischargers from the state hospital at Fergus Falls today. They are: Frank Brandt, committed in August, 1910; Charles Oja, committed in March, 1909; Estella M. Beier, committed in December, 1908; Christina Anderson, committed in June, 1910; Joseph Anderson, committed in January, 1910. This is the largest number of discharges ever reported from the state hospital to the local probate court at one time. All the patients were declared permanently cured.

John Gately in City.
John Gately of Chicago is in the city inspecting his local store. Mr. Gately is the owner of about forty stores in all parts of the country and spends his time overseeing them. He visits Duluth at least once each year.

Wants a Divorce.
Johanna Maria Lang, 32 years old, wants a divorce from her husband, John Lang, 32 years old. She charges desertion. By the complaint which was filed this morning with the clerk of the district court she claims that they were married in Finland in 1904 and that shortly after coming to this country he deserted.

Mrs. Draper Recovering.
Mrs. Rufus H. Draper, who underwent a severe operation at St. Mary's hospital Tuesday, was reported as progressing very favorably today by Dr. W. H. Magie.

Twenty New Citizens.
Last night in district court Judge Dibell made twenty men citizens of the United States. One man on being asked who was the chief executive of the United States replied: "Governor Eberhart."

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY NEWS

Miss Catherine Morton gave a delightful musical last evening at the home of Dr. Emil Bromund, 1432 East First street. About forty guests were received by Mrs. Bromund and Miss Morton. The rooms were prettily decorated with pink and white carnations.

The program was opened by Miss Bessie O'Brien with "Der Sellitanzer" by Koeling, which she played with good technique and a pleasing manner. "On the Green" was the next number played by Miss Bernice Orr. She showed a good appreciation of the sprightliness of the number which was well brought out in her playing. Louis Dworschak was heard in "The Arrow and the Song," written by Pinsutti, which he sang with fine interpretation and responded to an encore with "Rolling Down to Rio," by German, a rousing number. He was in excellent voice.

Miss Dorothy Mathews played "Under the Leaves" with good full tone and excellent rhythm, and Harold Friedman followed with "Ballade" by Burgmueller, which was executed with musicianly form and in a most finished manner.

"To Spring" by Grieg, was played by Miss Winnifred Tower with good tone quality and sprightly touch.

The next number was a reading by Miss Louise Emerson "Telling the Truth," which was pleasing. Her interpretation of the various characters was very good.

Germaine Emerson was heard with pleasure in "Hovering Butterflies," by Dennee, which she played very well.

Miss Florence Denny contributed two numbers which were among the best on the program. She played the "Norwegian Bridal Procession," by Grieg, in masterly style with good full strong clear notes and splendid shading. She followed this with MacDowell's "Shadow Dances," in which she brought out delightful tone pictures and her use of the pedal was excellent. Her number was most enthusiastically received.

Mr. Dworshak sang as his second number, "Light of Mine Eyes," an Arabic air by Sinden. He threw himself into the spirit of his song and with his strong rich voice was never heard to better advantage. He sang the "Armorer Song" from Robin Hood as an encore, by request.

Miss Margaret Clark closed the program with Beethoven's Sonata in C Major, which was probably the best number on the program. She played with a finished technique and good classic style.

Mrs. Louis Dworshak played the accompaniments.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Atwood were hosts at a delightful musical last evening at their home in Hunter's Park for the members of the Unitarian church. The house was effectively decorated with green and pink and the musical program was splendidly rendered by all who took part. About eighty guests were entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Freimuth entertained at a delightful hard-times party Tuesday evening at their home, 1301½ East Second street.

The active work of the Twentieth Century club being over for the year the women are directing their energy toward the work in the Neighborhood house in the West end. In order to add to the general efficiency of the work and larger quarters and better equipment a series of entertainments will be given from which the proceeds will go to swell this fund.

An entertainment is being planned to be given on Wednesday evening, April 19 at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for this purpose to which the public will be welcome and a small admission will be charged.

Friday, April 21 a rummage sale will be held in the old Herald building on West Superior street the proceeds of which will be turned over to this house and it is hoped that any one interested will contribute to the sale.

The three lectures to be given by D. Rubinkam the latter part of the month will be for the benefit of this fund also. The place where these lectures will be given has not been announced but if the sale of tickets seems to warrant it a larger lecture hall than that of the public library will be secured.

The only club meeting of next week will be the Evening Shakespeare class meeting which will be held Monday evening at the library clubroom at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. L. K. Daugherty will be the leader and "Richard III" will be the play to be studied.

The regular activities of the Neighborhood house will be carried out as usual during the week.

Miss Palmer of the Normal school faculty accompanied by Miss Elsie Silbersten and three other young women will leave as soon as school is out in June for a three month's trip abroad.

"WHO IS THAT PINHEAD.?"

Former Speaker Cannon Asks Concerning Anderson.

Washington, April 8.—Representative Sidney Anderson, the Minnesota progressive who defeated the veteran James A. Tawney in the primary last September, does not stand high in the esteem of former Speaker Cannon. Mr. Anderson himself furnishes evidence to this effect. When Mr. Anderson cast his vote for Representative Henry A. Cooper of Wisconsin for minority leader, instead of for Representative James R. Mann, the Republican caucus nominee.

"When I heard my name called," said Mr. Anderson, "I heard some one near by murmur, 'Who in blazes is that pinhead?' I turned quickly and observed that the speaker was Mr. Cannon. I fancy that Uncle Joe has not a very high opinion of me."

Uncle Joe and Mr. Anderson sit in the same row only a few feet apart.

MARTIN FOR LEADER.

Democratic Senators Put Through Caucus as Predicted.

Washington, April 8.—Senator Martin of Virginia, at the Democratic senate caucus yesterday, was selected as permanent caucus chairman and minority leader during the present congress. He received 21 out of the 37 votes cast, Senator Benjamin F. Shiveley of Indiana, who was then elected vice chairman. Senator W. E. Chilton of West Virginia was elected secretary of the caucus, the two last named places having been filled by acclamation. Senator Owen declined a re-election as secretary.

OLD MAN VICIOUSLY ATTACKED BY TRAMPS.

Hemlock, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tramp nuisance is becoming intolerable in this section, the hoboes straggling along too numerous for comfort. An old man living in a shanty near the Silica gravel pit of the Missabe railroad was attacked by tramps and badly cut. So far as known no arrests have been made.

No Choice in Iowa.
Des Moines, Iowa, April 8.—The Sixty-first joint ballot for United States senator resulted as follows: Deemer, 35; Kenyon, 60; Curtis, 3; State Senator L. E. Francis, 1; Henry Wallace, 1; Porter, Dem., 48; State Senator J. P. Clarkson, Dem., 3; absent or not voting, 7; necessary to elect, 76.

THE OLD MAN'S FOOT SLIPPED BUT IT WON'T HAPPEN AGAIN

When the name of W. Wheeling was called in police court this morning to answer a charge of having become voluntarily intoxicated, a small aged man, accompanied by a smaller, gray-haired woman, walked before the judge's bench.

They were a most unusual couple, entirely different from those who generally put in their appearance in the courtroom. The old man had been arrested the previous afternoon, and after putting up bail, had gone home, where he told his wife of his slip.

The indications were that she had laid down the law to him, for when he appeared he was a picture of meekness and entered a plea of guilty. When the bail money was returned, sentence having been suspended by the court, the wife put it with some change which she had in a purse which she carried in her hand. The old man didn't seem to like this, but when the little woman took him by the arm he went along without a word.

"You come along with me; I'll keep you straight," she was heard to say as they left the courtroom.

PRISON TERM IS TOO LONG

Patrick Doyle Serving Fifteen Years Under Habitual Criminal Act.

Attorney Begins Proceedings to Have the Sentence Reduced.

Patrick H. Doyle, who pleaded guilty some time ago to stealing a quantity of cloth from a West end tailor shop and was sentenced to fifteen years at Stillwater, is trying to have his sentence cut down. Doyle was taken to the state prison some days ago and has already begun his time.

Doyle's attorney, W. B. Moer, claimed to Judge Dibell, who heard the case at a special term of court this morning, that the indictment under which Doyle pleaded guilty was defective in that it did not state offenses and places where they were committed previous to the one committed in the West end.

Doyle was indicted by the March grand jury under the habitual criminal act. It was found by local authorities that he had committed offenses against the law at different times before he got into the present trouble and that he had served time at different institutions.

His sentence was a stiff one, because he had been in much trouble before. He was warned how stiff the sentence would be made before he pleaded guilty. It is stated that Doyle has spent half of his years up to date in prisons and reformatories.

Attorney Moer made a motion in arrest of judgment. Judge Dibell took the matter under consideration.

SUPERIOR

PHEASANTS WILL BE BROUGHT TO COUNTY.

The Mongolian pheasant, a bird particularly suited to the northern climate, will be brought in large numbers to Douglas county, according to plans outlined last evening at the annual meeting of the Douglas County Fish and Game Protective league. The matter has been under consideration for some time, but last night the league decided to go ahead with the project.

A. F. Chadwick was elected president of the organization. The other new officers are: George Tale, vice president; W. A. Woods, secretary; and A. N. Anderberg, treasurer. The dues were raised to $1 a year. The clubhouse proposition was not taken up at this meeting.

A banquet was held at the Rossiter cafe after the business meeting at the Commercial club. George B. Hudnall was toastmaster. Among the speakers were: J. T. Murphy, C. R. Fridley, F. S. Parker, M. C. Bronkain, Joseph Lucius, W. E. Pickering, W. H. Crumpton and Oscar Ahlgren.

Tax Money Collected.
City Treasurer George Kane has turned over to County Treasurer Kenyon, $75,000, that part of the county levy which was collected by the city. When the collections are checked over between $25,000 and $40,4000 more will be added. The city's share of the county levy is about $132,000, but much of this is included on the delinquent tax list.

Girls Play Basket Ball.
The girls' basket ball team of the Carpenter school defeated the girls' five of the Bryant school at the Carpenter gymnasium last evening. The score was 4 to 0. In a former game the Bryants won. The "rubber" will probably be played off soon.

Police After "Vags."
The police are waging a war against the "vags."

Chief McKinon has given strict orders to patrolman to arrest all habitual "vags" and "bums" which are said to infest the lower section of the city. A determined effort will be made to rid the city of this undesirable element.

Yesterday ten were picked up near the tenderloin district. All were fined, but sentence was suspended with the provision that they get a job or get out of town. It is said that many have come from Duluth, rather than work on the municipal rock pile which the Duluth authorities have established for such men.

ORATORS AND DECLAMERS

Winners Will Compete With Superior and West Duluth Schools.

The preliminary oratorical and declamatory contests at the high school Thursday evening and Friday afternoon resulted in the selection of Roger Lerch, Julius Nolte and Lawrence Dow in the former, and Mildred Prudden, Julius Nolte and Wanda Bergemin in the latter.

Elimination contests will be held later, at which one from each trio will be chosen to represent the school in declamatory and oratorical contests with Nelson-Dewey and Blaine high schools of Superior, and the Industrial high school at West Duluth.

The complete list of speakers, and their subjects, is as follows:

Thursday Evening.

Oration—"The Predatory Rich," Lawrence Riley.

Reading—"For Dear Old Yale," Ruth Bjorge.

Oration — "Gettysburg," Lawrence Dow.

Reading—"Jean Valjean," Wanda Bergemin.

Oration—"Universal Peace," Roger Lerch.

Reading—"Pro Patria," Mildred Prudden.

Reading—"The Night Run of the Overland," Myra Willison.

Oration—"The March of the Constitution," Arthur Helam.

Friday Afternoon.

Reading—"The End of a Felon," Julius Nolte.

Oration—"Idols and Ideals," Homer Holdren.

Oration—"Eulogy on Wendell Phillips," Nathan Cook.

Reading—"The Lie," Dorothy Patten.

Oration — "Toussaint L'Ouverture," Leland Giddings.

Lake Linden Boy Winner.
Calumet, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Irving Toplon, representative of the Lake Linden high school in the interscholastic declamation contests held here this week, won the honor of representing the counties of Houghton, Keweenaw, Baraga and Ontonagon in the upper peninsula contests, to be held at Houghton late this month. Mr. Toplo's subject was "Webster On Independence."

Pike Lake Wedding.
Pike Lake, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—William D. Platt and Miss Anna Daniels were married here April 1, at the home of the bride, Rev. Mr. Kimball officiating. N. S. Daniels and Miss Ruth Daniels attended the couple. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony. The couple left on an Eastern wedding trip and on returning will reside at Two Harbors.

COPPER MINES AT BUTTE NOT TO BE CLOSED DOWN

Anaconda to Continue Output at Present Rate Per Month.

Rich Strike in Colorado Mine of Davis-Daly Company.

Butte, Mont., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Every once in a while some person starts a report that the mines are going to be closed down and the report spreads like wildfire. Such a report was put in circulation a few days ago and verybody seemed to take it for granted that it was true. Therefore the announcement from General Superintendent John Gillie of the Anaconda company, coming after he had been beseiged by telephone calls from business men and others, that there was absolutely no truth in the report, was received with the greatest satisfaction. Due to the curtailment which has been in force for several months, the number of men at work has not been as large as it was twelve months ago and therefore business, generally speaking, has been somewhat quiet and the thought of a complete shutdown created no small amount of uneasiness. The statement of Mr. Gillie came on the same day that President Thayer of the Anaconda company made the announcement that it was proposed to continue the output at the same rate per month as at present, and the two statements were a source of great satisfaction to all classes.

Davis-Daly.

A strike of ore running 12 per cent copper has been made into the Colorado mine of the Davis-Daly company, but up to the present time it has not been definitely decided as to the extent of the discovery. It is four feet wide. It was cut just west of the shaft on the 1,700-foot level and the samples being shown about the city are certainly among the finest ever exhibited in the district. Nothing of a positive character will be given out by the management, but the miners who are working on the level have no hesitation in corroborating the report of the discovery and state that it is among the richest they ever saw. On one of the upper levels some time ago the same vein was cut, but there it contained no commercial value. On that level the vein was but two feet wide. It is nothing unusual to find a vein in this district of but two feet wide and ore of little value and a hundred feet down to cut the same vein and find it four or more feet wide and rich in ore. The drifting now going on is being watched with great interest and there are those who are of the opinion that it will be found to run a long distance and be found very rich, as some good producing properties are in the locality.

March Production.

The copper production for March by the Butte mines aggregated about 21,522,060 pounds. The output of ore and the production of copper, daily and fr the month, were as follows:

Companies—	Daily Monthly —Tons Ore—	Daily	Monthly —Lb. Copper—
Anaconda	3,500 108,500	217,500	6,618,500
Boston & Boston	429 13,020	26,040	807,240

What Thayer Says.

R. R. Thayer, president of the Anaconda company, who has been in the city for over a month looking over the various mines, says that all the properties are looking exceedingly good, and that as depth is attained the ore is getting richer. While a very large amount of development is going on, the only shaft sinking at the present time is going on in the Gagnon and Belmont mines. The Gagnon is a new vertical shaft to take the place of the old incline and is now down about 1,530 feet. It will be taken to a depth of 2,300 feet, the bottom of the old shaft, and connections made with the Gagnon workings at that depth. The old incline shaft will be used as an air shaft when the new one is completed. The Gagnon, will be remembered, at one time was thought to be about worked out. A little over a year ago a large body of high grade ore was opened up and it is still holding out. The Belmont mine is located in the southern part of the city and the shaft is being sunk to connect with the workings of the Anaconda on all levels below the 1,600. It is now down to a depth of 2,200 feet and connected with the Anaconda on the 1,600, 1,800 and 2,000-foot levels. It will go to a depth of 2,400 feet, which will give connection with the lowest level of the Anaconda. In the Anaconda no mining has been done on the 2,400-foot level, which was opened a few years ago, beyond making a raise to the 2,200-foot level. The rich virgin ground between the levels has not yet been touched for mining. All the mining is confined to the 1,800, 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels.

In the old Parrot no mining is being done, but it is intended to work the old ground after it is connected with the Neversweat and other properties adjoining. The Little Mina hoist, an old Parrot property, has been connected with the West Stewart, a former Clark property, on the 1,200-foot level. The Original, another former Clark property, is also being connected with the Gagnon and just as soon as the work is completed the mine will be worked through the Gagnon. At the Mountain Con the shaft has been completed to a depth of 2,300 feet, at which depth a new level is being opened. A crosscut south from the shaft has just cut through the vein, which shows equally as high quality of ore as on the 2,200-foot level. I nall the other mines development work of a more or less extensive character is going on just the same as before the curtailment policy in production went into effect.

Mr. Thayer says that experiments are being carried on at the Washoe smelter for the purpose of installing a new system of concentration, which if found to be a success, will prove of the greatest importance in the reduction of ore.

George Mine Changes Hands.

The George mine, located in the Georgetown district, has been taken over by the Silver Lake Mining company, an organization now controlling two or three other properties in the district and of which Mayor Nevin of this city is president and Pat Wall, the mining man, is managing director. Several Chicago capitalists are also interested. The price paid was $25,000 with a net 15 per cent on the returns from what ore is already broken in the mine and on the dump. There has been an option on this mine for several months, otherwise it would never have been secured for the price stated, as only recently a very rich strike was made which assayed 700 ounces in silver and $340 in gold to the ton. The Silver Lake Mining company within the past few weeks has secured options on several other properties, including the Gold Coin and Venezuela. Mayor Nevin states that arrangements have been about completed for the construction of the proposed electric tramway from the mining district to the end of the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railway at the lime quarries, which will thus enable the mine owners to reach the Washoe smelter with their ore promptly and do away with the twelve mile wagon road haul.

Pilot Butte.

The Pilot Butte Mining company expects to commence mining about the middle of this month. All the machinery required is now on the ground and is being gotten into position wtih as little delay as possible. Operations were suspended on this property three years ago after a three-compartment shaft had been sunk to a depth of 530 feet. At that time a crosscut was run on the 500-foot level 300 feet to the south and 300 feet to the north and those intrested are satisfied now that if the south crosscut had been extended about thirty feet further it would have intersected the vein now being developed by the Badger State and which is said to contain some of the richest ore seen in the district for some time. Mining is to be conducted under the supervision of Patrick Sheehan, superintendent of the Tuolumne company. Edward Hickey, president of the Tuolumne company, is at the Pilot Butte company with St. Paul and Milwaukee men, filling the other offices.

Question of Copper Surplus.

There is no question but that the porphyry mines of Nevada and Utah are very largely responsible for the increase in the copper surplus in the past few months, and from reports it looks as if this condition is going to continue for a time at least. The Nevada Consolidated management is responsible for the statement that the production during the month of March will be maintained during April and that a little over 9,000,000 pounds will be turned out in the near future. People who watch closely passing events doubt very much if the Amalgamated, Cole-Ryan and Guggenheim interests are very much closer together than they were a year ago, and as an evidence of this point to the fact that the International Smelting company at Tooele, controlled by interests very close to the Amalgamated, is now going ahead with preparations to compete against the Gugggenheims in lead smelting by the erection of a plant with a capacity of 500 tons. There is no doubt that plans for an amalgamation of all the interests were perfected up to a certain point, but there some kind of a hitch occurred, and beyond this point the Guggenheims would not go until their terms were accepted. That an agreement will be reached some time in the possible near future, there is no doubt, but in the meantime all the interests are working out their own salvation.

MINE FORCE AT GIROUX PROPERTY

Increasing and Will Be Doubled Within Next Few Months.

Ely, Nev., April 8.—Three drifts along the contact are now being driven on the 700-foot level of the Alpha mine of the Giroux company, one on the 1,000, and the crosscut from the 1,200-foot level of the Giroux shaft is also again going ahead as rapidly as possible. This work has been materially delayed for some weeks past by the inflow of water, which it was feared might swamp the pumps by breaking into a large body of water. A bulkhead has just been put in which will stop and hold all the water, hence there can be no danger from that source in the future, and the crosscut will be driven as rapidly as possible and will probably reach the Alpha workings within three or four weeks.

The station on the 1,400-foot level is nearing completion, after which the fourth crosscut will be started for the Alpha workings, which will also be bulkheaded before reaching the point where water may be expected. Steam has been cut in from the new boiler plant to the old engines, which are still in commission and probably will be for a few weeks yet. The mine will soon be equipped for electric lighting, which in a measure will do away with all probability of fire from candles. The camp at Kimberly will also be furnished with electric lights.

While Manager Mills is non-committal on the subject, it is probable that the shipping of high-grade, direct smelting ore will be commenced soon after the crosscut on the 1,200-foot level reaches the Alpha ore bodies, which is a question of but a few weeks. This will naturally give an upward turn to the stock market, and place the property on a self-supporting basis.

It will be some time in the future, however, before regular shipments will be commenced, as time will be required to put in ore shoots and arrange for stoping. The fleet of churn drills will resume operations in the near future, as an ample water supply is now guaranteed for the spring and summer months. The force of miners is being steadily increased, and will be doubled within the next few months.

SHATTUCK NOT TO CLOSE DOWN

Bisbee, Ariz., April 8.—The report that the Shattuck mines would close down this month, which has been in circulation on the streets, was repeated to General Auditor Olsen of the Shattuck properties and the report met with a prompt denial.

"So far as I know the closing of the mines is not or has not been under consideration. If this were true I certainly would have known of it and I am satisfied that the report is baseless. There has been no meeting of the stockholders and no such action would be taken without a meeting," said Mr. Olsen.

"There will be a meeting of the stockholders on April 10 and what action will be taken at that meeting I am unable to state," he continued. "Please deny the report and say that we are going right ahead."

As a sign of the activity at the Shattuck mines, Mr. Olsen stated that a bed of ore was recently struck on the 500-foot level, yielding 18 per cent copper. The average shipments of ore from the mine to the Douglas smelter, he said, was from 115 to 120 tons. This average is below the average maintained until eight months ago, when a curtailment was decided upon.

At the meeting of stockholders to be held on April 10, it is probable that no dividend will be declared. It is believed that the management has decided that it is unwise policy to continue taking out the high grade of ore this property yields on account of the very small margin of profit caused by the condition of the copper market. Shattuck has so far paid $1,050,000 on its 350,000 shares of stock.

WORK STOPS AT BOHEMIA

Exploration By Diamond Drill Fails to Give Promising Results.

Indiana Succeeds in Dropping Sand Shaft to Bed Rock.

Houghton, Mich., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Bohemia Mining company has temporarily suspended exploratory work, and the withdrawal of the diamond drill outfits leaves the property idle. Exploratory work was in progress for about one year past, in which time several amygdaloidal beds were encountered by the drills, all of which with the exception of possibly one, offered small promise. The operations of the past were confined to the "east country" along the contact with the sandstone marking the eastern limits of the mineral zone and in which horizon the Lake lode and Adventure lodes lie. There yet remains a considerable area of unexplored land to the westward of these operations to receive attention later.

Indiana.

The Indiana Mining company has succeded in dropping its sand shaft through ninety-seven feet of sand and gravel to bed rock and is now prepared to continue downward in solid rock. The drop shaft was designed by the Wisconsin Bridge & Iron company and is of steel construction and cylindrical in form lined with concrete. There are three compartments within the cylinder, which measures eighteen feet in diameter. The shaft is sinking near the point from which the rich drill core was obtained in January last year and which caused so much sensation at the time. The company continues to give a part of its attention to the exploration of the property and recently tapped a copper bearing amygdaloid in the Evergreen horizon which promises much. The new lode shows a width of about twenty-five feet, and carries heavy copper in commercial quantity.

South Lake.

The South Lake Mining company has driven its last sand pipe preliminary to shaft sinking and is now awaiting funds to begin this work. In the exploratory campaign just closed the South Lake company succeeded in taking a succession of rich cores of copper rock from the series of holes put down on the property in the effort made to determine the strike and dip of the several lodes known to traverse the South Lake acreage. Four distinct copper bearing lodes were located, all overlain with a thick overburden of sand and coarse gravel as much as 250 feet deep in places, that promises seriously to interfere with shaft sinking, unless it can be avoided. Sand pipes were being driven to bed rock at several points in an effort to find a spot, when operations were ceased owing to lack of funds.

Isle Royale.

The Isle Royale Copper company has been forced to a partial curtailment of production during the time that will be necessary to replace the foundation under one of the stamp heads at the mill. The repairs are expected to consume about three months' time, after which full production will again be the order. At the mine sinking is in progress in shafts 2 and 4, and similar work is promised in shafts 5 and 6 in the near future. Development work continues without interruption and is resulting in the blocking out of good average ground. About forty-five machine drills are in commission. The company has been producing at the rate of about 7,000,000 pounds of fine copper annually, and on this output is was earning around $100,000 which is being spent on development work. The rock is yielding from fifteen to sixteen pounds of fine copper per ton of rock milled, which is probably a fair average of what the property may be expected to yield in the future. Exploratory work in the Baltic horizon was suspended some months ago without disclosing anything of value, but may be expected again be in progress with the coming of summer.

Winona.

The Winona Copper company is meeting with the usual delay and difficulties incidental to the starting of new plants, and as soon as the new stamp mill, owned jointly with the King Phillip Copper company, is in proper shape to begin milling a considerable output may be looked for. The mine is already opened well ahead of immediate requirements and in condition to produce upwards of 1,000 tons of copper rock daily though the output for the immediate future will probably not exceed 600 tons per day. There is some doubt that the water supply will prove adequate in the operation of two stamps with which the mill is equipped, but a careful study of the question made by the company's engineers covering a period of three years indicate that little is to be feared on this score. The plans of the engineers provide for the handling of waste waters from the mill which will be clarified and returned to the mill to be used over again.

Hancock.

The Hancock Consolidated Mining company is slowly rounding into shape for production. Arrangements have been made with the Lake Milling, Smelting & Refining company to handle the company's output for a period of one year. The erection of its own stamp mill for which a site has already been provided will depend upon the results obtained in the Lake mills, and may not be expected to begin inside of another year. The big vertical shaft which is to be the main avenue of production in the Hancock mine has been permanently equipped with heavy machinery and is in position to produce at any time. The Pewabic lode, to intersect which this shaft is being sunk, lies around 3,500 feet from the surface at this point and with the shaft sinking around 2,700 feet there yet remains over 700 feet to go, which will likely take all of another year's time. In the No. 3 lode, so-called, the company has developed copper ground of good average grade, and this lode is expected to furnish the output which the company is about ready to begin. Drifting is in progress a half dozen levels in this lode, and it is stated that upwards of 1,000,000 tons of rock averaging around fifteen pounds of fine copper has been developed.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Work on Concentration Plant of Gilt Edge Company Begun.

Deadwood, S. D., April 8.—Construction work on the concentration plant of the Gilt Edge Consolidated Mines company was begun last week, following the visit here of President E. A. Beaman of Providence and Vice President L. A. Hippach of Chicago. Former Mine Inspector Nick Treweek of Lead has been placed in charge of the mine, while J. S. Ford, as general manager, will look after the concentration plant, which it is hoped to have completed by July 1, when the smelter expects to operate. The mines and plant of the Gilt Edge company are located at Galena, the proposition being a low grade sulphuric ore easily mined from an open cut. It is expected to have sufficient for a 300-ton concentration plant in addition to the regular mill and the ore supply which will go to the Osterman smelter.

The New Reliance Gold Mining company opened up last week at Stanley, just west of town, and expects to become a regular producer this summer. The Reliance underwent a reorganization last fall and the cyanide mill has been remodelled, twenty stamps being installed in place of the four Huntington mills. Later a talling system will be installed.

Capt. John Donaldson of Custer Peak has returned from a trip to Minneapolis, where he disposed of his interests in his mining ground in the Custer Peak district near Chicken Ridge to his Minneapolis associates. This ground has been slightly developed but shows up well with a free milling gold of fair value and has a shaft down and an incline tunnel. Mr. Donaldson is said to have received something like $15,000 for his interest in the property.

The Brasch brothers, who are developing the Connie May Morris ground in the Roubaix district near town, believe that they are nearing the ore in the second tunnel that they are now driving on the property. The ore shows in the vertical form on the surface outcropping and the tunnel now in 200 feet is expected to strike it at a depth of about 100 feet. Samples of the ore which showed in the shaft contain a good percentage of free gold.

The April St. Nicholas is full to overflowing with many good things—pictures, rhymes, stories and sketches—but boys, big and little, will find their chief delight in C. H. Claudy's "The Battle of Baseball," the first of a series of papers on this most popular of games. The papers will run through the playing season, so that not only can any boy who reads them try the plays, himself, upon his own field, and against his own pet and particular "enemy," but note upon some professional field what is described. Nor will there be over-much theory in these articles. Wherever possible, every play of importance, every point, will be illustrated with an actual concrete incident, which really happened, upon a regular league field, showing just what was done, how it was done, and who did it. It is the author's aim in his "story" to get at the heart of the game and tell of it from a boy's standpoint, and to show him, not only the wonders done by skilled players and fine teams, but how he, too, can become skillful, and, in part at least, do for himself, and for his team, what his favorite baseball idol does frequently in a game of the major or minor leagues.

In the April number of Popular Mechanics magazine there are 329 articles and 315 illustrations. These articles cover a wide range of subjects, telling things that are being done in the way of development all over the world. Last year Western orchardists lost millions of dollars in crops during the cold wave in April. Since then great advance has been made in the improvement of smudge-pots for use in such emergencies. Louis Meyer in an illustrated article describes several practical types. H. H. Windsor throws some interesting sidelights on foreign trade, illustrating how great factors small matters sometimes prove, and discusses compulsory military service for American boys in times of peace. The Kingdom of Dust, by J. Gordon Ogden, touches, in its scope, many matters of interest. Mr. Ogden predicts the use of fog dispellers "in places where their economic value would be the highest, such as in the entrance to New York harbor." Wireless enthusiasts will enjoy an article describing the latest experiments of Frank Chambers, an amateur, who has done some unusual things in this line.

With a Sherlock Holmes "Adventure" and a Jacobs story, the April Strand should prove of more than ordinary interest to the magazine reader. Both these contributions are worthy of their authors and will be read with keen delight by their numerous admirers. Besides these well known writers there are stories by E. M. Jameson, E. M. Ingram, Frank E. Verney, Margaret Westrup, Randolph Bedford, M. F. Hutchinson and E. Nesbit. An important and interesting article on "Charles Dickens' Manuscripts" is contributed by J. Holt Schooling. In this topical paper we learn that Dickens thought so little of his MSS. that few were kept intact. There is not much of the original of "Pickwick" left, and many of the volumes in manuscript are incomplete.

A budget of interesting stories and articles appears in the April issue of the Wide World Magazine. The Rev. F. Cowley Whitehouse of Constantinople describes "The Turk at Play" and assures us that, when he chooses, the indolent Turk can exert considerable strenuousness. Prof. C. H. Hawes continues his "Wanderings in Crete" and C. V. A. Peel brings to a conclusion his sporting adventures "Among Ryper and Reindeer of Norway." In an article on "The Mountain of the Ark" we learn that Mount Ararat has only been scaled seventeen times.

In the issue of Harper's Weekly for April 1 appears an illuminating review of Lord Rosebery's recent book, Lord, Chatham, by Price Collier. In "Pitching Camp for 20,000," by Kitty Barry, the scenes attendant on the arrival of the troops in Texas are graphically described. Charles Phelps Cushing, writing under the title "A Motor-car Capital," tells of the change the automobile has wrought in the life of Hutchinson, Kan. This number contains a dramatic story by Lee Foster Hartman, dramatic and musical reviews by William Winter and Lawrence Gilman, and the usual financial, editorial and humor features.

The Man in the Foreground is the City Foreman, and the Two in the Extreme Background, Regularly Employed Workers Who Handle the Steam Drill.

The accompanying pictures show the men at work at the city rockpile.

Since the work yard was started several weeks ago, there has been a total of 138 men provided with work for a brief period. In nearly every instance the men have found steady positions later. At present twenty-one are employed in breaking rock until they find steady jobs.

The men are paid 15 cents an hour. They work eight hours a day. This gives them $1.20 a day or enough to pay for decent lodging and food until they can better themselves.

A steam drill has been placed in operation at the rockpile and the men are making a better showing in point of work done than at any time since the yard was established.

About a week ago the number to report at the yard fell off considerably and those at the head of the work were for some days unable to understand it. It was finally found that men down from the woods with money in their pockets were treating the men employed at the rockpile, and they found it unnecessary to work. When the money of the newcomers gave out, the number at once increased.

The work yard is managed by the Associated Charities. The officers hope to close the yard for the year about May 1. At that time work on the railroads wil have opened up and it is thought that the yard will not be needed again until next fall, when work again becomes scarce.

The results of the work yard have been noticeable. The number of men hanging around the Bowery has decreased. They are either working at the stone yard or they have left town. A great many of them have gone to Superior. The Superior police have had during the last few weeks more than four times as many applications for lodging as formerly or before the Duluth work yard was started.

Those who will not work are getting out of town. The word has been passed that Duluth has a rockpile and the vags steer clear of the Zenith City.

One man who has been begging in the residence district was given a blue ticket, which entitled him to work at the rockpile if presented at the office of the Associated Charities at the courthouse. He told the East end woman who gave him the ticket, that he already had a pocket full of slips that entitles him to work. "I don't want a check on the Associated Charities," he said, "all they give one down there is work."

Every afternoon the men line up at the office of the society at the courthouse for their day's pay. Sometimes there are but two or three; other times there are many more.

The plan it is claimed, has worked well from the beginning. The police are said to have had less trouble with vags since the work yard was established than ever before. There has been a marked decrease in the number who apply at the police station for lodging.

PACKS OF THE OSAGE INDIANS

Four Sacred Bundles Added to the Collection of Bureau of American Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution.

Officials of the bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution are highly pleased over an addition which they have just made to their collection, and which they regard as one of their choicest treasures. This acquisition comprises four sacred bundles or packs of the Osage Indians, very few of which have ever been obtained by scientists, as they are generally buried with their "keepers."

These sacred bundles are just as precious from a religious standpoint to the Indian as they are from a scientific standpoint to the ethnologist and are extremely hard to obtain. They represent the hollest fetish of a tribe and so zealously are they guarded from any profanation that they are put in charge of a special priest or medicine man, who keeps them carefully hidden. At certain periods they are opened and the contents worshipped amid the most elaborate ceremonies, but even at these times only the chosen men of the tribe are allowed to see the strangely assorted articles that are kept in the bundles.

These Osage packs differ greatly from any that have been found hitherto, both as to texture and of the various wrappings, and also as to the nature of the articles they contain. The bundles were secured for the National museum by Francis La Flesche, an educated Omaha Indian, who is in the employ of the Bureau of American Ethnology. While at work in Oklahoma he learned of the existence of such bundles and immediately opened negotiations with the Indian to whose care they had been intrusted. After exercising considerable diplomacy he succeeded in persuading the Indian to part with them and brought them to Washington and turned them over to the bureau of ethnology.

One of these was opened with much care by Dr. Walter Hough, one of the curators of the National museum. Dr. Hough found the outside wrapping or sack to be made of a rare Indian fabric, woven of the silky brow hair of the buffalo. This was bound with a buckskin band decorated with human scalps, and the leg of an eagle. Inside this was a buckskin bag and inside that a haversack made of a material resembling Chinese matting.

In this haversack were a pipe decorated with scalps, a tobacco bag, a braided cord made of woolen fabric and a bundle of buffalo bladders bound with a thong ornamented with scalp, and one other bundle which was the most important of all for it represented the "holy of holies." This bundle was a buckskin case, to which was bound a buckskin object resembling a head band. Inside this bundle was found the most sacred object of the pack—the body of a hawk, which had been mummified and then painted a brilliant vermillion and green. Attached to the tail was a circlet of human scalps. The body was suspended by a braided band made of woolen fabrics which evidently had been obtained by the tribe through trade with other Indians.

One of the three other bundles was found to contain the tattooing apparatus and materials used by the Osage Indians, all of which are regarded as sacred as the tattooing is a religious ceremony. The other two packs were similar to the one described, but the articles each contained were different.

After careful examination by Dr. Hough and his assistants the bundle was restored to its proper condition and carefully stored away, but it will be the subject of long study by the ethnologists, who are greatly interested in the industrial accomplishments of the Indians revealed by the contents as well as in the mystical and symbolical meanings of the pack and the various articles it contains.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE LYCEUM

The big musical production, "The Man Who Owns Broadway," that has been creating all kinds of talk, will be the attraction at the Lyceum tonight and Monday night. This success, direct from long runs in New York and Boston, comes at last and with all the lavish scenic effects and the original New York company of eighty people and a large orchestra. Raymond Hitchcock, the clever comedian, will be seen in his famous creation of the title role of "Sydney Lyons," and his coming in a George Cohan play is creating a world of enthusiasm. He appears in modern clothes and is supported by one of the most celebrated companies that has ever left New York.

It is an ideal Cohan play with all the breeziness, dash and catchiness characteristic of the prolific young author's work. It is filled with dancing, singing and laughing novelties, and nothing could be more attractive than the choruses, the songs, the lyrics and the action that always goes with the Cohanesque efforts.

Mr. Cohan is responsible for the book as well as the music. He has taken for the pivotal character Sydney Lyons, a popular Broadway actor, and the daughter of a millionaire who has fallen in love with the idol of the hour. Her father has already arranged a marriage for her with a chap named Burnham, who as described on the program as a villain. He also has an accomplice named Charlotte Curtis. These two swindlers have won the confidence of the millionaire, who has promised to marry Miss Curtis. However, when Sydney Lyons meets them at a party given at the rich man's home, he denounces them as a pair of steamship sharps known to the police of London and New York.

The swindlers inform Sylvia that Lyons is a scamp, who has been a corespondent in a dozen different divorce cases, and is also a widower with four children living in Denver. However, after many complications and humiliations on the part of Lyons he finally convinces the rich man and his charming daughter that he is an honest man.

In dealing with the story Mr. Cohan has scattered many choice flowers of melody throughout the play. The play exacts spectacular ability from those assuming the leading roles, and a large chorus is also demanded by the ensembles and dramatic scenes. The most important parts will be in the hands of Flora Zabelle, Mildred Elaine, Lella Rhodes, Gertrude Webster, John Hendricks, Mark Sullivan, Francis Lieb and Richard Taber.

Porter Emerson Browne's latest play and by far the greatest dramatic success in New York last season, "The Spendthrift," which Frederic Thompson will present here at the Lyceum on Tuesday night, April 11, with an exceptionally strong cast, is a striking object lesson in the folly and extravagance of women. The pathetic part of "The Spendthrift" is the woman's unconscious folly and her inability from long habits of self-indulgence to realize that anything else is important.

Her husband tells her that he is on the brink of failure, begs her to help him, suggests that they close the house to economize, and she in turn, declaring that she will do everything possible, suggests a trip to Europe when the house is closed, and the immediate necessity of another automobile. Tired and worn with the struggle, the man gives up.

The best twenty years of his life and all of his money are gone; and he tells the wife who has spent the money that he must now find some place to work as the employe of another man. What other women have, this wife must have. The extravagant dresses that they wear, she must wear. She owes it to herself to keep up with her friends, but she owes nothing to her husband.

When the crash comes, the extravagant wife begs of a rich aunt who will not help her, and as the husband abandons hope, the wife produces $20,000 in cash—twenty bills of $1,000 each. She lies to her husband and tells him that this money has been lent to her by the rich aunt. The great sensation of the play comes when the truth leaks out. The aunt who says, "She has one foot in the grave and the other in Wall street," will not be made the partner of a lie—even to save her niece and when the husband would return to her the money he doesn't want to borrow, she hands it back and says: "I didn't give it to her." Then slowly is forced from the heart-breaking wife the fact that she has borrowed the $20,000 from another man—an enormously rich man known to the husband as a man without moral character.

It is a sordid, heart-breaking picture of a life that goes on under many an American roof. Despite the seriousness of the subject discussed, Mr. Browne has woven into the play many humorous speeches and situations and throughout the play there runs a clean, wholesome love story in contrast to the main theme. The company presenting "The Spendthrift" is headed by Doris Mitchell and includes Lionel Adams, Albert Sackett, Gwendolyn Piers, Forrest Orr, Lizzie McCall, William H. Sullivan and Alice Kelly.

Characterized as the biggest musical play ever produced, "The Midnight Sons," with its cast of 100 people and wonderfully realistic theater scene, comes to the Lyceum theater on April 20, 21, and 22. It will be one of the few appearances of this play outside of the largest cities, such as Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and St. Louis.

To call "The Midnight Sons" a musical comedy gives no idea as to the character of the performance. It is more a spectacular production than a musical play. In New York they called it a "musical moving picture in eight films." There are two acts and eight scenes, the scenes being as follows:

ACT I.

Scene 1—The farewell banquet to Senator Noyes in the Sportsman's room of the Hotel Insomnia.
Scene 2—Exterior of the Richard Noyes shoe store on Fifth avenue, one year and a half later.
Scene 3—Interior of same.
Scene 4—Concourse at the Grand Central station.
Scene 5—The Honeymoon express.

ACT II.

Scene 1—Interior of the Merri Murray theater, same afternoon.
Scene 3—Garden fete at the Pounceuponham hotel, Billionaire Beach, Fla., two months later.

The most remarkable of these pictures above is that showing a Pullman train in motion with a bridal party on the rear platform, and the interior of an opera house with perfectly arranged orchestra seats and sloping aisles, tiers of boxes, balcony and gallery, with every incidental thing which goes to add to the picturesqueness, safety and comfort of a theater, such as ushers, water boys, program girls, candy boxes on the seats, carpets on the aisles, cushioned-back orchestra chairs, calcium lights, spot lights, red lights to mark the exit doors, etc. This scene lasts about thirty-five minutes and is the most genuinely funny in the play, with the possible exception of the remarkable shoe store scene, in which two grotesque cook ladies ask to have their feet fitted by two dapper young clerks.

AT THE ORPHEUM

"His Nerve," a Lamb's Club gambol playlet, with Charles Leonard Fletcher in the leading role, will be the feature act on next week's bill at the Orpheum theater.

For several years past Mr. Fletcher and his impersonations of famous people of the stage and of real life have been popular in the best vaudeville theaters but this season he has a new act. At a recent gambol of the Lambs' club, the famous New York club for actors, he discovered the sketch in which he is now appearing. It was written by Percival Knight, a playwright with quite a wide reputation in the East, and it had an original and striking plot. The playlet told the story of a gentleman burglar of the Raffles type, who gains entrance to the apartments of a wealthy bachelor, with the intention of taking whatever valuables he can find. While he is there, a burglar of the Bill Sykes type-a typical porch climber, also appears on the scene. The newcomer takes the first burglar for the owner of the apartments, and some amazing situations are said to follow. The idea is a new one, and it is said to be most cleverly worked out. One Eastern critic said of it: "Had Conan Doyle with his faculty for keeping you guessing as to what would happen next, and W. W. Jacobs, with his skill for developing perplexing situations, collaborated, they could not have devised a more uniquely entertaining narrative than "His Nerve." The fact that Mr. Fletcher is presenting it, is a fairly good guaranty that the prouction will be adequate.

JAMES H. CULLEN,
Famous Old Time Monologist, Who Will Be Seen at the Orpheum Next Week.

VAUDEVILLE STAR IN "THE LEGIT"

NORA BAYES.

One of the great favorites of the vaudeville stage has gone into "the legitimate." "The legit" as Mrs. Nora Bayes Norworth understands it, is not a serious affair. She and her husband, Jack Norworth, have concocted a play called "Little Miss Fix It," in which they appeared in New York this week under the management of Werba and Leuscher.

Five former members of the Ladies' Fadettes' Orchestra of Boston will present the act of second importance on next week's bill. "The Musical Girls" is the manner in which they bill themselves, and all five members of the company were formerly soloists with the Fadettes. Mary Wilczek, the violinist, is the wife of Franz Wilczek, at one time violin soloist with the Thomas orchestra. She later toured the country with her husband, appearing in concerts, and then became concert mistress of the Fadettes. Rosalie Jacobohn, the cellist, is a daughter of the former concert master of the Thomas' orchestra. Eleanor Piper the cornetist, was a Fadette soloist for five years. Edith Swan-Corbett was the only woman who ever appeared as a soloist with Reeves' American band. She is said to be a woman of much more than ordinary beauty, and has been called the Lillian Russell of vaudeville. Last, but not least, is Estelle M. Churchill, the comedienne of the company, and also the drummer, the pianist and a vocalist. These five clever women give an act that is said to be highly entertaining and of real musical worth.

A good idea of the act presented by Miss Lotta Gladstone, the third act on the bill, is gained from the following criticism which appeared recently in the New York Times:

"Lotta Gladstone is a girl with a laugh so infectious as to be absolutely irresistible. Good nature radiates from beneath a hat, to trim which all the many hued flowers of the millinery shops have been culled. Miss Gladstone is a monologist, whose principal purpose is to simulate a talkative country maiden, and she does it to perfection. She also gave several imitations of character types and their naturalness evoked prolonged applause."

Brown and Ayer will contribute a neat singing, talking and dancing act, with a pianologue, as their share of the entertainment.

Thirteen tours of the Orpheum circuit ought to be a sufficient guaranty of worth for a vaudeville entertainer. That is the record of James H. Cullen, who is now completing his thirteenth tour of the circuit. He will present his monologue on next week's bill. Mr. Cullen has played engagements during twenty-four consecutive years in the vaudeville theaters of Chicago, and can probably boast of as large a following in the West as any performer now on the stage. He calls himself "The Man from the West." He gives a monologue of the old fashioned type, but with new material every year, and among the old time vaudeville patrons there is no greater favorite than "Jim" Cullen.

Joe Jackson, who calls himself "The European Vagabond," comes from Berlin with a unique and attractive bicycle performance, which is said to be one of the best "single" bicycle acts in vaudeville.

The seventh act on the bill will be presented by Mons. Gerard and Mme. Hut Ell, who call themselves "The Iron Jawed Duo." It is claimed to be a high class European acrobatic feature.

The overture by the concert orchestra and the Orpheum motion pictures will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee, the opening performance being given Sunday afternoon.

Cecilia Loftus will cross the Atlantic in November next to fill an engagement on the Orpheum circuit.

Odiva, the famous swimmer and stage beauty, is one of next year's bookings on the Orpheum circuit.

Clarice Vance, the famous woman "coon song" singer, has been booked on the Orpheum circuit, and has begun her tour.

Another new theater will be added to the circuit shortly, when the building now under construction in Oklahoma City is opened.

AT THE EMPRESS

With a big military novelty as the feature attraction, the show at the Empress commencing Sunday matinee is one that should meet with the approval of all.

The vaudeville theater patron demands novelty and the offering of the U. S. A. boys is one of the latest novelties before the public. The first scene of the act represents the camp of the U. S. infantry in the afternoon. The U. S. A. boys then present a series of drills, including a fancy drill, bayonet drill and a drill with the regulation gatling gun of the United States army. This gun is capable of firing 1,000 shots a minute. In the course of the gatling gun drill, they will introduce for the first time "Diminished Numbers," illustrating in case of warfare the position each man would take in case the gun crew was shot down one by one. After these drills, they go through one of the prettiest evolutions in army tactics, and that is guard mount.

The second scene shows the fortifications of the enemy, with a warship at anchor in the harbor and it can be seen flashing Ardois signal lights, when finally an American battleship enters and there is a naval battle. The scenery in this act is very elaborate and the action is very thrilling. The average American has very vague ideas as to military and naval maneuvers and this act, besides being very beautiful to look upon, is instructive as well. The U. S. A. boys have appeared before some of the greatest militar" experts in this and foreign countries and they have been pronounced as being as nearly perfect in their evolutions as it is possible for a body of men to become. These boys work with a speed and precision that is marvelous and each seems like a cog in a well oiled machine.

As a special feature, the Rathskeller trio, composed of Messrs Mitchell, Wells and Lewis, will offer rollicking ragtime. Mr. Lewis presides at the piano while Messrs. Mitchell and Wells do most of the singing. Ragtime has for a long time been popular and each year seems to grow more into favor. The Rathskeller trio have been ragtime's strongest advocates in vaudeville and in all the cities in which they have appeared they have taken the audience by storm. At first they present a serious song, and then they lure the audience into a laugh, then applause, and then a tumult of laughter at rattling good rough comedy and good music. Their act is one that pleases and leaves the audience in a pleasant frame of mind and the only objection to their act has been that it is not longer.

Bissett and Scott, "The Hello George Boys," are dancers of national reputation. To the average vaudeville patron, a dancing team means just a plain every day dancing team but Bissett and Scott got away from the conventional and execute numerous steps that are original with themselves. There are thousands of dancers in the theatrical business but there are but few that rank with these clever boys, it is claimed. They feature their team dancing and their chair dance is one of the most difficult tap effects ever offered in vaudeville.

An act that is very novel and out of the ordinary is the offering of Sprague and McNeese. They offer a skating spectacle which is entitled "A Study In Black and White." Both have mastered the difficult art of trick roller skating and they perform the most difficult feats upon the elusive rollers in a graceful and artistic manner, it is said. Their work covers a wide range and they perform all of the ordinary and a great many extraordinary feats upon roller skates. They work in an easy and graceful manner at all times and their novelty should prove popular during the coming week.

As the extra feature for the week, Luttringer Lucas an dcompany will present "A Girl of the West," from the pen of H. D. Estrell. The theatergoer who enjoys intense drama of true Western life will take the keenest delight in this playlet of the prairies. There is nothing of the blood and thunder element in this actlet but it has gripping vitality and stirring heart interest that are both sane and true of the life of the plains. Mr. Luttringer, who has been prominent in the support of Maude Adams in "Peter Pan," Macklyn Arbuckle in "The Round-Up," and other distinguished legitimate stars, is seen in the role of a miner and his exact portrayal of this character has won him praise from the most noted criticis. Miss Lucas is equally as clever in the role of a Western girl. The following is a notice from the Utica Daily Press: "One of the best bills the Hippodrome has ever offered is headed by Luttringer-Lucas company in "A Girl From the West.' This is undoubtedly one of the best one act plays that is on the stage today. It has strong situations, is full of quick and energetic action, and through all there is a charming love story and an abundance of humor. It touches the melodramatic just a bit. It is a vigorous though rational story, full of interesting things and presented by people of an ability seldom seen outside of the larger dramatic productions."

The moving pictures will be of the usual high standard and will close a show that is second to none on the Sullivan and Considine circuit. A matinee is given daily at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either 'phone. A special school children's matinee is given every Saturday at 2:30. All scholars under 14 years of age are admitted for 5 cents. Special attention is paid to the comfort and entertainment of ladies and children at all times.

NEW PROGRAMS OF PHOTOPLAY

Bills at Odeum and Lyric Theaters for Next Week.

New programs of photoplay will be presented at the Odeum and Lyric theaters next week. "Priscilla and the Umbrella" will be the feature photoplay at the Odeum and "The Way of the Transgressor" at the Lyric.

In the former two young men have a tempestuous time fighting for the good graces of Priscilla. She succeeds in ridding herself of one of them by a clever subterfuge, which brings the second to her feet and proves his worth, while the former is shown up in his true light.

The story of the feature film at the Lyric is told as follows in the advance notices:

Bill Bronson marries a Western girl and takes her to an Eastern city, where they make their home. Bill soon tires of the bonds of matrimony and begins to neglect the little woman who has given up all to share his lot. A child is born to them, but instead of softening Bill's nature is seems only to irritate him, and he takes up with evil associates. Dissipation soon loses him his position and he sinks lower and lower until he is persuaded to become a thief in order to live without manual toil, a thing he abhors.

The complications that arise from now on are intensely interesting, holding the spectator spellbound until the climax is reached, in which Bill is removed from the path of those whose happiness he would blight, and the story ends leaving little doubt in the minds of those who witness this powerful picture sermon that "the way of the transgressor is hard."

The other pictures at the Odeum will be: "A Republican Marriage," a dramatic film telling of an incident of the French revolution, and "Who Gets the Order?" a comic film telling of the fight for an order between two traveling salesmen and the efforts they make to land it.

The two remaining films at the Lyric will be "Her Adopted Father," a dramatic film telling of the events in the life of a fisherman's daughter, and "April Fool," a big comedy film showing the pranks of some children on All Fools' Day.

There will be a new illustrated song at each theater during the week. Continuous performances are given every afternoon and evening.

AT THE HAPPY HOUR

Another big feature act has been booked for next week at the Happy Hour theater. The "La De Da Girls" took well during the past week, but next week the feature act will be "The Dinky Dorum Girls," including Lysatt and Fair, and Howard and Boyd, recently of the William Watson company and "The Isle of Bong Bong." They will present "A Trip to China-

BILL FOR WEEK OPENING SUNDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 9th
CHAS. L. FLETCHER & COMPANY — "His Nerve" is the name of Mr. Fletcher's sketch. It is the most thrilling little playlet on the Orpheum circuit at the present time. Don't miss it.
MUSIKAL GIRLS — Five very clever young women, former members of the Boston Fadettes' Orchestra, give this act. It is something out of the ordinary in the line of musical acts.
LOTTA GLADSTONE — Read what the New York papers say of this clever comedienne, in the dramatic columns of this paper.
BROWN AND AYER — These two people present a singing, dancing and piano playing act of the type that is always popular when it is good, and their act is good.
JAMES H. CULLEN — If you don't know Jim Cullen it is your misfortune. If you don't hear him when he is in Duluth, it will be your fault. "Jim" has toured the Orpheum circuit thirteen times.
JOE JACKSON — Jackson calls himself "The European Vagabond." He has a sensationally clever bicycle act.
GERARD AND HUT ELL — These clever foreigners are called "The Iron Jawed Duo." They have a sensational acrobatic turn.
THE KINODROME AND THE OVERTURE BY THE ORPHEUM CONCERT ORCHESTRA WILL COMPLETE THE BILL.
PRICES: Matinees, 25 cents, except Sundays and Holidays. Nights, 15, 25, 50 and 75 Cents.

town." It is a $650 act, according to the press agent, and carries special scenery and costumes.

Etta M. Free will sing "Playland." The pictures will be headed by an Imp film, "The Lovers' Signal," and the other films will be a Powers picture play, "Cupid's Monkey Wrench," and a Tanhouser comic film.

During the past week the Happy Hour has been sold out every evening, and many were turned away unable to get seats.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

Think of a "show" lasting six hours. This was the actual running time of the entertainment at the Winter Garden when the final dress rehearsal was given. Allowing for waits, which wouldn't come after the performance began running smoothly, it meant that fully one hour of dialogue, song or dance had to be "cut." And cut it was so that now the show runs slightly less than three hours and forty-five minutes.

This is the continental idea of variety—"come when you may." It took prodigious labor to make the Winter Garden what it is and in the opinion of J. Shubert, who has personally supervised not only the construction of the theater but the making of the show, it was better to have too much than too little.

How and where to cut was a perplexing question. Fortunately there are no stars at the Winter Garden, so that when this and that principal was asked to drop certain songs, condense certain scenes, abbreviate monologues, the stage manager's word was accepted then and there without bickering. As a matter of fact the entire bill was completely changed around. The ballet, in which M'lle. Dazie appears, was second on the program. Now it concludes the performance. The Chinese opera comes first and then Tortajada, the Spanish dancer. She is followed by the eleven-scene musical comedy, "La Belle Paree," which runs till long after 11 o'clock.

After "La Belle Paree" comes a genuine treat in tiny Mizi Hajos, who in white tights conducts the orchestra while sixty girls, similarly attired, go through various marches.

One of the odd things about the bill is that an intermission comes as late as 11:30. But the audience seems to understand and there are as many promenaders at this hour as is the case earlier in the evening. In fact, the promenade at the Winter Garden is one of the features of the new place of amusement.

William A. Brady will continue his policy of post-season revivals began so successfully last year with "The Mikado," "Jim the Penman" and "Diplomacy." Mr. Brady has selected two of the strongest and most popular plays of other years for production this spring, but he is not yet ready to reveal their identity, or to say who will take part in them. All that is known is that one is a drama and the other a comedy.

With but four years of stage experience to her credit, Pauline Perry will appear in New York next season in the prima donna role of a new Viennese opera by Franz Lehar under the management of E. A. Weil. Miss Perry is at present starring in Weil's vaudeville act called "The Silver Bottle," a miniature musical comedy, in which she employs her vocal, dramatic and terpsichorean talents to considerable advantage. Last season Miss Perry essayed the role of Adelina in "The Climax" with the Southern company, repeating her success of the previous season with "The Merry Widow" in the same territory.

Liebler & Co., have accepted for early production a new four-act play entitled, "As It Was in the Beginning," by T. Wigney Percyval of their Commander Walk company, playing at Wallack's. It is the story of a man and his wife whose early struggles have been replaced by a prosperity which has finally forced them apart. The scenes are laid in South Africa, a region with which Mr. Percyval is familiar through his frequent visits. Mr. Percyval is part author of a number of dramas, one of which, "Sunday," was played in New York by Ethel Barrymore.

Henry W. Savage has just bought the French farce called "The Million," now running at the Palais Royal in Paris. This piece is unusual in more respects than one. In the first place, it already has run for more than 170 times, which is going a long distance in the French capital, and what is still stranger, it contains not the faintest vestige of smut, which is the long-suit of the Palais Royal.

Mary Anderson has renewed her connection with the theater, not, however, as player, but she has collaborated with Novelist Robert Hichens in a five-act play based on his novel, "The Garden of Allah." Hichens is now at Biskra, Algeria, in the interests of George C. Taylor, who obtained the American-English rights to the new play, some of the scenes of which, following the novel, are laid in the Biskra neighborhood.

Sam Bernard has never been able to overcome the glare of the footlights that make it impossible for him, in looking out into the auditorium of a theater, to clearly distinguish faces, say in the front row. By intuition, he feels the pulse of his audience and temperamentally acts accordingly; the contour of a person impresses him, however, if the contour happens to be exceptional. During his New York Casino run of "He Came From Milwaukee," Mr. Bernard noticed two men who had aisle seats in the front row on one side of the house; they were in those seats at every performance, and had been steady attendants for more than a week before the comedian remarked it.

On coming off the stage one night, he said to Louis Harrison. "Have you noticed those two men in the front row? They are here every night, and even at matinees. They must be stuck on the show for fair."

Mr. Harrison asked the location of the seats to make his own visual observation. At the conclusion of the act, he said to Bernard, "I've found out who those two men are."

"Have you?" said Bernard, "I'll bet they are rich old codgers who haven't anything to do but go to the theaters."

"Not much," said Harrison, "they're the French horn players. There isn't room for them in the orchestra pit, and those seats are set aside for them at every performance."

AL LUTTRINGER.

LILLIAN LUCAS.

RICHARD CROKER ENTHUSES OVER PROSPECTS OF THE "NEW IRELAND"

Richard Croker, the once political leader of Tammany hall, stood at his favorite window in the Democratic club of New York one fine afternoon last week, and, while feasting his eyes upon the gay panorama of Fifth avenue, discoursed upon "the new Ireland."

"We have our New South over on this side," he said, "and I've seen the new South grow. But you have heard nothing here about the New Ireland, which I am seeing grow. It's not the same Ireland it was twenty—yes, even ten—years ago. It has taken on a new life and has started all over again to develop into the richest, most prosperous and contented part of Europe."

The veteran politician's eyes glowed with enthusiasm when he said this, and there was a note of yearning in his voice as he added:

"And how beautiful Ireland is! It is always green, and it is ever restful to the eye. I have traveled a bit in my time, and I know of no spot on the earth as beautiful as Ireland. I am dying right now to get back there. I'll be there again within three weeks, and then I'll be happy."

Depicts the Wonderful Change.

Mr. Croker's rapture was occasioned by his visitor having shown him an excerpt from a speech recently delivered in the house of commons by Winston Churchill on the difference between the Ireland of today, intellectually, socially and industrially, and the Ireland of 1886, when Gladsone made his first great fight for home rule, and of the astonishing changes that have been wrought in the people since the passage of the land tenure act.

"Mr. Churchill doesn't tell the whole story, no, not even half of it," declared Mr. Croker, after carefully scanning the excerpt. "I don't believe the annals of the human race show such an awakening among a whole people as is now going on in Ireland as a direct result primarily of the restoration of sanity to the Irish themselves. There is no comparison at all between the Ireland of my boyhood days and the Ireland of the present.

"It is with the era of the last twenty years only that a comparison can be made. In that time I have seen with my own eyes and enjoyed with my own heart a development that rivals any tale of fiction.

"In that time social order has taken the place of anarchy, prosperity has succeeded poverty and happiness has driven out misery.

Homes Within Reach of the Poor.

"Under the new land law no poor man need be without a home of his own in Ireland—a home that belongs to him and that he can bequeath to his heirs.

"Dismissing the harrowing recollections of the misery and poverty of the Ireland of my boyhood, let us come down to so short a time as twenty years ago. Even then two or more families lived in a single hut with a mud floor—and this they had to share with their pigs and goats.

"Now every family in rural Ireland lives in a modern house of its own, bought by the government and paid for by the owner in rent so low that no able-bodied man can complain of the cost as a hardship.

"All of this marvelous change has been brought about by the new land law passed by the British parliament. Under that law, if you are a poor man in Ireland, and I have more land than I actually need, you can apply to the local board that constitutes a part of the Irish land commission and have a part of my surplus acres set aside for your use and ownership. The government will buy the land from me at at a value appraised by the board, and turn it over to you after putting up a one-story house for you at a cost of about $2,000.

"You owe me nothing. Your entire indebtedness is to the government. You pay out of your crops or other earnings to the government every year what amounts to a minimum of 2½ per cent interest on the total.

Buying on the Instalment Plan.

"In other words, you pay about $50 a year rent for your house and the same proportion on your land. You can pay more every year, if you care to. As soon as the government gets back what it paid out for you the property is yours.

"Why, in the last two or three years the government has put eight of that kind of tenants on my own land, five miles out of Dublin. Mark you, the government did not ask me if I wanted to sell these eight different pieces, of about an acre each, to the tenants who now occupy them. Each of them let the local board of the land commission know that he wanted an acre of my land with a house on it. There was no argument about it. The board simply appraised each parcel in turn, and dispossessed me in favor of the poor man who needed it."

"And you didn't kick about this?" Mr Croker was asked.

"Bless me, no!" his voice boomed out in merry laughter. "It would have done no good had I kicked; and besides I didn't want to kick. There was no kick coming to me. I own five hundred acres, minus the eight or so that have been taken from me, and that was more land than I actually need. The tenants on it now are hard working men, and they are rearing respectable and happy families.

"That is so much better than the poverty and misery and crime of the Ireland of my youth that I am only glad that the new dispensation has been ushered in by the present land laws. Each has a pretty little garden around his house, and flowers now grow where rank weeds used to grow.

Houses for Day Laborers.

"This class of tenant, you must understand, are not farmers. They are day laborers. But if one acre can thus be taken by the government and turned over to poor tenants, larger tracts can be taken by the same process. These larger tracts, from twenty-five acres up, are cutting up the great estates of Ireland and converting them rapidly into small farms. It is this that is making Ireland happy and prosperous. For the first time in centuries the Irish people know that by work and good order they can own the soil on which their oppressed ancestors for generations toiled, without hope of reward, for absentee landlords. It is telling not only in the increased production of Ireland and the contentment of the population, but also in the growth of the population. The figures show that emigration from Ireland has dropped remarkably in the last ten years. The people are staying at home because they are coming into the land they love."

"In the meantime has the attitude of England toward Ireland undergone a change?"

"You have put the cart before the horse," Mr. Croker said, with a whimsical smile. "The attitude of Ireland has changed toward England. England is slow to change. But Parnellism has taken the place of Fenianism among the Irish people. Instead of dynamite and the dagger, they are now using enlightened argument and are appealing to the sense of fairness of England. Fenianism is dead; Parnellism is more vital than when the doctrine of patience and peace was preached by its founder. As a result the people have gone to work, and they are making the glorious old island blossom like the rose."

Then Mr. Croker made a startling announcement. "If," he said, as if measuring his words exactly to suit his thoughts—"if Ireland were not under a foreign flag, my advice to the young man in crowded America, especially the East, would be a paraphrase of Horace Greeley's advice forty years ago, when I was a young man in New York: 'Go to Ireland, young man.' It is a poor man's land.

"All we need now to fill Ireland's cup of happiness to overflowing is home rule, and we'll get that very soon now. By home rule I mean a parliament for Ireland, just as Canada and other loyal possessions have."

One Conductor Helped Back to Work.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes: "I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism and used two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy with good effect. The third bottle put me on my feet and I resumed work as conductor on the Lexington, Ky., Street Railway. It will do all you claim in cases of rheumatism." It clears the blood of uric acid. All druggists.

MAY BE AS RICH AS ROCKEFELLER

United Doctors Say Duluth Man May Become Richest Man in the World.

"Things move pretty fast when they do move, and within a few years Duluth may lay claim to having the richest man in the world. So many elements of success depend, not so much on environment, but on the individual," said Dr. Duckworth of the United Doctors in an interview yesterday.

"A few years ago," continued Dr. Duckworth, "I treated for nervous trouble a man who was in a merchandise store doing a good business. This man was a very faithful worker and was trusted by his employers with the management of the store whenever the employer found it necesary to absent himself. When he came under my treatment he confided to me that nothing but his inability to assume the whole responsibility of the store kept him from being taken in as a partner. He stated that his boss, who was well along in years, wanted to retire and wished him to take full charge, but he had not the ambition to assume full responsibility. The strange thing about this man was that he looked the picture of health. He would never be picked out as a man suffering from anything worse than a good appetite. But he was extremely nervous, had spells of despondency and self disgust and was a regular pessimist. He had ruined his health by youthful excesses and indiscretions and now had no confidence in himself and was afraid to take the risk of the store management in fear that he might make a failure of it and lose the position he had.

"I have found a great many people like this in my experience—people of vigorous constitutions who have not the moral courage to work out their own destiny—people intended by nature to lead, but who, because of some nervous weakness, are left behind in the race. It is pretty evident that this life is a race between the strong and the weak. It is a race where the prize goes to the person with strength, courage and ambition to get there. And the person who does not feel the call to force his way into the crush is going to be left behind. Our United treatment cured the clerk of his trouble and the ambition which he lacked was not long in showing its return. The vital energy which flowed into his veins and brain within a few weeks after he began the treatment made a new man of him. He took charge of the business, proved to his employers that he was master of its details, and within a short time he was given half interest.

"Our United system of treatment will put new life into a body exhausted and debilitated. It will prepare any person for a battle for success by charging the nerves with the fire or vigorous energy and youthful vigor. Our system of treatment will turn back the hands of time for old people by renewing the vigor of youth in their veins. One old man of seventy-four says he feels as young as he did at forty after using United treatment for only four months.

"The history of our world's greatest financiers show some striking illustrations of the fruits of strenuous enterprise. It shows that most of the people who are now dominating the business world began life as the sons of poor parents without any better start than millions of others had and will have. There are only a few of our rich men who were born rich. Wealth and prominence have come with the expenditure of great energy, and any man who can and will hustle has a good chance to become twice as rich as Rockefeller, if that be his ambition. It matters not whether he lives in Minnesota or Timbuctoo.

"Young people who find they are wanting in self confidence, who shrink from meeting people because they fear they will not make a good impression, will find by the study of themselves that the trouble is only a lack of nerve force. Build up your nervous energy by our methods and the nerve force and self confidence will come. People in almost every state in the Union who have taken the United system of treatment are examples of vigorous energy, strength of character, and ambition to dare and accomplish big things.

"Imagine the persons depressed by disease and weakness, downcast, hopeless, ill-natured, peevish, despondent, absent-minded, inattentive, unattractive. How can such a person hope to get on in the world? Everything is against him. They not only have not the energy to help themselves, but they repel people who may have it in their power to throw something in their way. Give us persons broken down in spirit, gloomy, despondent, unambitious or lacking confidence in themselves; let us place them under our treatment, and in three months' time we will have them world-beaters. This weak-hearted disposition is nothing but weak nerves, and our treatment taken daily at your home will overcome it in a few weeks.

"I heartily agree with President Eliot of Harvard University, who recently said in a lecture to students:

"'So far as I have seen, there is one indispensible foundation of life and health. A young man ought to be a clean, wholesome vigorous animal; that is the foundation of everything else, and I hope you will be in all things, nothing more.'

"All persons who lack the energy to dig their way to success may have the way pointed out to them by the United Doctors, who can be consulted at their offices on the third floor of the Columbia building. As you know," said Dr. Buckworth to the reporter, "we accept no incurable cases and we reserve the right to refuse any case that, in our judgment, is beyond help." With this remark the doctor ended the interview.

BLOOM WAS OUTCLASSED

Packey McFarland Knocks Out Ghetto Fighter in the Eighth Round.

After the Third Round the Result Was Never in Doubt.

Racine, Wis., April 8.—Packey McFarland had things all his own way last night in his battle with Maurice Bloom, the Chicago Ghetto boy who has been coming to the front recently, and the battle ended in the eighth when Bloom was knocked out after having been against the ropes or down in nearly every round.

The first three rounds were uneventful until the middle of the third, when a straight right to the stomach by Bloom, shook McFarland into action and he rushed his man to the ropes with hard rights and lefts to the face. In the fourth Bloom became groggy under a pair of rights to the face, and in the fifth the gong saved Bloom from a knockout. In the sixth McFarland had Bloom on his knees for an instant, but Bloom was gamely taking punishment and jumped up, but was pushed to the ropes again. In the seventh Bloom took more punishment and again was piled on the ropes when the bell sounded, and the end came in the eighth, when a left to the chin sent Bloom down for the count of four, and when he staggered to his feet, another in the same place finished the fight.

The fight as a whole was a great disappointment as the fight fans were led to believe the Ghetto boy was in fine form and was prepared to put up a good argument. He was not in McFarland's class.

Manager Jones, who looks after Ad Wolgast's interests, appeared in the ring and made the statement that McFarland was a lightweight and that there had been a great deal of talk of a go between Wolgast and McFarland, and that Wolgast would meet him if McFarland would weigh in at 134 pounds, ringside. McFarland's manager answered and announced that the lightweight limit was at 133 pounds and claimed that several fighters had gone into the ring above that weight and was willing to wager any amount that McFarland could whip Wolgast and that he would weigh in at 133 pounds in the afternoon. No agreement was reached between the managers.

GUN CLUB WILL OPEN SEASON

First Regular Shoot Will Be Held on Pike Lake Grounds.

A big two-day shooting tournament is planned for some date in July by the officials of the Northwestern Gun club. This announcement was made yesterday. It was further stated that a big interclub shoot would be held here some time during the present season between the Northwestern and Central Gun clubs. This should prove one of the interesting events of the season.

The first regular trap shoot of the season will be held at the Northwestern Gun club grounds on the Pike Lake road tomorrow. The traphouse will be open and the opening event of the season is expected to be attended by a very large number of the members of the club.

Already elaborate preparations are being made by the officials of the club for the grand opening of the 1911 season, which will occur on the first Sunday in May. A special program will be carried out that day and it will be one of the big events in the history of the club.

Officials of the club say that a most prosperous season is ahead of the organization. Certain it is that never before in the history of the club have such preparations been made for any season.

A great interest is already being taken in the interclub shoot, which will bring together the best shots of the city. The announcement of the two-day tournament in July has also aroused a high degree of interest among the shooters.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

(BY BRUCE.)

THE annual meeting of the Duluth Boat club has been set for the first Tuesday in May. For some years past this gathering has been one of the events of the season. The bunch meets, renews old acquaintances and the season is lined up. The social features of this event have become quite as important from the fact that the carnival is ahead of the club.

Not until the election of the four department heads has been accomplished will very much be known of the plans that will be carried out by the captains for the present season. This is one of the reasons why the annual election of officers will be an important matter.

Nothing so far has been done in regard to arranging the games of the tennis department. The same goes for the sailing department. A general line on the activities of the rowing department of the club is known at the present time from the business arranged last season. The dinner at the Commercial club, Monday evening, will also give additional information on this department.

From the general outlook there will be few changes in the four departments or in the officers of the club. The men experienced in the business of running the club in the past should be left in charge when the need of experience is one of the essential requirements of running a big water carnival.

Attention is called here to the dinner of Monday evening, for it will start the season off with the right kind of spirit, or at least should, and it is especially important that the members of the club interested in the sports of the season should lend the assistance of their presence, for every one can help, whether he takes part in athletics or not.

It also might be mentioned here that the sale of tickets will close today. Those who desire to attend can secure their tickets from Albert Ames, secretary of the club, or from any of the department captains.

On the Use of Pure English.

ONE gentleman was telling his friend how educated baseball players were. He stated that it was surprising how many college men were breaking into the game, and the purity and strength of their language.

"Many baseball players say 'I have it,' instead of the old expression of 'I got it,' said the man who was telling his friend of the Henry James line of talk handled around the in and outfields.

That evening the two friends happened to stroll into a place where liquid refreshments accompany waiters when you ring. In the next open booth were some baseball players. Adjoining the men of the diamond was a prizefighter and a promoter. The pugilist and promoter were engaged in earnest conversation. Money was under discussion.

The baseball players were discussing the loss of the game and grew a little loud.

The prizefighter told the baseball players to cut out the noise, lest he come over and get one or two of them.

"You stay where you dam is," was the retort of one of the baseball players.

The Rising Fame of Dear "Doc."

OUR own Doctor McNulty has been asked to officiate in the coronation festivities that will be held up Winnipeg way between Pal Brown of these parts and one Jack White of Chicago. The fight means much to the Hibbing boy, and it also to the boy from Chicago, who is blossoming on the pugilistic horizon as one of the real classy boys of the country.

That old Chicago crowd, ever ready to impugn the motives of the other side, have a distrust in the coming battle that they will not exactly get any of the best of the argument, and that is why they have asked the Duluth man to officiate. They know he knows the game and is on the square.

That is a very nice compliment to the doctor. He is known as one of the best referees in this part of the country. That that sweet old gang of Chicago should trust him is a very good boost for him. Any time the Chicago bunch says a man will do for it, that man has to be pretty nearly there in sporting affairs.

And speaking about this fight, which is carded for the first of May, it will be by far the most important battle that has been fought by the Hibbing boy. Until this past winter, Brown has been content with taking on the boys of this vicinity. His defeat of "Chuck" Larson of Chicago, one of the real tough ones, gave him confidence and reputation. Then his beating of Eddie Greenwald has attracted the attention of outside promoters to his growing fame. His victory over the tough boy from Wisconsin made the White match possible.

A victory over White possibly means an invasion of the East. There is a great curiosity around these parts to see Brown matched against one of the boys with real standing, and for that reason the outcome of the fight with White will be followed by the white heat of interest by the fans in this city and on the wide ranges.

Very Catholic in His Tastes.

JUST the other day a man informed the writer that he read the Bible from a sense of duty, Browning so that he could chat comfortably and confidently with his wife, and the sporting page for recreation, simon pure.

There is really nothing like being catholic in your taste. Right here, though, is where we raise the red flag of war and protest against this recreation thing.

Gladly admitting that you find your evening's recreation on the sporting page of the best of our journals, what information also do you wring from sweet old life by the chronicling of the doings of the men of strenous action. What a fresh and pure ray view do you gather of life.

You are never quite sure of yourself in Browning. "Brownie" was one of the best little optimists of his times, and would have made a swell booster for some circus or water carnival, if anybody could savvy his line of high class lingo.

He was as deep as the Lorimer muddle and as obscure as the illusive pea to the baffled gaze of the New Jersey farmer who has tried the shell game.

There are a lot of people who don't savvy Bob Browning in the least. People who are naturally fond of arguments join Browning clubs and get all they want. Some one tells you that you have hit the right interpretation and you are as tickled as a trust magnate who has been elected one of the board of directors of the church. Then you shyly twit yourself and ask, "How did I guess right?"

But oh you sporting page! There is where you get the free action for your money. When you read that Kid Sharkey swats Kid Paul on the nose and sends him to the cleaners, immediately there is conveyed to your mind just what happened. Ambiguity is chased to the tall woods. You know what happened and there is no guessing.

Again you read that one Merkle is a "bonehead," or is a "bug" or can't hit 'em on the inside, and there is no doubt in your mind. Immediately you know that the sad Mister Merkle does not think fast and when you throw 'em close to his bean he is very liable to strike out or hit a weak one to the infield.

Then there are the ponies, the nags, the oat destroyers, the gee-gees. They are sometimes called the gallopers, the rompers or the coin-carriers. There is not the least doubt what is meant; running horses are under discussion. The breed has not been running very much since foolish young men have been forbidden by law to give their earnings to the bookmakers.

When you read that Prince Fonso, or that once great old mare, Yale 91, made the field looked like a string of gravel cars going up grade; or that Joe Tambien caught the field running wild on the turn and slipped in on the rail in the stretch and kicked mud in the fillies' faces clear down to the wire, the trained mind grasped at once that some horse made some other horses look as foolish as a man called down by his wife in the leering presence of his boss.

You get more than recreation on the sporting page. You get information of wide character, a breath of life, a rumble of things doing and a study of human nature that is human and intense.

SOME LINES TO THE HOLDOUT

O why should a pitcher be pestered to pitch?
Why can't they allow a man time to get rich?
Why bother him just when his business is brisk
To enter baseball with its hazard and risk?
With industry booming, abundance of trade,
With commerce all round him and cash to be made—
Those managers certainly do have a gall
To bother a pitcher to come and play ball.

There's Overall shoveling gold from his mine
In nuggets and boulders eighteen carats fine;
There's busy Vic Willis, who runs a hotel,
With duties important and customers swell;
There's rich Artic Hoffman with bundles of dough
To loan out at 40 per centum or so,
And there's Bobbie Byrne with his vast billiard hall—
Just fancy such busy men asked to play ball!

They say Opportunity knocks only once;
Whoever put that over must be a dunce.
Why, old Opportunity studies the game;
He knows every pitcher and calls him by name;
He comes around regular, every spring,
And looks up their numbers and takes time to ring;
He opens the door, leaves his card in the hall—
O why in the world should a pitcher play ball?

But, though it may seem just a little queer,
These glorious chances come just once a year,
And a stranger than that, they arrive, you will find,
Exactly when contracts are due to be signed.
My, My! but those pitchers are busy just now;
They can't spare a second for baseball, nohow;
Why, millions would not tempt them into the game—
But, heigho, cheer up, they'll be there just the same.

—George S. Applegarth in Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

HUGH JENNINGS TELLS HIS IDEAS OF COACHING

The men who do the coaching are important cogs in the baseball machine that is to grind out victories. They are animated by a twofold purpose.

They must make the most of every successful effort at the bat and on the bases, taking advantage of every momentary weakness of the opposition to further their own cause.

They must never allow enthusiasm to lag, but must keep the players keyed up, regardless of temporary success or failure.

Particularly is this true of the coach stationed at third base. At some stage of almost every game this man must decide instantly whether a scoring chance is presented. To do this he must know his men and their opponents. He must prepare in advance for an emergency. When the time comes he must act without hesitation.

When I am on the coaching line I am kept silent until we have a runner on base. I may do something to let my boys know I am hopeful, but the rules bar vocal encouragement of the batter.

A batsman becomes a runner. Suppose we say he singles. The next man sacrifices. Occasionally on this play the runner may take two bases, but this can be done only when the infield plays carelessly.

We have a man on second and one out. A safe hit, and the run is the logical hope. I take it for granted the batter will get that hit. If he doesn't we can hardly hope to get the runner past third and will be concerned only with the advisability of holding second.

Expecting that hit—there's a lot in having confidence in your men, believe me—I glance over the outfield. It may have a great thrower or a weak one—I plan accordingly.

The hit comes. It is just over third and the outfielder is a poor thrower. While the ball is rolling I motion my runner to try for the plate.

The crowd expects him to be thrown out. The play is close, but the runner slides in ahead of the ball. Meantime the batter has been sent to second by the coach on first. The crowd thinks we are lucky. As a matter of fact it was a play that would not vary a fifth of a second in a dozen trials.

The third base coach must keep constant watch on the infielders, with a runner on second. The runner watches the ball. The coach must warn him when an opponent slips behind him.

Every baseball crowd likes clean, legitimate coaching — coaching free from senseless yelling blackguarding pitchers and the like. I believe we could improve the game by allowing the coachers more latitude, particularly where the game drags along inning after inning without men getting onto the bases.

If, at such times, the coaches could hand a line of encouragement to the batter, it would show that hope was not lost, and carry the impression that the team behind was trying, and game. Further, I would not be surprised to see the effect of such coaching apparent in the score.

The present coaching rules were drafted when players were far less under the control of the umpries than they are at present. There is almost no danger of abuse if more latitude is allowed. Last year two umpires in the American league permitted clean coaching of batters on occasion. The result was more interest and closer competition.

DOPING HORSES NOT UNCOMMON

Whisky and Other Stimulants Often Given to the Gallopers.

The death of the mare Spes Nostra and the suspension of Trainer Guy Gray bring the "doping" evil once more into the public eye, but just how general the practice has become is known only to those on the inside. Thirty years ago, the doping of race horses was a thing unknown. Today it is general. A prominent race horse man remarked the other night:

"If every man who dopes horses in these days was ruled off the turf, there would be very few men left to train horses and racing would die a natural death. I have doped them myself, and so has nearly every man making pretension to win races, if they will but tell the truth. It is only in rare cases or when some accident occurs that the truth comes out and somebody is punished. But I will guarantee you that there is hardly a race run in these days in which there are not four or five, and perhaps more, doped horses among the starters.

Hard to Detect Drugs.

"It is almost impossible to detect its use, and it is only when there is some organic trouble with the animals that it becomes dangerous and this is more likely to be the case with a mare than with a horse or gelding. If Spes Nostra was doped, and to the superficial racegoer it certainly looks like she was, then there was something else besides dope that made the mare crazy and resulted in her death."

In the old days, the days of heat racing, stimulants were often resorted to and whisky was often given a tired horse after two or three hard fought heats had been run, but this was done openly and with the knowledge of the men in the judges' stand. Nothing was thought of it. In a race of three quarter-mile heats between Grismer, Our Friend and several others at Washington Park, away back in the '80s, Our Friend was given a quart of whisky just before the deciding heat, and, as Ed Corrigan remarked at the time:

"He drank it like a true Kentucky gentleman, so he did."

And it was this quart of whisky that enabled him to finish out one of the most stubbornly fought heat races ever run over the track.

Dwyer Upsets a Coup.

Many amusing tales are told regarding dope and its effects, and the horsemen laugh over them often when together. One day, a few years back, Dick Dwyer was starting horses over one of the Chicago tracks, and it was noticed that he averaged six minutes at the post in each race. The owners of a certain horse had this down fine, and one day they timed the dope so that it would work in just that time, and they played the horse heavily.

On this occasion, however, Dwyer sent the field away almost at the first attempt and it was not until the race was over that the dope began to work, and then the horse went on and ran five miles before he could be stopped. The trainer, a grizzled old Irishman, looked on, and then remarked with an oath: "Begorra, that bates me. I wish to hivins that Dwyer had bruk his watch afore he made thet sthart, so I do."

SMALL FORTUNE IN PURSES.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—Minnesota this year again will lead the fairs of the United States in the amount of her purse offerings, and in the high class of her racing programs. The speed program for the 1911 state fair and exposition has been completed by Speed Supt. Atchison and Secretary J. C. Simpson. The purposes offered aggregate $23,500 for harness races and $1,500 for running races, making a total of $25,000, as against $27,000 offered last year for five days' racing.

CENTRAL HAS GOOD RECORD

Basket Ball Team Won Thirteen Games Out of Sixteen During Season.

Only Defeats Were Against Superior and Hibbing Teams.

The 1910-11 basket ball season just completed at the Central high school was a very satisfactory one for the players and rooters alike.

Sixteen games were played, Central winning thirteen, and three were lost by very small scores.

Capt. Harris and Johnson were the chief basket throwers and with Osman at center formed a good offensive trio.

Solheim and Jeronimus played consistent games at guard during all the season and each contributed several baskets a game to increase Central's scores.

Waldron started the season at center, but an old football injury kept him out of most of the games, although he finished the season in the Superior game last Wednesday.

The complete schedule of games played and the scores are as follows:

D. C. H. S. 69, Alumni 30.
H. C. H. S. 51, Nelson Dewey 9.
D. C. H. S. 22, Y. M. C. A. 20.
D. C. H. S. 29, Superior normal 17.
D. C. H. S. 22, Superior Central 27.
D. C. H. S. 9, Superior normal 33.
D. C. H. S. 30, Little Falls 29.
D. C. H. S. 50, St. Paul Central 17.
D. C. H. S. 26, Aitkin 19.
D. C. H. S. 53, St. Paul Central 8.
D. C. H. S. 46, Cloquet 6.

COLLEGE MEN IN A WRESTLING MEET

Indiana and Illinois Grapplers Have a Tournament at Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ind., April 8.—Wrestlers of the University of Indiana and University of Illinois meet here tonight in the first grappling tournament ever held between conference teams or between any universities of the West, although the sport is popular among Eastern colleges.

There will be three bouts, the team winning two of them will be declared the winner. An exhibition match will be held between freshmen of the two schools who are ineligible under conference rules. Both teams are said to be in excellent shape and a good exhibition of skill and endurance is expected. If tonight's meet is successful, it may mean the adoption of wrestling by the conference.

The light heavyweight match will be staged first with Bodenhafer of Indiana, opposing Matchers of Illinois. In the middleweight class, which will be put on second, Cochrane of Indiana will grapple with Serrell of Illinois, these two to be followed by the lightweights, Fields of Indiana and Tussey of Illinois. The exhibition match will be put on by two featherweights, Teter representing Indiana and Calumbo for Illinois.

Charles Olson of Indianapolis, light heavyweight champion, will referee.

"DOC" M'NULTY WILL REFEREE BIG FIGHT

Dr. N. B. McNulty of this city, one of the best boosters of clean sports in the Northwest, has been chosen to referee the Pal Brown-Jack White fight at Winnipeg, which is scheduled for May 1.

It was the insistence of the Chicago backers of White that resulted in the Duluth man being chosen. The Chicago bunch have intimated that White might get the worst of any ruling, were there not an absolutely square man in the ring, and this square man has turned out to be the local referee, who is believed to be one of the most competent judges of boxing in the Northwest.

It is believed the fight between Brown and White will be one of the greatest ever held in the Northwest. The Chicago boy is said to be awfully fast and clever. It is not believed he possesses the sting that is carried by the Hibbing boy, and for that reason the backers of the range man are looking for a victory for Pal.

A number of range admirers of Pal will make the trip to Winnipeg to witness the encounter.

CAMERON WINS FIRST HONORS

W. R. Cameron carried off first honors in the standing hop, step and jump competition last evening at the Y. M. C. A. Cameron made a mark of 24 feet 8 inches in the event, the others finishing in the following order:

Beschenbosel	23 ft.	8 inches
J. Nasalund	23 ft.	6 inches
William Otto	23 ft.	2 inches
A. Coming	22 ft.	10 inches
Phil Moore	22 ft.	7 inches
C. J. Rue	22 ft.	6 inches
Berkleman	22 ft.	2 inches
George Bailey	21 ft.	3 inches
R. W. Capin	21 ft.	3 inches
C. T. Brown	21 ft.	3 inches
Hegstrom	21 ft.	3 inches
Ulvang	20 ft.	11 inches
Haugen	18 ft.	5 inches
A. Nasalund	17 ft.	11 inches

George Bailey leads in the total number of points gathered in the list of events ran off so far, having 962 to his credit. Phil Moore has 956 and W. R. Cameron 872.

Gotch Beats Westergaard.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8.—Frank Gotch defeated Jesse Westergaard of Des Moines, Iowa, here last night in two straight falls. He secured the first fall in 21 minutes and 50 seconds and the second in 9 minutes and 32 seconds.

"HAM" PEYTON,
Official Referee.

WILLIAM L'ESTRANGE,
Clerk of Course and Former Coach.

From the present indications there will be a number of veterans on hand when the call is made for the assembling of the water men in the shells. At present it is believed that practically all of the candidates out last season will again be in line.

As far as is known at the present time, Thompson, Quimby, Hare, Crawford, Forgette, Lathrop, Sole, Slack, Walker, Nelson, Talboys, O'Donnell, Refus, Killorin and Mapp, all veterans, will be out.

In addition to these men there are a number of green candidates training at the Y. M. C. A. at the present time, new blood is wanted and needed and the officials of the club are hoping that some stars will be produced from the large list of candidates who are taking light workouts at the present time.

Practically all of the offices of the Northwestern International Rowing association are held by local men. Murray Peyton is president and John McGregor is secretary, Hans Haroldson, Anthony Puck and little Artie Michaud are officers of the association. It has been the custom of the association to make residents of the city holding the regatta officers for that year.

Rowing will soon take active form. Men are already out at St. Paul and in about two weeks from the present time the Duluth boys will be out in the shells.

OLD FITZ WAS GREATEST FIGHTER

There was only one Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons. Only one gawky blacksmith, who, at the age of 35, went out and won a world's championship and for five years successfully defended it. Old Bob set a record that will probably stand for all time in the archives of fistiania.

Fitz was the Mme. Bernhardt of fightdom. Age did not leave any defects upon him and he was fighting great battles when other men were past the meridian of their years. The freckled "kangaroo" established a goal that fighters of the present day will never be able to touch.

There are few old glove rammers in the ring today. The rusty arms of antiquity have evidently been consigned to the proper place—the junkman's backyard. Age cuts small figure with the exponents of the manly art of pommeling. Youth is king, and a man's proficiency is not gauged by his years because all of the children of the god of fisticuffs are pretty equally matched in this regard.

Johnson Is Exception.

In the hit and get away game of today a man past 30 is rated as being on the decline of his powers. He is looked upon in ring circles the same as an octogenarian. Such a man has not a chance of ever ascending to a title, although one does hold one now—Jack Johnson. But Jack is an exception.

Only five fighters who are now making their living by sticking gloves into an opponent's face stick. They are Jack Johnson, Cyclone Johnny Thompson, Mike and Jack (Twin) Sullivan and Jim Flynn. Only two are 30—Jem Driscoll and Rudolph Unholz.

Of those past the acknowledged period of decadence, Cyclone Johnny Thompson is the oldest, Sycamore, Ill., was the first training quarters of the cyclonic one, 35 years ago. Thompson is the oldest ring fighter of the present time. However, he didn't start as early as some of his competitors and has only been in active conflict nine years.

Next to Thompson is the champion, Johnson. The negro has participated in the sorrows and joys of mundane existence for 34 years. Johnson has come the closest to Fitz's record. He was 32 when he won the title from Tommy Burns.

Can't Predict Result.

The two antiquated bald-headed twins, Mike and Jack (Twin) Sullivan, rank next in order in the list. Jack has been stopping cross-counters and moving his hands in faultless rhythm for nearly thirteen years. Mike is the junior twin of the ring sport. He only took up the game in earnest in 1901, when the fame of his brother began to permeate his being.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fighter, is 32 years of age. The fight game has known him for nine years. Flynn is the last of the millers over the one score and ten.

Unholz Is Knocked Out.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 8.—Rudolph Unholz, the Boer lightweight, was knocked out in the third round of a scheduled 15-round bout by Tommy Moore of Chicago, here last night. Unholz was suffering from an infected ear due to an operation and Moore won by pounding the injured member.

Free to Boys

I Have a Glove, Mitt, Mask, Ball, Bat, Cap and Belt for Every Boy Who Will Write to Me.

There are seven splendid pieces in this great outfit. The ash bat is a good one. The mask is made of heavy wire, full size. The catcher's mitt is thickly padded, very heavy and has patented fastener. The glove is of tanned leather and has patent clasp. The ball is strongly stitched and will last. A neat, adjustable belt and a dandy cap complete this great outfit. Remember you get the whole outfit of seven pieces for a little easy work. Write me today and I will tell you just how to get it.

WANTS TO MEET AD WOLGAST

OWEN MORAN.

This snapshot of Owen Moran was made at George Gould's polo grounds at Lakewood, Saturday last, when the American polo players were practicing for their coming match with the English polo team. Moran is making his headquarters at Lakewood while waiting for another match. He may take on Knockout Brown, but he hopes for a match with Ad Wolgast.

SPORTING NOTES

Miss Mary Kelley, a Denver Amazon, issues a challenge to any wrestler, man or woman, to wrestle at 133 pounds.

Peaches Graham, the Boston catcher, is still holding out for a $300 raise.

Pitcher Cecil Ferguson is another player outside the fold. Cecil's 1910 salary was $2,200 and a $500 bonus, which the national commission forced the Boston club to pay. This year's contract calls for $2,400.

Although Mrs. Helen Hathaway Robinson Britton, niece of the late Stanley Robinson, now controls the St. Louis National League club, it is hinted that she will soon receive a substantial offer for her stock. Several Cincinnati men who were supposed to be the backers of Promoter Fletcher of third league fame, are reported to be ready to buy the club.—New York Sun.

Tom O'Rourke, the New York fight promoter, has a white hope he wishes to match against Carl Morris. His name is Albert Palzer. He is six feet two inches tall and weighs 212 pounds.

"Impartial umpiring in spring exhibition games is becoming the regular thing instead of a rarity," says one of the scribes traveling with the Yankees. "The New York players have been fairly treated everywhere.

"Chicago will win the pennant in a walk," predicts W. J. McBeth of the New York American. "The former world's champions will breeze home easy winners." "New York will have the flag cinched before Labor day," is the opinion of Walter St. Dennis of the Globe.

James B. Haggin, owner of the Elmendorf stock farm, Lexington, will abandon the plant. He kept 1,200 horses. His retirement is a severe blow to racing.

Johnny Evers has his hatchet out for the Detroit Free Press correspondent who quoted him as saying that Bates and Magee were "boneheads."

Is Fred Hunter a fixture at Pittsburg's first base? The former Kansas City player is making a favorable impression in Hot Springs training camp. Jack Flynn will be carried as pinch hitter.

President Johnson will attend the opening of the new Washington ball park on April 12. The steel and cement stands are rapidly approaching completion.

"Seems impossible for the Giants to take a Southern trip without disgracing baseball," comments J. Ed Grillo. "The methods of the McGraw players have ever been such that a second visit from them to most any community is not looked forward to with pleasure, and the time is not far off when the National league will have to take cognizance of the fact. This thing of engaging in brawls on the slightest provocation may have suited the times some years ago, but nowadays ballplayers are supposed to be men of much higher caliber than before, though the advancement in the standard of the men engaged in the game on the New York team seems to be slow to improve."

Jack Johnson's golden smile doesn't dissipate the gloom of a dark and dingy San Francisco prison cell.

"This looks to be Philadelphia's year," writes Billy Weart. "In making the deal with Cincinnati last fall whereby eight players changed uniforms, it appears as if Charlie Doonin has made a master stroke. Not only has Doolin secured a quartet of balltossers—Beebe, Rowan, Paskert and Lobert — who should give the team better service than the four men who were let go, but he has also restored harmony in his team, and he has secured in Paskert and Lobert men who should increase the team work of the combination."

"In watching the four former Reds down South the thought that frequently occurred to me was — where is the colored gentleman in the wood pile?" writes a scribe. "It seems impossible that a club could let two of the greatest baserunners and hitters in the National league, like Paskert and Lobert, go to another team, even for such stars as Bates and Grant, while Rowan and Beebe acted like men who were certain to take the best of care of themselves during the championship race, and to give the club far better service than McQuillan and Moren."

A tip to young pitchers: Learn to bat and to field your position. Manager Clarke of Pittsburg has sold Twirler Bob Couchman to Los Angeles simply because he cant field bunts, etc. He has speed, control and sharp breaking curves, but as an infield worker he is a member of the awkward squad.

Hot Springs will have three ball parks next spring. No less than five or six major league clubs are anxious to secure a lease of the new field, which is 400 feet square.

MURPHY SOUGHT NAPS.

Tried to Sign Willie Mitchell and Joe Jackson.

There are two men on the Nap roster whom Charley Murphy tried in vain to secure for the Chicago Cubs—Willie Mitchell and Joe Jackson. When Willie was a student at Mississippi Agricultural college, Murphy used considerable of his persuasive powers in an effort to induce the Sardis boy to sign with Chicago, but Willie refused to sign until he had finished his collegiate career. Then Murphy allowed him to drop out of sight, and by the time Chicago had put in a draft for the southpaw, Cleveland had bought him from San Antonio.

Had Joe Jackson been the property of the New Orleans club, Cleveland might have had to bid $10,000 or more for his release, as Charley Murphy was ready to offer Magnate Frank of the Pelicans that much for the great hitting outfielder. But lucky for Cleveland, Jackson was the property of the Athletics, and Cleveland managed to get him through the deal that sent Bristol Lord to the world's champions.

Chicago could use both men this year. In fact, Willie Mitchell would have been a handy southpaw for Frank Chance last year. Willie won twelve and lost eight games for Cleveland, a second divisIon team, while Fleister, the Cub's southpaw, did not pitch enough games to get in the official averages. Neither was he good enough for Chance to retain this year. As for Jackson, he is a better man than any of the trio of gardeners owned by Chicago.

WITH THE MAJORS IN SPRING TRAINING

Play in Mid-Season Form.

Dayton, Ohio, April 8.—The St. Paul Americans lost to the local Central leaguers here yesterday afternoon, 2 to 1. Both clubs played mid-season ball. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Paul	0	0	1

Batteries — Winchell, Fromholtz, Neuchelfeger and Rohrer and Kennick; Steiger, Leroy and Spencer.

Nationals Win in the Ninth.

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—A ninth-inning batting rally enabled the Nationals to take the fifth consecutive game yesterday from the Americans in the local inter-league series. Mrs. Schuyler Britton, the new owner of the Nationals, watched the game, receiving an ovation from the spectators when she appeared in the grand stand. Nations, 7; Americans, 6.

Cobb's Bluff Worked.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 8.—Detroit Americans had no trouble defeating the Cincinnati Nationals yesterday. The game practically was settled in the fourth inning when Cobb by a "bluff" to steal home, coaxed Fromme into a wild pitch, allowing both Cobb and Crawford to count. Detroit, 12; Cincinnati, 5.

Noon Class Wins.

DARBY HAS SWELL TEAM, SAYS WINTERS

"Coddy" Winters, the Cleveland hockey star and also a baseball player of ability, has written to The Herald stating that Darby O'Brien's recruits are the fastest bunch of youngsters he has seen for a long time. Coddy has been out to the practice games a number of times and likes the performance of the recruits.

According to the story sent by Winters, the Irish Orator has lined up the very fastest of the Cleveland youngsters, and that city is pretty well known for the fast article of ball played by the semi-professional teams.

O'Brien feels pretty well satisfied to date with the showing of youngsters, according to the conversation he had with the star hockey player. There are a lot of players to report as yet, but with the material at hand, Patrick Henry believes he has the foundation of a scrappy, fast and hustling team.

In the opinion of Winters, Dave Callahan, the sensational outfielder of last season's champion Eau Claire team, will not stick with the Cleveland Naps. Dave played some great baseball for the Cleveland bunch last fall, but Coddy believes he will be disposed of to Toledo or to Columbus.

From the article of ball played by Callahan last season, after the close of the Minny season, many in these parts believed he would stick up in the big show.

ANCIENT TIM HURST IS QUAINT CHARACTER.

What has become of Tim Hurst, whose entire front monicker is Timothy Carroll? Well, Tim is basking along the "Great White Way," which is the main street in little old New York. Tim is out of baseball—that is, the major league end of it—probably for all time. The cause of his retirement—which was forced—was Eddie Collins, the star second baseman of the champion Athletics. Eddie said Tim spat in his (Collins) face; Tim said he did not; some backed Eddie and the tin was tied to Tim.

Thus ended Tim's career as a major league umpire.

Has Plenty of Coin.

Tim cared little for the loss of his job, for he is well fixed in this world's goods, but he didn't and doesn't like the blot that bespatters his career, and then, he lost an argument. This is something that galled Tim, for in all the twenty years he officiated as an arbiter he never lost any squabble that he was mixed up in. The discharge of the veteran indicator handler did not lose him a friend, even though the evidence presented to President Johnson of the American league appeared sufficient cause for dismissal.

The fans have missed and will miss Tim Hurst, umpire. The players did and will miss him, even though they used to rave and tear their hair when they thought he "muffed" a close decision. Tim is and will be missed by the scribes, for rainy days the witty Irishman had a fund of stories.

Well of Good Stories.

Hundreds of interesting stories have been related in which Tim always played a prominent part, and baseball history has yet to record where Tim finished second in any of his debates—except, of course, in the final.

Tom Hughes, the veteran pitcher of the Washington Senators, and Tim were and are great friends, yet Tom always delighted to get in an argument with the chubby "ump" despite the inevitable outcome.

Gave Hughes "Call Down."

Things broke badly for Hughes early in the season before last, and he finally was sold to Minneapolis. One day before Tom's departure from the hot Southland to the cold winds of the North he was working his best, but no matter what he served the opposing batters seemed unable to connect for anything less than a single. Tim Hurst was umpiring and Tom and Tim had several arguments over various incidents of the game. About the sixth inning at the earnest solicitation of Manager Cantillon, Tom hied himself to the clubhouse.

By the time the game was over Hughes had donned his street clothes, and as it happened got on the same car with Hurst. The car was crowded with fans, and Tom decided to have a little fun at the expense of Tim, who was busily engaged reading a paper.

"Forgot your glasses today, didn't you, Tim?" asked Tom, with a large grin thrown in.

"Nope, decided I didn't need 'um to see what you had today," was Tim's reply, as he continued his perusal of the day's happenings.

Just then it occurred to Hughes that he had forgotten something and he left the car in a hurry, with Tim in full sway.

JERONIMUS IS CHOSEN CAPTAIN

"Dutch" Jeronimus was elected captain of the 1911-1912 basket ball team at a meeting of the Central players Friday. The players decided upon red sweater vests with insignia for their rewards this year.

"DUTCH" JERONIMUS.

IS McFARLAND A WELTERWEIGHT?

Packey McFarland is a much more convincing boxer than a controversialist. The Chicago fighter is admittedly clever and entitled to plenty of verbal bouquets, but he is handing himself quite a large florist establishment when he maintains that if Wolgast quits the game the championship crown properly belongs to him.

In reality the title will then belong to the gentleman who can win it, by beating all the rest—and to none other.

It's not even quite clear that McFarland is eligible to try for this glory, even. For it's whispered—through a megaphone—that he is not a lightweight, but a husky welterweight. McFarland admits that he can slip down to 133 at 3 o'clock, which is not at all according to ringside weight standards. However, he alleges that Erne, Gans and Lavigne all won or lost championships at 135 or over. Gans beat Erne, weighing 135 pounds at 3 p. m., or about 133 at ringside, he urges.

Might be true, Mr. McFarland. But because Jack does wrong it doesn't make it right for Tom, Dick and Harry to follow suit.

Who Set the Marks?

But, after all, who fixed these standards of ours that so seldom are lived up to? Why is the 122-pound mark the featherweight limit here and not in England? Why do they let lightweights weigh 135 abroad and only 133 (ringside) here.

Perhaps, on deeper down, there is an argument for Packey in that there are really no hard-and-fast weights set for the various limits, because none has authority to name them. Of late years the ringside figures have been generally accepted as follows:

Bantamweight	106 pounds
Featherweight	122 pounds
Lightweight	133 pounds
Welterweight	142 pounds
Middleweight	158 pounds
Heavyweight	over 158 pounds

But the history of these championships shows that only in the bantamweight has the limit been approximately maintained. McGovern was responsible for shifting even this class scandalously in his early days. He also boosted the featherweight to 126 pounds and even higher. Scarcely a lightweight, up to the last five years, has fought at the 133-pound ringside weight, while there has not been a really and truly welterweight fighter in a decade. The welters all try to cut themselves down to 135 pounds, like McFarland, where they can "slip it over" on the legitimate lightweight class.

The middleweight limit has been shifted permanently. When Tommy Ryan scrapped for it, he won it at 154 pounds. It has, within the last six or seven years, been moved up to 158 pounds, and Langford, Ketchell and that kind have even fudged on this figure, more than once.

McFarland a Welter.

Coming back to McFarland, he is legitimately a welterweight. But being just a shade too fragile to meet some stronger boy who might come just within the welter maximum, he is trying to crowd his way into a class of really smaller men.

McFarland's welterweight build really gave him a vitcory over Moran; for he had the weight, height and reach that the 136-pounder, a legitimate lightweight could not overcome.

The time has come when England and America should get together and agree on class weights, interpretations of Queensberry rules and the conditions under which weight limits shall be made, ringside, or a few hours ahead of the battle.

The ringside weight is the first thing that should be abandoned. It tends to bring fighters into the ring in no shape for fighting.

TOO MUCH CRITICISM OF SCHOOLS, SAYS STEVENS

Have Some Teachers Besides Those Passed Up By Other Cities.

Ventilating Systems Not All Bad—Board Swamped By Reports.

The April meeting of the board of education came to an abrupt end last night when the clerk was preparing to read the report of the medical inspectors. Director D. E. Stevens moved an adjournment and the motion was carried, the report of the medical inspectors being suspended in the air. As a matter of fact, the report was not important, containing only some suggestions as to window shades to protect the children from an excess of light.

A few minutes before he brought the meeting to a close, Director Stevens had burst out in protest against the criticisms of the board and the schools.

"They have been saying for some time that we are losing all our good teachers on account of low salaries," he said. "To hear some of the people talk, one would think we had no teachers except those who could not obtain positions elsewhere. We have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on buildings, and critics say that our buildings are inadequate and defective. We have spent thousands of dollars on modern ventilating systems, and they say that the ventilation in our schools is rotten.

"As a matter of fact, I believe we have about as good a teaching staff as could be obtained. I believe that our buildings are as good as any buildings in any city in the United States. I believe that our ventilating is as good as any in the country, taken through the system as a whole. I think that most of this criticism is a strained effort to have something to talk about and I'm sick of it all."

Director Stevens' outburst was caused by a re-reading and an explanation of the report of the medical inspectors in ventilation, which was presented to the board at a recent meeting. Director Boyer took up the report in connection with discussion over a bill for $49.70 for stenographic work in connection with the report of Chief Engineer L. A. Larson. Through Director Boyer's protest the bill was left unpaid, the board evidently believing that the chief engineer should pay for it himself.

Too Many Reports.

Director Boyer protested against the chief engineer burying the board under a series of reports. He pointed out that the engineer first submitted a report of forty-eight pages, followed that up with a supplementary report of twenty-four pages and then, errors having been called to his attention, followed with another report of twenty-four pages. Director Boyer said that the volume of the reports were uncalled for and that the assumption on the part of the chief engineer that he was attacked by the medical inspectors in their repor on ventilation was a show of supersensitiveness.

"I have not waded through all those reports," said Director Boyer. "I doubt if any member of the board has done so, for I don't believe they have time. The reports could certainly have been condensed and I don't believe we should pay a bill of this kind for typewriting them. The clerk, superintendent or any other officer of this board does not submit a bill for getting out reports and I don't believe the chief engineer should do so."

When Director Stevens defended Mr. Larson's reports on the ground that the medical inspectors' report called for a reply from the engineer, Director Boyer took up the medical inspectors' report in question.

"Mr. Larson assumes taht he has been attacked," said Dr. Boyer. "His assumption is unwarranted. The medical inspectors are paid to watch out for the health of the children. In the report they discuss ventilation measures and make suggestions as to improvements. They say that Mr. Larson should give more attention to other things and not give his whole concern to the size of coal and water bills. I believe that every member of the board will agree with them in that.

"The detailed reply of the engineer in his supplementary report and corrected supplementary report was not called for by the medical inspectors' report. The definitions given by the chief engineer, the satirical references to statements of the medical examiners, the assumption that the chief engineer is being attacked, are all insults to the intelligence of this board and I believe the chief engineer should be called upon to apologize to this board instead of our paying a bill for the making up of the reports."

"If there was more harmony between principals and engineers at the different buildings I believe there would be no trouble about ventilation," said President Magner. "I believe that the recommendations of the committee on teachers and schools that windows be opened when the principals consider the action necessary is a good one."

The recommendation of the committee follows:

"We recommend that principals of all schools be advised that if, in their judgment the air is not good in their building on any particular day, that they may request the engineer to shut down the engine, and open the windows each noon hour, or during any period of calisthenics. We have spent some little time over this question during the last month and we find especially on days when the sun is shining brightly and the wind blowing cold from the northwest, that while the rooms on the south side of buildings may be close and warm, rooms on the north side of the same building may be, if anything, too cold."

SALARIES ARE RAISED

Teachers Are Appointed By Board for the Coming Year.

Increase of $50 a Year Granted to Nearly All Instructors.

Salaries o fall grade teachers were raised $50, except the Seventh grade teachers, whose salaries were already $800, and kindergarten teachers, who were already receiving $750, by the board of education last evening, the list of teachers and the salaries being those published in The Herald last evening.

In making its report, the committee on schools and teachers said that, if the money should be available, further increases should be granted next year, to bring the maximum for Eighth grade teachers to $900 and the maximum for the grades under the Eighth to $$850. The maximum salaries this year are $850 for Eighth grade teachers and $800 for those under the Eighth.

The only protest against the adoption of the committee report last night was made by Director W. M. Evered. He said that the matter should be carefully considered by the board as a whole, before the salary increases were voted.

"We must consider the taxpayers in this matter," he said. "Taxes are high in this city and I don't believe in spending money unless we know just what we are doing. I believe that the teachers who are receiving low salaries should have their salaries increased, but some of the higher-paid teachers are getting enough. I am not in favor of the increases in the high school and for special teachers, whose salaries are already high."

Mr. Evered moved that the report be laid over for a month, but no second was offered to his motion after Supt. Denfeld had pointed out that the election of teachers has already been delayed a month and the board might experience great difficulty in getting teachers if the matter should be further delayed.

"There are teachers in plenty to be had, but good teachers are scarce and we can't afford to lose any time," said the superintendent. "Even the range towns have already elected their teachers and we are away behind. The normal schools cannot furnish their best graduates now and other cities are engaging the good teachers. Further delay would greatly inconvenience the board."

In reporting the increased salaries, the committee on schools and teachers referred to the opinion of the attorney general, which allowed the board to take the $32,000 levied for the equipment of the Washington manual training school from the building fund, leaving that amount available for the general fund. The committee reported that money is available to meet the salary increases for two years, but that no money will be available for that purpose after that time unless more funds are produced by higher valuation.

In explaining the fact that the Eighth grade teachers are placed in a class by themselves under the new salary list, whereas the Seventh and Eighth grade teachers were formerly in one class, drawing higher salaries than the teachers in the lower grades, the committee said that the reason for the former classification has disappeared as to Seventh grade teachers, whereas the Eighth grade teachers still have special work and increased responsibilities entitling them to higher salaries.

The salaries of high school teachers and special teachers were increased $50 except in special cases, in which greater increases were given in accordance with contracts. Principals also received increases of $50, except principals in small buildings.

The increases made in the salaries of grade teachers call for an additional expenditure of $14,275 and the total increases amount to about $16,500. This does not include the teachers who will be required for the Jerome Merritt school and in the domestic science and the manual training departments. These will call for an expenditure of about $10,000.

The board received from the Commercial club copies of the report of the special committee on schools and also of a resolution adopted by the executive committee asking that the increases recommended by granted to go into effect at the beginning of the coming school year.

Alaska Lacks Water Supply.

The chief obstacle in the way of gold mining in Alaska, is the lack of water. One fourth of the gold district of Alaska is arid, and mining is difficult for that reason. A tonic liquid is as necessary to good health as water is to gold seeking. The very best in purity and flavor is golden grain belt beers, always uniform, and a positive aid to good digestion and good health. Don't delay trying their excellent virtues: order a case now. FIRST CONVICTION OF ALLEGED BLACKHANDER.

Chicago, April 8.—The United States government yesterday won its first case in the fight it has begun to drive out of Chicago a ring of Italian blackmailers, known as members of the Black Hand and said by the police to be responsible for nearly fifty dynamite outrages and a score of murders. Gianni Alongi was found guilty of using the mails for sending threatening letters. The jury in the United States district court bringing in the verdict after Judge K. M. Landis and Postoffice Inspector James F. Stuare both had received threats of death should Alongi be convicted.

SOME OF THE MODERN BRIDGE AND CULVERT WORK ALONG LINE OF CANADIAN NORTHERN

Bridge construction crews of Hauser & Co., general contractors for all of the bridge work of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railway, a subsidiary company of the Canadian Northern, south of Virginia, are making rapid progress. Concrete piers have been placed for nearly all of the steel bridges and a number of the wooden trestles have already been built. Except at Munger, where the Canadian Northern line intersects that of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, no steel has been placed on the bridges.

At Mile 30, a division point on the line, the largest and longest bridge on the new extension has been built across the Cloquet river and is ready for the steel. The bridge is 350 feet long and is supported by six piers, the foundations of which were put five feet below the bed of the river. The bridge itself is of five spans of 70 feet each in length and 9½ feet high, and has a clearance of twenty feet. The approaches to the bridge are wooden trestle work and are 200 feet in length on either side. Work on the Cloquet river structure was started early in February and was not finished until the latter part of March. The steel spans will be placed as soon as tracks are laid.

Over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern tracks at Munger, about Mile 19 out of Duluth, the Canadian Northern has constructed a 130-foot steel bridge and the steel on this bridge has already been laid. The spans are three in number, one seventy feet long and two each thirty feet in length. They are supported on two abutments and two piers of concrete.

At Midway one of the longest wooden trestles on the road has been constructed. It is 700 feet in length, 400 feet of which is permanent work, the other 300 feet to be filled in by trains after other work on the construction of the new line is completed. This was built by Ferrier & Livingstone, sub-contractors, who are constructing all of the wooden trestles along the line. Stewart & Thompson are the subcontractors who are doing the concrete work for the steel bridges. Midway is at about Mile 15.

A five-span 240-foot bridge is ready for the steel work at Smithville, mile post 5, over Stuart creek. Three of the spans are sixty feet in length and two are thirty feet long. The work was started on Nov. 14 and finished Dec. 13. At mile post 8, just beyond the tunnel at Short Line Park, a permanent frame trestle, 555 feet in length, is now under course of construction. This bridge has thirty-seven 15-foot spans.

At Hay creek, mile 16, the first tracklaying will be started within the next few weeks. Steel will be laid in both directions. In addition to the steel and concrete bridges and the wooden trestles, there are a number of concrete culverts along the right-of-way, which have been built and are now ready for the laying of the steel.

Grading Work.

The grading work is done with machines and is making rapid progress. It is expected that within the next few weeks this work will have been completed for the laying of the track, which will be followed by the ballasting of the roadbed. Although the work is being pushed as fast as possible, it is thought that it will be well into the summer before all the track is laid from Virginia to the terminals at West Duluth.

Foley, Welch & Stewart, who have the contract for the driving of a tunnel through the hill at Short Line Park, are making good progress with the work and expect to complete the job early in May. The job is a difficult and costly engineering feat, and will, when completed, represent an expenditure of $100,000. The tunnel will be 555 feet in length and will describe a 7-degree curve within the mountain of rock. The 150-foot approaches on either side are open tunnels and have been completed.

Entering West Duluth, the line cuts across a corner of Fairmont park, but in an inconspicous place. The bridges which cross Kingsbury creek are handsome affairs, having been constructed of Kettle river brownstone. There are three spans, one forty-five feet long, one thirty and the other fifteen. West Duluth people first thought that the right-of-way would disfigure the park, but since have had their minds set at rest.

The incline tracks of the Duluth Belt line railway cross overhead the right of way of the Canadian Northern line at Sixty-third avenue west. The line of the new road has been depressed and the tracks of the belt line company raised, giving a clearance of about twenty-five feet. A stretch of 500 feet of the trestle of the belt line railway had to be rebuilt last fall to meet these requirements.

Next week, it is expected that W. M. Hauser of Hauser & Co., will put several crews of men at work on the elevated trestle, which will be nearly a mile and a half long and will reach from Fifty-ninth avenue west to the bay front. Only a portion of this line has been decided upon, and that is between Fifty-ninth avenue west and the crossing of Grand below Central avenue. There is an ordinance before the council to change the route from there on to the dock property on the bay front, but it has not yet been ratified and no definite plans have been made by the company as far as is known.

All material is on the ground for commencing work on driving piles for the trestle work between Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand. The street crossings will be spanned by steel and concrete overhead bridges, but all of them have not been designed owing to difficulties which have arisen between the railroad and the city with regard to the placing of posts in the streets to support the spans.

This afternoon the members of the common council are inspecting the site of the proposed crossing at Fifty-ninth avenue west for the purpose of forming an opinion as to whether or not the city should allow the road to use posts in the streets to support the bridge. At the last council meeting, Alderman L. A. Barnes introduced a resolution to have the streets kept clear, but lost out on a tie vote of 8 to 8. He then requested that the aldermen visit the scene before any further action was taken.

Yesterday afternoon Aldermen Curran, Barnes, Hoar and Bergstrom and ex-Alderman Getchell looked over the bridge. Fifty-ninth avenue west is one of the widest thoroughfares in the city, having a breadth of sixty feet from curb to curb. A depression of four feet five inches will have to be made in order to give the proper clearance for traffic. There is also some talk of parking the avenue and if this is done, it is probable that much opposition will be brought to bear against the placing of posts in the street to support the overhead bridges.

TO SUMMON SPECIALISTS

Medical Inspectors in Schools Will Have Aid of Physicians.

Eyes, Ears, Noses and Throats of Children Will Be Treated.

The medical inspectors of the Duluth public schools have been provided with blanks on which they may enter requests to specialists in eye, ear, nose and throat diseases to give treatment to children furnished with the blanks.

The arrangement between the specialists of the city and the medical examiners, whereby treatment will be given in special cases requiring immediate treatment has gone into effect. In the course of their examinations, the medical examiners ascertain whether the parents of children requiring immediate treatment by specialists are able to meet the expense. If they are not, the medical inspector gives the child a request to a specialist, who gives the required treatment.

The report the medical examiners sent to the board last night dealt almost entirely with the matter of an excess of light. The glare in a number of rooms affects the children's eyes, the medical inspectors reported, and the suggestion was made that shades be provided, which will diffuse the light while preventing offensive glare.

A certified check for $1,000, posted by J. A. Robert when he bid on the construction of the Jerome Merritt school was last night ordered forfeited and deposited to the credit of the board. After Mr. Robert had been awarded the contract for the building, he was unable to obtain a bond, the company with which he had formerly done business having gone out of existence, and he claimed that the time was too short to allow him to take the matter up with another company. The contract accordingly went to McLeod & Smith, the next lowest bidder, the difference in the bids being about $3,200.

Mr. Robert made a request that his check be returned and at the last meeting, the members of the board showed a disposition to take that action. Since that time, an opinion was obtained from an attorney, who stated that the board not only had a right to keep the check, but was bound to do so, having no right to return it to Mr. Robert.

Director Cobb voted against the forfeiture of the check, declaring that the board had done nothing to earn the money, that Mr. Robert had acted in good faith and that the case would be different if there had been any evidence of collusion or of bad faith on the part of Mr. Robert. Other members of the board held that the opinion of the attorney left the board with nothing to do but forfeit the check and that action was taken.

WATCH BURIED YEARS DUG UP AND RUNS.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—After being buried in North Dakota soil for twenty-three years a silver watch in perfect running condition has been recovered by its original owner, Louis Hermanson of Americus township. The timepiece was lost when Mr. Hermanson was plowing on his tree claim and though he searched for some time for it he failed to recover it. Some years later he sold the land to August Marquardt and a farm hand plowed it up while preparing the land for spring seeding.

Upon shaking it began ticking merrily and has kept perfect time ever since.

MANN IS BITTER.

Minority Leader Arraigns Democrats as Unfair.

Washington, April 8.—The first formal conference of Republican house leaders, including representatives of the insurgent portion of the party, was held yesterday afternoon in the offices of Minority Leader Mann. It followed a refusal of the Democrats to give up any more committee places to the Republicans or to restore the proportion that has heretofore existed between the two parties in the committee assignments.

After the conference Mr. Mann gave out a statement bitterly arraigning what he called the "unfair, arbitrary and brutal action" of the Democrats in trampling the rights of the minority. The statement promises a lively Republican fight to take advantage of every possible parliamentary privilege to make things hot on the floor.

Mr. Mann submitted the situation to the conference of leaders this afternoon and asked whether he should not refuse entirely to name committees on the limited basis of representation given by the Democrats.

It was determined, however, to go ahead with the selection of Republican members. Mr. Mann stated after the conference that absolute fairness would be shown the insurgents in the arrangements.

In his statement Mr. Mann declared that the Democrats of the ways and means committee had adopted the policy of making a majority of seven on the principal committees, whereas a dominant party never before claimed more than six majority.

LOSS WILL BE SMALL.

Mrs. Armour Recovers Nearly All of Stolen Money.

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—The value of the stocks and bonds stolen recently from Mrs. S. B. Armour was $150,000 instead of $105,000, as originally reported, it developed yesterday.

Mrs. Armour's loss will not be any larger than it was reported to be when the story first became public, however. The $45,000 worth of securities, the theft of which has just come to light, never were sold. The thief told their hiding place and they were recovered.

Thus far Mrs. Armour has recovered about $120,000 in cash and securities. What the goods in storage, jewelry, works of art, rugs and selverware will bring is not known. It would appear from figures now available that Mrs. Armour will not lose more than $15,000 or $20,000.

Friends of the woman who stole the securities recalled today that the first theft was committed within a few weeks after she had recovered from a severe case of typhoid fever. Her illness was regarded as dangerous, she being delirious much of the time she was ill. Mrs. Armour still steadfastly refuses to permit any action to be taken against the guilty person.

TAFT THE CANDIDATE.

Depew Says Republican Convention Will Consider But One Name.

New York, April 8.—"When the national Republican convention meets in 1912, there will be one name before it —William Howard Taft," predicted Chauncey M. Depew, former United States senator from New York, to the Republican club last night, in his first public utterance since the election of his successor. "I believe," he continued, "that as President Taft's measures are better understood and his unselfish patriotism and devotion to the public service become better known, he will grow in popular favor. He is one of the most misunderstood of our presidents.

"His life has been judicial and never one of political strife, and so he looks upon questions as a judge and not from the viewpoint of a politician. It never occurs to him what may be the effect of a measure upon his own political fortunes."

Mr. Depew gave what he termed an accounting of his stewardship during his twelve years at Washington. Incidentally, he said that he tried insurgency in life "and got over it."

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY 17 (2)

SOCIETY

INFORMAL musicales, church parties and small social functions have been the general events of social interest this week. The Women's council held an interesting meeting yesterday morning and discussed several plans of work for the women throughout the city.

The students have returned from Minnesota university to spend next week at their homes and the teachers, many of them, have left to spend their vacations in neighboring cities.

The Matinee Musicale will hold its last meeting tomorrow at the Young Women's Christian association and will elect its officers for next year's work at the close of the program.

Next week, in spite of the fact that it will be holy week, will be more full of informal affairs than the past few weeks, on account of the young people being home from school and the closing of the public schools for the week.

Most of the travelers have returned to their homes from Southern and Western trips and are preparing their homes for the summer.

DULUTH SCHOOL CHILDREN ENTHUSIASTIC STUDENTS OF FOLK DANCES OF FOREIGN RACES

One of the most interesting features introduced into the work in the public schools of Duluth this year, especially in the lower grades, is the folk dancing, which was received by unusual delight by the children. The teachers, too, have hailed this new form of healthful exercise, as well as amusement, for their pupils with enthusiasm and have set to work to develop this feature with a will.

There is a fascination about dancing which has attracted boys, girls, men and women since the earliest days. The barbarians, pagans, Greeks, Egyptians, Indians, in fact every race, have used the dance more or less as a means of expression of joy, sorrow, exaltation, reverence and all forms of emotion since the beginning of history.

The acompanying picture shows some of the children of one of the primary grades of the Washington school in the "Tantoli," a delightful little folk dance, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Nellie B. Stoughton, who has successfully featured it in her school work. Most of the dances have been learned before the opening of the school sessions in the morning and at noon and she says that the attendance in her room since they started this work has been phenomenal.

Miss Stoughton gave an exhibition of their dancing at a teachers' meeting a short time ago and has been conducting a class of teachers in the work. The teachers dance the same little dances, balance on one foot, glide, hop and skip as gaily as the youngsters and all agree that they like to do it.

Exercise and Training.

This work has been taken up not with the idea of having it take the place of the calisthenics which are given regularly at each session, but as one of the forms of expression taught the children similar to the games and stories which the children have played and "acted out."

It is splendid exercise, bringing into play most of the larger muscles of the body as well as exercising and training the mind. Folk dancing in the public schools should be considered from a standpoint of exercise and recreation. The dances involve large movements of the trunk, arms and limbs. Regular gymnastic exercises are most essential, too, to offset the unavoidable bad effects which arise from the constant bending over desks, the too often imperfect ventilation and the other causes that produce habits which need the corrective use of regular gymnastic exercises. But these exercises are primarily for the body, while folk dancing is for the whole child, his heart, mind, imagination, as well as for the chest, legs and arms.

Some of the notable effects of the exercise of dancing is the grace of carriage which is acquired. Of course this is not obtained from any short period of training, but the dancing arouses the interest of the dancer and the thought of it remains with him and he thinks of it often through the day so the helpful points are kept in mind and the good effects follow.

This dancing has been taken up extensively in the public schools in New York and other large cities and in some cases the roofs of the schoolhouses have been turned over into places for the children to dance.

Among some of the simpler dances are taught to beginners are the "Shoemakers' dance," the "Jumping Jack dance," which is a very lively little affair; the "Swedish Klapdans," the "Tantoli," the "Hansel and Gretel," the "Loftist Tod" and the "Norwegian Mountain dance." Of course there are the more intricate dances, harder of execution, that follow these dances, which are more violent exercise and more difficult to learn, but which have been worked out with good success.

The children will be dancing their pretty little steps on the streets this summer, and it is hoped that ultimately the United States will acquire its own individual national dances through the spread of this movement in Duluth and many other American cities.

List of Speakers.

Aside from the regular business of the convention, the program offers much of value. Among the speakers are to be Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell of the Labrador coast, Bishop Edward H. Hughes of San Francisco, Dr. Robert E. Speer of New York, President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin college, Prof. John Henry Strong of the Rochester Theological seminary, Rev. Harry E. Fosdick of the First Baptist church, Montclair, N. J.; Prof. Jeremiah Jenks of Cornell university, Miss Grace Abbott of Hull House, Chicago, and Miss Ethel Stevenson of London. Mrs. J. H. Tritton, president of the World's Young Women's Christian association and other members of the world's committee, are to be guests of the convention.

The regular business of the national organization will be transacted. Reports and recommendations in view of the past two years of study and experiment will be presented by the national board, to be considered and acted upon by the convention in their relation to the future policies and developments of the national work and as they will affect the activities of the national board for the ensuing two years.

The national organization now represents a membership of over 216,000 women in the cities, educational institutions, industrial centers, mill villages and towns of the country. If the local associations were to send one voting delegate for each 100 voting members, as they are entitled to do, over 2,000 women would assemble in Indianapolis. One evening of the convention is to be devoted to a reception in the Hotel Claypool, tendered to the delegates by the national board.

In and near Indianapolis is situated a group of educational institutions, whose students, it is hoped, will gather in large numbers in a student mass meeting, to be addressed by Miss Theresa Wilbur of the national secretarial staff, President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin college, and Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell of the Labrador coast. On another evening the physical work of the city associations will be demonstrated in a gymnastic drill, in which will take part representatives from many city association gymnasiums. A mass meeting to which every young woman in Indianapolis has been invited will be held on Sunday afternoon, and will be addressed by Miss Grace H. Dodge, president of the national board, and Bishop Edward H. Hughes of San Francisco, formerly president of De Pauw university.

Immigrant Girls.

One of the recent pieces of work taken up by the national board is an investigation into the conditions surrounding immigrant girls and the opportunities for the association among them. At the session at which this subject will be reported upon, Miss Grace Abbott will speak.

The World's Young Women's Christian association was founded in 1894. Seventeen national associations are now affiliated: Great Britain, United States, Germany, Italy, France, Australasia, Finland, Holland, Japan Canada, Portugal, South Africa, China, Sweden, India, Denmark and Hungary. The headquarters are in London, office, 26 George street, Hanover square, west. The executive committee is composed of a resident membership in London and two representatives from America and other countries, Mrs. J. H. Tritton is president; Miss Clarissa Spencer, general secretary. The fourth world's conference was held in Berlin, Germany, 1910.

The National Board of the Young Women's Christian Associations of the United States of America was formed in December, 1906, the object being stated thus: "To unite in one body the Young Women's Christian Associations of the United States; to establish, develop and unify such associations; to advance the physical, social, intellectual, moral and spiritual interests of young women; to participate in the work of the World's Young Women's Christian association; for the ultimate purpose of bringing young women to such a knowledge of Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord as shall mean for the individual young woman fullness of life and development of character, and shall make the organization as a whole an effective agency in the bringing of the Kingdom of God among young women." One hundred and ninety-two city associations, nine industrial associations, three county associations; and 646 student associations are memebers of the national organizations. Each year ten summer conferences are held to train volunteer workers in Bible study and association work. The National Training school to prepare young women for executive positions is located at 3 Gramercy Park, New York, and there are eight training centers in different parts of the United States. The offiical organ is The Association Monthly. The national organization is a member of the world's association; the student committee of the department of method is a member of the World's Student Christian Federation, and is connected with the Student Volunteer movement. National headquarters, 125 East Twenty-seventh street, New York city, president of national board, Miss Grace H. Dodge; general secretary, Miss Mabel Cratty.

Matinee Musicale.

THE last meeting of the year of the Matinee Musicale club will be held Monday afternoon at the auditorium of the Young Women's Christian association at 3 o'clock.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN CLUBS AND MUSICAL CIRCLES

National Biennial Convention of Y. W. C. A. Will Be Held This Month—Closing Meeting of Matinee Musicale for Year—Other Happenings of the Week.

WOMEN all over the country are interested in the third biennial convention of the Young Women's Christian associations of the United States of America, which will be held in Indianapolis, Ind., April 19-24, upon the invitation of the local associations.

The finely equipped association building will be the headquarters of the convention, though most of the sessions will be held in the First Baptist church. In the church also will be displayed the publications issued by the national movement, including its official organ, the Association Monthly, and the exhibit of the national board which will present in graphic form some of the various phases of the work.

The convention is a national gathering at which will be enacted legislation to affect and influence for all time the work of the Young Women's Christian association in all sections of this country; it will likewise influence the development of association work in other countries where there are American secretaries sent out under the foreign department. The program has been carefully planned with all of these points in view and there is every reason to expect that the biennial convention of 1911 will be the most inspiring and the most far-reaching in results of any gathering of the Young Women's Christian association workers ever held.

The subject for the evening lecture will be announced later.
These lectures have been arranged for the benefit of the fund which the club uses in its work in the Neighborhood house in the West end, and the committee in charge is anxious that the course be a financial success as well as an artistic one. Mrs. E. W. Bohannon is chairman of this department of the club, and Mrs. F. L. Barrows will have charge of the sale of tickets for the course.
The club is planning to give a series of entertainments to aid in raising money for the work there, and will arrange for other things soon where the entire proceeds may be turned over to this fund.

Sunday Services in Duluth Churches

HOLY WEEK will be celebrated with elaborate ceremonials by the Roman Catholic church and with less pretentious services by the other Christian churches. The last week in Lent is distinguished by the celebration of the passion and death of Christ and His resurrection. In the early days of the Roman Catholic church the fast was severe, labor was not indulged in and prisoners not charged with capital offenses were released.

Tomorrow will be Palm Sunday. In Catholic churches palms will be blessed and distributed. The Tenebrae will be observed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. They consist of the chanting publicly of that portion of the divine office known as matins and lauds. A triangular candlestick with a white candle at the apex and seven yellow candles on each side is placed on the altar and at the termination of each psalm or canticle, one candle is extinguished. The one at the apex remaining lighted, is hidden behind the altar for a short period near the close and is then brought to view again.

The yellow candles represent the patriarchs and prophets who gave imperfect revelations under the Old Law, all tending to Christ, the Messiah, represented by the candle at the apex. The hiding of the candle signifies the period in which Christ was in His tomb and the reappearance of the candle is indicative of His resurrection.

The Thursday of Holy week is called Maundy Thursday from the "mandatum" or precept, the first word of the antiphon, "A new commandment I give you." It commemorates the institution of the Blessed Sacrament at the Last Supper and the day corresponds to the first day of the Azymes or Feast of the Unleavened Bread. The Israelites observed this feast by eating the pasch at sunset. In cathedrals, the holy oils used in the diocese during the next year are blessed by the bishop.

The death of Christ is commemorated on Good Friday. On Holy Saturday the holy water used in the church is blessed and the Pashal candle, which is used to signify Christ's resurrection, is blessed. Wednesday, Friday and Saturday are days of abstinence for Catholics.

Swedish Baptist Temple — At the Swedish Baptist Temple, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., Rev. M. Esselstrom, pastor of the Finnish Baptist church, will occupy the pulpit in the morning and evening. The ordinance of baptism will take place at the close of the evening service. Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m., conducted by A. Thoren. A mass meeting of the young people of the Swedish Baptist churches of Duluth and Superior will be held at 4 p. m. During Easter week English services will be held every evening at 7:30 p. m., conducted by E. W. Risinger and M. Berglund, Sunday school missionaries.

Park Point Mission — At St. Andrew's chapel, Park Point Mission, Twenty-eighth street, Sunday school will meet at 3 p. m., and confirmation class at 4 p. m. There will be evening service with illustrated address at 8 p. m. The subject, "The Passion of Christ." The address will be by Rev. A. M. Wurtele, and the music under the direction of A. N. Deeps. Mrs. Hulquist will sing "The Palms" (illustrated). There will be a celebration of the holy communion in this church on Easter Sunday at 9 a. m.

Trinity Pro-Cathedral — At this church, Twentieth avenue east and Superior street, Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, dean and rector, services for Palm Sunday will be as follows: Holy communion, 8 a. m.; baptisms, 9:45 a. m. Sunday school and Bible class, 10 a. m.; morning prayer, confirmation and sermon, 11 a. m.; preacher, Bishop Morrison. This is the annual visitation of the bishop, and the largest class of candidates in the history of the parish will be presented for confirmation.

Vesper service with stereopticon address will be at 6 p. m., subject, "The Events of Holy Week and Passion of Christ," illustrated with views from the greatest artists; preacher, Dean Wurtele.

After Sunday school and after each of the services during the days palms will be given to the worshipers. These palms have been blessed by the bishop and make little sacred mementos of the occasion.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

President Vincent Speaks at the Annual Y. M. C. A. Banquet.

Loss of Dean Pattee of the Law School Generally Mourned.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Vincent made his first appearance at a university function at the annual Young Men's Christian association banquet. Ordinarily this banquet is restricted to the membership of the association. This year, owing to what the Y. M. C. A. considered the unusual and general interest of the program, it was made an all-university banquet, and about 300 tickets were sold. Headed by President Vincent, the speakers were Rev. James Freeman of St. Mark's parish; Hon. James Gray, ex-mayor of Minneapolis and candidate for governor of Minnesota at the last election; and Harold Hull, who represented the men of the university. Dr. C. P. Sigerfoos was toastmaster. Mr. Gray is a graduate of Minnesota and was the student who welcomed President Northrop in behalf of the student body when he took the presidency of the university twenty-seven years ago.

Miss Dorothy Loyhad has been elected May queen by the student body for the coming May festival.

All Minnesota is mourning the loss of William S. Pattee, late dean of the law school. He and Dr. Northrop were close friends in the twenty-five years of their joint work and in commenting on his death Dr. Northrop said: "Dean W. S. Pattee was the first professor of the college of law in the University of Minnesota, and subsequently became dean. From the reorganization of the law college to the present year he has been the inspiring leader in the work of the college, and the institution as it exists today is a monument to his faithful and able service. He was not only an earnest and helpful teacher, but he had high ideals of character as well as of learning and he strove to inspire his students with ambition to be true and honorable men quite as earnestly as to be learned lawyers. For nearly a quarter of a century he has given his life to the development of the law college, and he has made it an institution of high character, one of which the graduates are justly proud. His pupils all over the country, in active practice of the law, will be deeply saddened by the news of his death, and his colleagues and all the university faculty will mourn with them the death of a true friend as well as an able educator."

Under direction of Dean Woods, the seeds distribution which the legislature made provision for some time ago is being carried out among the destitue fire sufferers of the burned district of Northern Minnesota. Of the $25,000 appropriated $22,000 has been spent for seed and the remainder has been set aside for the sacking, sealing and transportation of the seed to the county auditors.

On the recommendation of Dean Shenehon, $900 was appropriated to provide for a summer camp to give electrical engineers an opportunity to do practical field work.

At a board of regents' meeting a resolution of appreciation was passed, lauding in the highest terms the work of President Northrop, emeritus, and his immeasureable services to the state and university, both as a citizen and as an educator. The resolution is in part as follows:

"Cyrus Northrop became president of the university in August, 1884, and served in that office until April 1, 1911. He retired at his own request after a successful administration of twenty-six and one-half years. It is right that there be put on the records something of the man and his work. His activities have not been confined to the university nor to the field of education. No movement for the betterment of the state or its people has been without his support. With singular tact but with much force he has ever supported the right. So manifold have been his activities that a circumstantial recital of them would amount almost to a history of the state for more than a quarter of a century. Future historians will rank him with Minnesota's best men—the nation's best men. His retirement is felt by each member as a persinal loss. He carries with him our best wishes, and we, together with the people of the state, express the hope that he may long enjoy the blessings of health and contentment, and that we may long have him as a wise counselor and friend."

Eleven university girls went before the senatorial finance committee to plead for a careful reconsideration of the appropriation for the proposed girls' gymnasium. Four of the girls spoke.

President Vincent wrote an article for the Minnesota Magazine on "Northrop Hall and University Unity." The Northrop tribute which the Men's union is trying to secure is needed, so the writer points out, to foster greater community spirit at Minnesota. The benefits in the way of a greater college spirit from a men's building, as illustrated in the Harvard union, Harry Houston hall at Pennsylvania and the Reynolds club at Chicago are narrated in a convincing style.

The University Glee club will leave on their Easter trip. They give concerts in St. Cloud, Alexandria, Glenwood and Brainerd, returning to Minneapolis Friday.

"DON'T KILL THE BIRDS."

Game Warden Munch Urges Youth to Spare Songsters.

Crookston, Minn., April 8. — Game Warden Munch is going to make a special effort this spring to protect harmless birds. He wants the cooperation of all teachers in an endeavor to impress on the minds of children that it is not only violating the law, but wicked and vicious to kill birds wantonly, and parents and all adults should interest themselves in stopping the practice.

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Narcotic.
Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." All druggists.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Next week comes the spring vacation.

Many of the high school teachers will leave for their homes today. Miss Currey will go to Minneapolis; Miss Kendall to St. Paul; Miss Compton to Chicago; Miss Goodhue to Northfield, Minn.; Miss Wright to Eau Claire; Mr. Phillips to Mt. Carol, Ill.

Mr. Schilling, Mr. Romieux and Mr. Brackett will also spend the vacation out of the city.

Those of the students, whose work is in a doubtful condition are intending to review the semesters work during the next week.

The chapel exercises Friday were marked by the awarding of jerseys to the champion sophomore inter-class basket ball team.

K. Harris, Kerns, Elder, Johnson, Kolstad and Duclett received the sweaters which were given by the Athletic association. Capt. Harris made a short speech in which he thanked the Athletic association for the prizes.

The students of the high school are in a happy frame of mind over the victory from Superior Central basket ball team, Wednesday evening. This victory causes a three-cornered tie between the Central high and Normals of Superior and D. C. H. S. It is doubtful whether this tie will be played off, but as it stands, Central can claim the championship, which is very gratifying to the Central rooters.

During vacation the high school debating team will be busy preparing for its next contest with the West high school of Minneapolis on April 28. The debate will take place in the Assembly hall of the high school. Following the Minneapolis contest the debating team from Pine City will come to Duluth on May 26. The Pine City trio won from Duluth last year and the Central team is eager for a victory over its old rivals.

The Duluth team will be composed of Roger Lerch, Fred Weinberg and Jesse Cohen. A banquet will be given the visiting teams after each of these debates.

On May 5 the members of the Forum will give on open meeting at which the much-talked of mock trial will be presented. The participants have been working hard and are eager for success.

The Anonia has set April 24 for the date of its play. The title of the production is "Captain Joe" and is a story of life at a girls' school. The play will be open to all the high school students.

On May 1, the Anonia and Forum will hold a debate on the question, "Resolved, That Capital Punishment Should be Abolished."

About a score of sophomore girls gave an informal party last Tuesday in honor of Laura Pinkerton, formerly of Duluth, and a member of the 1913 class. The party was given in one of the high school rooms. Mrs. Pinkerton, Miss Taylor and Miss Addie Smith were also guests at the party.

The freshmen girls won the interclass track meet, which was held in the gymnasium Wednesday. Miss Annie Brown of the senior team was the highest point winner, securing 15 points. The freshmen made 37 points, the sophomores and seniors each 19 and the juniors 9.

Miss Jean Wanless and Miss Marion Merritt sang the solo parts of one of Mr. Custance's compositions in chapel Friday morning.

Mr. Sprague gave the final instructions for the senior essays Thursday and Friday. Many of the seniors will complete the bulk of the work on essays during vacation.

The preliminary tryouts for the declamation team were held Thursday and Friday. Many of the candidates did comparatively good work and from the present outlook Central should again win the Wallace cup. Roger Lerch of last year's team will probably take care of the oratorical part and the judges are finding it difficult to choose one to take Stanley Lamb's place in the declomation work. The final tryout will be held immediately after vacation.

Russel Holgate, '05, was a visitor at high school Wednesday. Arnold Berg, '10, visited school Thursday.

A number of senior girls entertained the members of the cast of the senior play in the old drawing room after the play last evening. A spread was prepared by the girls.

MEET AFTER MANY YEARS.

Wadena Postoffice Official Meets Brother After Thirty-Two Years.

Wadena, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. T. Bivans, assistant postmaster, is enjoying a visit from his brother, whom he had not seen for thirty-two years. The brother is F. M. Bivans, and he arrived in the city Monday morning. His home is in Vermillion county, Ill., but he came here from Omaha, where he had been visiting his son.

When F. M. Bivans entered the local postoffice he started to write a postal card. H. T. Bivans sized him up and finally spoke to him. The Illinois visitor failed to recognize his brother at first, but when H. T. Bivans spoke the second time he recognized the voice.

Thirty-two years ago next May H. T. Bivans left his farm home in Illinois to come to Minnesota and he has never been back home since. His brother remained at home and has lived there continuously. This week H. T. Bivans is taking a lay-off and is enjoying the visit with his brother to the utmost.

FLYING PANCAKE SENDS COOK TO THE HOSPITAL.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 8. — Knocked down and injured, so it would seem, by a flying pancake, Emma Balzine, aged 18 years, a cook in a lunchroom, is in the city hospital.

Miss Balzine was cooking pancakes on a three-burner gas stove in the restaurant kitchen A gas oven was beneath the apparatus. While she cooked the griddle cakes above, the oven filled with gas an explosion followed and Miss Balzine went down amid a rain of griddle cakes.

Examination of the stove indicates that no part of the stove was blown loose, so that the only explanation remaining is that one of the griddle cakes inflicted the damage. She was not seriously hurt.

SKIN-TORTURED AND DISFIGURED BABIES

Is your little one a sufferer from itching, burning eczema or other torturing, disfiguring skin trouble? Are you, yourself, worn out by long, sleepless nights and ceaseless anxiety, and have you tried treatment after treatment without avail? If so, you will read with interest the following letter from Mrs. Noble Tubman, of Dodson, Mont., telling what Cuticura soap and Cuticura ointment did for just such a case as yours:

"When my baby boy was six months old, his body was completely covered with large sores that seemed to itch and burn, and cause terrible suffering. The eruption began in pimples which would open and run, making large sores. His hair came out and finger nails fell off, and the sores were over the entire body, causing little or no sleep for baby or myself. Great scabs would come off when I removed his shirt.

"We tried a great many remedies but nothing would help him, till a friend induced me to try Cuticura soap and ointment. I used the Cuticura soap and ointment but a short time before I could see that he was improving, and in six weeks' time he was entirely cured. He had suffered about six weeks before we tried the Cuticura soap and ointment, although we had tried several other things and doctors too. I think the Cuticura remedies will do all that is claimed for them, and a great deal more."

Cuticura soap and ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, but mothers of skin-tortured infants and children can obtain a liberal sample of each, mailed free, with a thirty-two page booklet on the skin and its treatment, by addressing "Cuticura," Dept. A, Boston, Mass.

EMINENT AMERICANS WHO WERE ELEVENTH HOUR SELECTIONS

Some of the Country's Living Prominent Men Who Owe Their National Reputation to the Fact That the Eleventh Hour Favored Them Are President Hadley of Yale; Charles S. Mellon, Julius Kruttschnitt and George F. Baer, Railroad Powers; Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court; John A. Dix, Governor of New York, and Frank S. Black, Ex-Governor of the Empire State—How They Came to Be Eleventh Hour Choices.

(Copyright, 1911, by E. J. Edwards.)

OLD and tried campaigners when engaged in nursing promising political booms are generally more afraid of the eleventh hour candidate than they are of the man who has been long in the field. No matter how secure everything may seem for the favorite, until the votes are counted they have more or less dread of the appearance of the "dark horse." Too often they have seen candidates whose claims had long been urged with enthusiasm passed by for one who had not been mentioned seriously, if at all, until the necessity for a choice was pressing.

The eleventh hour candidate is a phenomenon that is not confined to politics. Some of the men who are filling positions in the business or educational world were not considered until the eleventh hour had come and their selection was almost as much of a surprise to the men who voted for them as to the general public.

The most striking instance of the selection of an eleventh hour candidate in the history of this country was, of course, the nomination of James A. Garfield for president by the Republican national convention held at Chicago in 1880. Every vice president of the United States who became president by succession following the death of the president, was the eleventh hour choice of the convention that nominated him. While there had been a lot of talk of Theodore Roosevelt for second place on the Republican ticket in 1900, it was not until the Philadelphia convention was almost ready to ballot that his nomination was decided upon.

How Hadley Became Yale's President.

President Taft's political career really began when he was chosen at the eleventh hour for the governor-generalship of the Philippines; the story of how that choice was made by President McKinley is a familiar one. So, too, the present head of the president's alma mater is to be listed among the eminent men of the country who owe their distinction to the fact that the eleventh hour claimed them for its own.

In the latter part of 1898 President Timothy Dwight of Yale announced that he would resign, his resignation to take effect at the close of the college year. He gave as his reason the fact that he had reached the age of 70, and thought that it was time for him to give place to a younger man.

The trustees of Yale spent about six months looking around for a man qualified to fill President Dwight's position. Of course they thought that they would have to select a minister. Yale had never had a president who was not a minister. But although several eminent clergymen were suggested, the trustees were unable to agree in favor of any one of them.

Men who had risen to eminence as educators and who were then holding college or university presidencies, were next considered. Several of them were regarded with a good deal of favor, but still the trustees were unable to unite on any one who had been mentioned. The college year was drawing to a close when one member of the Yale corporation said: "Why not take Arthur Twining Hadley, our own professor of political economy?"

At first the suggestion seemed impossible. "Why, Prof. Hadley is a man of science," it was said. "He is a writer on railroads and industrial matters. He is more likely to make a career as the adviser of a great business institution than as a college president. And then, too, he isn't a minister."

Nevertheless, the suggestion quickly gained favor, and at the eleventh hour the trustees agreed that he was the man for President Dwight's place, and Prof. Hadley became president of Yale in June, 1899, when he was only 43 years of age.

The Unlooked for Promotion of Charles S. Mellen.

Another powerful personality in New England life, who was an eleventh-hour man, is Charles S. Mellen, head of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad system.

In 1903 the death of John Hall made vacant the office of president of that railroad. The New Haven at that time had entered upon that course of expansion and absorption of other lines that has made it today practically the single railroad system of New England. Great projects in connection with the development of the system were contemplated, though not definitely worked out, and the selection of the right sort of man for president was a matter of exceptional importance.

A number of men were considered for the position, those who were most mentioned being Percy Todd, second vice president of the New Haven, and Lucius Tuttle, president of the Boston & Maine. William Rockefeller was for Todd. He had been very favorably attracted by Todd's work when the latter was general traffic manager of the West Shore railroad. No action was taken for some time, however, until it became a matter of absolute necessity that the office should be filled, as matters were pending that demanded the attention that only a responsible executive head with full authority could give. And then, when the board of directors did meet to choose a new president, they selected neither Todd nor Tuttle, but Charles S. Mellen, then president of the Northern Pacific railroad. It is generally believed that the director who proposed his name was J. Pierpont Morgan.

Perhaps it was a question with Mr. Mellen whether he should accept. He had been president of the Northern Pacific since 1896, and was greatly interested in it and projects for its development. But when he learned that he would have a free rein as president of the New Haven system, he accepted. Under Mr. Mellen's direction, the New Haven policy of absorbing other New England lines has been carried almost to its logical conclusion, so that now it has annexed even the Boston & Maine, by which it reaches the most easterly section of New England, and the Rutland railroad, by which it gains an entrance into Montreal.

The Case of Julius Kruttschnitt.

Julius Kruttschnitt is now practically chief of staff of the great Union Pacific railway system; he is to the president of the Union Pacific what the chief of staff is to the commanding general of an army. He is even more than that, for he not only sees that orders are executed, but has the right to initiate orders himself. He was formerly frequently referred to as "the right hand of E. H. Harriman." Nowadays he is sometimes spoken of as the Von Moltke of the Union Pacific, as his position suggests in many ways comparison with the great Prussian general who worked out and executed the plan of campaign that resulted in the overthrow of Louis Napoleon and the establishment of the German empire. Yet if it had not been for an eleventh hour choice, Mr. Kruttschnitt might have been a professor in a technical institution, instead of becoming a commanding figure in the railroad world.

Mr. Kruttschnitt comes of a family characterized by great intellectual ability. He was born in New Orleans fifty-seven years ago. An uncle, Judah P. Benjamin, attained great distinction as an orator and statesman. Mr. Benjamin was a member of the United States senate before the Civil war, resigned his seat when hostilities began and became secretary of state in the cabinet of Jefferson Davis. Penniless at the close of the war, he went to London, where for several years he supported himself by writing. The fact that he was born under the British flag in the West Indies, enabled him to claim English citizenship. He subsequently became eminent as a barrister in London.

As a mere boy, Mr. Kruttschnitt displayed great ability for engineering, and after his graduation from Washington and Lee university, he expected to make civil engineering his profession, although he had some thought also of teaching. Opportunity came first in the line of educational work and he accepted a position as teacher in a school near Baltimore.

Four or five years later the promoters of a railroad which was to be built across Louisiana and Texas were looking for an engineer to take charge of the construction work. The contracts were ready to sign, and the promoters were in a hurry to have the work begun, as there was likelihood that other lines might soon open up the same territory. But they were unavoidably delayed by their inability to find the right man for the position of engineer of construction. They had offered the place to a number of men whom they regarded as qualified for it, but all were tied up by engagements and could not accept.

Finally, some one said to the promoters: "There's a young professor in a school near Baltimore who might do." The result of this suggestion was that the position was offered to Mr. Kruttschnitt, and he did not hesitate long before accepting it. He did his work so well that he was advanced very rapidly, and he became under C. P. Huntington, chief engineer and general manager of the Southern Pacific. Mr. Harriman had occasion to observe what Mr. Kruttschnitt had accomplished for the Southern Pacific, and was greatly impressed by it. It was for that reason that he took Mr. Kruttschnitt over to the Union Pacific and made him his right hand man when he undertook the reorganization and development of that great system.

Eleventh-Hour Choice By J. P. Morgan.

The late Alexander J. Cassatt was surprised at a game of golf by the news that he had been selected for the presidency of the Pennsylvania railroad. No less surprised was George F. Baer in the spring of 1901 when he learned that he had been picked for the presidency of the Reading railroad. The story of Mr. Baer's elevation to his present position is a striking illustration of the fact that the eleventh-hour choice, though necessarily made in haste, often lights on the man who just fits the job.

When he was only 28 years of age, Mr. Baer became counsel to the Philadelphia & Reading, but he severed his connection with the Reading some years afterward, when he was a director, as a result of disagreement with President McLeod regarding the best policy for the road. McLeod wanted to extend the system into New England and obtain an entrance into Boston, and he started a fight with the New Haven road for the possession of the Old Colony system. Baer could not subscribe to that and so he quit.

He had already, as a lawyer, attracted the attention of J. Pierpont Morgan, and after he left the Reading he was retained by Mr. Morgan as confidential legal adviser in the state of Pennsylvania. It naturally followed, therefore, that when Mr. Morgan undertook the reorganization of the Reading, which will remain one of his most brilliant achievements, taking the system as it did out of a position of bankruptcy and placing it on a solid financial basis, he should call on Mr. Baer to assist in the work.

In the early part of 1901 Mr. Morgan was called upon to give much thought to the selection of a president for the Reading system. Naturally, it was understood that a railroad man would be chosen. But of the various men trained in railroad operation and management who were suggested, none seemed quite to fit the conditions. The necessity of making a choice finally became really urgent, without, however, any suggestion having been made that appealed to Mr. Morgan as the right one. The eleventh hour had come when one of Mr. Morgan's friends and business associates said to him:

"Why is it necessary to have a railroad man for this place? There is Baer, who has been your legal adviser in Pennsylvania. He knows the Reading system thoroughly, and there probably is no man better qualified to take this office than he is."

"That is so," assented Mr. Morgan. "I hadn't thought of Baer."

And the fiquestion of the Reading presidency was settled then and there.

Two Eleventh Hour Choices by McKinley.

It is probably only in exceptional cases that the men who are appointed to the powerful commissions that have recently become a striking feature of our system of government are those first chosen by the appointive power. Most frequently the man appointed is one whose name occurred as a second or third thought, and commonly enough as an eleventh hour suggestion.

When President McKinley, in the latter part of 1898, took up the matter of appointment of the first Philippine commission, he concluded first of all that the chairman should be a well known educator. The first name that occurred to him was that of Nicholas Murray Butler, who was at that time dean of the faculty of philosophy of Columbia university, and for at least a decade had been recognized as one of the leading authorities in the country on education and pedagogics. Mr. McKinley knew Dr. Butler personally, and needed no one to inform him as to Dr. Butler's qualifications for the work to be done. It is understood that a tentative offer of the chairmanship of the commission was made to Dr. Butler and declined by him, for the reason that he felt called upon to aid in the building up of the university in its new home on the heights overlooking the Hudson river. The president then considered appointing President Eliot of Harvard, but abandoned that idea, as it became known to him that President Eliot, all other considerations aside, would regard his age as barring him from accepting.

Mr. McKinley had considered several other names when that of President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell university was suggested to him.

"I know Mr. Schurman," Mr. McKinley said. "He would fill this position admirably."

While the president felt that in naming Mr. Schurman, he had made a most excellent appointment, it is none the less true that it was a case of choice at the eleventh hour.

Another member of the Philippine commission was an eleventh hour selection. Mr. McKinley was anxious to have on the commission a man possessing, besides other qualifications, an intimate knowledge of the Spanish language and institutions. He looked around for many weeks without finding the sort of man he wanted. The time had almost arrived when, he felt, he should have to make the appointment, whether he had found the ideal man for it or not. It was then that the name of Bernard Moses was suggested to him.

The president found on inquiry that Mr. Moses, who has been professor of history and political economy in the University of California since 1876, was an authority on matters relating to the Spanish occupation of America, and exactly filled the bill. In appointing Prof. Moses, Mr. McKinley doubtless congratulated himself that he had deferred the choice to the eleventh hour.

A Chief Justice and a Governor.

Two of the most dramatic instances of choice made at the eleventh hour are so recent and conspicuous that they must be in everybody's mind. Most striking of all was President Taft's selection of Associate Justice Edward D. White for the position of chief justice of the supreme court of the United States. It had been very clearly understood for some time before the meeting of congress last fall that Mr. Taft intended to name Associate Justice Charles E. Hughes for that position. Such was the understanding, indeed, up to a very few days before the time when the nomination was to be sent to the senate. Then it became known that Mr. Taft had decided to name Justice White, and great was the surprise that the announcement of this fact produced.

The other case relates to the manner in which the present governor of New York state was nominated. The Democrats were certain when their convention met in Rochester that the state would go their way in November, and there was an imposing array of candidates for the gubernatorial nomination There was only one man for whom these various candidates were willing to step aside. That was Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York city, and he, when the convention was about to meet, refused to permit the use of his name. At the eleventh hour, when the various booms had become locked together, as it were, so that there was a virtual impasse, Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy, called in the leaders of the up-state delegations and said to them:

"If you up-state men will unite on a candidate, New York city will support him."

The up-state men found that they could unite on the chairman of the Democratic state committee, John A. Dix, and to Mr. Dix was chosen at the eleventh hour, and, contrary to his personal inclination, was nominated.

Suggestions That Made a Governor.

The nomination of Frank S. Black for governor of New York by the Republicans in 1896 was one of those complete surprises that sometimes come in politics. There have been some very dramatic and exciting state conventions in the Empire state during the last thirty years, but none more so than that held in the great McKinley year, when the Republican candidate actually was not chosen until the delegates were in their seats waiting to give their votes.

The leading candidate for the nomination was George W. Aldridge of Rochester. He had a large number of delegates pledged to him, though considerably less than a majority. Hamilton Fish, then speaker of the assembly, was his leading rival. There were about a dozen other candidates with some following.

Senator Thomas C. Platt was then in the height of his power. The political machine that he had built up was absolutely in his control and its power was irresistible. But Mr. Platt was easy in his methods as a leader and he let the convention go to ballot with the field open. Aldridge led with 227 votes and Fish was second was 123. Much of the voting was of a complimentary nature and among those for whom complimentary ballots were cast was Frank S. Black, who had been temporary chairman of the convention.

Mr. Black was a new figure to most of the delegates. They had heard something of him as one of the state's delegation in congress, but many of them received their first personal impression of him when he took the gavel as chairman of the convention. What that impression was may be gathered from the fact that as soon as Mr. Black began to speak some one yelled: "What's the matter with young Abe Lincoln?" a query which was answered by appreciative laughter and cheers. The suggested comparison was not inapt. Tall, gaunt and angular, Mr. Black in physique is of the Lincoln type. His gestures as he spoke, it was noted, were easy but devoid of grace, his utterance measured, clear and incisive. Those who sat near enough could see behind the gold rimmed spectacles a pair of singularly keen gray eyes. Mr. Black's speech was one of those remarkable combinations of lucid exposition and argument, pithy sayings and biting epithet and comparison for which he afterwards became nationally famous, and it made a strong effect.

It was evident after several ballots that the situation was one for conference, and an adjournment was taken until 11 o'clock the next forenoon. The conference of the county leaders assembled as the delegates were taking their seats in the convention hall. It was soon decided that it would not be possible to choose any of the men who had led in the balloting of the previous day. Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., was suggested and a majority of the congress decided that he should be named. Odell, on the last ballot of the day before, had received five votes. But as soon as the sentiment of the majority became apparent, Aldridge made a protest.

"Odell," he said, "has been trying to prevent my nomination. In view of this, I don't thing that the selection of him for the candidate will be taken very kindly by my following, which is the largest in this convention."

Before Mr. Aldridge had made this protest, the news that Odell had been selected had leaked out, and had reached the delegates in the convention hall. But while the convention was buzzing with this news, the conferees were reconsidering. Senator Platt ruled that Mr. Aldridge's protest should be heeded, and Odell was dropped.

What should be done then? Senator platt seemed to be stumped. But something had to be done and that without delay. The convention had already been held up an hour.

Then up spoke Louis T. Payne, one of Senator Platt's chief lieutenants.

"Why not take Frank Black?" he said. "He is one of the brightest men in the state, a fine speaker, as you know, and he will make an effective campaign."

"All right, I'll take Black," said Platt

The conference concurred, and the leaders hastened to the convention hall, where, a few minutes later, Congressman Black was nominated for governor, and he was afterward elected.

If a Republican instead of a Democratic legislature had been elected in New York last fall, Governor Black would in all probability be now the junior United States senator from the Empire state. It was understood, at least, that he would be chosen to succeed Senathor Depew, if the Republicans controlled the legislature.

CONCERNING LIARS.

Emporia, Kan., Gazette: The growing custom of establishing Ananias clubs should be discouraged for the reason that it is becoming ridiculous.

If the country had one properly organized Ananias club it would be a good institution and would have a large and distinguished membership. But such a club should not be a haphazard affair and initiation to it should be a solemn and interesting function. There is no distinction, no satisfaction, in belonging to a fraternal society that is open to every comer and in which a nomination is equivalent to an election. The way these small, private Ananias clubs are run is a disgrace to all concerned. One man calls another a liar and the latter immediately becomes a charter member of an Ananias club and is permitted to wear the regalia and participate in the mystic rites.

One result of the prevalence of these unofficial clubs is the degradation of the grand old name of liar. It is being shorn of its dignity. Time was when to be a successful liar amounted to something. Distinction in that line meant that a man possessed many admirable qualities, including originality and initiative. No man of a sluggish mental equipment ever became a first-class liar. To tell a fish story and make it sound like the truth required pronounced talent.

The word has been so misused and overworked that many citizens become incensed when referred to publicly as liars, and some resort to violence in their resentment. The word is losing its proud significance and soon will be in the same class with "ladies" and "gentlemen."

The country needs a law prohibiting citizens from establishing Ananias clubs without due authority from the department of justice or some other bureau. All clubs should be chartered and registered and no man should be permitted to nominate another for membership without the consent of the nominee.

Woman's Nature

It is the nature of women to suffer uncomplainingly, the discomforts and fears that accompany the bearing of children. Motherhood is their crowning glory, and they brave its sufferings for the joy that children bring. No expectant mother need suffer, however, during the period of waiting, nor feel that she is in danger when baby comes, if Mother's Friend is used in preparation of the event. Mother's Friend relieves the pain and discomfort caused by the strain on the different ligaments, overcomes nausea by counteraction, prevents backache and numbness of limbs and soothes the inflammation of breast glands. Its regular use fits and prepares every portion of the mother's system for a proper and natural ending of the term, and it assures for her a quick and complete recovery. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers.

GO RIGHT AT IT

Friends and Neighbors in Duluth Will Show You How.

Get at the root of the trouble.

Rubbing an aching back may relieve it,

But it won't cure it.

You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it; Reach the cause; relieve the pain. They cure, too, so Duluth people say.

Thomas G. Thompson, 624 W. Second St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I do not wish to withdraw anything from the statement I gave some years ago in which I told how effectively Doan's Kidney Pills had rid me of kidney complaint. For months I was bothered by pain and soreness in my back. I had other troubles and they all showed that there was much uric acid in my system. When I was feeling poorly, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I immediately got a box and they were just what I required. In a short time they cured me and about a year ago they quickly drove away a spell of backache that had come on me. My high opinion of this remedy has been formed by the way in which it has helped me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GRAND JURY HAS INDICTED SEVERAL

Carlton County Inquisitors Look Into Some Criminal Cases.

Carlton, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town has been full of court visitors this week. Judge Homer B. Bibell opened the term Tuesday. The grand jury found indictments against several persons who are already in custody and others against persons who are not yet captured. The names of the indicted ones are not disclosed. The main criminal action was to have been against Willho Sari and Arvo Maki, the Finlanders, who are in jail charged with felonious assault on the person of Matt Hill, another Finlander, who was stabbed in a fight with these two at a Finlander gathering down in Kalvala township one night this winter. Hill was at the point of death in a hospital in Duluth for several weeks, but recovered, and he was to have been the complaining witness. He disappeared when the trial came on and has not been located as yet. Another criminal case is that of George Zimmerman of Cloquet for furnishing liquor to Indians. An indictment has been returned and the case will come up soon. One civil case had been concluded, that of Carl Erickson vs. The Duluth Telephone Company. The plaintiff brought suit to recover damages from the company caused by the setting of its poles on his land. The company proved that they had set their poles outside his fence, and believed that they were on the public highway. He later moved his fence out so that the poles were included on his land, which was true. He asked for $200 damages and the jury awarded him $150.

Condemning Log Assessing Bill.

The county commissioners held a regular meeting on Monday, and among other business passed a resolution condemning a bill which has been introduced in the state legislature which provides that logs shall be assessed at the place where they are procured. This would, the commissioners think, work a hardship on this county, as the three lumber companies at Cloquet pay in some $75,000 for taxes, and if this bill becomes a law they will not pay any taxes here, or else they will be compelled to pay double taxes, once on the logs where procured and once on the finished lumber stored here at all times. A delegation was appointed to go to St. Paul to intercede to have the bill killed.

Overfatness Condemned

Fat, or even fattish, women readers who want to be in the mode this year must understand that the demand is for lines, not curves, and govern themselves accordingly.

That means OFF with the fat. It has become a duty. Many are trying exercise or dieting; but it is certain they will find these methods too slow and unreliable. The cheapest and safest way to get in form for the Directoire mode is by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. Any druggist (or the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) will give you a large-sized case of these elegant little fat reducers, containing a good, generous supply, for seventy-five cents, and even this quantity should be enough to make a decided impression on your excess fat. Many have lost as much as a pound a day.

These Marmola Prescription Tablets may be used with impunity and likewise perfect confidence, for, being made strictly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, they are, of course, quite harmless. They are rather beneficial than otherwise, in fact, never disturbing the stomach or causing a wrinkling of the flesh.

NEGAUNEE MAN IS DEAD AT CUYUNA

Charles Vennerstrom Passes Away From Pneumonia in a Hospital.

Cuyuna, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Vennerstrom, a miner, died at the local hospital at 4 o'clock yesterday from a severe attack of pneumonia. He was taken ill about five days ago. Vennerstrom came here from Negaunee, Mich., about a month ago with intention of making Cuyuna his future home. He was 43 years old, married and leaves a wife, three children and an aged mother. A report from Vennerstrom's home in Michigan, just received, states that the family of the dead man are in destitute circumstances and that the Scandinavian society will perhaps aid them until other arrangements can be secured. The remains were taken to the Cuyuna undertaking parlors to await the arrival of a relative from Michigan.

JURY CANNOT AGREE.

Alleged Becker County Murderer Must Be Tried Again.

Detroit, Minn., April 8.—After being out twenty-four hours, the jury in the case of Ulysses Kempton, charged with the murder of Theodore Henn in the town of Lake, this county, Nov. 8 last, failed to come to an agreement and was dismissed by Judge Nye. The murder followed an election quarrel, Kempton striking Henn over the head with a stick of cordwood, causing a fracture of the skull, which resulted in death about twelve hours later. The main defense was temporary insanity. The case will come up for retrial in the next term.

DR. VINCENT SPEAKS.

New Head of State University Addresses the Teachers.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 8.—The feature of the fifteenth annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Educational association, which began here Thursday evening and will conclude today, was the address delivered last night by Dr. George E. Vincent, the new president of the University of Minnesota, who made his first address outside of the Twin Cities. He spoke upon "The New Duty of the Schools" and made a most favorable impression.

OHIOAN INVITES DEATH; AWFUL DESIRE GRATIFIED.

Anoka, Minn., April 8—The stranger killed by the Winnipeg flyer on the Northern Pacific has been identified as George Share, a native of Ohio, who was on his way, he said, to Fargo. He had been drinking, and, in the opinion of laborers at Fridley, committed suicide. On two occasions, they say, he sat down on the rails as a train was approaching, and each time was dragged away and his life saved. The man has served a short term in the Minneapolis workhouse for vagrancy.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE

In Case of Man Found Dead Near Sawyer, Minn.

Carlton, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coroner Nyquist of Cloquet who went to Sawyer yesterday morning to investigate the death of John Arni, found dead in his shack on a homestead, a mile and a half west of there, as told in Friday's Herald, conducted an inquest, the verdict being suicide. The deceased was a widower, aged 57 and is survived by one son living at Bessemer, Mich.

About a year ago Mr. Arni's brother was found dead on the railroad track at Sawyer. The coroner decided that his death had been caused by a train, but the authorities who were present on that occasion say that there was but one small wound to be found on the body. One shoe had been torn off and lay beside the track, but not a lace was broken in the shoe, and it was suspected that there was a possibility he may have been murdered for the money he was supposed to have carried in his shoe.

PICKLE FACTORY FOR SHELL LAKE, WIS.

Cumberland, Wis., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The M. A. Gedney Pickle company are arranging to put in a pickle factory at Shell Lake, sixteen miles north of here. This company now has pickle factories at Cumberland, Almena, Turtle Lake, Dallas and Amery.

CONVENTION PLANS.

Grand Forks Is Arranging for Religious Gathering.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The committee of 100 who will have executive charge of the convention of the men and religion forward movement to be held here next fall, organized with R. B. Griffith as chairman; Fred L. Goodman, vice chairman; J. W. Ogren, recording secretary, and E. Wallace, executive secretary; Samuel Torgerson, treasurer.

These officers will appoint the subcommittees and the chairmen of these committees, together with the officers, will form the executive committee. During the entire summer men of the city will be engaged in spreading broadcast over the state the importance of this eight-day convention and in interesting every city in the state to send delegates.

BAD CHECK ARTIST IS UNDER ARREST.

East Grand Forks, Minn., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Halvor Kirklie of Larimore, who passed a worthless check in this city some months ago, was apprehended in the city by the police and arraigned in municipal court. Continuance for a week was granted and he was released on $100 bonds.

PLAN BOAT SERVICE FROM BISMARCK TO BENTON.

Great Falls, Mont., April 8.—A packet company with headquarters at Bismarck, N. D., has announced that this season it will start regular steamboat service on the Upper Missouri between Fort Benton and Bismarck. Before the day of railroads there was much traffic up the Missouri to Fort Benton from St. Louis and other down-river points, but for the last twenty years there has been none of it. Settlement along the river has made a resumption of the service practicable.

Fargo Wants Roosevelt.

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—Secretary Baernstein of the Fargo Commercial club has telegraphed an invitation from the club to Former President Theodore Roosevelt to stop in this city on his way from Seattle to St. Paul. It is expected that Col. Roosevelt will pass through Fargo on Friday April 14, over the Northern Pacific.

Pembina Woman Hurt.

Pembina, N. D., April 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two broken wrist bones and much painful suffering is the result of a fall sustained by Mrs. August Short of this city. Mrs. Short was putting dishes away when she slipped and struck her arm on an iron pipe.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Princeton — Norman H. Marshall of Minneapolis and Miss Della J. Ayres, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ayres of Milo, were married at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the groom's mother in Princeton. Rev. J. O. Fisher of the Congregational church performed the ceremony.

The funeral was held Friday morning at 9 o'clock from the German Evangelical Frieden's church, Rev. J. L. Haack officiating. Interment was in North Star.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Eau Claire—At their home on Menomonie street Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. John Paulson celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The event was in the nature of a surprise by a large number of friends and relatives. The occasion proved a very pleasant and enjoyable one.

Menomonie—A meeting of the committee in charge of raising funds for the proposed piano factory was held at the Commercial club Tuesday night, and plans were discussed for raising the balance required to clinch the proposition.

Neenah—Final returns in the race between Candidates Fred Beglinger of Oshkosh and Silas Bullard of Menasha, made after considerable delay, give Beglinger a majority of 90 votes for county judge.

Fond du Lac—George Geiser, an expert mechanic, has been committed to the Northern Hospital for the Insane as a result of becoming mentally unbalanced from overwork on a new gasoline engine, which he has been attempting to perfect.

Neenah—An effort is being made to secure Col. Theodore Roosevelt for a speech in the S. A. Cook armory here, and a letter from him says he will probably be able to come in June or July.

Madison—There is a wide difference of opinion among sportsmen over the bill, 457A, which provides for an open season for deer lasting from Oct. 1 to Nov. 30. This bill was up for passage in the assembly Wednesday night, but because of an amendment which left the definition of a deer in doubt it was referred to the committee on fish and game.

Milwaukee—Milwaukee is without a municipal reference librarian and William H. Leiserson, brought here from New York to take the position on March 15, to succeed T. J. Wills, is holding the place illegally, according to an opinion given by City Attorney Hoan to Controller Dietz. The city attorney points out that the appointment should have been made from a list certified by the city service commission.

Marinette—Charles Hurt entered a plea of guilty to the charge of stealing two kegs of butter from the Marinette Creamery company and was sent to the state penitentiary for one year. Stephen Carroll, charged with an offense against a 5-year-old girl, appears to have gone mad in his cell here and has been placed in a straight jacket.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Minot, N. D.—Judge Leighton has granted a writ of mandamus compelling the inspectors and judges of election in North Minot to decide the election between John Olson and Nels Abramhamson by casting lots. Olson and Abrahamson tied, and the judges and inspectors voted to give the place to Abramhamson.

WEEKLY SURVEY OF REAL ESTATE DEVELOPMENTS

The Plat Commission's New Rule—Speculative Interest Is Spreading Through City—Loan Situation—The Summer Hotel—Separate House in Demand By Renters.

THE plat commission's decision not to approve any plats unless the lots are at least thirty-three feet wide and provisions made for a small park space, was the development most talked of in Duluth real estate circles during the past week. The action was met by approval and criticism and there is a wide difference of opinion among real estate men. Among citizens generally, the action is almost universally approved.

Real estate men accept the decision complacently, as a whole. The park provision is what concerns them primarily and, although some of them may not like the idea, there is little doubt but that the value of any addition or division is enhanced by the setting aside of a square for park purposes.

The provision as to width of lots is of little effect except in initial sales of property. Without a supplementary provision as to the space between buildings it is of little effect in preventing congestion. Lots will be laid out with a frontage of fifty feet and will be subdivided and sold as they have been in other parts of the city. Two or three buildings will be placed on lots and congestion will continue unless some means can be devised of preventing the building of houses close together as they have been in the central parts of the city.

THERE is no personal activity in the market, although the tone continues good and inquiry is strong. Much of the inquiry is from outside of the city and the preponderance of it applies to steel plant lots and acres. The Duluth steel plant is attracting attention all over the country and especially in centers where the effect of steel plant operations has been evident. Sales of lots in the vicinity of Duluth's new plant continue to be numerous and more inquiry is made for acreage in that section than could possibly be supplied.

The speculative interest, which was first applied to the steel plant district almost entirely, is spreading over the city. Many of the sales of residence sites in the older sections of the city recently have been to people with speculative intent, for lots in the established residence districts are scarce and are constantly increasing in value.

Several good deals in investment property are said to be in the air, but difficulty is experienced in getting the parties to the prospective deals together on price. The disposition to anticipate profits is still evinced by holders of good investment property. They are not anxious to sell and they take the attitude that if prospective purchasers are not willing to meet their prices, they will not lose anything by holding on.

THE loan market is unchanged. Loans in almost any sum may be easily obtained on the security of improved Duluth property, but there is little demand for loans. The building that will be done in Duluth this year will be almost entirely in the way of residences and small business buildings. Some small loans are made on that account, but big loans are not in demand and the loan agents have money on their hands with no chance of placing it.

Time was when there was no hustling to place loans in Duluth. The people wanted money and were willing to pay high rates of interest. The people who want loans now are able to demand the best of terms and will be readily accommodated on a fair basis.

OUR old friend, the summer hotel, is bobbing up again. Summer hotels have been built on every rock and crag on the hillside and on many sites on Park Point. That is, they have been built in the minds of the builders and never really took tangible form. The agitation is aroused again and with it is the suggestion that, got a summer hotel, but an all-around-the-year hotel that would attract a good class of family patronage be built.

G. G. Hartley was said to have some such plan in mind some time ago and he is supposed to be figuring on it yet, a site near Ninth avenue east being considered. Whether Mr. Hartley or somebody else goes ahead with the plan, there is certainly room for another hotel in Duluth—a hotel that will cater principally to transients of the long-staying kind—summer visitors, hay fever patients and people who prefer a family hotel to the ordinary hotels for transients. A first-class hotel of that kind should be a mint in Duluth.

There should be business for it all the year, if it were located away from the street car and railroad tracks. Duluth's population is greatly increased in summer and the hotels now in the city are taxed to their capacity. The Holland was erected only a year ago and its business is already such that a four-story addition is contemplated. There is only one good hotel off of the street car tracks and that is a small one. Nobody questions that a hotel somewhere east of Eighth avenue east on a site with a view of the lake, near to the street cars but not on the same streets as the tracks, would prove highly attractive to visitors and would be highly profitable to the owner.

THIS is the month of the house-seekers. May 1 is the offfficial moving day, despite the fact that many people move during other months, and on May 1 there will be moving each year in such volume that the van companies will be rushed with work and flooded with money.

The demand for separate houses is greater this year than it has been for years in Duluth and it cannot possibly be met by the supply. The home-garden idea has taken root; the apartment house is falling into disfavor among many people outside of those who do not know how long they will remain in the city and do not want an established home.

Separate houses will rent at high figures this year and there may be slight concessions in flat rentals in consequence of the greater demand for homes. Few houses in the suburbs are for rent and those who want to live in the suburbs are being advised to take to the "Own Your Own Home" idea and have rent receipts count as payments on deeds and not as waste paper.

In the business section of the city, there will be several changes but few of note. The new buildings on First street will attract a number of firms which have formerly been located on Superior street. The movement east on Superior street will also be greater this year. There is no scarcity of office room in the downtown section, the erection of the Alworth building last year and the completion of the Fidelity building this year relieving the congestion in the offfice buildings.

NOTABLE INVESTMENT DEALS SAID TO BE PENDING

Few Transfers of Note Made During the Past Week.

Small Deals Held Up By Unfavorable Weather Conditions.

No notable real estate deals were closed during the past week. Several firms said yesterday that big deals are in the air, but difficulty is being experienced in getting the parties together. It is expected that there will be developments in the next few weeks.

The sales of residence lots, which were increased in number during the latter part of March, have fallen off again on account of the snow and cold weather. People refused to look at property under the prevailing weather conditions, and many deals in unimproved and improved residence property are left in the air until the weather man settles down to handing out spring weather.

Two-family flat building on the upper side of Fifth street, between Second and Third avenues west, sold by George Smith to Elizabeth McKeever, $3,500.

Lot on Grand avenue, near Fifty-eighth avenue west, sold by Annie Rodgers to Ole Sather, $750. The Scott-Kreidler company was also interested in the deal.

Two lots on Fifty-third avenue west to George L. Shoup, $700.

Chauncey Smith has sold to Nellie A. Winchester a property fronting fifty feet on the upper side of Fourth street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues east, for $1,750.

George W. Thompson has sold to Sigbert H. Olmem fifty-three acres in 51-15, near Pike lake, for $2,000.

Ben. G. Armstrong has sold to A. W. Kuehnow a property on Piedmont avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets, the consideration not being given in the deed.

The Burg Acreage & Townsite company of Duluth has secured a vast amount of property on the shores of Lake Nebagamon and proposes to start a selling campaign just as soon as the surveyors are through with the preparations. The land will be sold in from two to five acre tracts, fronting on the lake, and purchasers will be afforded the opportunity to obtain larger tracts running back from the lake-front acreage to be used for small farming. The Lake Nebagamon district is widely famed for its fishing and bathing, and is the home of many wealthy clubs. The Nebagamon river is the outlet to the lake, and is almost as famous as a trout stream as the Brule, into which it flows at a distance of some five miles from the lake. The Brule is known the world over for its magnificent speckled or rainbow trout.

NEW HOTEL ON BOWERY

Cook Investment Company Building Between Fifth and Sixth Avenues.

Bids for Wolvin Building Addition Opened and Sent East.

The new hotel building to be erected on the Bowery, announcement of which was made in The Herald some weeks ago, will be owned by the Cook Investment company. The plans, which are being prepared by Kelly & Lignell, will be out for figures next week.

The building will be located on the lower side of Superior street just east of the southwest corner of Sixth avenue west. It will front twenty-five feet on Superior and Michigan streets, the length being 115 feet. It will be of brick, four stories on Superior street and five stories on Michigan street, and will be fireproof and thoroughly modern.

The building will be the fourth of its kind to go up in that block in the past year. All have replaced old wooden shacks and each has been a step forward in the regeneration of the Bowery.

Edward P. Shurick, who is now with V. J. Price & Co., has plans out for a one-story bungalow for Milton I. Stewart. It will be built in the Brookline addition at Woodland, and will cost about $4,500.

Mr. Shurick has also completed plans for a story and one-half bungalow for Frank A. Edson at Deerwood. The bungalow will be thoroughly modern and will be provided with a patent pumping system, a septic tank and a good water system. It will cost about $5,000.

Bids will be opened April 10 for a one-story brick store building to be built at Biwabik for M. Glassner. The building will be 50 by 90 feet and will cost about $10,000. Ellerbe, Round & Sullivan are the architects.

P. M. Olsen is taking figures on a three-story brick flat building for Haakon Lindahl. It will be built on the upper side of Fourth street, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues east, and will cost about $7,000.

Mr. Olsen is also taking bids on a residence for R. E. Townsend on Woodland avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets. It will cost about $4,500.

Mr. Olsen is preparing plans for the following work:

For Mrs. Clara A. Harris, residence on Forty-first avenue east, between Superior and Regent streets, to cost $3,500.

For the remodeling of a residence and the erection of a two-family brick flat building for Ole Murvold on Fifth street, between Second and Third avenues east.

For H. J. Gustafson, residence on the corner of Fourth avenue east and Sixth street, to cost $7,000.

Kelly & Lignell are preparing plans for a building 100 by 80 feet with two stories and a basement to be built at Baudette, Minn., for the Pioneer Store company.

Bids for the two additional stories to be built on the Wolvin building were opened in the office of W. A. Hunt, architect, Thursday. The contract was not awarded, the bids being sent East for consideration by the officers of the State Mutual Life Assurance Company of Massachusetts, which owns the building.

The Fidelity building is about ready for occupancy. Bray & Nystrom, who will occupy the top floor, are moving and the street floor has been occupied for some time.

MR. SALARIED MAN, HERE'S A CHANCE TO ADD TO YOUR SALARY

¶ Here's a chance to establish yourself on a ten-acre garden tract so close to the city that you can easily come in to work every day, with splendid roads on two sides of you, with wonderfully fertile, ENTIRELY STONELESS SOIL, exactly suited to the growing of garden truck, small fruits, etc.

¶ You don't have to quit your job to take this up—put in some spare time; work evenings and Sundays, let the wife start that chicken farm she has always wanted, let the children grow straight and strong helping, and in addition to making a substantial increase to your salary, you will cut your own cost of living 'way down (by growing half what you eat) and will be healthier and happier than ever before in your life!

¶ We have exactly eight of these tracts, adjoining land which was sold a short time ago at from $80 to $95 an acre—our land is fertile and stoneless, is sufficiently wooded to supply all fuel and shack-building needs, while the price is ONLY $40 an acre. Fifty dollars down buys a ten-acre tract—balance ten dollars a month.

This is absolutely the cheapest and best acreage anywhere near the city! Come up and talk to us about it NOW—before the eight have all been snapped up!

POTATOES ON NEW LAND.

Dear Sir: Replying to your letter asking results of my truck garden this summer. My report will sound like exaggerating but it is the truth. I have 30 potatoes weighing 60 lbs. raised on ground just cleared last spring. It was an even acre and I got 135 bushels of marketable tubers. I have not sold all my potatoes, but have sold 50 bushels at 75c per bushel.

I had about one-quarter of an acre in onions and sold $30 worth of green onions through the summer at 25c per bunch and got 50 bushels of large onions. I have three onions now that weigh 4 lbs. 7 ounces, and sold some at $2 per hundred lbs.

I have 5½ tons of timothy hay for which I have been offered $20 per ton f. o. b. cars, Meadowlands. I have quite a number of herbs and perennial plants such as savory, sage, annis, and corinder, peanuts, pop corn, pumpkins (one weighing 27 lbs.) cabbages (one weighing 17 lbs.)

I have not sold much of my truck yet, as I am holding it for winter prices, although the market is now good. Yours truly, (Signed) GEO. ZANKER.

NO CHANGE IN SCHOOL BILL

Objections Will Not Be Offered to Proposed Restrictions on District.

Both Congdon Bills Are Expected to Pass the Senate.

Now that the teachers' salary question is settled, it is expected that the two Congdon bills before the state senate will go through without material change. One provides that the total tax levy for school purposes in the cities of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth shall not exceed 12 mills on the dollar in any one year. The other limits the bonded indebtedness of the same districts to 3½ per cent of the assessed valuation and provides that no bond issue shall be made unless it be approved by a two-thirds vote of the city council.

There was some talk of objection to the bond issue bill on the ground that the city council should not be given supervision of school district bond issues. The matter was considered by the Commercial club committee on schools recently and the committee reported against the bill. The matter was then referred to the executive committee, with power to act and that committee, having considered the matter, decided not to offer any objections to the bill.

Although members of the school board consider that the city council should not be given supervision over them, they have not offered any serious objections to the bill, believing that any bond issue the board may decide upon will commend itself to the members of the city council. Under the present valuation of about $41,000,000, the bonded indebtedness of the Duluth district will be limited to about $1,435,000 by the bill, while the present bonded indebtedness is $1,175,000.

MINNEAPOLIS PARK PRIVATE PROPERTY.

St. Louis, Mo., April 8.—Hall island, situated in the Mississippi river near Minneapolis, Minn., is the property of Mrs. Corinna L. Hobart, who has property on the bank of the river adjoining the island, according to a decision of the United States circuit court of appeals entered in the clerk's office today. The island is used by Minneapolis as a public park.

AMONG THE "EXTRAS."

Youth's Companion: One of the things which help swell the traveler's expenses, both in this country and abroad, is the "extra." It may or may not be charged in the bill, but it is sure to be paid for. Probably even the most generous traveler, however, will have some sympathy for the gentleman in the following story, who was made to pay liberally for a certain annoying privilege.

During his stay at the hotel the weather had been very hot.

"Charles," said the landlord to the clerk, who was making out the bill to be presented to the departing guest, "have you noticed that the gentleman in No. 7 has consulted the thermometer on the piazza at least ten times every morning during his stay here?"

Charles replied that he had.

"Well," said the landlord, "charge him the price of one dinner a day for the use of the thermometer."

STARVATION OF CATTLE ON RANGES

Unspeakable Cruelties Witnessed By a Woman Who Lived a Year Among the Cowboys.

BY ETHELYN DYER of Guymon, Okla., in Our Dumb Animals.

FOR one year I lived by the corner of a "fenced range." This great pasture, covering an area of many square miles, was "school land" mainly, which means that the schools of the state derive a part of their support from its rental. Part of the pasture belonged to the cattleman who "run" his cattle there. The "fence-riders" were supposed to make a circuit of this fence every few days, on horseback, to see if any of the wires were down, so that the cattle could escape. Besides this their duties were the same as those of the cowboys on the open range.

The night before Thanksgiving, there was a terrible blizzard, a storm of ice and sleet. A cutting wind, driving the thermometer to zero, compelled us to keep the stove in our little "shack" at the red-hot point. All that night I was unable to sleep, because of the cries of the unhoused animals on the range, and the shouts of the cowboys, sounding above the howl and hiss of the storm. The cattle had crowded into a horseshoe-shaped "break" or canyon with high rock walls rising sheer a hundred feet on three sides, about a mile from our house. Here they crowded and trampled each other, while the cowboys, on the rocks above, wherever they could gain a foothold, shouted and fought them back, hour after hour until, just before daybreak, a lull in the storm calmed the crazy cattle and allowed them to rest.

In a day or two the storm cleared, and I went to the place which I found literally heaped with the bodies of slain cattle. One poor cow was lying among the heap with crushed ribs and a broken leg, yet still alive. Just then, the "fence-rider" came by, and I asked him (for he carried two revolvers), as a favor, to shoot the poor animal. His reply was: "Oh, she'll die in a day or two, anyway." And she did. But what do you think of tho spirit prompting his reply?

Horrors of the Farce of Feeding.

The laws of Oklahoma, I am told, compel the feeding of cattle during the winter. I was a witness, on more than one occasion, to this "feeding," and a crueler farce never existed. The men came into the pasture with a small load of something by courtesy called "prairie hay." Had it been cut at the proper season, and properly cured, it would have been poor food, but no such care had been taken. As I saw it, and smelled it, it was black with rot, and musty, rank, and mouldy to the last degree. One of the gentlemen of the party exclaimed in horror: "My God! Can it be possible that this is how they 'feed' their animals here?"

One small load of this miserable provender was supposed to satisfy the hunger of a thousand cattle at that feeding station. There was not, in fact, sufficient for each to have one mouthful, had it been evenely divided among them. But the few stronger ones obtained the food, leaving most of them with absolutely nothing. The human-like moans and cries of despair with which they followed the rapidly-retreating wagon, would have moved a heart of flint. This is how the millionaire cattlemen evade the law!

During that season there was no snow of great depth or long continuance. A prairie fire burned the range black, except in some scattered spots, and the cattle wandered back and forth unsatisfied, grew thinner and thinner, and dropped, here and there, from sheer starvation. All that winter the water was not frozen for more than a few days at a time, but there are tons of whitened bones along the banks of the Beaver, bearing mute testimony to the cattle who died of thirst when the water froze. They were only beef!

In the spring, besides the cruelty of "branding," which is said to be unavoidable on the range, there was added the enormity of "dehorning." Of the awfulness of this practice I dare only hint, lest this may be deemed unfit for publication! I saw the cows, apparently in the most terrible distress, shaking their poor "dehorned" heads, and bellowing piteously. Some of them soon grew too weak to walk and sank where they were. I had gained the friendship of the cowboys, by gifts of magazines and papers, so I made bold to ask one the cause of this new disaster. "The flies got to them when they were dehorned," was his answer. A cow lay close to the fence, nearly dead. He motioned to me silently and parted the long hair above her forehead. I nearly fainted at what was revealed. I dare not tell you more. Of this herd, several hundred died, but some were shipped East, in this condition!

When a carload of "veal" was shipped East, a new horror came. The calves were taken by hundreds from the mothers, leaving them in full milk to suffer unattended. For the suffering thus caused, I have no words of description. I will leave it to the imagination of any human mother who has experienced similar agony. I asked the cowboy why this was allowed, since many cows died and others were seriously injured by this fearful means. He laughed.

"Do you think we keep a cow-hospital? How'd we get time to milk half-a-thousand cows?"

I saw his point. Indeed, how could they? I asked him and several other cowboys in turn, if they would swear to the knowledge of the truth of these statements. They refused, one and all.

"Why, lady," said one,, "I'd lose my job, and there's not another cattleman would hire me." Others said they were afraid of libel suits, in which the cattlemen would have men hired to "prove that black is white." I have been urged to keep this story silent, for the same reason!

Of the terrors of the "round-up" and the long, thirsty ride in the crowded cattle cars, others have written and have not been able to picture the scenes adequately. The most powerful imagination could not conceive of a tithe of what I saw in one short year. The dreadful thing about this accursed traffic is that people grow so hardened that they cease to care, even when they do see and know.

Is it possible that the flesh of animals treated in this manner is fit for human consumption?

NEED NERVE, SAYS BROWN

Three-Fingered Star Says No Pitcher Can Win Without It.

Three-Fingered Brown, the great pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, believes that no matter what a pitcher has to deceive the batsmen he must have the nerve besides.

"Good curves are great assets," says Brown, "but there have been great pitchers who had hardly enough to fool an amateur. Speed? Another grand asset. But some of the great pitchers didn't have enough speed to break a pane of glass. Control? It's a great thing to cultivate. But some good twirlers were minus the article to a great extent. Head work? Great! But what's the use of having a pitcher who doesn't use his noodle?

"Then what is the greatest asset a pitcher can have? Nerve! It isn't sufficient when it isn't backed up. But give a pitcher the nerve and anything else and he'll be a great pitcher. On the other hand, let him have everything else and no nerve and he'll be a dub. There's scarcely a day when the pitcher isn't called upon to use his nerve.

"It's the one requisite in the make-up of a really great pitcher. And I don't know a single other qualification that is absolutely essential. The pitcher discovers that his curve ball won't work. The break isn't there. It's up to his nerve. If he has lots of it, he may keep the opposing batsman standing still until he recovers himself. If he hasn't the nerve, he is in for a beating. So with the fellow that depends upon his speed. He discovers to his amazement that his fast ball is without the jump. If he has the nerve, he may work along an inning or two, or maybe for half a game. Suddenly it comes back and he's all right. If he hasn't the nerve he'll blow. Same way with control. A pitcher suddenly goes wild. The only thing in the world that will settle him is his nerve. If he loses that it's an ascension. There are times when the rule doesn't hold good."

PAWNED HIS WOODEN LEG.

Indianapolis correspondence Philadelphia Inquirer: When Judge Collins of police court, today sought to have his orders obeyed for John Simpson to leave town it was found that John had pawned his wooden leg and that he was in no condition to hike.

Sam Gaddis, a probation officer, called the turn on Simpson when the latter hopped into court on a crutch. Simpson said he had left the leg at a shop for repairs.

Gaddis reported that he had trailed Simpson and found that he had pawned the leg for $3. The company was willing to give up the leg for the $2. Simpson had $1.80. The remainder was appropriated out of the court missionary box so that Simpson was able to recover the leg and depart.

INSULT MADE NEW RECORD

Refusal of Bremer to Speak Caused Kraenzlein to Hurdle Faster.

Big Pennsylvanian Was So Angry He Lost All Fear of Opponent.

Alvin Kraenzlein, coach of the Michigan track team and world's record holder in the 220-yard low hurdles, tells an interesting story of how he came to win the world's title in the low hurdles—a title which he holds and which, judging from the inability of present-day hurdlers to approach his mark of :23 3-5, he probably will retain for another decade.

Kraenzlein doesn't tell this story for the purpose of boasting; rather the opposite. Kraenzlein is anything but a boaster. He merely told it one day in a moment of inadvertence, by way of apology for holding the world's record for the event.

At the time—it was back in 1898—Kraenzlein was as big as he now is, only more lanky. He had entered the University of Pennsylvania the previous fall, and, together with Mike Murphy, had evolved a new system of hurdling, which, while the vogue at the present time, was something new and unheard of then.

Kraenzlein's First Big Meet.

The Penn track team had gone to New York city to compete in the Eastern intercollegiate—Kraenzlein's first big meet. In the trial heats of the hurdles Kraenzlein won without particular difficulty, as did Bremer of Harvard, who then held the world's record of 24 3-5 seconds. When the trial heats and the semi-finals had been run, it was found that Bremer and another Harvard athlete had survived the elimination process, while Kraenzlein and another Pennsylvania athlete were the others who had qualified for the finals.

"As it was my first big meet, I was nervous," says Kraenzlein in relating the incident. "I had heard a lot about Bremer, and I hadn't the slightest notion in the world that I would beat him. My highest ambition was to finish second, or even third. I conceded—to myself at least—that Bremer would win the race hands down.

Bremer Refuses to Speak.

"While we were standing around the starting place waiting for the final heat I was admiring Bremer, and finally I mustered sufficient courage to go over and extend my hand.

"'I am Kraenzlein of Pennsylvania,' I said, 'and I've heard so much of you that I'd like to know you.'

"Bremer looked at me a second, then turned away as if he had seen nothing. I flushed, then turned white, and walked away. I was so angry that I don't believe I knew quite what I was doing. The starter called us to our positions, but all the time we were getting on our marks and getting set I didn't have a single thought except that I'd beat him or die in the attempt.

"We were off together with the crack of the gun, and that's all I remember. The next thing I knew Mike Murphy was standing by my side in the dressing room congratulating me. He told me that I had beaten Bremer; that I had lowered the world's record by a full second, and a lot of details which I fear were a trifle exaggerated. He always insisted that, although we were nearly together when we cleared the first hurdle, I beat him so badly that when I was finishing he was taking the last barrier.

Surprised at Fast Time.

"Naturally there was some surprise when the time, :23 2-5, was announced. At first even the timers wouldn't believe it, but there were three of them and they all caught me in the same time. They said, too, that if Bremer could run in :24 3-5 my time must have been a full second faster, judging from the distance by which I led him to the tape.

"While Murphy was talking to me in my dressing room, there was a knock at the door. Murphy went to the door and there stood Bremer. He came over and apologized for his insult and, of course, I had no reason to be angry any longer. It had hurt at the time, but it was just what I needed to put me on edge to run the race of my life.

"Do I think I would have ever won the world's championship without that incident? Maybe so, but I doubt it."

SIBERIAN WILD FLOWERS.

From America: Siberia seems to have a set program for her flowers, which are beautiful in variety and coloring. September gathers the blue flowers to her bosom, and under her languid and caressing touch blossom myriads of dainty bluebells on long and tender stems.

In the rocky soil of the hilltops blue scabiosa shares its playground with dark blue snapdragon; and in the shady spots of the road grow, tall and hardy, purple blue chrysanthemums.

Earlier in summer yellow holds sway—buttercups, daisies and violets, and after them red-pinks and very deepr briar roses. Delicious jam is concocted from the seedpods of the wild rose.

When summer comes an array of jars and glasses and a big kettle to join hands with hat boxes and shoe bags and travel countryward. A temporary stove is built of stones not far from the house, and here simmers slowly the year's provision of preserves and jams and jellies, absorbing at the same time great doses of sun and fresh air.

SCALPERS IN WHEAT

They Have the Market to Themselves—Values Erratic.

Near Deliveries Up—Cash Demand Better—Flax Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 8.—Wheat was irregular today and closed slightly higher although the next spring wheat crop month was weak and closed lower. May gained ⅛c and July went up ⅜c. September lost ½c. Cash wheat was ½c over the May delivery. Oats gained ¼c, rye and barley were unchanged and durum was without change.

Linseed was weaker, May lost 3c and July traded at $2.55 for the first time and was offered down to $2.50. The Winnipeg market was weak.

The wheat market was a scalping affair in which neither side had much advantage. Fluctuations were swift and sharp and traders were kept guessing. Two elements were at war with each other and traders had difficulty in fathoming their respective strength. On one side was the strong cash demand at the leading Northwestern market, reported improvement of flour business here and at Minneapolis and exports of Manitoba wheat which induced intermittent short covering. On the other side was the continued optimism of crop reports. While alive to the opportunity to bull wheat on the revival of cash business traders could not forget that within a few weeks the bulls will be compelled to get out their pocketbooks and settle for a lot of old wheat as an immense quantity of new stuff is about to come on the market.

The selling on the bulge around noon carried values almost to yesterday's closing levels and was induced by the desire of scalpers on the long side to even up their accounts in the face of the government's crop report, which is expected to be bearish and which will be issued at 1 o'clock central time, Monday.

The weather continues favorable both in the Southwest and the Northwest. The foreign markets were higher on account of the strength at Buenos Ayres and unfavorable Russian reports which induced covering by shorts. The British crop report was bearish and world's shipments will be reported large.

Cash Sales Saturday.

Chicago Record-Herald of yesterday: Flour trade advices from outside points were quite conflicting. Those from the spring wheat country were optimistic and those from the winter wheat belt were the reverse. Shearson-Hammill's Minneapolis man wired that millers at report decided improvement in flour demand. One of the best posted millers estimates sales from there yesterday of at least 100,000 bbl, and prospects of same today. President James Bell of Washburn-Crosby, in answer to a personal message said their sales had been about the usual quantity, but that the demand was much improved. Winnipeg wire to Logan-Bryan after the close last night read. "Big export flour business done here today. Get it on good authority that as high as 30,000 bbl have been worked."

According to the reports of the Chicago Daily Trade Bulletin the condition of winter wheat in the states named is approximately:

State	Per. Cent.	State	Per. Cent.
New York	92.0	Illinois	89.4
Pennsylvania	84.0	Missouri	92.0
Maryland	80.0	Kansas	83.7

C. A. King & Co. sent out the following: "Michigan April wheat condition 87, December 96, last April 88, June 87, and crop 15,000,000. Government made December condition 94. Wheat still in farmers' hands, 5,000,000 bu."

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: "At the start there was a further disposition shown by shorts to cover with offerings lighter, and values were ¼@½d higher, and during the morning the market held firm with support in May, which month further advanced ¼d. Notwithstanding the prospects of heavy world's shipments this week and the bearish showing of the Great Britain official report, speculative interests were disposed to support and shorts were nervous. This support was induced by the unexpected firmness in America yesterday and the closing strength in Buenos Ayres, together with an improved demand for spot again continued for demand from the continent for cargoes, which are more firmly held. Advices from Russia are unfavorable. At the close the market was firm and ⅜@½d higher than yesterday, with shorts in May nervous. Corn—After opening ¼@⅜d higher, further advanced ¼d on the firmer American cables, strength in American spot predictions of light American shipments to Liverpool this week. A Great Britain official estimates that the acreage sown to wheat will show an increase of 5 per cent over last year. Last year the acreage amounted to 1,808,858 acres. Russia—Our agent cables that the weather in the Southwest is warmer and field work has started. The outlook for winter seeding is satisfactory. Poland—Outlook unsatisfactory.. Corn—Predictions here for fourteen loads from America to Liverpool this week and only six loads for the following week. Buenos Ayres—The closing firmness in wheat in this market was due entirely to shorts covering on the strong American cables."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Takes Upward Trend, Actuated By Various Reports.

Chicago, April 8.—Predictions of a big decrease in the United States visible supply had a bullish effect here on wheat. The upward movement was helped by higher cables, although foreign strength appeared to be chiefly the result of the previous advance on this side of the Atlantic. Improvement in cash demand here formed another element adverse to the bears. The opening was ⅛@⅜c higher to a shade off. May started at 87c to 87¼c, a sixteenth down to ⅛@¼c up and rose to 87⅝c.

Moisture Northwest followed by warmer weather caused prices to react in quite sudden fashion. The close was nervous with May at 87c, a net loss of a shade.

Scalpers buying corn on account of the strength of wheat lifted the price of the coarse grain. May opened a shade dearer to a like amount lower at 48¼@48⅜c to 48⅜c and ascended to 48½c.

Falling off in export demand brought about a decline. The close was strong, however, with May at 48⅜@48⅞, a net gain of ½c.

Oats were firm in sympathy with other articles on the cereal list. May started at 30⅝@30¾c to 30¾c, unchanged to a sixteenth higher, and went up to 30⅞c.

Purchases for local traders held hog products fairly steady. First sales were 2½c higher to 2½c down with May options at $15.20 for pork, $7.97½ for lard and $8.52½ for ribs.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: There was a fair general demand for horses of all classes, buyers from a number of Northwestern points being present. Mares suitable for work and breeding purpose find ready takers; evidently horse raisers expect horse value to continue at a high level, but a large number of dealers are of the opinion that present values will not continue more than a year or two, unless the Canadian reciprocity pact is ratified, giving an outlet for surplus horses. Heavy receipts of second-hand logging horses.

Weakness of Gould Securities Carries General Stock Market Lower.

Covering of Shorts Sends Prices Up Again—Close Is Firm.

New York, April 8.—The heaviness which characterized the closing of the stock market yesterday was renewed at today's opening. Most issues recorded fractional declines on the moderate degree of activity, with especial weakness in Missouri Pacific.

Increased weakness of the Gould securities carried the general market fractionally lower. Missouri Pacific lost over 1 and Wabash-Pittsburg terminal certificates nearly 2 points. Distillers' Securities yielded 1¾. The market was hardening at 11 o'clock.

The market closed firm. Covering of shorts put out earlier sent prices up briskly in spots, Missouri Pacific making a full recovery.

TOM JOHNSON VERY LOW.

Former Mayor of Cleveland Cannot Live Much Longer.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 8.—Former Mayor Tom L. Johnson, who, following a relapse, has been confined to his bed for nearly three weeks from cirrhosis of the liver, passed a comparatively comfortable night, but today is believed to be approaching death. No official announcement has been made, but friends of the family admit that dissolution is but a few days distant. The sick man is in a state of coma part of the time.

BOYS BURNED TO DEATH.

Two Sons of Fort William Family Lose Lives

Fort William, Ont., April 8.—While Mrs. Joseph Frost was temporarily absent from home her four young boys set fire to the house while playing with matches and two of the boys were burned to death.

Two of the boys escaped through a window, but they were badly burned.

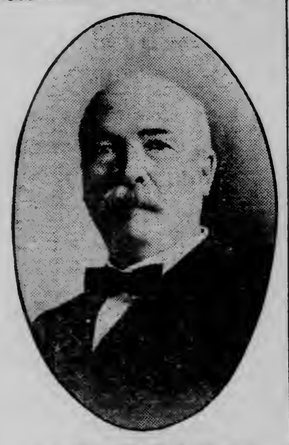
VOTE ON RECALL BILL IS MADE POSSIBLE BY RULING OF SPEAKER

ONE OF THE SOUTHERN MINNESOTA SENATORS



SENATOR M. J. McGRATH
Of Winona, Democrat, Who Represents the Second District.

Moonan Bill Added to Special Order for Wednesday Afternoon.

Keefe Bill for Oregon Senatorial Plan May Be Considered.

Hanson Reapportionment Bill Reported Favorably to the Senate.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A ruling by Speaker Dunn to the effect that committees cannot control legislation, but that a majority of the house can and should, this morning made it possible for a vote to be taken Wednesday on the senate bill by Senator Moonan proposing a constitutional amendment providing for the recall of public officers.

This will be done Wednesday afternoon, the bill having been added by the house to the special order for that time on the senate state-wide primary bill. Without this action and the speaker's ruling no recall bill could have passed,

SESSION IS NEARING END

But Six More Working Days Remain for the Legislature.

Few of the Pending Minor Measures Will Get Consideration.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The legislature today began the last full week of the session, which will practically end a week from tomorrow night, though there will be a meeting on the morning of Wednesday, April 19, at which no bills can be passed. The final adjournment will come at noon on that day, and then the thirty-seventh session of the Minnesota legislature will be a thing that is done.

There are six more working days, and special orders of one kind or another bulk so largely in the time available for legislative work that it is very evident that only a few of the many pending minor measures will get a chance to slip through the chinks between the big things.

Tomorrow the three big appropriation bills are a special order in both houses, and no man may say how long it will take to dispose of them. If there isn't too much of a fight and everything runs smoothly, it may be

BLOWING OF A WHISTLE

By Spectator Starts Another Commotion at Camorrists' Trial.

President Promptly Adjourns Court and Another Delay Occurs.

Viterbo, Italy, April 10.—President Bianchi's way of dealing with disturbances at the trial of the Camorrists is to suspend the sitting, and so frequently is this prerogative exercised that the proceedings are seriously delayed and promise to be long drawn out. Today the sound of a whistle from among the spectators was sufficient to start a commotion that ended only when an adjournment was declared.

Giuseomo Ascrittore was under interrogation at the time. He is charged with having falsely denounced Tomasso de Angelis and Gaetano Amedo as the murderers of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife in furtherance of a conspiracy with the priest Citozzi through which they sought to free of suspicion Enrico Alfano, his brother Ciro Gennaro Ibell and Giovanni Rapi.

"One day," said Ascrittore, "Amedo, being drunk, said that there was much misapprehension in the public mind regarding the Cuoccolo affair. He said that only $120 was divided among the murderers though some persons secured great profit by selling the furniture from the home of the Cuoccolos."

At this point a whistle blast startled every one in the room. The lawyers sprang to their feet in indignant protest against the interruption and in the confusion the president announced that the sitting was suspended.

COMPLICITY IN BANCROFT THEFT

Charge Made Against New York Jeweler Who Is Arrested.

New York, April 10.—Frank J. Plass, a jeweler, is under arrest charged with complicity in the theft of $85,000 worth of securities from Aaron Bancroft, senior member of the brokerage firm of George Bancroft & Co., on March 2 last.

Aaron Bancroft was jostled and knocked down by two men in the corridors of the Produce Exchange Safety Deposit company while he was carrying the securities in a large envelope. One of the two helped him to his feet and handed him what he supposed was his envelope. When he opened it four days later he found a substitution had been cleverly effected, and the dummy envelope contained nothing but old newspapers.

Two weeks later counsel for the brokers received word that for $5,000 the securities would be returned. A meeting was arranged, the reward was paid over, but the thieves withheld $20,000 of the securities and hurriedly drove off in a taxi. The police now charge that Plass was one of the men in the cab.

DIES FROM BITE OF PET BULLDOG

Abraham Nahon, Former Baseball Secretary, Victim of Hydrophobia.

New York, April 10.—Abraham Nahon, formerly secretary of the New York American baseball club, died in the Neurological Institute today from hydrophobia. He was taken to the institute last Saturday from his home in Yonkers.

Mr. Nahon is said to have contracted the disease from a pet bulldog last November while he was attending the animal, which was suffering with an illness which later developed into rabies.

Mr. Nahon had a slight cut on his hand which was infected, it is supposed, when the dog licked his hand. Symptoms of rabies did not develop until last Friday. He was 42 years old.

SEATTLE EDITOR PASSES AWAY

Charles Alf Williams Dies From Injuries Received in 1889.

Seattle, Wash., April 10.—Charles Alf Williams, aged 51 years, assistant managing editor of the Seattle Times, died today as the result of injuries received in the Minneapolis Tribune fire on Nov. 30, 1889, when eight persons were killed and the lives of forty more were saved by the heroism of Williams, then managing editor of the Tribune. In his youth Williams was a noted oarsman and wrestler.

When fire broke out on the eighth floor of the Tribune building panic seized upon all those on the three upper floors, and men began to leap from windows into a light court to be killed on the stones below.

Williams, by command and physical force, got control of the struggling men and marshaled them down a fire escape, at whose head he and his brother stood. After the last printer had passed to safety, the Williams brothers followed.

Charles was burned on the head and inhaled flames and had been more or less of an invalid ever since, but retained his mental vigor.

Prominent Broker, Indicted in Sugar Trust Cases, Is Dead.

Gustav E. Kissel Passes Away in His New York Home.

New York, April 10.—Gustav E. Kissel, long prominent as a Wall street broker and for many years intimately identified with important financial interests, died early today at his home here after an illness exceeding more than a month.

Gustav E. Kissel came into the spotlight of publicity through the acquisition by the American Sugar Refining company of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining company of Philadelphia. Mr. Kissel, with the president and six directors of the American Sugar Refining company, known as the sugar trust, were indicted by the federal grand jury in New York on July 12, 1909, on a charge of conspiracy in restraint of trade. Adolph Segal, who a short time before had sold a sugar refinery at Camden, N. J., to the sugar trust, had just completed a new $2,000,000 refinery at Philadelphia, and announced that he would fight the American company. Segal, who had become involved in real estate transactions, was in need of money and had applied to various banks for assistance, offering as collateral stock in the new refinery.

The government alleged that the

All Horses, Arms and Supplies Are Taken Away By Rebels.

Many of the Mine Workers Are Impressed Into Service.

Town of Aguas Calientes Is Threatened With Attack.

El Paso, Tex., April 10.—According to a dispatch received from Torreon, Aguas Calientes, capital of the state of the same name and the center of the drawn work expert trade in Mexico, is threatened by a force of 900 insurrectos. Four hundred rebels are said to be advancing on Camacho in Northern Zacatecas.

An insurrecto raid is reported on the Pervenie mines in Sonora, all horses, arms and supplies having been taken, it is said, and many of the mine workers having been impressed into service with the rebels. The mines are owned by an American company.

Reinforcements from Hermosillo have gone to the assistance of the federals driven from Arizpe and a battle with the victorious insurrectos in that vicinity is expected when the two federal forces form a junction.

The insurrectos have abandoned Topia, Durango, to go to Velardena to reinforce the rebel force battling with the federals in that vicinity. It is reported the federals have formed an alliance with the Cuencame Indians in Durango under a compact by which the Indians are to have their lands and rights restored if the insurrectos are driven out of the state.

Material is still being taken from here to Pearson and Casas Grandes for railroad extension work. The natives, it is said, are rapidly leaving that region since the federal troops were withdrawn from Casas Grandes. Practically all civil officials have fled.

Rebel General Dies of Wounds.

Mexicali, Mex., April 10.—Gen. Stanley Williams, who was wounded Saturday in a spectacular [illegible] when his little force of eighty men engaged the entire Eighth batallion of the Mexican army, died yesterday in the improvised hospital established by the United States troops at Calexico.

Together with the other dead brought from the battlefield five miles away,

Washington, April 10.—Another decision day passed today without the supreme court of the United States announcing its decision in either the Standard Oil or the Tobacco "dissolution suits." This means that the decision will not be forthcoming for one more week.

MINORITY LEADER MANN HAS FINISHED COMMITTEE WORK

Has Treated the Ranking Minority Places as Chairmanships.

Appointees of These Important Places Given No Other Assignments.

Representative Clark of Florida Would Cut House Employes Further.

Washington, April 10.—Representative James R. Mann, minority leader of the house, today completed his task of assigning the minority members to the various committees of the house organization, but does not expect to make his selections public until late today or tomorrow.

In making the assignments Mr. Mann has treated the ranking minority places as chairmanships and has given the appointees to these important places no other assignments. Neither has Mr. Mann considered that a minority member is entitled as a right to remain on two of the leading committees.

Wherever practicable a veteran in the house service has been given an assignment with a new member so as to avoid the embarrassment with a new member ordinarily has.

An early visitor to the minority leader's room today was Caleb Powers the only Republican member from Kentucky, whose Democratic colleague declared they would not sit on a committee of which he was a member. Mr. Powers, it is understood, has not been assigned to any committee on which is another Kentuckian.

Would Cut Employes Further.

That many of the committees of the house of representatives are loaded

A MAN IS PASSING.

A MAN is passing. Nay, no demi-god,
But a plain man, close to the common sod
Whence springs the grass of our humanity. Strong
Is he, but human, therefore sometimes wrong,
Sometimes impatient of the slower throng,
Sometimes unmindful of the formal thong,
But ever with his feet set towards the height
To plant the banner of the Common Right;
And ever with his eye fixed on the goal,
The Vision of a City with a Soul.

And is he fallen? Aye, but mark him well,
He ever rises further than he fell.
A Man is passing. I salute him, then,
In these few words. He served his fellow men
And he is passing. But he comes again.
A Man is passing. Hail him, you
Who realize him staunch and strong and true.
He found us dollar-bound and party-blind;
He leaves a City with a Civic Mind,
Choosing her conduct with a conscious care,
Selecting one man here, another there
And scorning labels. Craft and Graft and Greed
Ran rampant in our hall and few took heed.
The Public Service and the Public Rights
Were bloody bones for wolf and jackal fights.
Now, even the Corporate Monster licks the hand
Where once he snarled his insolent demand.
Who tamed it? Answer as you will,
But truth is truth and his the credit still.

A Man is passing. Flout him, you
Who would not understand and never knew.
Tranquil in triumph, in defeat the same,
He never asked your praise nor shirked your blame.
For he, as Captain of the Common Good,
Has earned the right to be misunderstood.
Behold! he raised his hand against his class:
Aye, he forsook the Few and served the Mass.
Year upon year he bore the battle's brunt
And so, the hiss, the cackle and the grunt!
He found us, striving each his selfish part.
He leaves a City with a Civic Heart,
Which gives the fortune-fallen a new birth
And reunites him with his Mother Earth,
Which seeks to look beyond the broken law
To find the broken life, and mend its flaw.

THIEF KNEW ROPES

When He Took Money From Dickinson Official's Strongbox.

Dickinson, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the hope that the thief might be found or that his troubled conscience might induce him to return the stolen money County Treasurer Kilmer has kept secret that $86.50 in silver was stolen from the safe in the treasurer's office on the night of Jan. 14. That some one having a key to the office and familiar with the safe combination, committed the deed seems certain, as the money was locked in the safe when the treasurer left the office that evening. Next morning the safe was locked also, but on opening there was nothing but the empty tray. Between $900 and $1,000 in currency was not molested.

FOUND DEAD IN BATHTUB

Michael Link, Former Member of Illinois Legislature, Dies Suddenly.

Indicted for Perjury in Lorimer Case and Turned States Evidence.

St. Louis, Mo., April 10.—Michael S. Link, former member of the Illinois state legislature, who was indicted by a Chicago grand jury for perjury, and turned state's evidence, in the investigation of the election of United States Senator William Lorimer, was found dead in a bath tub in his home at Mitchell, Ill., today.

Death, according to the family physician, was caused by apoplexy. He said a blood vessel burst in the brain.

A week ago Link celebrated the twentieth anniversary of his wedding. He told his guests he was subject to heart trouble and knew he was going to die suddenly. He said he had made all arrangements for his estate if he should die.

Link was manager of the 3,000-acre farm of John J. Mitchell of Chicago. The farm is eleven miles from here in Madison county, Ill.

In the grand jury investigation in Chicago Link testified he knew nothing of bribery in the Illinois legislature. After a confession was made

FRED GARNER FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Sentenced to Twenty Years in Prison for Killing Mrs. Cochrane.

Danville, Ill., April 10.—Fred Garner, charged with the murder of Mrs. Elsie Cochrane, was found guilty by a jury in the circuit court this morning and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Yesterday afternoon one of the best known business men in the city stated that if the jury failed to agree, he would go to the attorneys for the defense and tell them that he knew a man who had owned a horse which wore shoes similar to those worn by the Garner horse, that he had disposed of the horse shortly after the murder and that he had had his buggy repainted. He also said this man, whom he declined to name, had been a close friend of Mrs. Cochrane and at one time had knocked a man down on the stairs of the Cochrane residence. Fear of publicity has prevented him from making public this information before, he said.

GIRL MISSING SINCE THE WORLD'S FAIR

Supreme Court Called Upon to Settle Question of Her Estate.

Washington, April 10.—The monotonous succession of one dry legal question after another was varied today in the supreme court of the United States when the justices gave their attention to the story of a Boston nurse girl lost in the city of Chicago during the World's fair and who has never been heard from since. A modest fortune awaits her return, but because of her long absence relatives claim it should be distributed among them.

The girl was Miss Mabel Allen. Her mother and her father died, leaving her the last of her family. About the time of the World's fair in Chicago she called one day on a cousin, George Nelson, of West Pullman, Ill. From that day to this neither relatives nor friends have heard from her.

In 1899 she became entitled as heir-at-law under the will of Jonathan Merry, who died in Boston in 1828, to a portion of $27,000 paid to the Merry estate by the government in settlement of a "French spoliation claim." Under a statute in Massachusetts five cousins, George Nelson, Robert J. Fisher of Chicago, Emma E. Thomas of Mandac, La., Blanche M. Umbach and John T. Sherburne of New Orleans claim Miss Allen's share. The court receiver, having the money in custody, claims that the law is unconstitutional.

DES MOINES PLAN GOOD

Senator Young Tells the Senate of Commission Plan's Success.

Application of Business Common Sense to Municipal Affairs.

Washington, April 10.—Senator Lafayette Young of Iowa today told the senate about the success of the commission plan of government as employed for the past three years in his home city of Des Moines and advised other municipalities to adopt it in the interest of efficiency.

"We have not reduced expenses," said he, "but we have secured more for our money."

Asserting that there is entirely too much machinery in the old type of city government and far more offices than the service demands, Mr. Young told how Des Moines had adopted the plan of placing its affairs in the hands of five commissioners with generally gratifying results. The commissioners are all elected at the same time and to them is entrusted the duty of selecting all other city officials.

Each member of the commission represents the head of a bureau. The work is divided up by themselves and

FEED STORE IS ENTERED

Burglars Get Nothing But Bunch of Keys for Trouble.

Attempt to Gain Entrance to the Safe Fails.

Burglars Saturday evening broke into the office of Wennberg, Wedin & Brotherton, feed dealers, 6216 Greene street, West Duluth, and after ransacking the place and attempting to crack the safe, escaped with only a bunch of keys.

The West Duluth police were notified yesterday and are working on the case. It is possible, they say, that the burglars may have some connection with the affair early Saturday morning when safe-blowers set fire to the factory building of the Nelson sash and door concern, Forty-sixth avenue west.

Entrance to the feed store office was gained by boring a hole through the back door and unfastening the bolt. The burglars took the knobs off the hinges of the safe and also ransacked the place, turning everything out on the floor and tables. Only a bunch of keys is missed. There was but little money in the safe. No feed or flour was reported stolen.

WEST DULUTH MILL OPENS

The Alger Smith mill at West Duluth started operations this morning and from now to the end of the season it will run day and night. About 300 men are employed, 150 on each shift. There are plenty of logs on hand. The season's cut is expected to run to 50,000,000 feet of lumber.

Curlers Will Meet.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Western Curling club will be held tomorrow evening at the rink, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Bristol street. The new officers will arrange at once for the annual banquet, which will probably be held early in May this year.

FIND BODY IN A STREAM

Laborer Evidently Met His Death in Ravine Near Smithville.

No Mark on the Body to Indicate Foul Play.

The body of a man, thought to be Kalle Paiminen, about 40 years old and evidently a laborer, was found this morning in a gulch at Eighty-first avenue west. There were no marks of mutilation on his body and unless an autopsy performed this afternoon, discloses something to the contrary, his death will be considered a natural one.

The body was found lying face down with the head in a stream which flows through the big ravine at Eighty-first avenue. The man had evidently been dead between three or four weeks, but this was not learned with any degree of certainty. The body was not badly decomposed.

Identification of the man has been partly established by letters found on his person. The name on the letters is Kalle Paiminen. The dead man is evidently of Finnish nativity, but inquiries made this afternoon among the Finnish people of Duluth failed to establish his identity as a certainty.

The man was clothed as a working man. He wore a black coat, gray trousers and a brown hat. He was found about 100 feet from the main line of the Northern Pacific railroad by N. A. Nelson, who lives not far from the place. Nelson telephoned the police and Lieut. Wilcox and an undertaker left for the scene.

The body was brought to the undertaking establishment of M. J. Filiatrault, Ramsey street and Central avenue. If no friends of the dead man show up, the body will probably be buried at once at the county's expense.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF PROCTOR CLUB.

Proctor and West Duluth people are much interested in the second annual banquet of the Proctor Commercial club, which will be held tomorrow evening at the Proctor Y. M. C. A. A special train may carry visitors from Duluth to the affair. About 200 are expected to be seated at the banquet.

Rev. C. W. Ramshaw will act as toastmaster. The speakers are: Prof. Frederick Bags of the state university; J. W. Kreitter, superintendent of the Duluth Missabe & Northern railway; Alderman L. A. Barnes, Charles Rosseter, H. G. Silberman, R. W. Welch, H. H. Peyton, Steve Raetz and Father Walsh.

The supper will be served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Proctor M. E. church. The Proctor orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion.

DEATH RATE INCREASING.

Fund and Supplies Not Sufficient for Starving Chinese.

Washington, April 10.—The fund and supplies available for the relief of the starving people of China are wholly inadequate and the death rate is increasing, according to a cablegram received by the state department from American Consul General Wilder at Shanghai. The cargo of the United States transport Buford, which has arrived, will afford relief at certain points for about fifteen days, Mr. Wilder added. Continued rains increase the distress.

SNOW HELPED HAULING OF DREDGE MACHINERY.

Badger, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A carload of dredge machinery has arrived for H. V. Hursey, who has the contract to dig the ditch west from the town of Noreson. It was a big job to haul the heavy machinery out and it was fortunate that a little snow remained so that the 80,000-pound boiler could be hauled out on sleighs.

SUPERIOR

DYNAMITE DISCOVERED

Police Suspect Plot to Blow Up Northwestern Coal Dock.

Explosive Was Found Hidden in an Empty Box Car.

Have the Superior police intercepted a plot to dynamite the Northwestern Coal company's doct, No. 1 on the Superior bay front?

The discovery, Saturday night, of seven sticks of dynamite in a box car on the track at the dock, has given rise to the theory that the box car might have been the hiding place of the explosive until such a time as it was wanted. Last summer the P. & R. coal dock was dynamited, and since then docks in Milwaukee and Buffalo have been blown up.

The authorities are not sure, however, that they have a case. They are simply working on a theory. The dynamite found in the car might have been a part of a consignment which was left there by mistake.

Steps are being taken today to look up the list of merchandise consigned to the car prior to its being sent to the dock. It is understood that some fuses were shipped in the car, consigned to the Kelley Hardware company of Duluth, but so far there have been no records to show that dynamite had been shipped in the car recently.

The explosive was not found boxed. It was scattered carelessly over the floor of the box car. One of the sticks was broken. It was learned today that a Superior hardware company had sold eight sticks of the explosive to a man last week, but the hardware people claimed that he was a farmer and had bought it there before.

MINER SUES FOR $20,000

Kalle Koivula Was Hurt in Adriatic Mine Near Aurora.

Kalle Koivula is suing the Adriatic Mining company for $20,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained while working in the Adriatic near Aurora.

The trial is taking place before Judge J. D. Ensign of the district court.

Koivula claims that as a result of the cavein, he was badly hurt. His partner was killed, he claims.

He states in his complaint that he is a physical wreck and that he will never be fit for hard labor again.

He claims negligence on the part of the company in that the drift was not properly supported.

ALARMED BY HEAVY BLASTS

Smithville Residents Claim Windows Were Broken by Explosions.

The residents of Smithville are complaining of the careless manner in which blasting is done on the Canadian Northern railroad.

Yesterday, the men were at work blasting. Rock was hurled a distance of 2,000 feet and several persons are said to have narrowly escaped injury.

The windows in a number of houses were broken and in one house the plaster was knocked from the walls, it is claimed.

A warrant will be sworn out against the foreman of the gang of workmen employed at Smithville and he will be brought into court to answer to a charge of reckles blasting.

Several children are said to have had narrow escapes from injury and the residents of the village claim that they will take no more chances.

PATENT FOR SETTING RUBBER TIES VALID.

Washington, April 10.—The supreme court of the United States today held to be valid the so-called Grant patent, covering a system of setting rubber tires on carriages. The point was taken to the court by the Diamond Rubber company of New York, which had been enjoined by the circuit court of the United States for the Southern district of New York from infringing the Grant patent. This action was approved today by the supreme court.

Accepts Call to Mobile.

Binghamton, N. Y., April 10.—Dr. John W. Phillips, one of the best known Baptist divines in New York and an Egyptian archaeologist of world-wide reputation, has accepted a call to become pastor of the First Baptist church of Mobile, Ala.

1910 CENTRAL QUINT TO PLAY C. A. C. FIVE.

What should be one of the greatest basket ball games staged in Duluth this year will be played at the Catholic Athletic club's gymnasium tomorrow evening, when last year's champion Central high school team will meet the C. A. C. five, which has an unbroken string of victories to its credit.

Last year's Central high school five was one of the greatest ever turned out by the school and the students will be out to see them in action again. Those who have been out of the city to school are home for the Easter vacation, which makes the game possible. The game will be called at 7:30.

The teams will line up as follows:

"MOVE ON" ORDER DOES NOT SOLVE THE TRAMP PROBLEM

The problem of vagrants, the matter of moving them on to get rid of them, and the best way to dispose of them, will come up for consideration this afternoon at a meeting to be held at Memorial hall by the executive committee of the Associated Charities.

Up to this time the police of the different cities have had a habit of giving a man time to get out of town in preference to a jail sentence. This would dispose of the case easily and he would be thrown into the same condition again in the next city. This method of disposing of tramps and vagrants keeps them moving all the time and they are constantly in trouble in each city.

A number of the cities have adopted a new system. The men are not sent on to another city unless it looks as though they would be able to do better there. Each case needs individual attention, it is claimed. One might be sent on. Another might be kept, according to what the conditions in the case are.

The Associated Charities in a number of towns has adopted the newer method, and it is claimed that it works well and decreases the number of moving tramps.

What action the Duluth society will take on the matter will be settled at the meeting this afternoon.

TUESDAY "POP" IS POSTPONED

The committee in charge of the Tuesday night "pop" this week have decided to have no program owing to the fact that this week is holy week, and also that the Laymen's Missionary movement will hold its opening banquet Tuesday night with J. Campbell White as speaker.

At a recent meeting of the "Booster's club," a committee was appointed to investigate the matter of continuing the free entertainments during the summer months.

It is proposed to secure a moving picture machine and vary the form of the entertainment for the summer months.

There will be, however, two more "pop" programs given, April 18 and 25 and the committee in charge are striving to make these two last, the strongest programs of the season.

TRAIN LEAVES TOO EARLY

Two Harbors People Back Up Protest of Duluth Business Men.

The Two Harbors Commercial club has joined with Duluth business men in protesting against the time card for the train which leaves here at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon for Two Harbors and the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges.

The present train service gives business men from nearby towns on that line only a little over two hours to transact business here, and that at the noon hour when many offices are closed. A train leaving Duluth about 5 o'clock is desired by the Two Harbors club which has appointed as a committee to confer with President F. E. House of the Iron Range the following: George Mumford, James H. Lunz, L. D. Rose and D. A. Burke.

The train service on the Iron Range was recently changed and the new time card is very unsatisfactory. Patrons of the road on the range and at Two Harbors favor a train leaving here later than the present departing time of the afternoon train. They think the road can maintain a faster passenger schedule and satisfy a majority of its patrons at both ends of the line.

If the train arrived here about 10 o'clock in the morning and returned at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, it would give the range people almost a full business day in Duluth.

FOUGHT BATTLES OF THREE COUNTRIES

Capt. Kruger, Formerly of Duluth, Is War Veteran With Enviable Record.

Marquette, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—To have fought in three wars under three different flags is the record of Capt. Anton A. Kruger of this city. This old veteran, who is now upwards of 80 years of age, served in the Danish navy during that country's war with Prussia in 1848 for the possession of the province of Slesvig-Holstein; he saw service in the Sardinian navy during the Crimean war from 1854 to 1856, and he was captain of the Union brig Anemone during the Civil war in this country.

Went to Sea at 10.

Capt. Kruger was born in Norway in 1830. He went to sea at the age of 10, and for much of his life since that time he has been a sailor.

The old veteran came West in 1870 and settled at Duluth, where he purchased a small vessel, which he operated on Lake Superior a number of years. Later he went to Houghton, and in 1892 came to Marquette. He filled the position of United States steamboat inspector at this port for some years, since which time he has lived a retired life.

ROAD WORK CONTRACTS

County Board Will Open Many Bids at May Meeting.

Several Hundred Men Will Soon Be Working on County Roads.

The county commissioners have called for a large number of bids on county road and bridge work. They will be opened at the May meeting.

At the present time there are fifty-five contracts in force. This means that there is work going on all over the county and that fifty-five separate and distinct contracts are being fulfilled.

After the bids are opened at the May meeting there will be nearly seventy-five in force. There are from five to a dozen men working on each contract. Some are large and others are small but it shows what an immense amount of work is being done this spring on county roads.

One important contract to be let at the next meeting of the board will be that for the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge over Lester river on the East Duluth and Lester river road. This bridge is near the Jean Duluth stock farm. It will be about 100 feet long and 20 feet wide. The contracts for nine concrete culverts are also to be let at the May meeting.

Recently two important bridge contracts were let. One will be built over the St. Louis river at Brookston by the Continental Bridge company. It will be of steel and with the approaches and foundations will cost $8,585.

Another important bridge contract recently let is for a steel bridge over the Cloquet river at Burnett. It will be 171 feet long and will cost the county $5,779. Both the bids for the bridges were cut down several hundred dollars before the contracts were let.

There is $225,000 to be spent on St. Louis county roads during the coming year. The work will soon be in full swing. Old roads will be improved and new roads will be built.

winner of the fellowship prize for the best work in the exhibition submitted by a member of the society.

Mr. Rosenkranz's picture is a charming misty view, called "Mystic river."

Mr. Rosenkranz has been well known in Duluth art circles for the past three years and has done much work locally. His exhibit at the Duluth Art association exhibition, in the courthouse attracted much local attention.

DEATHS IN MINE PLACED AT 128

Forty-Five Bodies Removed and Sixty More Already Found.

Banner, Ala., April 10.—At 9 o'clock this morning forty-five bodies had been removed from the Banner mine of the Pratt Consolidated Coal & Iron company, where Saturday's underground disaster occurred and sixty more bodies had been gathered up ready for the tramcars to haul to open air.

Last night's announcement that 128 men were dead or unaccounted for was verified today. Judging by the condition in which the bodies taken out of the seventh left entry were found, it is practically certain that the explosion occurred in that part of the mine. The miners there were killed by the explosion, while those in other parts died from suffocation.

NOMINATIONS SENT TO SENATE BY PRESIDENT.

Washington, April 10.—President Taft formally sent to the senate today the nomination of Walter L. Fisher of Illinois to be secretary of the interior.

Other nominations:

Roland P. Falker of District of Columbia, to be assistant director of the thirteenth decennial census.

Maj. Sherwood A. C. Henry, corps of engineers, to be a member of the California debris commission.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Grows.

Washington, April 10.—Population statistics of the thirteenth census announced today show that Sturgeon Bay, Wis., has a population of 4,262 against 3,372 in 1900.

GOVERNMENT APPEALS.

Not Satisfied With Decision on "Cotton Corner."

New York, April 10.—Notice of an appeal by the government in the so-called cotton market conspiracy cases against James A. Patten and others was served today on counsel for the several defendants by United States District Attorney Wise. The appeal is from the recent decision of Judge Noyes in the United States circuit court, sustaining the demurrer of the defendants to certain counts in the indictment.

In his decision Judge Noyes held that while "corners" are illegal, the corner described in the indictment was not in violation of the federal anti-trust statute.

DECISIONS IN CONFLICT

Ruling in Recent Nevada Case Opposite to Judge Sanborn's Holding.

Duluth Shippers See Hope of Favorable Decision in Supreme Court.

The supreme court of the United States will be called upon soon to define the rights of state railroad commissions to regulate railroad rates within their respective states. An appeal will be taken by the railroad and warehouse commission of Minnesota from the decision of Judge Sanbon enjoining the commission from enforcing the rates prescribed for Minnesota and it is also very likely that the Tonopah & Goldfield Railroad company and the Southern Pacific Railroad company will appeal from a recent decision by Judge Morrow of the circuit court of the United States for the Ninth district, District of Nevada, holding almost directly opposite to Judge Sanborn's ruling.

Members of the Duluth traffic commission believe that if the supreme court of the United States follows the law as fixed by that body in other railroad cases involving the rights of states to regulate railroad rates within their boundaries, Judge Sanborn's decision will be overruled and the rights of the Minnesota commission will be established. The supreme court, according to those who have studied decisions affecting railroad rates, has held that state regulation, which is just and fair, is an adjunct to federal regulation, instead of an interference with the powers of the interstate commerce commission.

Judge Morrow in his decision in the Nevada cases holds that just intrastate rates cannot be held confiscatory or discriminatory because they conflict with railroad made interstate rates, which is almost directly contrary to Judge Sanborn's ruling on the same point. The question of the basis of valuation of railroads upon which earnings are to be estimated in deciding whether rates are confiscatory has already been passed upon by the supreme court of the United States and attorneys who have read Judge Sanborn's decision say they are doubtful whether he has followed the course laid out by the supreme court in similar cases.

Duluth people interested in the subject of railroad rates are content to sit by and await the decision of the supreme court in the Minnesota case. There is said to be some discussion on the part of Minneapolis and St. Paul shippers and receivers to go before the interstate commerce commission with cases based on interstate rates from some points outside of the state. While some changes in rate as to specific points might be obtained by that action, it is claimed by those conversant with the subject that rates generally in Minnesota would not be affected.

While the action is pending before the supreme court, the passenger and class rates now in effect will very likely be continued in effect. The commodity rates fixed by legislation were never put into effect, an injunction against them having been obtained soon after they were adopted and that injunction is still in effect.

GOVERNOR OSBORN REFUSES TO HONOR REQUISITION.

Houghton, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Osborn has refused to grant requisition for Louis Kolbecker, a traveling salesman of Houghton, charged by a Chicago jewelry firm with larceny by bailee, holding that the man was not a fugitive from justice and could be tried in his own country.

WOODLAND PEOPLE WIN

Council Committee Report in Favor of the Smaller Sewer.

Residents of District Willing to Trust to Judgment of Prof. Bass.

The council committee on drains, sewers and sanitation will probably report tonight on the proposed Woodland trunk sewer. It is understood that the report will be favorable to the Woodland residents, who appeared before the committee at a hearing a week ago strongly urging that the smaller sewer planned by Prof. Frederick Bass be ordered.

The sentiment of the committee members seems to be that as the Woodland people seem to be unanimously in favor of such a sewer, they should be given a chance to try it, but that its construction should not be allowed as a precedent for other sewers of that kind. It is stated that the matter will be so handled that the responsibility will be placed upon the residents themselves, and not upon the city officials. The city engineer turned in a strong report in favor of a much larger sewer, and this, together with the report of Prof. Bass, has been in the hands of the committee. The property owners expressed themselves at the public hearing as being willing to trust to the judgment of Prof. Bass in the matter.

The health department will ask for an appropriation of $400, with which to purchase a garbage wagon to replace the cart now in use, and to buy another horse. This will be a small extension of municipal garbage collection if the request is granted. The garbage cart has paid for itself and has shown a profit since it was installed about two years ago. The cart is found to be impracticable in Duluth on account of the hills. Going down grade the weight settles forward and bears down on the horse's back, keeping it sore continually. The cart could be used successfully in a level section. The wagon would have twice the capacity of the cart, and it is believed that the team could cover more ground than is being gotten over at present, giving more satisfactory service.

RECEIVER'S SALE HERE

Is Bid in for $61,400 By a Duluth Attorney.

At the receiver's sale held this morning upon an order by Judge Page Morris of the United States court, Michael S. Bright, a Duluth attorney, bought the property and the buildings of the Northwestern Steam Boiler works on Garfield avenue for $61,400.

The plant was formerly the property of M. A. Ryan, who recently made an assignment. The property was considered to be among the most valuable sites on the avenue. Besides the bids by Mr. Bright, there was spirited bidding for some time between David Williams and R. B. Knox. It is not known for whom Mr. Bright purchased the property.

The boiler manufacturing company will probably continue in business, according to a statement made by Mr. Bright after the sale.

The sale was conducted by David Davis, who was some time ago appointed receiver by Judge Morris. There was a good deal of interest in the sale of the property and many were on hand to pick it up.

H. Y. Josephs of the Duluth Iron & Metal company purchased all the second hand boilers on a bid of $330. All scrap metal was purchased by Max Zalk at $6 a ton. Kenneth Osman got the automobile for $530. Chris Malin took the team of horses at $455. The wagons went for $85 to Max Zalk. J. H. Gruesen took the gasoline launch at $100.

PROSECUTION NEARLY ENDED

Rollette County Files Given by Cowan to Prosecution.

Bismarck, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of the prosecution against Judge John Cowan will be completed either tomorrow night or Wednesday noon, announcement to that effect being made this morning by Counsel George Bangs. The Rollette county files, over which there had arisen a dispute between the opposing counsel, were today placed in the hands of the prosecution by the defendant. These had been obtained by Judge Cowan after his impeachment by the house and were files in cases that he had been charged with delaying decisions. No evidence was taken this morning, the court adjourning till the afternoon, when it resumed work.

Chief Clerk E. H. Griffin, against whom W. S. Crowley of Devils Lake had lodged a complaint charging him with attempting to influence the evidence given in the Cowan impeachment trial, was today completely exonerated of any blame in connection therewith. The report of the committee said that an investigation showed that the charge was without foundation in fact.

COMPANY DONATES $10,000.

Oliver Iron Mining Company Helps Ishpeming Y. M. C. A.

Ishpeming, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A check for $10,000, the amount donated by the Oliver Iron Mining company to the Y. M. C. A. fund, has been received. The amount will be applied at once on the association loans of $20,000, contracted soon after the building was built.

KLEMER AND STONE UPHELD

Norwegian Naturalization Club Passes Resolutions Indorsing Their Stand.

At the last meeting of the Norwegian Naturalization club of Duluth, in the Kalamazoo building, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, There has arisen in the legislature of the state of Minnesota, a controversy caused by the intimation on the floor of the house by Representative Klemer of Rice county, that the committees were packed to subserve the 'allied interests,' the result of which statement being that he was called to the bar of the house to retract and apologize, which he declined to do, and

"Whereas, From other statements appearing in the public prints to have been made by Representative W. T. Stone, and from the character of the membership of the investigating committee appointed, and the fact that evidently no investigation is to be had as requested by Dr. Stone and Mr. Klemer, and the further fact that most of the much-needed legislation in the interests of the people has been killed at this session, it all would appear to confirm and emphasize the charges made.

"Now, Therefore, Desiring to see fair play and just treatment of Dr. Stone and Mr. Klemer, and to arouse the public conscience,

"Be It Resolved, That we extend to them our appreciation of their courage, if the facts are as charged, in being willing to face the combined majority and call public attention to the condition existing in our Minnesota legislature, and we extend to them our good will and support, as we believe all good citizens should do, if their statements are correct.

"Resolved Further, That the legislature cannot now clear itself in the minds of the people of the state from the charges so made except by an immediate, fair, open investigation as demanded by Dr. Stone and Mr. Klemer.

"Resolved Further, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Dr. Stone and Mr. Klemer, and given to the public press."

RATS CHEWED HIS BILLS.

Philadelphia Record: Chewed to small bits by rats, a bundle of bank notes was so badly mutilated that when the bills were presented for redemption at the United States sub-treasury yesterday the officials were unable to determine their denomination and had to send them to Washington, where the government experts will examine them and fix their value.

Henry B. Krause, who keeps a stall in the Oxford market, presented the bills. He said he had kept them in a drawer in his desk at the market and did not know how much he had put in. He placed the bills in the drawer as a nest egg to draw upon when he needed money urgently. Yesterday the occasion arose and Krause went after his wad. When he opened the drawer a heap of green bits of paper met his gaze. At first he imagined he had been robbed, but closer investigation revealed the fact that the notes had been chewed to pieces and that the rats had built a nest of them.

All the bits were carefully gathered up and taken to the sub-treasury. The officials endeavored to fit them together, but were unable to form a whole note out of the lot. It is expected, however, that the experts at Washington will meet with greater success. Meanwhile, Krause must wait for his money.

ELK INVADE WASHINGTON FARMS.

Seattle Post-Intelligencer: The heavy snows in the Olympic mountains are driving herds of elk down to this section and they are growing fat on the hay and straw belonging to ranchers. Farmers are generally taking the invasion philosophically and several of them have gone to the length of putting out fodder for the half starved animals.

It is unlawful to kill elk in this state until 1915. In the meanwhile the elk may roam at will on the farmers' land. Many of the ranchers figure that by feeding and harboring the elk they may stay on their farms until after the closed season ends in 1915. Elk are more plentiful in the mountain regions than generally supposed and are said to be increasing.

CAT'S FIFTEEN-DAY FAST.

London Standard: One of the sails of the Undine, the flagship of Admiral Sir Charles Drury, commander-in-chief at the Nore, being unfurled at Chatham, the ship's cat rolled out on the deck. She had been enshrouded in the sails fifteen days. She was very emaciated.

PRESIDENT EMPHATIC

Promptly Squelches the Latest Japanese War Scare Story.

Denies Rumors of Proposed Treaty Between Mexico and Japan.

Washington, April 10.—President Taft moved swiftly today to squelch the latest Japanese war scare story. Incidentally, a member of the senate committee on foreign relations related some of the reasons which the president has given that committee and the house committee on foreign affairs for the mobilization of troops on the Texas border. Through Senator Burton of Ohio the president made an emphatic denial of the report from Mexico City that a proposed treaty between Japan and Mexico caused the movement of troops to Texas.

"The president authorizes me," said Senator Burton, "to deny in most emphatic terms the story from Mexico City about a secret treaty between Mexico and Japan. There is not one word of truth in it.

Senator Bacon of Georgia, ranking minority member of the foreign relations committee, after a talk with the president, declared that Mr. Taft was surprised and indignant at the reports implicating Japan and Mexico.

"You can put the whole story down as absurd," said Senator Bacon. "The president has talked to me and to other members of the committee and explained the reasons for sending the troops South. There was danger of widespread revolution and perhaps anarchy in Mexico. The president acted quickly and decisively. He believed that the army should be on the border ready for any contingency when congress met."

JOHN D.'S BOSS.

New York Press: The only person on earth that John D. Rockefeller takes orders from is a woman, and that woman is not Mrs. John D. Rockefeller. She is his secretary, Miss Adam. She is a clear-cut, precise, strong, vigorous woman, like Katherine Harrison, who was H. H. Rogers' secretary for many years.

Miss Adam looks after the oil king's correspondence, makes all of his engagements, and is his remembrancer, so that he forgets none of them. She goes through his mail every morning and picks out the letters she thinks worth while for him to see. The rest of them she either mentions, or else she answers them without asking his advice, because she knows his wishes so thoroughly.

Sometimes Mr. Rockefeller, who is getting to be quite a mild and tolerant sort of man, is inclined to follow the suggestion of some of his correspondents or to do as he is requested by an acquaintance or a friend. Miss Adam has been with him so long, and knows him so well and has his confidence so absolutely that she does not hesitate to take a stand against him if she does not believe in the wisdom of what is suggested. Nine times out of then the man of $500,000,000 bows to her will. Before getting an interview with Mr. Rockefeller it is necessary to get past Miss Adam. She is the most coldly critical of any of the guardians of the great, and a man has to have urgent business indeed and something of the highest importance to secure him an audience with the onl king. It there is one thing above all others that Miss Adam regards with pecullar antipathy it is a newspaper man.

WOMEN OF SOUTH AFRICA.

Empire Magazine: The South African woman is generally very highly domesticated; she is not only capable of managing her native servants very cleverly, but she is able to cook well, make jam and pickles, look after poultry, attend to the garden and make her own dresses and those of her children. The social life in all South African towns is a strong feature, dancing is a favorite amusement, and holiday picnics on river banks are general. Women play tennis, croquet and golf and do a good deal of cycling. Life in South Africa ranges from old established culture and luxury, with every surrounding convenience and taste, to the loneliness of the veldt farm, and to this life and her husband's interests, the English-born girl soon adapts herself if she is at all adaptable. She can be healthy, happy and free and usually fairly prosperous, with more money to spend than she would have in a similar position at home.

"THE MAN WHO OWNS BROADWAY"

Raymond Hitchcock Delights Lyceum Audience in Cohan Musical Show.

There is something awfully funny about Raymond Hitchcock; something in addition to his company. He is just as subtle as he is funny, and he is very funny. It isn't exactly what he does; it is the way he does it. He is droll and dry and gets laughs as easily as some actors get calls. He is a natural comedian, has a smile that expresses a multitude of meanings, and by some subtle something, which no one, not even stage managers have ever been able to figure out, holds his audience in a manner that distinguishes the real star from the ordinary stage strutter.

In "The Man Who Owns Broadway" Hitchcock has a play that is Cohanesque, only more so. There is the Cohan dash and the George M. something that no one else has been quite able to create. There is all the Cohan flavor of originality, and young Mr. Cohan is original, if nothing more. Through the three acts of the show Hitchcock just naturally takes the audience into his confidence. The whole musical show might be called a happy and clever parody on the stage of today.

Some one has stated that it is the ambition of Cohan to dramatize the U. S. A. Perhaps he is doing it in sections.

The production that opened last evening was a sort of humorous and kindly satirical holding of the light up to the present day stage rules and precepts.

Cohan and Harris have surrounded Raymond Hitchcock with one of the best, if not quite the best, musical company that has visited Duluth the present season. The company somehow reminds one of a big and very happy- family. The principals can both act and sing and the chorus is much superior to the choruses that have been visiting Duluth the present season.

There is the dash of the Cohan dancing, that rhythm and swing, and there are novel effects, for "The Man Who Owns Broadway" is far different from the musical shows Duluthians have been used to, and there were few who witnessed the performance of last evening who are not willing to admit that it is an improvement on the majority of them. It has a distinct plot, a thread of action that is hardly stretched, never to the breaking point, through the three acts, and there are some real characters and the inevitable touch of melodrama that is part of Cohan, but which is turned to humorous use by the lines of the star.

As Sydney Lyons, the man who owns Broadway, Raymond Hitchcock is quite as funny as he has ever been. He doesn't dance very much and he doesn't sing very much, and he kind of walks through the part—but he is very funny; subtly, delicately and thoroughly funny. Without apparently exerting any effort, he makes you laugh and also leaves a distinct character creation in your mind.

Beautiful Flora Zabelle is quite as beautiful as ever. Her beauty is of the vivid, striking type, and her voice is far above the average heard on the musical comedy stage. Miss Zabelle was called upon to sing and look beautiful, and she filled this role to the satisfaction of the large audience last evening.

John Hendricks as Anthony Bridwell, the multimillionaire, is a much better actor than one generally sees in musical comedy, and in addition has a very good singing voice. He did some real acting, some very good singing and created a real character. That is quite enough, especially when it is added that Mr. Hendricks did it all very well.

Richard Taber as Tom Bridwell, can't sing, but he looks well and does a lot of moving around during the show. Francis Lieb is a very good looking villain, and besides can sing; and he is ably assisted in carrying out the impression of high class deceit by Miss Mildred Elaine, who is a villainess, though not painfully so, and also gets a hand, several of them, for a rollicking military song very well done.

There is Bill Robinson, manager of the Broadway star, who does several imitations which quite convulse the house. His imitation of Jimmy Powers was appreciated muchly in view of the recent visit of the diminutive comedian to Duluth.

All in all, "The Man Who Owns Broadway" is one of the most satisfying shows of musical variety that has visited Duluth this season. Following right on the heels of "Havana," it might be said that the Hitchcock production does not suffer in the least by comparison.

The costumes are new and some of the gowns of the show girls are beautiful. The ensemble effects are novel and striking and just what you might expect from Cohan. The scenic effects are striking and add much to the production. The music will not be whistled along the streets, as some of the Cohan music of other pieces has been, but at the same time it jingles and makes your feet want to keep time.

"The Man Who Owns Broadway" will complete its Duluth performance this evening.

THE NEW BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Pantomime Comedian and Clever Sketch Best Feature of Program.

Down at the Orpheum yesterday afternoon a spry and sprightly middle-aged gentleman, who showed the most amazing agility for a man of his years, was engaged on the stage in swinging a kitchen table around his head with his teeth, when a young woman remarked to her escort, in faintly audible tones: "I'll bet grandma couldn't do that." The remark made enjoyable the only unentertaining act on this week's bill, for picturing what would happen to grandma's store teeth with such a strain on them, kept those who heard the remark amused. As an exhibition of dentistry, the opening act at the Orpheum this week has class, but as a vaudeville turn it lacks interest.

Outside of the comedian, this week's bill is "bully" in the words of the same young lady. After all the furniture on the stage has been tooth-tossed by the acrobats the stage workers shove on a piano, and one young gentleman attacks it while the author sings some songs on which the ink isn't dry yet. One of the songs deals with the Mexican war and another referred to the Lorimer scandal. Brown and Ayer evidently believe in keeping up to date with their songs and nobody can accuse them of using "chestnuts."

When the galelry had finished applauding the two young men, Charles Leonard Fletcher demonstrated to the audience that there is something new under the sun in the line of a vaudeville sketch. For the last few weeks the sketches have been the weakest spots in the Orpheum bills, but that is not the case this week. Mr. Fletcher has a sketch with a truly novel plot, rapid action, sustained interest and a real climax. It tells the story of a burglar of the Raffles type who enters an apartment for the purpose of getting what he can find of value. While there an ignorant porch climber appears on the scene and interrupts him. The porch climber takes the first burglar for the owner. Then the police appear, and later the owner. The first thief succeeds in escaping with the plunder, permitting the porch climber to get away and having the owner locked up as the thief. It is an ideal sketch for vaudeville and it is well played by Mr. Fletcher and a cupable company.

James H. Cullen, one of the real veterans of vaudeville, followed the sketch. His act consists entirely of comic songs and a few jokes which he reads from the "Joe Miller Joke Book." Mr. Cullen accomplishes his work with less visible effort than any performer seen at the Duluth theater in months. He has a quaint, quietly humorous manner that appealed to yesterday's audiences, and before he was through, he had scored one of the real hits of the bill.

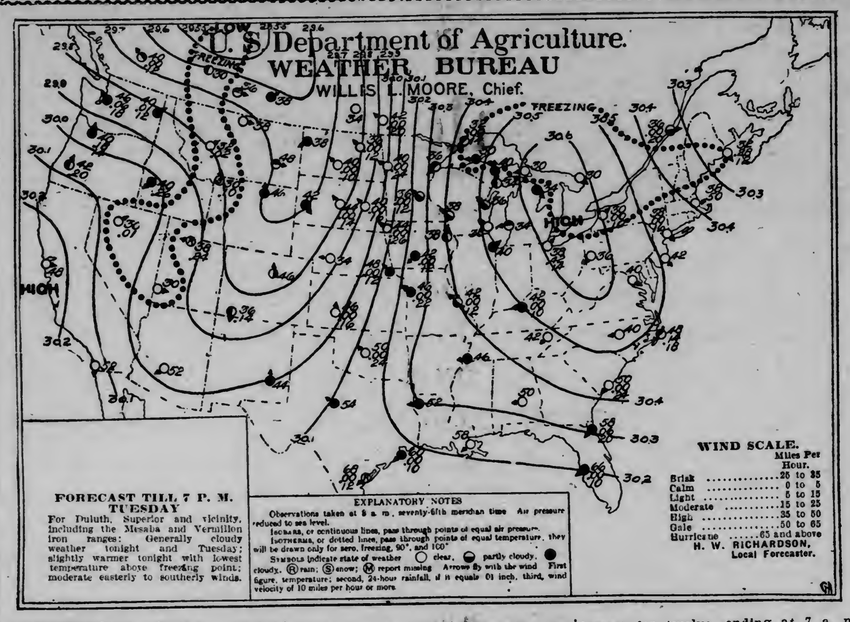
The Musikal Girls follow Mr. Cullen with a first class musical turn. There are five members of the little troupe, and they play a number of popular and grand opera selections on the cornet, trombone, violin, cello and piano. The violin and cello duet and the cornet and trombone duet are especially good.

Miss Lotta Gladstone has a country girl monologue that is bright and amusing, but her impersonations are the best feature of her act. She also has an infectious laugh that kept the audiences chuckling yesterday.

The best act on the bill is kept for the last. Joe Jackson is billed as "The European Vagabond." He is, in reality, a clever English pantomime actor who appears in tramp costume and attempts to ride a bicycle that fails to pieces during the act. He does not speek a word during his act, but his amusing pantomime kept the audience in an uproar yesterday, and he was easily the hit of the bill.

The bill will continue all week with a daily matinee.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



WARMER

Spring landed with both feet and the full weight of her light, lithe form on Duluth yesterday and made her presence known with the most beautiful brand of weather that has been furnished this city on the crags this year. If Gwendolin did not have her spring suit, Gwendolin was some peeved, for it was a great day for a walk. Although the temperature did not get above 48 deg., that was some warm after the lingering caresses winter has been conferring on us for some little time. Spring is still with us today, although in somewhat modified form.

Cold, windy weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:29 and it will set at 6:4 this evening, giving thirteen hours and twenty minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours rain or snow fell over Atlantic and extreme Southern states and the Far West, due to disturbances that have moved eastward across the Gulf of Mexico and from British Columbia to Alberta. The latter depression has also caused warmer weather over the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri and Red river valleys and Eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains. In the grian region temperatures were generally above the freezing point last night. The high pressure off the California coast is causing colder weather in the Far West. At the Head of the Lakes the weather will be generally fair and the temperature moderate during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, April 10.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight, warmer in east and extreme Northwest portions; Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer.

Minnesota—Unsettled but generally fair weather tonight and Tuesday; warmer in east portion tonight.

Wisconsin—Fair and warmer tonight; Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer.

Iowa—Increasing cloudiness tonight and Tuesday, becoming unsettled by Tuesday; warmer tonight and in east portions Tuesday.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler Tuesday.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler in east portion tonight.

Upper lakes—Southeast to south winds, becoming brisk. Fair tonight. Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer.

NEW VAUDEVILLE AT THE EMPRESS

Army Boys Are the Feature of a Most Excellent Bill.

"Our U. S. Army Boys" in military, camp and war scenes, are the headline attraction at the Empress theater this week.

The army boys have plenty of action in their turn. They present fancy drills, machine gun drills, the blowing up of a fortress, the scaling of some fort walls, a naval engagement and a battle in the open.

The whole act is made realistic by the noise of the big guns, the barking of the smaller ones, the crack of arms, the tread of the soldiers, snappy war music and the smell of burnt powder.

"Our Soldier Boys" and their act were popular with three audiences yesterday. The entire show is one of unusual strength and the applause which greeted each act was proof of appreciation on the part of the audiences.

Al Luttringer and Lillian Lucas have a clever sketch entitled "A Girl of the West." There are but two in the cast but their humor is good, the situations follow one another in a lively fashion and there is a pretty love story. The little playlet borders on the melodramatic but it never got further than that. The happy ending is reached without blood and thunder and uninteresting details are eliminated so that it does not drag. The play is one of the best seen at the Empress in some weeks.

"The Rathskeller Trio" composed of three young men, have a musical act that is a genuine hit. Their Yiddish number is a "knockout." If the headline attraction was to be judged on the amount of applause, this trio would certainly get the plum for yesterday's audiences liked the act and were not backward in the matter of showing it. Mitchell, Wells, and Lewis are the young men who present the musical numbers. They puta lot of ginger and dash into their work and they make songs go, which in other hands might fall flat.

Bissett and Scott do some splendid dancing. They have some new steps and their act goes with unusual snap. Their act is bright, new and entertaining.

Sprague and McNeece do many stunts on roller skates. There have been a good many roller skating acts put before the public since this branch of amusement again became popular, but Sprague and McNeece have a new line which is entirely different from anything seen here. Their dancing on the rollers was the feature of their act.

As a whole the bill at the Empress this week provides good entertainment. The pictures which end the show are entertaining.

There will be three performances daily, one in the afternoon and two each evening during the remainder of the week.

not by law, just as judges agree upon their divisions at the beginning of the judicial year. One commissioner has charge of the public safety, including the fire and police departments. Another has charge of public accounts. Another has charge of parks. Another has cahrge of public accounts. The mayor complains that he has enough to do. The commissioners are paid by the year and are expected to give all their time to the work.

No More Boards.

"We have cut out all boards and commissions," Mr. Young went on. "We never complain to paving inspectors; we complain to the commissioner having charge of the work. We never go to the subordinate. We go to his boss.

"Our city charter has the recall. I indorsed the recall feature as applied to municipal governments; I do not indorse it in a wider field. We have the initiative and the referendum. I think these provisions might be beneficial in cities, but wholly impracticable in states."

This system, Mr. Young characterizes as the application of business common sense to municipal affairs, and said:

"Governing municipalities is a business proposition and in no sense political. Cut out the city hall. Cut out the city council. Ninety per cent of all municipal functions are executive and not legislative; yet every municipal government has been organized on the supposition that at least one-half of the municipal functions were legislative."

SCIENCE ACADEMY TO MEET SATURDAY

North Dakota Organization to Discuss Pertinent Topics at University.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The program for the third annual meeting of the North Dakota Academy of Science is announced by Dr. G. A. Abbott, the secretary. Meetings will be held at Science hall at the university, beginning next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Twelve prominent men are included in the list of speakers. Among the subjects are "Some Experiments With North Dakota Lignite," by C. H Crouch; "The Bleached Flour Controversy," by Pure Food Commissioner E. F. Ladd; "The Biological Station at Devils Lake," by M. A. Brannon; "Some of the Geological Features of South Central North Dakota," by A. G. Leonard, "Features of the Glacial Drainage of the Devils Stump Lake Region, North Dakota," by H. E. Simpson; "Irrigation for North Dakota," by Herbert A. Hard; "Correlation of Fertility, Moisture and Yield," by J. H. Sheppard; and notes upon certain forms in the flora in North Dakota with reference to their interpretation by Herbert F. Bergman.

Other speakers will be Lynn B. McMullen, T. D. Beckwith, E. F. Chandler and O. A. Stevens.

by another member of the legislature and he was indicted on the charge of perjury, he admitted he had received $1,000. He obtained immunity by appearing for the state.

After his perjury indictment was withdrawn he issued the statement that he had never accepted a bribe but that the $1,000 was a gift and that it had no bearing on the Lorimer-Hopkins contest.

Link's death occurred on the eve of the resumption of the Helm committee investigation of the Lorimer election by the Illinois legislature, which is set for Thursday. A statement was given out Sunday that every member of the former legislature who voted for Lorimer would be subpoenaed.

Link frequently had said to friends that he had told all he knew and did not want to be questioned again.

He was 52 years old. A widow and two daughters survive him.

PURE FOOD CAMPAIGN

Inaugurated By East Grand Forks Women's Civic League.

East Grand Forks, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Women's Civic league of this city has instituted a pure food department in an active campaign for the sale of only pure foods by local merchants. Miss Ethel Putnam, teacher of domestic science in the city schools, has been named chairman of that department and the idea is to induce the council to co-operate with the league in the appointment of an official food inspector.

The league has profited by the results obtained in Grand Forks after a year's work of an official inspector and expects to work for the good of home merchants as well as the consumers.

A resolution was also passed indorsing a petition of the city clerks asking for closing at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

DELTA COUNTY, MICH., IS TO AID DEVELOPMENT WORK.

Escanaba, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thornton A. Green of Ontonagon, president of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau, appeared before the board of Delta county supervisors at their last meeting and succeeded in getting a grant of $1,000 to aid the cause of the agricultural and industrial uplift.

Cando, N. D., Man's Close Call.

Cando, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A miraculous escape from death by a runaway team was the experience of Gus Shultz of this city who managed to keep his hold beneath the wagon box while his team tore madly down the street for three blocks, only to be stopped by running into a telephone pole. In attempting to regain the reins Mr. Shultz was thrown beneath the box and only his presence of mind saved his life. He suffered injuries of a serious nature, but will recover. The horses were badly cut up.

FIGHTING IN FAR SOUTH

Mexican Revolution Not Confined to Country Near American Border.

Duluth Man Receives Letter Telling of New Trouble Zone.

A well-known Minnesota man, an etcher of national reputation, who is in Southern Mexico, writing to a Duluth man, from the City of Mexico, said that he has recently returned from Cuernavaca, the capital of the state of Merelos. In Southern Mexico, he wrote, the revolution is rapidly developing a serious character. Associated Press dispatches have said little about fighting in the Southern zone, but telegraph lines south of the City of Mexico are rare and the methods of communication are antiquated.

The writer said the federal forces have failed to check the progress of the insurrectos. Moving from the South toward the capital of Merelos, the federals sustained a severe defeat at Iquala, about thirty-five miles south of Cuernavaca. The federal troops lost 500 killed and wounded. The writer got out of town as quickly as possible and went to the City of Mexico, as it appeared that the rebels might reach Cuernavaca by the middle of March. The day preceeding his departure from the war zone, the rebels were encamped within easy striking distance and communication between the towns of the district had been destroyed. Prisoners were taken from the jails, trained for two days and then went South to meet the rebels. Several villages in the district were easily taken by the insurrectos.

In the City of Mexico, said the writer, the electrical plant, ten miles from the city, has been fortified and rails have been laid on the streets leading from the government's arsenal to the outskirts of the city, so that men and ammunition can be quickly transported, if necessary.

Foreigners who have lived in Mexico for many years, said the writer, have sent all of their valuables to banks. They are full of apprehension for their safety, although the fighting is not near the capital.

New Devils Lake Church.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The organization of the German-English Lutheran church of St. Peter's, of which Rev. A. Kollmorgan will be pastor, has been perfected and negotiations are under way for the purchase of a building site on the corner of Seventh street and Uline avenue. Work on the new edifice, which will be a $15,000 brick structure, will begin just as soon as title to the site can be secured. There are already twenty families in the congregation.

Rebels Making Fierce Attack.

Zacatecas, Mex., April 10.—Since 8:15 o'clock yesterday morning a force of rebels under command of Luis Moya has been attacking this city and if he gets the reinforcements he has sent for, there is reason to believe he will be in possession of the city soon.

The attack was a surprise. With but brief intervals a heavy exchange of fire has continued, but up to this time with no apparent advantage for either side. The rebels have not attempted to leave their positions.

The reinforcements Moya is said to be awaiting are at Rancho Grande. There are said to be several hundred insurrectos at that point.

sugar trust employed Kissel as a broker to offer financial relief to Segal, Kissel, according to the indictment, offered to lend Segal $3,250,000 on the security of 26,000 shares of the 50,000 shares of his new refinery. Segal accepted the loan. The government alleged that Kissel "deceived Segal as to the source of the money."

Soon after the loan was made, Kissel, according to the indictment, turned over the majority stock, which constituted a voting trust, to the American Sugar Refining company, a new board of directors was put in, and it was voted not to operate the Segal refinery.

The result was that Segal's income was cut off, he did not meet the interest on his loan, and a crash came.

Efforts were made to quash the indictment, but last December the supreme court of the United States held that the indictments were valid, and District Attorney Wise said he would proceed to trial at the earliest possible time

Our Most Popular Creation

We've made good things for housewives for nearly fifty years.

Our chefs do cooking for more homes than any other chefs in America.

We use more than 100,000,000 tin cans per year to send out these products to you.

But the most popular dish that ever came from our kitchens is our newest creation—Van Camp's Spaghetti.

Our chefs worked for two years on the recipe. There are 17 ingredients used in it.

The result is a flavor—a perfect blend—such as isn't found elsewhere—not even in Rome.

We had no idea how folks liked spaghetti until this dish went out.

We use to make it:
Durum wheat spaghetti.
Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

The dish comes ready cooked. Heat it and it's ready to serve.

It costs you less than to make it yourself, if you had the recipe.

However good is your cooking, this spaghetti will be the best dish you serve on your table.

Ask your grocer—now before you forget it—to send you a small supply.

Duluth's First Display of Coronation Millinery

FASHION'S latest millinery tendency is in the coronation coloring — Royal Purple. Paris originated it, New York has warmly embraced the vogue, and Chicago is quite enthusiastic. Duluth is to the fore with a regal showing—but only at this store. Purple is the color of royalty, and the coming coronation of King George in June has made it the latest and strongest fashion note.

Shapes may be large or small, with undulating or abruptly turned brims—some toques with merely a semblance of visor. Most favored models are developed from Tagal or hemp braids and trimmed with lilacs, hyacinths, hydrangea, fucias, violets, sweet peas and French ostrich plumes.

In the display are proud conceptions from Marie-Louise, Caroline Reboux and Georgette, hats that would grace Rue de la Paix with as much credit as they do Superior street.

We invite your examination of this remarkable and exclusive showing.

WHOLE TOWN THREATENED

Deer River Has Close Call From Being Destroyed By Fire.

Bank, Hotel and Store Burn, Two Women Saving Lives By Jumping.

Deer River, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Seaman Martin's place, the Mohr hotel, and the First National bank were burned to the ground this morning about 12:30. Messrs. Taylor and H. Hinney and Dr. Chapman, occupying living quarters and offices above Seaman Martin's, had narrow escapes from death.

Jump For Lives.

Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Dr. Chapman jumped from the second story window, receiving severe bruises. For a time it was thought that the whole town would go, as the water supply gave out. The amount of damage is about $75,000. The insurance will not be known until the bank vault is opened. The cause of the fire is unknown. No lives were lost, owing to heroic work by the fire department. Nothing was saved.

CRIMINAL CASES WILL BE TRIED

Adjourned Session of District Court Is Being Held at Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—An adjourned term of the district court opened here this morning. The session will be occupied entirely by criminal business for this session, owing to the recent decision to hold regular terms in Hibbing. The cases are state vs. Sam Kosich, murder second degree; state vs. Bruno Russeto, assault; state vs. Mariano Strafanalo, assault in first and second degrees, and carrying concealed weapons; and the state vs. Louis Peterson, and state vs. H. Benesowitz.

INDICTED FOR PERJURY.

Itasca County Man Alleged to Have Sworn Falsely.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.—The grand jury has completed its labor after returning indictments against the following:

F. F. Price, perjury, two indictments. The indictments charge that Mr. Price committed perjury in making two affidavits to statements which he knew were not true in asking the court that two criminal actions be resubmitted to the grand jury after "no bills" had been returned by a grand jury. Price is a prominent attorney of Grand Rapids and was county attorney at the time the perjury is alleged to have been committed.

Jerome B. Atwood, Keewatin, having carnal knowledge of a female child under the age of 18 years.

Oscar Satuga and John Mykkanna, grand larceny. The two men are charged with purloining some beef and groceries from J. J. McDonald at Swan River.

J. W. Johnston, trespass on state land.

MARBLE THEATRICAL TREAT.

"Finnigan's Fortune" to Be Given By Home Talent.

Marble, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the following cast, "Finnigan's Fortune," a three-act Irish comedy, will be presented at the village hall, Wednesday evening, April 19: Larry Finnigan, L. D. Sweet; Patrick, his son, W. R. Young; Rafferty, his friend, John Pengilly; Dutch Jake, his aversion, Harry Fish; Counte de Morney, a black sheep, Harold Ernst; Mrs. Finnigan, Mrs. J. W. Cowgill; Katy, Jake's daughter, Emma Lambert; Lady Hannah Lovejoy, an adventuress, Buril Bluntach.

As the Hill mine, which employs nearly all the men in Marble, works both a day and night shift, the play will be repeated on Tuesday evening, April 27, for the benefit of the men on the other shifts.

CHISHOLM NOTES.

Chisholm, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Emma Ghering, teacher in the kindergarten department left Friday evening to spend her Easter vacation at her home in Larimore, N. D.

George Howenstine, who moved away from here last fall to make his home in Proctor, has returned and is living in the Shenango location. Mr. Howenstine is in the employ of the Missabe railway, located at Buhl, and expects shortly to move his family over to that village.

The concert given Friday night in the auditorium by the high school band was well attended and every number on the program was highly appreciated. A substantial sum was realized to be used to buy uniforms for the band boys.

The members of the Chisholm ladies' aid society gave a supper in the church parlors on Thursday and Friday evenings.

Marshall Phillips, blacksmith at the Hartley mine and for the last eleven months a resident of Chisholm, left here on Saturday morning for San Francisco, where he will visit a brother. After a short stay in San Francisco, Mr. Phillips intends to either go to Nevada or Arizona where he will locate.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church is to give a concert Thursday night, April 27.

One steam shovel and two engines with their crew of ten men have been discontinued at the Hartley pit.

Rev. I. Idstrom of the Swedish Lutheran church of Hibbing preached in the M. E. church on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Excavation work on the basement of the new $115,000 school building which will be erected this summer is progressing as well as can be expected.

MUCH DIVIDED ON KEEPING MR. BLISS

Virginians Said to Differ Over Retaining or Rejecting School Head.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—As some members of the board of education are reported to be against the retention of Lafayette Bliss as superintendent of the city schools for another year, a report has been circulated that Mr. Bliss would resign at the close of the present year. A petition is being circulated, to be presented to the board, asking that body to retain Mr. Bliss for another year. There is said to be considerable difference of opinion in regard to Mr. Bliss remaining as superintendent. Mr. Bliss has a contract with the board for another year, but it is contended that the board must elect a superintendent each year. The annual meeting for the engaging of teachers and a superintendent was to have been held last Friday night, but owing to the fact that one of the teachers' committee was absent from the city, this committee was not ready to report at that time, and for the further reason that the superintendent, who is chairman of that committee, stated that all applications for positions as teachers were not in. A postponement was taken until April 18.

SOCIALISTS HOLD IMMENSE MEETING

Virginia Local and Friends Hear Speeches and Adopt Several Resolutions.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The mass meeting held Saturday night by the Socialist local in the Socialist hall was a record breaker in the way of attendance and enthusiasm, nearly 1,000 people crowding into the hall, swarming upon the stage which had to be cleared to accommodate the throng. The Socialist band furnished the music, while speakers in several languages discussed matters of interest to the Socialists of the range. J. W. Dailey presided and introduced the different speakers. R. C. Sermun was secretary. Chairman Dailey criticized the present legislature as inimical to labor and severely criticized Representative Healey for "killing the bill Representative Hillman had introduced for electing mine inspectors." He produced a letter that he claimed laid all the blame upon Healey for the bill's death. Mr. Keyes of Duluth addressed the meeting on the subject of organization. Mr. Malotte of Hancock, Mich., then addressed the Croatians, Mr. Demayo of Hurley, Wis., spoke in Italian; Praff Takkie in Finnish, and Prof. C. D. Walker of Grey Eagle, Minn., in English demanding that the legislature enact an eight-hour law.

Resolutions Adopted.

Resolutions were adopted demanding an eight-hour law; the abolition of private employment agencies; the abolition of company hospitals, and the establishment of city or county institutions; the abolition of the present system of employers' liability insurance and the establishment of state insurance; commending Representative Hillman of Two Harbors for his stand in favor of working men. No one opposed the resolutions and they were adpted with a hurrah.

PHILBIN VISITS HIBBING.

Great Northern Official Considers New Depot Site

Hibbing, Minn., April 10.—General Supt. Philbin of the Great Northern railroad was here Saturday in connection with the moving of the passenger and freight depot from the present location to the vicinity of the new tracks being built for the Missabe road, south of the present depots. Mr. Philbin did not give any definite information concerning the exact location or the date of removal, but it is understood that he will have a conference with President McGonegle of the Missabe railroad in Duluth today, when the matter will be discussed and definite information will probably be made known within a few days.

FORMER POLICE CHIEF TO RUN VIRGINIA MINE.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nicholas Kent, former chief of police of Eveleth, has been chosen as superintendent of the Lilley mine near here. Capt. Samuel Hoar, who had charge of the mine and was president of the Lilley Iron Mining company, has been succeeded by Mark Eddy of this city. Fred C. Harris was offered the presidency of the company to succeed Capt. Hoar, but declined because of other matters. The other officers are: Andrew Anderson of Eveleth, vice president; T. J. Campbell of Virginia, secretary; Patrick Sullivan, Virginia, treasurer. The Lilley mine shipped about 20,000 tons of ore last season and expects to double that amount the coming season. The Lilley is an underground proposition and has been worked steadily since taken over by the Lilley Iron Mining company about two years ago.

Consider Fayal Stripping.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much drilling is being done at the Fayal mine to determine the advisability of stripping land in that vicinity, which is leased from the Fowler fee interests. Reports will be sent to the head officials of the Oliver Iron Mining company and the local mining men believe it will be possible to know within two weeks whether the stripping operations will be undertaken this season.

WOULD RECALL ALDERMAN KIMBALL

Petition to Remove Virginia Alderman to Be Presented to Council.

Virginia, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—City Clerk Albert E. Bickford at tomorrow night's meeting of the council will make a report on the petition filed for the recall of Alderman J. L. Kimball. This petition is the outcome of the dissatisfaction of the voters at the attitude of Alderman Kimball of the Fourth ward regarding the proposed purchase of the plant of the Virginia Electric Power & Water company or the voting of the necessary funds for the investigation as to relative charges of the local plant and charges elsewhere. There are eighty-three signers to the petition, which is considerable more than required by the charter, if it is found that the signers are qualified.

The charter provides that the holder of any elective office may be removed at any time by the electors qualified to vote for a successor of such incumbent, on petition by 2 per cent of the total number of voters at the last election in the precinct, to be presented to the council for action. If properly signed the council must order a special election in the precinct on some date not less than thirty days nor more than forty days from the date of the presentation of the petition. At such election the clerk shall place on the official ballot the name of the person sought to be removed unless he serves in writing that he does not wish his name on such ballot, and the person receiving the highest number of votes cast at such special election shall fill the unexpired term of the person against whom the petition was filed.

What Petition Wants.

The petition for Kimball's recall recites: "That said J. L. Kimball was elected to the position of alderman of the Fourth ward of the city of Virginia at the last regular election held in this city to serve as alderman of said ward for a term of four years, commencing April 1, 1910. That he duly qualified under said election and is now the legally qualified and acting alderman of said ward.

"That said J. L. Kimball has not been true or faithful to the promises made by him to the electors of said ward, made to induce them to vote for his election as such alderman, especially in relation to the municipal ownership and control of a city water and light plant. That he has by his recent acts and votes as an alderman of said ward in relation to the matters above stated, and other matters, forfeited the confidence of the people and voters of said ward. That the people and voters of said ward feel and believe that he no longer represents them as alderman that he falls and refuses to act and vote as alderman for measures which they believe to be of vital interest to them. That he no longer represents the people of said ward, and they believe he should be removed.

"Wherefore your petitioners demand that an election be called for the election of a successor to said J. L. Kimball in accordance with section 121 of the charter of this city."

HIBBING EASTER SERVICES DURING PRESENT WEEK.

Hibbing, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Special Easter services will be held in the Episcopal church during the present week, commencing Monday at 4 p. m., Tuesday at the same hour. Wednesday evening at 8 p. m., Maundy Thursday at 10:30 a. m., Good Friday at 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m. and Easter Sunday at 8 a. m. and 10:30 a. m.; children's service at 3 p. m. and special Masonic service in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A flower sale will be held in the ground floor of the Security building on Saturday morning by the members of the Episcopal church.

HIBBING PERSONALS.

Hibbing, Minn., April 10.—Dr. Robert Stark of Minot, N. D., who has been visiting his sister, Miss Stark, at the Touraine hotel, returned to his home Saturday.

Miss Zelma Moyer of Duluth is visiting Mrs. R. D. Reese of 124 Lincoln street. Miss Moyer will remain until after Easter.

Miss Buckley, assistant librarian at the Carnegie library, went to Duluth Saturday to spend the week-end with friends.

Miss E. Burg and a colleague from the Buhl school staff, were visitors in Hibbing on Saturday.

P. E. Clark of Hibbing, who has been spending several weeks in the West, returned Sunday night on the evening train. Mr. Clark visited every coast city from Los Angeles to Seattle.

REASONED IT OUT

And Found a Change in Food Put Him Right.

A man does not count as wasted the time he spends in thinking over his business, but he seems loth to give the same sort of careful attention to himself and to his health. And yet his business would be worth little without good health to care for it. A business man tells how he did himself good by carefully thinking over his physical condition, investigating to find out what was needed, and then changing to the right food.

"For some years I had been bothered a great deal after meals. My food seemed to lay like lead in my stomach, producing heaviness and dullness and sometimes positive pain. Of course this rendered me more or less unfit for business, and I made up my mind that something would have to be done.

"Reflection led me to the conclusion that over-eating, filling the stomach with indigestible food, was responsible for many of the ills that human flesh endures, and that I was punishing myself in that way—that was what was making me so dull, heavy and uncomfortable, and unfit for business after meals. I concluded to try Grape-Nuts food to see what it could do for me.

"I have been using it for some months now, and am glad to say that I do not suffer any longer after meals; my food seems to assimilate easily and perfectly, and to do the work for which it was intended.

"I have regained my normal weight, and find that business is a pleasure once more—can take more interest in it, and my mind is clearer and more alert."

TWO HARBORS DOES NOT LIKE SERVICE

Commercial Club to Ask Iron Range Road for Better Duluth Connection.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ever since the Iron Range road started its afternoon train from Duluth at 2:45, thereby shortening the time allowed people from this city in the Zenith City, there have been mutterings of discontent. These took form at the meeting of the Commercial club Saturday night, when George Munford, James H. Lunz, A. E. Haugen, L. D. Rose and D. A. Burke were appointed a committee to take the matter up with President F. E. House. The local business men want a train leaving here anywhere from 8 to 9:30 a. m. and leaving Duluth about 5 p. m.

Kick on Postoffice.

The matter of the inadequate quarters for the local postoffice was again taken up, and a committee consisting of Thomas Owens, John Dwan, John A. Barton, G. W. Small, Dr. J. D. Budd and John Olson, was appointed to take up with Congressman C. B. Miller and Senators Moses E. Clapp and Knute Nelson, the matter of securing an appropriation for the purchase of a site and the erection thereon of a suitable federal building, with ample room for the postoffice, local customs collector, and a room for the sailors on the Great Lakes.

The question of the inadequate hotel accommodations in the city was also considered and a committee consisting of P. J. Welch, D. A. Burke, Dennis Dwan, B. F. Fowler and A. J. Giroux, was appointed to make a thorough investigation and endeavor to get some one to come here and build a hotel which will be in keeping with other buildings in the city.

BIRDS HAD FLOWN.

All But One of Score of Drunks Gone When Police Arrive.

Hibbing, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The police received an urgent call Sunday night to come to the Mitchell location and arrest twenty drunken men who were raising a disturbance at the section house. Tom Moore and Dolph Belanger drove there posthaste but found all had skipped except Ivan Erickson, who was too drunk to navigate, and he was brought to the city lockup.

ANDREW CARNEGIE MAY DONATE EVELETH MORE.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chairman Georges A. Whitman of the library board, who has returned from New York city, where he learned that Andrew Carnegie based his refusal to increase his donation for a local library from $15,000 to $25,000 on the fact that Eveleth was credited with only 4,000 people by the census. The census has been corrected and Eveleth now has over 7,000 people. This information will be sent the Ironmaster, and it is believed will aid in inducing him to change his attitude in the matter and favor Eveleth with a $25,000 donation. The library board and city council plan on holding a joint meeting soon, when the plans of architects for the proposed library will be thoroughly considered.

EVELETH SHORT NOTES.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The arrangements committee is preparing for the sixth annual Easter ball of the Eagles, which will be held Monday at Vail hall.

The Musical Elkharts will appear at Elks hall Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias.

Solomon Sax returned Saturday from a business visit to Bessemer and other Michigan points.

Judge Vivien Prince is recovering from a severe attack of diabetes, and expects to resume his court duties this week.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold an annual Easter potted plant sale at the City drug store Thursday. Mesdames A. G. Kingston, T. A. Pratt and A. O. Sisson and Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz compose the committee in charge.

Former Fire Chief Harry Silver of this city, who has been located at Gilbert for some time, has retired from the liquor business and has returned to Duluth.

Alleges Husband Deserted Her.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 10.—Mrs. Katherine Thorp has instituted divorce proceedings here against Robert Thorp, alleging he deserted her after twenty-eight years of married life, going to Virginia, where he now resides. She says he left her Oct. 10, last.

His property in Virginia, she alleges, is worth $5,000.

Mrs. Thorp claims that she tried to effect a reconciliation, but that her efforts were futile.

Free Delivery Pleases Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Free delivery is proving successful in this city and the patrons of the local postoffice are pleased with the system. Three deliveries are being made daily.

OVER 6,000 WOMEN WITHOUT HOMES

Fire Does $3,000,000 Damage in Red Light District of Tokio.

Tokio, April 10.—It is roughly estimated that $3,000,000 will cover the property loss caused by the fire which yesterday wiped out the Yoshiwari, that district of the capital where social license is permitted, under municipal surveillance.

According to today's official reports no fatalities have been discovered. The evening papers, however, state that four or five persons were burned to death or killed while attempting to escape from their homes.

Eight persons were severely injured, while about 100 others received slight hurts.

The total insurance carried by the house and shopowners is in the neighborhood of $350,000.

The origin of the blaze is not known, but once started the flames swept rapidly through the thousands of flimsy structures, destroying as well the many magnificent buildings and government hospitals belonging to the quarter.

About 5,000 houses and shops were burned, the fire extending over an area of approximately four square miles.

Six thousand women residents of the Yoshiwari were made homeless.

The world-famed Yoshiwari lies about one mile to the north of Asakusa park. The district presented a spectacle probably unparalleled in any other country, but reproduced on a smaller scale in the provincial Japanese cities, with gorgeous structures, guarded by iron bars, directly on the street line and its thousands of gaily bedecked residents.

This whole quarter is under special municipal surveillance, with the result that at all times perfect order prevailed, enabling strangers to observe, while walking through the streets, the manner in which the Japanese have solved, in their own manner, one of the vexed questions of all ages.

down with employes drawing immense salaries, employes for which the committees have no more use than a "hog has for side pockets," was the declaration of Representative Frank Clark of Florida in a resolution which he introduced in the house today to abolish twenty-five more positions with an annual pay roll of $35,000.

Mr. Underwood, Democratic leader, objected to the resolution until the situation could be investigated. He said the house pay roll already had been cut $180,000, and that business of the house had been handicapped by further cuts of the force of employes.

The house spent an hour in discussing committee rooms and house employes today. Chairman Underwood announced he had received the Republican committee lists from Representative Mann this morning and that the complete committees will be ready for election by the house tomorrow.

A petition signed by 488 citizens of El Paso, Tex., urging the United States not to interfere in the insurrection in Mexico was presented to the senate today by Senator Culberson. The signers express the opinion that the struggle is one for existence on the part of the insurrectos.

A bill to permit employes in the civil service of the government to present grievances to congress and to criticize the administration of the service of which they are engaged also was introduced by Senator Jones.

Two Speeches Expected.

Two speeches on timely subjects figured in the schedule of the senate today. Notice was given last week by Senator Rayner of Maryland that he would discuss the situation in Mexico, including the attitude of Japan and the application of the Monroe doctrine to conditions on the border. Senator Young of Iowa, gave notice of an intention to expound the Des Moines commission plan of government and commend it to other cities.

When Senator Martin, the new minority leader of the senate, names his committees on committees, both the Democrats and Republicans will begin the work of reorganization. There are now about seventy senate committees, the chairmanships of which, with the exception of about ten, are held by Republicans. As the Republican membership has dwindled to fifty, the Democrats are asking that ten additional chairmanships be given to them.

Some of the Republicans prefer that the number of committees be reduced, but while the question has not been considered officially, the indications are that the request of the Democrats will be granted.

To Hold Another Caucus.

Before any important business is taken up by the house this week the Democrats will hold another caucus and pass upon the tariff proposals to be submitted by Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee. The caucus will take up the legislative program tentatively agreed upon by the Democratic leaders and will determine what public measures are to be considered first and what tariff revision will be attempted.

One of the busiest bodies in congress is the Democratic committee which is apportioning the appointive positions in the house among the state delegations. At present the house is running with the old Republican employes. The committee spent three days last week in finding out how many jobs there are to be filled and how they can fairly distribute them among the delegations.

Chairman Lloyd expects to have the employe lists ready this week. It is understood that the scheme of apportioning patronage among the members who do not have committee chairmanships will give to each member appointments worth about $1,500, annually. This does not include the pay roll of $178,000 that comes under the chairmen of the committees or the $70,000 that is the prerogative of the speaker.

as each house had passed one and the outlook was that neither would pass the other's bill.

Representative Kneeland, author of the house bill, brought the matter up this morning by moving that the Moonan recall bill be withdrawn from the committee on elections and made a special order for Wednesday afternoon.

Representative Lennon raised the point of order that this would require a suspension of the rules, and that it therefore would need eighty votes to carry. Speaker Dunn ruled that it could be done by a majority of the house, and the motion was adopted, 69 to 37.

In the senate, Senator Lende, Republican, who voted for the Murray bill, providing for party primary nominations of candidates for United States senators, gave notice that tomorrow or later in the week he would move that the Keefe bill for direct election of senators be made a special order. This indicates a coming break in the Republican alignment back of the Murray bill.

The Hanson reapportionment bill was reported into the senate this morning with the committee's recommendation that it pass and that it be made a special order for tomorrow afternoon. Earlier Senator Hackney, chairman of the committee, gave notice that he would move tomorrow to make the bill a special order, not stating the time.

Senator Schaller raised the point of order that the bill was not in possession of the house and that the Hackney motion was out of order. Senator Hackney then withdrew his notice, but renewed it after the committee report had been read to the senate. Five hundred copies of the bill were ordered printed.

The senate adopted a joint resolution by Senator Cheadle providing that a committee of six senators and seven representatives shall consider the subject matter of the bills providing for leasing the Oneota dock site to the city of Duluth. The resolution was reported later to the house, but no action was taken on them. The railroad and warehouse commission, which under a misapprehension has been working against this proposition, has changed front and is supporting it enthusiastically, so it is likely to pass.

The house added to the pending list of special orders this morning by making a special order of five temperance bills, headed by R. C. Dunn's bill prohibiting county boards from issuing liquor licenses except in hamlets, and the Hanson senate bill prohibiting the sale of malt, whether intoxicating or not, except in licensed saloons.

Representative Robinson had added to the special order his bill taxing beer wagons and prohibiting them from delivering liquor to any except licensed drinking places, the object being to shut off deliveries to houses of prostitution and blind pigs.

Representative Pfaender had added the senate bill providing civil damages for families of drunkards where injuries result from law violations, and Representative Hoffman added his bill making breweries take out state licenses.

These bills were made a special order for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock but, with the appropriation bills a special order for 11, they are not likely to be finished.

While the Red Wing training school matter was made a special order for tomorrow evening in the house, in the senate it was laid over to tomorrow.

On motion of Senator Clague, the senate provided for a committee of seven, one to be the lieutenant governor, to act with the house committee to receive Col. Roosevelt.

The Democrats from St. Paul this morning fought the bills by Representatives Orr and Fuchs making the mayors of home rule charter cities with more than 50,000 people members ex officio of water boards, police boards, fire boards and boards of school inspectors.

Representative Robinson, Democrat, of Winona, supported the bill, saying that it is a move against corruption in St. Paul.

Representative Ribenack of Duluth said Duluth didn't want this bill. Nevertheless, the report of the tri-county committee favoring the bill was adopted, and is was placed on general orders.

BAKE OVEN GIVES INSTANT RELIEF TO EAST END WOMAN

Tells Her Experience In Taking Treatment Offered By Wonderful Invention Wherein Human Beings Stand 350 Degrees Fahrenheit.

MRS. IDA MARTIN.

My recent experience with the Loughney & Loughney Bake Oven treatment, and the immediate relief I experienced from my intense suffering, seem almost marvelous to me. I had been unable to move about without much soreness and pain in my muscles and joints from rheumatism and I had tried different remedies and treatments, but got no relief. I had read from time to time of the wonderful cures the Bake Ovens were performing, and so decided to give them a trial, and it is surely a boon to women and mankind; they relieve pain instantly. They not only put an end to my rheumatic pains, but they are helping me for nervousness and catarrh and I am wonderfully improved in a general way. Yours truly,

MRS. IDA MARTIN.
1517 East Third Street.

Loughney & Loughney Bake Ovens are located in the Christie Building, Fourth avenue west, between First and Second streets. Their hours are 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.; Sundays, 9 a. m. to 12 m. Consultation is free to all.

Price, $2.00 per treatment.

FREE DELIVERY FOR TWO HARBORS

City to Be Supplied With Three Carriers in Near Future.

Washington, April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller today called upon First Assistant Postmaster General Grandfield to urge that city free delivery be established at Two Harbors as soon as may be practicable. It appears that Two Harbors is thoroughly entitled to city free delivery because of postal business done there and should be given a city free delivery to consists of three carriers to commence the new service.

At present the present quarters are inadequate to accommodate this new and additional service. The lease on the present postoffice at Two Harbors is about to expire and new and larger quarters have practically been agreed upon. When the postoffice shall move into its new and more commodious quarters city free delivery will go with the move of the office, that is, as soon as thereafter as may be practicable.

Representative Miller today appeared before the board of engineers on rivers and harbors projects relative to the removal of ledge or shoal at Pine Knoll, which obstruction is thought to be largely responsible for the cause of floods in the upper Mississippi river. A preliminary survey of this portion of the river has been made under the direction of Maj. Shunk of St. Paul. While admitting the advisability of the removal of the Pine Knoll ledge, Maj. Shunk does not think its removal should be undertaken as a separate and distinct project for improving the Mississippi between Brainerd and Grand Rapids.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM

Will Be Established By Cleveland-Cliffs Company Near Chatam.

Chatham, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A large gang of men, under the foremanship of Mr. Tubb, is stripping the timber from the 640-acre tract of land a mile south of here, where the Cleveland-Cliffs people are laying out an experimental farm. The work is progressing rapidly, and there is some of the best land in the peninsula in this vicinity, the farm, when it is developed, will be one of the show places of the peninsula.

You Want the Best?
Then Make This at Home.

A splendid quick-acting cough syrup and cold cure. It has no equal for prompt action and permanent effects on children or adults. Immediate results is the pleasing feature. Cheapness is another. Permanent system cleansing another. Not constipating still another. Those who have used it, swear by it, and recommend to neighbors and friends.

Obtain a 2½ oz package of Essence Mentho-Laxene, empty it into a pint bottle. Then pour a half pint of boiling water over a pint of granulated sugar. Stir and cool. Then fill up the pint bottle with syrup. Full directions for use accompany each package of the essence.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

FARMERS IN FINE FETTLE

Conditions in North Dakota Favorable for Starting Spring Seeding.

Seeding Expected to Be General By the Latter Part of This Week.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A brisk wind all day Sunday dried up the fields considerably and with a day or two of warm weather a great many teams will be in the fields by the middle of the week.

Seeding will probably not be general until Friday or Saturday but if the predicted warm weather continues all farmers are confident that the spring work will begin in earnest this week.

Soil in Good Condition.

The soil is in good condition to receive seed, only needing a little working, and there is plenty of moisture to last several weeks. The recent heavy snowfalls supplied this much needed benefit and its gradual melting has been a boon to the soil.

Plowing was well done last fall so the acreage will be 100 per cent of the average and farmers in general are very optimistic over the outlook. The same condition prevails throughout the valley and practically all over the state.

TOBACCO PACKER BUYS BIG PLANT

Acquires Lumber Concern at Couderay, Wis., to Make Tobacco Boxes.

Couderay, Wis., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. H. Bekkedal, the millionaire leaf tobacco packer and wholesaler of Westby, Wis., has just closed the deal in which he gains possession of the sawmill plant of the Chippewa Hardwood & Hemlock company of this place. This plant was formerly owned and operated by the Heffelfingers, former wholesale shoe manufacturers of Minneapolis. The plant has not been in operation for the last two years.

The plant consists of a large hardwood sawmill, planing mills, cottages, store and general stock of merchandise, office buildings, icehouses, warehouses, barns, boarding house and lodging houses rooming 200 men, complete logging outfit, and was erected a few years ago at a cost of $150,000. The plant is in very good condition, most of the machinery being nearly new.

Owns Reservation Plants.

Last fall Mr. Bekkedal purchased all the interests of the Signor Crisler company in the Couderay Indian reservation near here, where he had been logging heavily last winter.

It is not known just extensively the new owner will go into the lumber business, but it will not be on any small scale, as he uses nearly 2,000,000 feet a year of the cheap grades of lumber for boxes for his tobacco business. He plans on putting in a large box factory here in connection with the plant to manufacture boxes that he will ship to the sixteen tobacco warehouses he has in Vernon county and other cities in the southern part of Wisconsin.

PLAN BIG YEAR FOR CHAUTAUQUA

Institution at Devils Lake, N. D., to Be Better Than Ever During 1911.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work will commence next week on the many extensive improvements planned on the Chautauqua grounds here. In a few weeks the annual booklet containing the Chautauqua program, which has been arranged by Secretary W. E. Hocking of the Chautauqua association, will be out.

Every building on the grounds will receive a new coat of white paint, the supply of ice sufficient to carry through the entire season is already stored on the grounds, and the Rev. Mr. Shaw of Minot has been secured to take charge of the platform. A camp of Devils Lake Boy Scouts will be established on the grounds under the supervision of Rev. Mr. Bailey, assisted by Rev. Wallace of this city, who is now at work on the preliminary steps. The Fort Totten Indian school has arrranged for a special display, showing the industrial work of the school, and the International Harvester company will play an important part in the program with the "History of the Reaper, Illustrated."

The association has expended considerably more money in advertising this year than ever before and the prospects are bright for the best season in its history. A number of new cottages will be erected on the lake shore on account of the many inquiries for rented cottages.

INDIGNANT GREEKS.

Claim Employment Bureau and Railroad Deceived Them.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—A band of twenty-eight Greek laborers sent here by the Great Northern Employment agency at St. Paul claim to be without money or prospects for work and through their leader, Jim Pappas, threaten to bring action for the recovery of the $112 which was paid the employment company. Pappas claims he brought the men out here the last of March, the railroad company to provide them with work April 1. Only a few have been given work, he claims, and the company has not even provided bunks for them to sleep upon.

The railroad officials here claim the contract was that they were to have work on or about April 1 and that as the frost is not yet out of the ground there was nothing to do. They have sent out some and claim that more would go out this week, just as rapidly as there was a chance for work. They also claim that they provided bunks and made them as comfortable as possible, but were not responsible for the mistakes of the employment office.

TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS.

Pennington County Organizes for Attack on Dread Disease.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Prof. Charles Aston, executive secretary of the State Anti-Tuberculosis society, presided at a meeting held here at which the Pennington County Anti-Tuberculosis society was organized with the following officers: President, County Superintendent A. E. Mostue; vice president, Dr. A. F. Melby; secretary, Clara Backe; membership committee, Rev. J. B. Smith, Peter Englestad and Mrs. J. M. Bishop. A membership fee of 25 cents per annum was ordered to be collected and a committee was appointed to solicit members. A united and systematic effort will be made to control the disease in Pennington county and literature will be procured and distributed and possibly a nurse employed to visit and instruct in the care of the patients.

One of the large houseboats owned by the Northwestern Drainage company, which has its headquarters in this city, was hauled down the central portion of the city by a heavy threshing engine. It will be launched in the Red Lake river at the boat dock and will be used this summer for the carrying of supplies on the river to the various locations where dredging is going on.

FOUR NEW OFFICERS OF NORTH DAKOTA GUARD.

Bismarck, N. D., April 10.—Special Orders No. 12, issued by the adjutant general's office, contain the announcement that commissions have been issued to four new officers in the national guard of the state as follows: To Frank E. Wheelon as first lieutenant of Infantry to date from Feb. 21, 1911, vice First Lieutenant D. C. Mullick, placed on the supernumerary list; Howard C. Hines as first lieutenant of infantry to date from March 20, 1911, vice First Lieut. Thomas McCormick, placed on the supernumerary list; Charles F. Graham as second lieutenant of infantry to date from Feb. 21, 1911, vice Wheelon promoted; Frank Cushing as second lieutenant of infantry, vice Second Lieut. Howard C. Hines, promoted, to date from March 20, 1911.

ASHLAND BOAT PLANT FIGURES ON BIG ORDER.

Ashland, Wis., April 10.—J. M. Truscott, vice president and general manager of the National Boat & Engine company, was here Friday and gave the local boat company plans for building forty twenty-foot boats to be used on the Mississippi river. In all probability the order will be placed here. The boats are to be used for the government service. The auditor of the so-called boat syndicate was in the city recently for the purpose of auditing the books and the details for the formal transfer are practically completed. The visit of the vice president of the concern here and his act in practically placing an order for this large number of boats, shows that the officers of the company are taking it for granted that there will be no obstacles to taking in the Ashland plant. Mr. Burrel has accepted the position of manager under the new concern.

SCHOOLS SOCIAL CENTERS

Is Advocated By Educators' Meet at St. Cloud.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 10.—The Northern Educational association, in session here, elected the following officers:

President—F. E. Lurton of Anoka.

Vice President—R. H. Brown of Sauk Rapids.

Secretary and Treasurer—Miss Jessie Burrall of St. Cloud.

Executive Committee—Supt. V. S. Knudson of Todd county and Miss Etta Coulter of Alexandria.

Resolutions were adopted favoring the broader use of the school plant everywhere, making the schoolhouse the center of social and intellectual activities and tending to bring the people to a more sympathetic understanding.

FORMER MINNESOTA SOLDIER IS HONORED.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.) — Deputy Sheriff H. M. Sheriff, who served during the Filipino insurrection in Luzon as a sergeant in Company M, Thirteenth Minnesota, has just received a congressional medal for loyalty. These medals were granted at the request of the late President McKinley as an apreciation of the loyalty and patriotism of the members of the Eighth Army corps, who remained in the Philippines even after their term of service had expired.

MINISTER TO COLUMBIA.

Former Governor Davidson of Wisconsin Given Foreign Job.

Madison, Wis., April 10.—President Taft has tendered Former Governor Davidson the place as United States minister to a South American republic and Davidson wired that he would accept. The place to which Davidson will be sent is probably Bogota, Colombia. The salary is $10,000 per year.

Marinette Highwaymen Sentenced.

Marinette, Wis., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—For holding up Alex Kulis, a woodsman from Dunbar, Marinette county, William Wills and E. Stephen of Iron Mountain, were sentenced to the penitentiary for not less than three years.

Georgetown, Minn., Elevator Fire.

Georgetown, Minn., April 10.—The Federal elevator here, together with 4,000 bushels of grain and all of the coal sheds, was entirely destroyed by fire Saturday. The total loss will be over $10,000. The property belonged to the Federal Elevator company of Minneapolis.

BODY MADE INTO PULP.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—While working about a traveling crane at the steel mills here today Harry Quesnell was instantly killed. His body was drawn into the massive cog wheels and a few moments later was thrown out a shapeless mass of pulp.

Horsewhips Character Assassin.

Turtle Lake, N. D., April 10.—Henry Bunt, a Northern Pacific brakeman, was horsewhipped by a Turtle Lake woman whom it is alleged Bunt slandered.

Feeling has been running high for several days in the Turtle Lake region and it had its culmination, when a crowd of people, friends of the woman, set upon the train crew of the freight as it pulled into Turtle Lake Thursday night.

Prison Whipping Upheld.

Marquette, Mich., April 10.—The legislative committee which investigated Marquette prison has issued a majority report vindicating Warden James Russell and upholding whipping in extreme cases of insubordination. The abolishment of the contract labor system and the substitution of state accounts is recommended.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Red Lake Falls—William Dulude, living near Huot, had a narrow escape from death last week. Mr. Dulude got his arm caught in the fly wheel of a gasoline engine while putting on the belt. Had it not been for the quick action of a companion who stood near and who stopped the engine, Mr. Dulude would have met a terrible death.

Holdingford—Peter Herman brought a two-headed calf to town Tuesday. It had been born at his place the day before. It was dead. The cow had to be killed to relieve her of the calf. Stanley Bielejeski will have the calf heads mounted.

Baudette—Herman Stoeffler was arrested here on the complaint of Martin Larson of Roosevelt, whose saloon had been burglarized and a small sum of money taken. He desired to enter a plea of guilty to the charge, and accordingly was taken to Crookston, and Judge Watts sentenced him to one year in the penitentiary.

Roseau—District court in Roseau county will henceforth convene on the third Mondays in the months of May and October, instead of January and July as heretofore. The legislature has made the change, which was necessitated by the creation of Pennington county and the consequent addition of court terms in the district. Judge William Watts of Crookston will preside in this county, beginning with the May, 1911, term.

Hallock—At their meeting just held the county commissioners appropriated $400 towards a county exhibit at the state fair this fall, and appointed Editor C. J. Estlund of Kennedy as manager with Charles Clow of Humboldt, assistant.

Little Falls—Papers are now being prepared for the transfer of lots 24 to 28, inclusive, block A, Mississippi addition to the city of Little Falls, from Mrs. Harriet M. Joslin to the United States for a site for the proposed federal building to be erected in this city.

Staples—The 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson swallowed some kerosene last week, but an emetic was given soon afterward, and, although he was quite ailing for a time, he is now all right again. Mrs. Wilson had the oil in a glass, having used some of it to start a fire, and the little fellow thought it was water.

Crookston—A vagrant giving the name of Thomas Downey and the place of residence as Red Lake Falls was picked up by the police here yesterday, and this morning was sent back by Chief Creamer to Red Lake Falls, from whence he came a few days ago, some one there furnishing him a ticket to the city.

Walker—There are many inquiries about the state land sale which is to occur at Walker on May 12, and State Auditor Iverson has been preparing lists of the sales which are to be held in the various counties of Northern Minnesota. The list of Cass county lands has been received by County Auditor Eyhurst.

Stillwater—The recent arrivals at the state prison were John Appleby of St. Louis county, under a sentence of eight years for grand larceny in the first degree Michael Barrett, Hennepin county, two years for grand larceny in the second degree.

Mankato—E. A. Carlstrom has been awarded the contract to build the new and up-to-date hotel building at Worthington. His bid was $56,800. The hotel complete will cost $80,000. It will be the property of Peter Thompson, a capitalist in that city. The hotel will be open for business some time in January.

Minneapolis—Work on the foundation of the new six-story Syndicate building at Sixth street and Nicollet avenue was started Friday. James Leck, contractor, who has had the work of razing the ruins of the building, has been given the foundation contract. Nearly all the debris has been cleared from the basement and the concrete piers and footings will go in immediately.

Stillwater—The board of control granted the unusually large number of eleven paroles from the state prison. The officers and guards of the institution have donned their Stetson soft hats in place of caps for the summer. There are now 712 of a population at the prison, seventy-eight of whom are at the new prison. There are but eight in the grade of those whose deportment has been below standard.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—William Biggs, who has been employed as the chief clerk of the Great Northern freight department in this city for several years, left Thursday for Great Falls, Mont., where he will be employed in the same capacity in the freight office there.

Washburn, N. D.—With the coming of spring and the breaking up of winter weather, the Washburn Lignite Coal company is operating their mine only about four days per week. The past fall and winter, however, has been a record breaker in the production of lignite. Never before in the history of the mine have such enormous shipments been made.

Grand Forks, N. D.—"Everyman," one of the greatest morality plays ever staged, was presented Thursday evening by the Sock and Buskin society of the University of North Dakota at the Metropolitan theater. A large audience gathered to see one of the best, if not the best, amateur play, ever staged in the state of North Dakota. Everything from the beginning to the end of the drama was letter perfect.

Grafton, N. D.—Services were held for the late William Goodyear Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. F. L. Montgomery. Rev. C. E. Stinson officiated, assisted by Rev. Ingram. The body was taken to Iowa for burial and was accompanied by C. L. Goodyear and Mrs. W. Goodyear.

Bismarck, N. D.—Rt. Rev. Cameron Mann of Fargo, bishop of this diocese of the Episcopal church, will be in the capital city Friday evening, April 21, and will confirm a large class at St. George's Episcopal church. He will also preach a sermon that evening.

Grand Forks, N. D.—A box car in the Great Northern yards was gutted by flames Friday evening. An overheated stove caused the fire and the department, after being notified, made a quick run to the scene of the flames and with the chemical succeeded in confining the blaze merely to the interior of the car. The place was occupied by a number of Greek and Italian laborers and practically all of the effects were either destroyed or damaged.

Pierre, S. D.—The report of the state treasury at the close of business March 31 shows cash on hand $820,886, of which $117,907 was in the general fund, the permanent school fund shows $46,297, and this will be materially increased by the money received from sales of land this spring.

Fargo, N. D.—The United States civil service commission has announced six positions that are open in the regular governmental service. Examinations for three of these will be held in Fargo in the very near future.

Bismarck, N. D.—The new state normal school board of control met here and selected Frank Willson of Bathgate as secretary and decided to hold another meeting at Minot April 18, at which time the architect for the Minot buildings will be engaged. There was no other business transacted at the meeting here, all being left for the Minot meeting.

Maxbass, N. D.—Maxbass has an organization of Boy Scouts with eight members and Elmer Ellis is captain. They have taken their first lesson in observation and are on duty all the time.

Grand Forks, N. D.—Dr. A. P. Baker, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, drew a large audience at the auditorium Sunday evening when he gave an address under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

Cando, N. D.—Towner county will not have a superintendent of public highways as provided by the new law passed by the twelfth legislative assembly. The commissioners heeded the petitions of the taxpayers who did not feel that such an official was needed.

Minto, N. D.—Minto defeated Hillsboro in the high school debate held at Minto on April 7. Minto had the affirmative. The decision was unanimous. The judges were Prof. Birdzell of Grand Forks, Prof. McCown of Wesley college and Supt. Bernard Street of St. Thomas. The Minto team consisted by Misses Gertrude Mantinski, Mamie Gillespie and John Boeing.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—Treasurer Edgar Rashleigh of Houghton county has forwarded to Albert E. Sleeper, treasurer of the state of Michigan, the sum of $65,000, to apply on the account of Houghton county for state taxes due the state for the year 1910.

Hancock—Sons of St. George of Mistletoe lodge of Quincy have oompleted the program for Good Friday, celebrated annually by Sons of St. George throughout the world. The observance will begin this year at 1:30 o'clock on April 14 and will extend well into the evening. Headed by the Quincy band, the Mistletoe men will parade from Quincy hall over a route that will take in most of the hill locations.

Calumet—Mrs. John Pascoe of Tamarack died Friday after an illness of two years of heart trouble. The deceased was born in England in 1855 and in September, 1876, she came to Hancock. In the following year she removed to Osceola and remained there until 1886, when the family removed to Tamarack. A husband and six children survive.

Hancock—Excavating for the new Mason vaudeville theater, preliminary to the laying of the foundation has commenced on the Quincy street site of the playhouse. The work is under the superintendence of Contractor McGlynn. The digging is expected to be completed within a few days. The structure will be of brick, modern and fireproof.

Calumet—Capt. John Knox, underground superintendent for the Calumet & Hecla for the past four years, has been made general superintendent of the C. & H. subsidiary companies, the promotion having already gone into effect. Mr. Knox is a graduate of the Michigan College of Mines and is conceded to be a very capable mining engineer.

Marquette—As a result of a conference between Ira Carley of Ingalls, W. H. Johnson of Ishpeming, members of the board of control of the Marquette prison, E. A. Thornton of Chicago, president of the Marquette Box & Lumber company, which holds a contract at the prison, and Warden Russell, there is a strong probability that after Aug. 1 the box factory at the prison will be worked on state account.

Hancock—The report of City Treasurer Jay Lanctot to the council showed a balance on hand April 1, 1911, of $3,405.29. The balance on March 1 was $4,602.47; receipts for March, $3,652.47; disbursements, $4,849.19.

Ontonagon—Sam Benham, teacher of school at Matchwood, dropped dead of heart failure. He was about 50 years old. His wife died about one year ago in the same manner in which Benham did.

Calumet—Miss Winnifred Salisbury, who has held the position of secretary of the Calumet Associated charities ever since its organization, has tendered her resignation and will leave early in May for her home in Wisconsin. It is understood that Miss Frieda Hansen, who has been Miss Salisbury's assistant for several months, will succeed her.

Laurium—Postmaster Vincent Vairo is busy today circulating the petition, which will be forwarded to Congressman H. Olin Young at Washington this week, asking for the establishment of a free delivery system in Laurium.

The permanent school fund shows $46,297, and this will be materially increased by the money received from sales of land this spring.

Marquette—The hearing of William Hakala, charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than the crime of murder, was held before Justice of the Peace John Alpin, with the result that the accused was acquitted. Hakala and the complaining witness, Seelim Ross, are living at Suomi, a Finnish settlement about fourteen miles from here.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ahsland—Miss Kate Carlson of Odanah, who has been attending the Ashland public schools, jumped from a moving train as it was slowing down on one of the avenues Friday and sprained both ankles.

Milwaukee—Morgan Percy Williams, familiarly known as Percy Williams to members of St. Paul's Episcopal church, of which he was sextion for forty-seven years, died in his home, 737 Jefferson street, Friday afternoon after an illness of several weeks. He was 86 years old.

Madison—The senate named as the special committee to arrange for the reception of Col. Roosevelt here on April 15: Senators Donald, Sanborn and Martin. Lieut.-Governor Morris is a member also. The assembly side of the committee on the reception of Roosevelt follows: Speaker Ingram and Assemblymen O'Connor, Gilbertson, Harper, Bell, Stern and Plowman. The Social Democratic legislators were overlooked.

La Crosse—Claiming that Fred Snell, the only Republican commissioner of public works, is not a freeholder and consequently not eligible to office, Democratic leaders have started a campaign to unseat him.

Racine—J. C. Dorchester, for thirty-two years manager of the Western Union Telegraph office in this city, will be retired on a pension at the end of this month. He has been an employe of the company for forty-nine years. His successor has not yet been named.

Madison—Governor McGovern has pardoned Andy Garland of Merrill, sentenced to state's prison on Feb. 25, 1909, for four years for assault and robbery. Garland is suffering from phthisis and has but a short time to live.

La Crosse—While hurrying to catch a train, Mrs. George A. Hosmer collapsed. She was carried into a nearby residence, but died of heart disease a few minutes after a doctor arrived.

Madison—Prof. Lawrence Martin of the geology department at the university has been appointed by the National Geological society of Washington to carry on research work in the Alaskan glacial fields. This is the third year that Prof. Martin has received this appointment.

Sturgeon Bay—The Pinney building was sold at public auction to satisfy a mortgage of $17,000 held by C. C. Davis of Centralia, Ill. The property was bid in for Mr. Davis at $10,000.

Sheboygan—The J. J. Koepsell Hardware company has increased its capital stock from $10,000 to $50,000, and intends to expand, going into a line of business including jobbing and wholesaling hardware supplies. The retail business will be continued.

Chippewa Falls—Judge Wickham is presiding in circuit court here at the spring term. There are four criminal cases on the calendar, State of Wisconsin vs. Alvin Hall, both held on statutory charges; John Jackson, charged with stealing Valentine Miller's horse on Jan. 16; and "Allie" Price, charged with attempting to burn the residence of John Dolan on the night of Monday, March 13.

A FAR-REACHING DECISION.

It is long since any more unexpected decision has been rendered in this state by either state or federal courts than that handed down by Judge Sanborn in the rate cases brought by stockholders of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Minneapolis & St. Louis railroad companies. With the exception of the commodity rates, the changes made by the Minnesota laws and commission have been in effect for many months; there had been no open complaint on the part of the companies involved, and the public had come to regard the change as permanent, and to look forward to the proposed reduction in commodity rates as an assured fact.

Now comes the Sanborn decision, and knocks all calculations higher than Gilroy's kite, and evidently leaves with the railroads the right to return to the old 3-cent passenger rate and the one-fourth or one-fifth higher charges for transportation of merchandise. The only chance for the maintenance of the present rates lies in the result of the appeal to the supreme court of the United States, which, it is announced, will be made immediately.

The decision is far more extensive in its application than appears on the surface. In effect, according to views expressed by attorneys, it all but wipes out the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, and on the same principle will have a similar effect on the commissions of other states, if upheld by the supreme court. It means that regulation of intrastate rates is impossible, since under the provision that rates between points in interstate commerce must not exceed the sum of the local rates between the points involved, no intrastate rate can be made that will not bear directly on interstate rates, and this decision holds such a relation of rates unconstitutional. This being the case, the chief function of the state commssion is swept away as something illegal and impossible, for even a rate between Duluth and Bemidji, for example, might affect a through rate from Bemidji to Superior, or a rate from St. Paul to Moorhead might affect, and undoubtedly would affect, a through rate from St. Paul to Fargo.

It is held by the court that the reduction made by the operation of the Minnesota law and the orders of the state commission are confiscatory in their effect on the incomes of the railroads. This fact, if admitted or proved, in itself constitutes a bar to the Minnesota rates. But this point is insignificant in the light of the broader interpretation, for under that part of the decision that regards the interstate rates and the power of the federal government to regulate such charges, the rates fixed by the state would be quite as invalid even thought they were not confiscatory, since they must of necessity affect the interstate rates.

The question naturally arises: What is left for the state railroad and warehouse commission to regulate? There would appear to be nothing, unless it were the rate on some line that had no interstate connections and which never carried interstate business. Yet rates must be determined by somebody, and if the state is barred from such action, and the interstate commerce commission cannot interfere with rates wholly within a state, the rate-fixing power must rest wholly with the railroads.

If this interpretation is well founded, and there seems to be no other interpretation possible under Judge Sanborn's decision, the states are left wholly at the mercy of the railroads as far as intrastate rates for passenger, freight or commodity transportation are concerned. And this makes the decision a decided triumph for the carriers. It means that there is no power that can curb the railroads as far as the making of intrastate rates is concerned.

This is a serious proposition for the states. It means that one part of their sovereign power has been only imaginary, that by giving the federal government authority over the carriers, the states have surrendered a right which involves millions of dollars in the line of public and private business. That being the effect of the Sanborn decision, it will be to the interest of all the states to have the matter settled by the supreme court as early as possible. Former Attorney General Young says that the raising of the question of constitutionality makes it possible to take the matter directly before that tribunal, instead of having to fight it out in another intermediate court. This is welcome news. The state should lose no time in its appeal, and every effort should be made to have the case advanced on the calendar so that an early adjudication may be had. It is too important a matter to be allowed to hang fire indefinitely.

SOMETHING TO BE GRATEFUL FOR.

In spite of the hostility to the cities of the state that has been exhibited by many members during the present session of the legislature, that body has done one thing, or nearly done it, that is of distinct advantage to the municipalities. That is the passage of the Wilson bill providing for a constitutional amendment that shall remove all doubt as to the right of Minnesota cities to adopt the commission form of government if they want to. The bill passed the senate, and the house acted favorably upon it after making one minor amendment, which it is said the senate will almost certainly accept. Then it will go to the governor, whose signing of the measure is not doubted.

There is some question whether the phrasing of the state Constitution as regards the government of cities is in fact a bar to the commission form of government. Mankato went ahead and adopted that form, and no question was raised. It was only when Duluth took steps looking toward similar action, and when agitation in favor of the commission form became active in St. Paul, that the question of constitutionality was raised. Still, it is better and cheaper to have all possible doubts removed by an amendment to the Constitution than to leave it to the tedious process of determination in the courts, with the possible need of an amendment after all.

There is no reason why the cities should not be allowed to adopt the commission form of government if they want to. There is nothing in that form that interferes in any way with state affairs, and the experience of the cities that have adopted it in various parts of the country should serve to convince even the most skeptical that the system is a distinct advantage to the cities where it has been put in force.

The existence of the present constitutional provision merely arms the opponents of that form of government with an argument which, while it does not go to the merits of the question at all, would serve to turn some people against the commission plan, or at least would be sure to lessen the general interest in the question of its adoption in any given locality. By amending the Constitution to get rid of the provisions that are interpreted as opposed to the adoption of the commission plan by Minnesota cities this difficulty will be removed, and the cities will be given a freer opportunity to conduct their own affairs in their own way.

SOMETHING CONGRESS SHOULD FORGET.

News dispatches sent out from Washington from day to day contain anything but a ground for hope of great good to the country from the ex'ra session of congress. It is evident that practically every man in the two houses is playing politics just as hard as he knows how. The standpat Republicans are lined up for the protection of the interests that put them in office; the "insurgent" Republicans of the last congress have worked out a new alignment in their own interests, and with some of them, at least, the great motive back of their every action is opposition to Taft and anything he may propose; the Democrats are not making a single move without first figuring out its possible results in 1912.

All this bodes nothing good for the country at large. The extra session was called for the express purpose of ratifying the Canadian agreement. If that purpose fails the nation will be the loser. It was the thought of the radical Democrats that here was a chance to work in some general tariff legislation that might help the party in 1912. Somebody evolved the brilliant idea that by passing other matters at first and holding back reciprocity they could use that question as a club to force the senate to act favorably on measures that would help the Democrats in 1912. The scheme only illustrates how desperately the game of politics is being played in Washington. If there is anything on earth that would not serve as a club for the senate it is reciprocity, and anybody who has even a faint notion of the situation in that body knows it.

The senate is Republican; the old guard in the senate is against reciprocity because the special privilege interests can see in such action the doom of the high tariff graft; the "progressive" Republicans are against it because it is a Taft proposition, and its accomplishment would mean a feather in the president's cap. Allied, these two forces can defeat anything that comes up in the senate.

But with both these factions, as with the Democrats, the whole proposition has resolved itself into a game of politics—whole-souled, hearty, aggressive, uncompromising, putrid politics. It is as if they had all said, "Let the people and their interests go hang. We and our political jobs are all we intend to consider."

Maybe the situation will clear up as the session advances. It is sincerely to be hoped that it will. If there ever was a time when congress should forget politics in the interests of the nation, now is that time. Party lines are less marked today than they have been at any other time for a good many years, and the man or the party that tries to re-establish them as they were is going to get lost in the shuffle. The congressmen should know this, and take heed of that knowledge. They should forget politics, at least for the time being. It would be a means of grace for themselves and for the country at large.

SOME SUPPOSITIONS.

Suppose you had a couple of boys who had grown careless in their habits or heedless in their conduct, and you found it your duty to bring them to time. Also suppose two ways of doing it were offered you, one of which would cost you $100 for each boy and the other about $40 for each one.

Also, suppose that by adopting the $100 plan you would keep the boys from annoying you or others by their manners or actions, for a month or two months, and at the end of that time would bring them out again, with all the old habits and tendencies, plus such notions as they might have picked up from each other or have evolved during their time of enforced idleness and isolation from their customary companions.

And again, suppose that by adopting the $40 plan you would give the boys some valuable instruction, build up their bodies to a state of health, furnish them with something worth while to think about, keep them occupied, and incidentally provide a means for a return to yourself that would cut down even the $40 you were spending on each boy and in the end bring them out in better shape, mentally, morally and physically, than they were when you took them in hand.

Supposing all these conditions existed, which means of dealing with the boys would you adopt?

Well then, consider this: Which is better for the county—to build an expensive jail and spend several thousands a year to support men there in a vice-breeding idleness and finally turn them out worse than they were when they were put in, or to provide farm quarters and healthful occupation for these same men, at a cost anywhere from 50 to 80 per cent less than the jail and its maintenance would involve, and finally turn the men out with improved minds and bodies?

The county board seems inclined to ignore the proposal for a jail farm. If the reports from places where it has been tried are true, the jail farm not only costs less than the jail, but works better. The plan would seem to be worth at least a more careful investigation by the county authorities than it has been given thus far.

Interest in the idea is growing throughout the county. If a plan so evidently valuable is to be passed by, the people will want to know why.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE SOCIALIST VOTE IN RECENT ELECTIONS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The elections the other day brought to light some interesting facts. A Kansas town elected a woman mayor. Socialists swept Beatrice, Red Cloud and Wymore, Neb. They chose a councilman at Broken Bow, Neb., and three councilmen at Superior, Wis. A short time ago they carried Two Harbors. They elected a mayor at Butte, Mont., and swept Berkley, Cal. They polled the biggest vote in Chicago ever cast by the party. They lost Milwaukee because all parties combined against them and put non-partisan tickets in the field.

Socialists lost Wichita, Kan., the older parties presenting a non-partisan candidate. Socialists carried Victor, Colo., and elected three aldermen out of five at Fort Scott, Kan. They elected a mayor and council at Flint, Mich., where a big automobile factory is located. At Dallas, Tex., the recall was used to put a banker, manufacturer and another man out of the school board. The victorious candidates included a lawyer and a union carpenter. Socialists elected a justice of the peace at Racine, Wis., an alderman at Boyne City, Mich. As usual Girard, Kan., went solid for Socialism.

Mr. Editor, if anybody thinks the Socialist party is to be lightly regarded, he will find food for thought in the returns from the late elections.

AS JAPAN VIEWS WAR.

Prof. Yaichi Haga in the Oriental Review: The gravest of all the mistakes which the Occidental peoples make as to the character of the Japanese is that which has its application in the "Yellow Peril" bogy. The valor and strength of the nation was observed in the Chino-Japanese war, during the Boxer trouble and in the recent Russo-Japanese war, with the conclusion that we are a warlike people, literally eager for fighting. The fear was openly expressed that the Japanese might seek to invade Europe, and that the white people might be overwhelmed by the yellow race as they were once by the armies of Gengis Khan. But this is a mere apprehension. Race antagonism is the genesis of it.

There is no doubt that we have been a nation of military valor from of old. Japan of today still remembers the time of military rule, abolished only forty years ago. Notwithstanding all this we have never been aggressive warriors throughout our long history. We display our valor only from the necessity of self-protection. We are defensive, not offensive. We never draw sword without first being attacked. The feudal samurai exercised the utmost care not to give a blow for light cause. Our sword is a defensive weapon, not an instrument of murder.

When a new blade was forged for a samurai it was an old custom to celebrate the acquisition of this family treasure with the eating of a kind of bean dish, the idea suggested being that the sword might never be used for cutting just as the bean dish required no knife. Only when a man's honor was at stake would he fearlessly chastise the offender. Our plays show those who attack on slight provocation are not honorable, the true samurai resorting to his sword only from sheer necessity. Wanton massacre of captives is unheard of. To win them through kindness and to bring about their voluntary obedience has been the traditional policy of Japan.

Our mythological tales recount very little cruelty. As in Grimm's tales, the stepmother figures frequently in Japanese literature, but is never subjected to barbarous murder, as in Europe. Deities of foreign myths often indulge in cruel slaughter. Nothing of the kind happens with Japanese gods except in one instance, and that folk tale of the badger who kills an old woman and makes her husband eat her flesh probably did not originate in Japan.

The highest ideal of Japanese warriors was to be perfect both in civic and military virtues. A true samurai must have tender compassion, as his actuating principles were justice and mercy. Years ago when we proposed to join the International Red Cross league, the question came up as to whether Japan had ever done anything along that line. Our answer apparently convinced the West that, after all, we were not such barbarians as had been supposed.

Our remote ancestors ate some of the wild animals such as rabbit and deer, but never butchered the domestic animals. When Buddhism gained ground in the later period, meat eating became still less common. We can not bear the idea of making meals of our own household, as it were, and even in the twentieth century very few there are who really enjoy eating chickens supplied by their own yards.

Pastoral industry has not developed in Japan for this reason. The tender feeling admits of no argument, but we can not help being human. "A true man keeps his kitchen at a distance," and "Even a hunter will not kill a distressed bird when it seeks refuge in his bosom," are Chinese maxims we Japanese have taken to our hearts.

Men Under Scientific Management.

"The men in shops under scientific management are well satisfied. A sympathetic strike was called to aid the trolley car motormen and conductors in Philadelphia in 1910. A certain factory running under scientific management," says James Mapes Dodge of the Link Belt company, in The Survey, "was surrounded by four other establishments. Three of the four lost about one-half of their men through the sympathetic strike and in the fourth all went out. In the shop running under scientific management just one man quit work.

"Now this was no accident, but is because the very best friends that the workmen have under scientific management are their employers. Formerly we would tell a man we would give him 10 cents for a certain piece of work. Then if he reduced his time so that he could make two, we would reduce the rate to 5 cents. But we were getting twice as much work from the same floor space and fixed expenses for the same money while the men had not been getting any more pay.

"We adopted a new rule which was that a rate once set must not be reduced unless the shape of the piece or the tool or method by which it is made was changed and that a man should be paid when he did his work. It was a hard dose to swallow, for sometimes men made twice or three times the wage they would have worked for gladly by the day. Once in a while when I went among them, a man would call out, 'Well, I got you going today.' 'How?' 'I made $18 today.' 'Good, you might take me to the theater tonight.' 'All right, boss, I will.'"

Snake Inside Kills Horse.

Wilmington, Del., dispatch to Philadelphia Record: A horse owned by John Haley of near Mount Cuba, died the other day despite the treatment of a Kennett Square veterinarian, who was called in. The animal was cut open to determine the cause of death and three lizards and a snake were found near the lungs and heart. It is supposed that the lizards were swallowed in a gulp of water but how the snake entered the animal is a mystery. It pressed against the horse's heart, causing death.

Wall Street Journal: Stretching your imagination is not the same thing as exercising your intellect.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Using Farmers as Catspaws.

Montevideo Leader: We do not believe the great manufacturing interests care a snap what becomes of the proposed reciprocity treaty with Canada. What they want is protection for their particular industries and lots of it. We also believe they have had a quiet hand in all this protest business on the part of the American farmers, not that they loved cheap material less but that they loved high protection more. When the battle is over and the smoke has cleared away, if it is shown that the trusts have been making catspaws of the farmers to pull their own pet chestnuts out of the fire, and that their real purpose was to rivet the high protection policy upon this country so firmly that it cannot be broken, and that in this matter they have got the American farmers to go back on free trade, reciprocity and a low tariff, don't you think they will have strengthened their side considerably? Beware of these gift-bearing Greeks. They are playing a double role.

Afraid of Being Recalled.

Wilkin County News: It is a mighty good thing for the taxpayers of Minnesota that the present monkey-and-parrot show down at the capitol in St. Paul has a limitation of time fixed by law, else the burlesque would be kept up all summer. No wonder many of these "statesmen" are afraid of the initiative, referendum and recall. If this feature were in force some of these patriots would be sent back home to get an honest living instead of battening on the public as they are now doing.

Did Not Work Mankato.

Mankato Free Press: It is estimated that Clarence and Leslie Deitz have raised in Minnesota something like $4,000 for their "defense fund." Mind you, their money-making scheme did not work in Mankato. The people of this city have been played for "easy marks" on a number of coin producing ventures, but they would not stand to be lectured out of their dollars by the Deitz boys.

Klemer and His Charge.

Rock County News: Without entering into the question of the truth of the charge made by Representative Klemer that the committees of the house have been packed in the interest of special interests," it must be admitted that Klemer's action is reprehensible. No man has a right to charge another with gross misconduct unless he is able to produce reasonably certain proof to substantiate his charge. This Klemer has been unable to do. A man who makes an indiscriminate charge against a public official—a charge wholesale in its nature and not susceptible even to a modicum of proof—is guilty of vicious and exceedingly deplorable conduct—vicious because he seeks without justification to besmirch another's character; and deplorable because such charges, being neither provable or disprovable, instill in many minds unfounded and unjust suspicion against public officials.

The Correct Idea.

Greenbush Tribune: It has been decided by the appropriation committee of the legislature to allow no money to those who were unsuccessful in contesting the seats of the three state senators, and to allow the contestees only half what they claim. This is business.

Why High Tariff Men Oppose It.

Todd County Argus: Senator McCumber of North Dakota, opposes Canadian reciprocity on the ground that if it reduces the high cost of living as is claimed by its friends, then it must reduce the price of farm products. This would be a good point for the antis if the proposed agreement were to be the final settlement of the matter. The tariff has never made higher prices for farm products, but if kept in force until our population doubled and food should have to be imported then the price of food would certainly be enhanced in price. But this proposed agreement with Canada is only the beginning of tariff reduction. The high tariff men are all opposing it because they know that the adoption of this pact would be followed by a large reduction of taxes all along the line.

All Eyes on Eberhart.

Walker Pilot: On account of his promise of an extra session, at the development meeting last fall, all eyes that were on Brainerd at that time, are now glaring at Governor Eberhart.

Believes in the Rod.

Martin County Sentinel: No doubt there has been brutal treatment of the boys punished at the Red Wing state training school and the recent investigation will result in better conditions there. But it is well for the public to keep in mind that the inmates of the training school are boys whose parents or guardians found it impossible to manage and also that Solomon, the wisest of the ancients, declared that to spare the rod was to spoil the child.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A good resolution for married people to make is not to be any sorrier than they can help.

If a man has a dream in the night that he's rich, the next day he wants to spend some of it.

A man may know too much to love a girl, but not enough to keep her from making him tell her he does.

Anyhow, a woman knows enough about mathematics to figure out how many spring bonnets her husband's annual cigar bills would buy.

A man can realize that he is better at his own job than at somebody else's and yet have no doubt he knows more than the other fellow does about his.

Wonders.

Collier's: The atom, only a little while ago, was the final analysis of science. The radium came (discovered, with her husband, by a woman, by a woman to whom membership in the French academy has been refused), and science had to change its whole idea of the constitution of the universe. The atomic theory, on which we were all brought up, had to go. Centers of electric force now serve as the hypothesis in which the ultimate mystery is dressed. Science travels fast, and with every great discovery some former conclusions are thrown to the scrap heap. New suns are discovered by the thousand, and our world grows relatively smaller. Meantime, upon it, we fly; we force machinery to sow and reap and bear our burdens; we send messages in seconds around the earth; we telegraph without wires; we hear the human voice a thousand miles away; we make Caruso sing at one moment in the farmhouses of Iowa and the palaces of Fifth avenue. With all this there are things we can not do. We can not make a play like "Hamlet," or a building like the Paris Notre Dame, or a painting like the Madrid "Weavers," or a statute like those upon the Parthenon, or music like the symphonies of Beethoven. Man forges new weapons, discovers new secrets and improves the conditions of his life; but genius comes only when it will, and rarely.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

•••The McHale bill, which prohibits the wearing of tights on the stage in Minnesota, and compelling the use of at least a short skirt, passed the state senate yesterday.

•••W. E. Richardson and Frank A. Day have gone to Dodge Center, Iowa, to attend the annual meeting of the Wasiaja Stone company, of which Mr. Day is president.

•••The Lakeside Land company has sold its hotel at Lester Park to Mr. Lloyd of Tuscaloosa, Mich., brother of Capt. Joseph Lloyd of Duluth. He paid a little less than $15,000.

F. J. Cropsey is a very popular Minneapolis man who has recently decided to make Duluth his home.

•••S. L. Selden has been called to Augusta, Ga., by the serious illness of his brother-in-law, George W. Dickerman.

•••The Marinette Iron works at West Duluth has just received from its old works a big piece of machinery that has a history. It is tremendous lathe, and the company still uses it for turning up band mill wheels, though it is thirty years old. It is the identical piece of machinery on which the lathe work of the first Monitor, the original Ericsson cheese box on a raft, was done. It was at that time the property of the government and was purchased by Mr. Prescott and moved to Marinette.

•••The firemen at West Duluth have perfected an entirely new organization and have elected the following officers: President, S. S. Williamson; W. B. Getchell, vice president; E. W. McCormick, secretary; W. H. Short, treasurer. The officers of the active force are: W. H. Short, chief; A. W. McRae, assistant; Rev. William Moore, foreman of engine; W. B. Getchell, assistant; Ed. Oakes, foreman of hook and ladder; F. Patton, assistant; S. S. Williamson, engineer; W. Gallienne, assistant.

•••John J. Moe and family have come here from Dakota. Mr. Moe will establish a commission house at West Duluth.

•••Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dulaney, who were injured in the Pennsylvania wreck, will not be able to come to Duluth for six months or more. Both are still suffering from their injuries.

•••The Epworth league has subscribed $1,500 for the new First Methodist church.

•••R. K. McLeod, a former St. Paul fireman, is here to put a patent arrangement on the doors of the fire engine houses by which the doors will be shut as soon as the firemen depart for a fire.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

New York Sun: Lot's wife had just been turned to salt for looking back.

"Guess I'd better announce myself as a progressive," cried the crafty Lot.

Philadelphia Ledger: "Gertrude Atherton says to let the women smoke if they want to."

"Well, let it go at that. They won't smoke if they don't want to, and if they do want to, you can't stop 'em."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Your soldiers look fat and happy. You must have a war chest."

"Not exactly; but things are on a higher plane than they used to be. This revolution is being financed by a moving picture concern."

Chicago Tribune: "The trouble with a great many people," said Mrs. Lapsling, "is that they don't take the trouble to investigate deeply. They get merely a marsupial knowledge of a thing and let it go at that."

Philadelphia Record: "There shall be no marriage or giving in marriage in heaven," quoted the Wise Guy.

"That's pretty tough on the girl who thinks no man on earth is good enough for her," added the Simple Mug.

Washington Star: "We must have no sinecures," said the reformer.

"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, thoughtfully, "sometimes I'm in doubt as to which make the most trouble, the fellows with sinecures or those who work overtime getting in the way."

Brooklyn Eagle: "Why did you say you were going to serve your turkey a la comic paper?"

"It'll be stuffed with chestnuts."

Baltimore American: "Why did you name your dog Hamlet?"

"Because he is a Great Dane."

Red Hen: Scott—Any sleeping apartments in the club you belong to?

Mott—There's the reading room.

Atlanta Constitution: "That feller who is prayin' fer rain dunno what he's doin'."

"That's tough."

"'Course it is. Last time they prayed fer rain lightnin' come with it an' set fire to the best moonshine still in the country."

London Opinion: The Cynic—I suppose she is all the world to you?

The Lover—Not exactly; but she's all I want of it—5,000 acres and an Elizabethan mansion.

Puck: The Boss—Mr. Stubpen, when you came in this morning I detected a trace of liquor about your person.

The Bookkeeper—That's fine, sir! Fine! That shows how much better your cold is, sir.

Customer—Not for me. All my umbrellas have been entirely too attractive.

No Loser By Patience.

Youth's Companion: The irreproachable politeness of the late Edward VII of England was not only individual and relative to persons; it was human and general as well. Once at Marienbad his majesty and a few friends were having tea in a restaurant in the pine woods near the town. At a table close by, states the author of "The People's King," sat another party, the host of which was a well-known German prince.

The work of attending to the guests at both tables devolved upon a young English waitress, and the king did not fail to notice the rude, blustering manner of the royal German, who threatened to report the terrified girl every time she had occasion to answer his summons. Annoyed by this most unjustifiable behavior, the king said to Sir Stanley Clarke:

"You are to convey my thanks to the proprietor here for the prompt and admirable manner in which my party has been served at this restaurant."

The command was instantly obeyed, much to the disgust of the adjoining table, a disgust which was intensified when the king gave the timid young waitress a gold piece.

Good Winter for Rabbit Hunters.

Genesco correspondence Rochester Post Express: This winter will go down as a record breaking season for rabbit hunters. For the first time in a number of years the use of ferrets was allowed.

Nelliss Swart of Groveland leads this locality for the number of rabbits secured. He lives in a rabbit infested neighborhood and secured a score or more within a quarter of a mile of his house. He killed over 100 of them and then was forced to desist because rabbit meat had become such a monotony that he and his friends could no longer endure it. Ralph Boothe took over fifty, but quit the sport before the last snow for the same reason as Swarts.

County Jails and Idleness.

Beverly Robinson in The Survey: In all our county jails idleness is probably the worst punishment to which criminals are forced to submit. How provide work for them? That is the great problem.

It is certain, however, if sheriffs were men of the proper stamp, far more could be done to keep men, women and boys occupied than is done at present in all our jails. But what hope is there to get other than political heelers appointed as sheriffs? The law of the state of New York states in regard to sheriffs, article X, section 1, "An act depriving the sheriff of the custody and control of the county jail and the prisoners therein is unconstitutional, etc., according to the law as amended to Jan. 1, 1910, and now in force.

"Sheriffs shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties once in every three years," etc. In two counties, of which New York is one, sheriffs are chosen every two or four years.

To complete one of the greatest evils of idleness in jails, I need only cite from the New York Sun, which states apropos of the Essex county penitentiary, New Jersey:

"When the prisoners are at work their earnings go to those who are dependent on them. Eighteen or twenty of the cases of destitution that have reached the charitable societies of Essex county each month are those of families of men confined in the penitentiary."

In addition, that idleness has an obvious bad effect upon the health, moral and physical, of all prisoners is apparent to the average inspector, or visitor, if he has only very moderate intelligence and sympathy.

Stubbs Vetoed It.

Emporia Gazette: The editor of this valued palladium of public liberties trudged to Topeka, got the attorney general to write a bill, concerning second class cities; log-rolled and pork-barreled it through the senate, whipsawed and side-stitched it through the house, and then came home. It was a good bill. It provided that when two or more commissioners are to be elected in a Kansas town, that each candidate shall designate just what part of the commission he aspires to, so that the people may know, when they are voting for a man, whether or not he desires to be finance commissioner, utilities commissioner or what not. That would prevent two good men who aspire for different jobs on the commission running against one another on a blind ballot.

Then what happened? Why, that red-headed autocrat who was lately off the section, who drives the flannel-mouthed micks of the legislature to work with pick handles—vetoed it. Thoughtfully, you think of that. Vetoed the bill; killed it dead; squashed its gory remains with a side swipe of his pen, and left a winter's work undone.

The next time that slab-sided Quaker turns an emergency call for help into this office he will find a moccasin over the receiver, a blanket upon the alarm box and the harp that once through Tara's hall the soul of music shed hanging unstrung upon the lever of the linotype.

Two Passion Players Are Married.

Washington Herald: Berlin—Thousands of Americans who admired her sympathetic impersonation at Oberammergau last summer will be interested in learning that Fraulein Ottilie Zwink, who played the role of the Virgin, has just married. Her husband is a young fellow player named Bauer, a son of the famous burgomaster of Oberammergau, Sebastian Bauer, who gave so powerful a representation of Pontius Pilate. Fraulein Zwink, who is a daughter of the incomparable Judas Iscariot, Johannes Zwink, the housepainter of Oberammergau, will never again be permitted to portray the Virgin, because the role is given only to an unmarried woman.

WEIGHTS MUST BE THROWN AWAY

Converted Man Must Start on Race Without Bad Habits.

This is a nation of backsliders, according to "Conductor Jim" Burwick of Two Harbors, who addressed the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Every man has been converted at some time in his life and has had the desire to lead a Christian life, said the speaker, but many have fallen away.

Mr. Burwick says that many people are apparently converted by evangelists, but that they do not throw away their weights in preparing for the race. They do not drop smoking, drinking and evil associates and those weights hamper them so that they drop by the wayside after they have apparently gained a good start on the straight and narrow road to salvation. He said he didn't know of the successful conversion of a drunkard unless the man was also cured of smoking.

Despite the fact that beautiful spring weather prevailed, a good crowd heard the speaker. Miss Ruth Brown was the soloist.

OWNER OF EIGHTY-EIGHT STORES PREDICTS GOOD YEAR.

John Gately, proprietor of the Gately store in Duluth, as well as eighty-eight others scattered throughout the United States, was in Duluth Saturday.

Mr. Gately's home is in Chicago. He makes several sweeps around the circuit of stores owned by the Gately company each year. The visit Saturday was the second call he has made in Duluth during the past year.

On the present trip Mr. Gately is visiting the Minnesota and Michigan cities in which his company has stores. He left Duluth Saturday evening for Calumet, Mich., from which place he will go to other Michigan towns.

Mr. Gately is very proud of the record of the Duluth store. While he is interested in a great many other cities, he is a good booster for the Zenith City, and wherever he happens to be he usually gets in a good word for the city at the Head of the Lakes.

He says that while the 1911 season has been a trifle slow in opening up, prospects look bright for a busy and profitable season in all lines of business.

DULL DAYS IN STREET

New York Brokers Not Making Office Expenses These Days.

Duluth Not Only City Where the Brokers Are Idle.

The following special dispatch from New York to the Chicago Tribune may afford some consolation to brokers and their customers in Duluth:

"An agent for a local charity organization recently called on the head of a prominent stock exchange house who had been a patron of his society, but who had not turned in his regular subscription. Expressing some surprise that the Wall street man had not responded to several appeals for money, the solicitor was met with this reply:

"You ask why I have not sent in my regular yearly contribution. Come with me into the backroom and I will tell you." He led the agent to that part of the office where the working force was. The solicitor saw there a dozen men standing around doing nothing.

"That's my charity this year," said the stock exchange member. I don't need a third of these men for the business we are doing, or have been doing the last six or eight months, but I am continuing them because they have been with me for a good many years and it would be impossible for them to get employment anywhere else."

Whole Street in Distress.

This is only one of the many places of what may be called the distress of Wall street in 1911. No years since 1893 and 1894 have seen such small pickings for the broker as this. Coming after nine months of dull business in 1910, when the only activity was in declining markets—"butcher business," as brokers call it—the days and weeks of low average transactions have quietly weeded out hundreds of clerks and high-class employes from Wall street offices.

There have been many periods of dullness in the financial district, but none so protracted as the one that is now agonizing members of the stock exchange and their forces. On only one day in the last six weeks have the transactions been above 400,000 shares, and the average during this period is not much over 250,000 shares daily. This business has to be dividedd among 1,200 members, and several hundred different firms, whose running expenses range from $10,000 to $350,000 per annum.

Some of these firms employ in their New York offices alone 75 to 100 clerks. The smallest of them ought to do 500 shares of business daily to pay operating expenses, while the largest cannot make a profit unless they buy and sell for their customers from 7,000 to 10,000 shares a day.

Fail to Make Expenses.

It has frequently been the experience of dozens of houses that they have not transacted a business of 100 shares a day. The house, whose expenses are said to be the largest in Wall street, recently did only 25,000 shares in a week. One prominent house, which has expensive branches all over the country, thought itself fortunate one day recently to do 100 shares of "floor" business, on which its commission was $2, but a mistake in its clearing house sheet, in entering the transaction, brought it a fine of $10.

Hard luck stories are the topic of the day in these dull times in the street. Men who have served continuously with one firm for a quarter of a century have been let out since the first of the year with perhaps a month's salary in advance to soften the pain.

An office manager for an important firm, who had been drawing $15,000 a year, was first reduced to $10,000, and finally asked to resign, as the business he brought to his firm, with speculation at present low ebb, did not produce enough commissions to pay half his salary. One office discharged thirty employes in a day.

Relative to their expenses and style of living, the distress among the brokers themselves is as great as with their employes. Stock exchange seats have not suffered in price as much as one might expect. They are now at $68,000, compared with $75,000 to $80,000 in the early part of 1910, when business was more normal.

BANANA HABIT IS GROWING ONE

Four Thousand Million Imported Into United States in 1910.

Washington, April 10.—Four thousand million bananas were imported into the United States in the calendar year 1910. The banana habit is a growing one in the United States. In the early '80s the value of bananas imported, according to the figures of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, ranged between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 per annum; by 1890 the value had increased to $4,500,000, in the fiscal year of 1900 to nearly $6,000,000, and in the calendar year 1910 to practically $12,500,000. The rapid growth in this class of importations led the bureau of statistics a few years ago to call upon collectors of customs for the quantity as well as the value imported, and the figures of quantities, beginning with the year 1908, showed for that year 35,750,000 bunches; in 1909, 39,500,000, and in 1910, a little over 40,000,000 bunches were imported. Assuming that these average 100 bananas to the bunch, a figure which the importers state to be a conservative estimate, the total number imported in 1910 would aggregate approximately 4,000,000,000 bananas.

AKED'S FAREWELL.

Pastor of Fifth Avenue Church Preaches There for Last Time.

New York, April 10.—The Rev. Dr. Charles F. Aked, after four years of service here, delivered his farewell sermon at the Fifth avenue Baptist church yesterday, and will leave for San Francisco today to assume the pastorate of the First Congregational church. A thousand persons crowded into the church, which normally holds 600 and a special squad of police had to be called to restrain the hundreds outside. Moist eyes and hand-shaking followed the sermon.

Dr. Aked referred to President Taft as the "inspired leader" in the cause of international peace. "Let us thank God," he said, "for William Howard Taft, president of the United States, for his inspired leadership in the cause of international peace. In doing so he has taken rank with the greatest benefactors of the human race. Great Britain is aroused to reciprocate the good will of the president of the United States and will speak with a single voice.

"Glory and honor to the two greatest nations of the world who shall lead the world in the way of age long peace. Let us dream with Mr. Taft of a treaty making for international brotherhood. Let us dream with Andrew Carnegie the biggest, boldest, bravest dream that mortal man ever dared to dream—the federation of the English-speaking people of the earth."

ALL BODIES RECOVERED FROM PANCOAST MINE.

Scranton, Pa., April 10.—Every nook and cranny in the workings of the Pancoast mine where the seventy-three miners and United States Rescue Foreman Joseph M. Evans lost their lives Friday has been gone over by squads of searchers since to discover, if possible, if there were other bodies to be found, but none were discovered.

Don't Eat All Your Salary

Eat the simple, nourishing, inexpensive foods and you will be the gainer in health and pocket. The "cost of living" generally means the high cost of things you do not need. The high-protein foods cost the most, are the hardest to digest and hence the least nutritious in the long run.

Cut out heavy meats and soggy pastries for awhile and eat Shredded Wheat, the ready-cooked, ready-to-serve whole wheat food which supplies all the material needed for building the perfect human body. In Shredded Wheat you have the phosphates for bone and brain, carbohydrates for heat and fat, the nitrates for building muscle, and the outer bran coat for keeping the bowels healthy and active.

Shredded Wheat is the whole wheat—the most perfect food given to man—steam-cooked, shredded and baked in the cleanest, finest food factory in the world.

Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits for breakfast with milk or cream and a little fruit make a complete, nourishing meal, supplying all the strength needed for a half day's work at a cost of five or six cents. Your grocer sells them.

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat wafer—a crisp, tasty, nourishing whole wheat Toast, delicious for any meal with butter, cheese or marmalades. Always toast it in the oven before serving.

WANT BOND ISSUE FOR NORTH SHORE ROAD.

C. H. Carhart of Grand Marais, sheriff of Cook county, who was in Duluth today, said the citizens of Cook county are interested in the proposed lake shore automobile road, and that the Commercial club of Grand Marais has adopted a resolution urging the county commissioners to call a special election authorizing a bond issue of $60,000 to build the road along the lake shore in Cook county.

The proposed road, said Mr. Carhart, will extend eighty miles in Cook county. Port Arthur citizens indicate that they will build a road fifteen miles to connect with the one in Cook county.

The sheriff said settlers are coming into Cook county in increasing numbers, and that the Commercial club of Grand Marais is advertising the agricultural resources of the country to the world.

MARCH BUSINESS LARGE.

Steel Corporation Booked 1,000,000 Tons Finished Steel.

New York, April 10. — The Steel corporation subsidiary companies booked orders for approximately 1,000,000 tons of finished products in March, and the prospect is that April contracts will be equally as large, although prospective railroad orders for equipment were not encouraging.

The shipments of finished material in March were heavy, especially of light products, the distribution of wire being record-breaking. It is announced that the Chilean battleship will be constructed in American yards. The steel requirements are 8,000 tons.

Since April 1 rail contracts have slightly exceeded 100,000 tons, including 72,000 tons for the Harriman Pacific lines, 15,000 tons for the Seaboard Air Line.

Contracts for 5,000 cars are pending. Railroads closed for 7,000 tons of bridge material, including 4,000 tons for the Great Northern. Total fabricated orders, including buildings and bridges, aggregated 25,000 tons.

April made a poor start in the pig iron trade, total contracts in all sections being less than 70,000 tons, but improvement was noted late in the week. The output of pig iron today is at the rate of nearly 26,000,000 tons annually. The increase in the March production of nearly 6,600 tons per day was entirely by Steel companies.

PHILBIN RETURNS FROM CUBAN TRIP.

D. M. Philbin, superintendent of the Great Northern road, has returned from a trip through Cuba. Mrs. Philbin stopped in New York and will return home later.

Mr. Philbin visited the hull of the Maine, and he returns convinced that the Spaniards did not blow up the battleship. The raising of the wreck, he said, will determine who destroyed the Maine. The Spaniards in Cuba do not seem concerned over the revelations that may be made by the raising of the hulk.

Mr. Philbin said that Charles H. F. Ward, a former Duluthian, is the clerk at the Hotel Inglaterra, where Mr. and Mrs. Philbin stayed while in Havana.

FRIENDS COME TO MRS. BOUDREAU'S AID.

Neighbors and friends are coming to the aid of Mrs. Nick Boudreau, who was removed to her home at 508½ Third alley west Saturday from St. Luke's hospital. She was shot by her husband a week ago Friday night.

Thinking that he had killed her, he committed suicide by sending a bullet through his right temple. Mrs. Boudreau has been supporting herself and three children by taking in washing, but in her weakened condition she will be unable to do any hard work for some time to come. Mrs. E. Hallock of 516 West Second street has volunteered to handle any contributions which may be made and to turn them over to the Boudreau family.

OVER HALF A MILLION IS PAID FOR "THE MILL."

Philadelphia, April 10.—The report from London that Peter A. B. Widener of this city had purchased "The Mill," the celebrated painting by Rembrandt, was confirmed by Mr. Widener's office here yesterday. The price paid, it was said, was slightly in excess of $500,000.

Prior to the sale of "The Mill" by Lord Lansdowne, an option was given until March 31 to the trustees of the British National Gallery. A private subscription fund had raised only $89,240 when the option expired.

SOCIALISTS WILL CELEBRATE MAY 1.

Duluth Socialists are planning to celebrate the Socialists' international holiday, May 1, with a big parade, to start at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, and a mass meeting.

The parade will start at the court house and proceed through the principal streets to the hall which will be secured for the mass meeting. Other labor organizations will be asked to join, as will the Socialists of other nearby towns. Addresses will be made by the leading Socialist orators of the city.

Rome, April 10.—A slight earth shock was felt here this morning. It caused some alarm in the city, but apparently no damage was done.

S.S.S. A REAL CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

So simple a thing as cloths dipped in hot water and applied to an aching joint, will often temporarily relieve the acute pains of Rheumatism. But everyone knows that such treatment would never permanently cure the trouble.

The usual cause of Rheumatism comes from weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, etc., forming impure accumulations in the system. These sour and ferment, causing uric acid, which is absorbed from the stomach and intestines into the blood. This causes a partial fermentation of the circulation, which changes it from a thick, rich fluid to a thin, acrid stream, depositing inflammatory matter into the muscles, nerves, and joints. The longer the blood is allowed to remain in this impure condition the more severe will Rheumatism become. Gradually the muscles harden and lose their elasticity, the joints begin to stiffen, and frequently calculous deposits form knots at the finger joints.

I had Rheumatism for twenty years, sometimes being entirely laid up by it. It grew worse until my right knee was nearly twice its natural size, and was drawn up considerably shorter than the other one. A friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I commenced. Before I had been using it long I was greatly relieved, and continuing the medicine I soon found that I was entirely cured. MRS. IDA M. PALMER. 196 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

While at work in the swampy regions of Southeast Georgia, I contracted Rheumatism, and was completely helpless for about 4 months, and spent over $150.00 with doctors, but got worse every day, and finally quit them and began S. S. S. I took several bottles, and was cured sound and well. My health is now splendid, and I weigh 175 pounds. I can recommend S. S. S. to all suffering from Rheumatism. S. C. LASSITER. Thomasville, N. C.

There is just one way to CURE Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid poison. S. S. S., by removing every particle of the cause and PURIFYING the blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. eliminates the uric acid because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It filters out every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated blood, furnishes the material for multiplying the rich, nutritious corpuscles of the circulation, and by its fine tonic effects assists the system to rapidly overcome the effects of the disease. CHEAP, FERTILE FARM LANDS SURROUND THIS HIGH-PRICED MARKET

BY GEORGE REID.

Hibbing wants farmers. The richest community for its size in the world, with cheap, fertile farm lands outside the iron belt and within easy driving distance of the city, has to pay the highest of prices for all kinds of farm produce, much of which is brought in by way of Duluth, eighty-four miles distant. Meanwhile, all about the city are the finest of farm lands, awaiting clearing and the touch of the plow to produce bountiful harvests and rich profits for farmers.

Farmers who have settled on these lands are all doing well. They are raising everything that can be raised anywhere in the temperate zone. The biggest profits are being made in dairying and truck gardening. Some of the most successful of these farmers made their start in business in Hibbing and decided that the biggest profits on capital were to be made from intelligent tilling of the soil.

Picture to yourself a city of nearly 9,000 population, drawing retail trade from 20,000 people, including farmers within a radius of twenty miles, with a wholesale trade covering Northern Minnesota, paying into the state treasury 50 per cent more taxes than the city of Duluth, which has nearly ten times the population of Hibbing, with only a farmer here and there on the rich lands lying fallow all about, with not only Hibbing but all of the Mesaba iron range, of which Hibbing is the metropolis, to feed. Imagine to yourself a farmer like E. C. Chapman, who got 50 cents a dozen for his fresh eggs all winter and 35 to 50 cents a pound for his dairy butter, and for other products proportionate prices. Wouldn't you like to be a farmer near Hibbing?

It is beyond dispute that Hibbing for its size is the richest community in the world. For the purpose of state taxation the village of Hibbing this year has an assessed valuation of $60,352,511, against $41,385,224 for Duluth—and Duluth is a wealthy city. Hibbing has a larger, handsomer and costlier city hall than Duluth and its school houses and other public buildings are in keeping. These buildings would do justice to a city of 100,000 people. No other city of its size in the country has a paid fire department and fire fighting equipment equal to Hibbing's. Its police department will compare favorably with other places three times as big. No other city has better public schools nor better city government—city government that the vast majority of the voters and taxpayers want. Hibbing has the only real theater on the range, splendid, modern, seating 1,100 people and playing many of the best attractions that appear in Duluth. Hibbing has moving picture shows and the best semi-professional baseball team in the Northwest. It will have this year the best county fair in Northern Minnesota. It boasts of automobiles and some of the fastest horses in the state. It has the best lightweight boxer in the Northwest, who may become world's champion. In fact, Hibbing has almost everything to make its residents happy except a sufficiency of farmers. And these will come to this section in ever increasing numbers as fast as they learn the facts.

Duly Farmers Are Needed.

Hibbing has all of the merchants it needs. The same is true of doctors, lawyers and other professional men. The high wages of the mines for workers does away with any chance of a labor famine. What Hibbing wants worst, will welcome and encourage in every way possible, are men of brawn and brain who can till the soil intelligently and make of this the garden spot which nature destined it to be.

In the years to come farm values in the Hibbing district will rise with the rapidity that business and residence property in Hibbing has experienced. Lots worth a few hundreds a few years ago are now worth thousands. Farms which are developed will not only produce a splendid living for their owners but will become more valuable year by year.

Hibbing itself is very circumscribed in its limits, because great open mines surround it on three sides. It can only expand to the south and this it is doing at a rapid rate. Additions to the city are sold almost as fast as they are platted for homes for the workers, for rents in the city itself are high and an empty house or flat is almost unheard of. The tax rate, however, is very low, being only 11.5 mills, so that every workman can afford to own his own home.

An adequate idea of the immense deposits of iron ore in the village of Hibbing and adjacent thereto can only be had by consulting the map appearing on the next page, which gives the tonnage of every mine and every ore property in the Hibbing district as appraised for purpose of taxation by the state. It will be seen from this map that Hibbing is the center of the richest mining district in the world. Its iron mines yield more richly than the diamond fields of South Africa or the gold fields of Alaska. The value of the ore mined each year in St. Louis county is three times that of all the gold mined in the United States. And experts figure that the agricultural resources of this county, when developed, will produce even more dollars than its iron mines. These facts are worthy the consideration of thinking farmers everywhere.

High-Priced City Officers Without Pay.

Some of the most useful men in the city government of Hibbing serve practically without pay. They include physicians who lead their profession, mining superintendents and engineers, and business men. But those who devote their full time to the city's service are well paid, for the cost of living in Hibbing is high, due to the dearth of farmers. Only recently the salary of every man in the police and fire departments was increased to keep pace with the high cost of living. No other city pays its school teachers better and as a result Hibbing's rank with the best in the state.

The city owns its own water and electric plant. By its excellent administration of these two most necessary adjuncts to modern life it supplies cheap water of the utmost purity and the cheapest electric current in the state, charging only 7 cents per kilowatt hour to all consumers and discounting down to as low as 5 cents to large consumers, against a flat rate of 15 cents in Virginia and 10 cents in Eveleth. The water rates run from $1.65 to $2.50 per quarter, which is low. Meters are in for water but are not in use. Residents use all the water they want and pay the one price. The city is using 600 gallons of water a minute and has a supply of 1,100 gallons a minute, and a storage capacity underground of 400,000 gallons which can be drawn upon. Three mining superintendents, among the best on the range, constitute the water and light board, and give the city services free that could not be duplicated each year for thousands of dollars.

The mayor of Hibbing has given the city such satisfactory government that he has been elected six times. He is serving his fifth term, having declined to serve one of the terms for which he was elected. He has kept good men, like the heads of the fire and police departments, in office year after year and succeeded in getting their salaries raised recently to keep them when other cities offered larger salaries for their expert services.

The Hibbing Commercial club is an important factor in the city's affairs, leading and directing every movement for the general welfare. It is the Commercial club which is conducting the campaign to acquaint farmers everywhere with the wonderful agricultural possibilities in the country tributary to Hibbing.

Fire and Police Departments.

Hibbing thinks it has the best fire and police departments of any town of its size anywhere and its neighboring cities and towns do not seem disposed to dispute this claim, it has a fire fighting force and equipment on the lines of big cities. The firemen are perfectly drilled and while I was in Hibbing they responded to an alarm several blocks distant from the two fire houses in the incredibly short time of 42 seconds. And it was well they did, for the fire was in one of a solid block of frame structures. Only their prompt action saved the city from a disastrous blaze. Hibbing spends money freely on its fire department, but it is money well spent, since there has not been a serious fire in years.

Hibbing has two fire houses. No. 1 and fire headquarters are in the city hall building. The equipment consists of two first-grade Lafrance combination wagons, one double hose wagon, two hose wagons, two chemical engines and one hook and ladder truck. All of this equipment and fifteen trained firemen respond to each alarm. The chief of the department receives $160 a month salary, electrician, $99; captains, $96; lieutenants, $85 and drivers, $90. This is the same scale as is paid in Superior. Following are the members of the department: Chief, Charles McIlhargey; electrician and acting captain, August Bletau; captains, No. 1 engine house, Frank Hurst; No. 2 engine house, Edward Brown; lieutenants Chester Brockway and Fred Loomer; pipemen, Marion Henry, Edward Stone, Edward Nicholson, Alfred Green, William King and Angelo Mila; drivers, Dominick Bretto, Dennis Hurst and Robert Hayward.

Peter Wring has been chief of the police department for a number of years and has brought it to an exceptionally high state of efficiency. Most of the men composing his staff have been on the force five or six years and thoroughly understand their duties. "Rough necks" have great respect for the Hibbing policemen and rarely resist when it is necessary to place them under arrest. As for crooks, they have all heard of Chief Wring and his men and make a detour around Hibbing.

The chief of police is paid a salary of $150 a month and each of the other members of the force, $95. Besides the chief the police department is made up as follows: Secretary, C. E. Everett, who is the chief's right-hand man; night turnkey, S. J. Bowden; patrolmen, A. P. Belanger, Albert Breider, Frank Haben, Thomas Killorin, D. A. McCloud, T. J. Moore, Eric Nord, Peter Ryan, David Williams; special, Frank Corey at Brooklyn. This makes a total of twelve men.

Much Care Taken for the Public Health.

Hibbing jealously guards the public health, through its health board, and as a result is a healthy and pleasant place in which to live. What farm products are raised in the neighborhood of Hibbing are the very best. For instance, the other day tests were made of the milk supplied to Hibbing by the various dairies. The state requires that milk shall show at least 3½ per cent of butter fats. All of the milk analyzed at Hibbing showed from 4 to 6 per cent of butter fats. That indicates the richness of Northern Minnesota grasses and root crops, and shows what kind of a dairy country this is.

While the city is incorporated as the Village of Hibbing it is one of the liveliest and best cities in the state in all except name. Its government is that of a city in most every respect. The officials of the city, in addition to those who have been named, are as follows: Dr. H. R. Weirick, president; A. H. Kleffman, recorder; William Wearne, W. C. Barrett and J. J. Cox, trustees; (the five men named compose the council, which really runs the city); Thomas F. Brady, municipal judge; Miss Rose Silk, clerk of the municipal court; J. L. Stewart, city accountant; Robert Stratton, attorney; Dennis Haley, treasurer; John Winberg, street commissioner; board of water, light and power commissioners, H. A. Angst, W. J. West and William Wearne, chairman; Charles Rinn, superintendent water and light plant; board of health, Dr. B. S. Adams, chairman; T. J. Godfrey and M. F. Flannagan; assistant health officer, Samuel Harris; health inspector, Leroy Morris. The Hibbing Daily Tribune is the official newspaper.

R. W. Hitchcock is the editor and publisher of The Hibbing Daily Tribune, which is the only daily paper on the range. The Tribune is twelve years old. For two years it was a semi-weekly and for the last year and a half has appeared daily. It will compare favorably with daily papers in any community of its size and is popular with the people of Hibbing. The same is true of The Mesaba Ore, which is recognized as one of the best weekly papers in Minnesota, and whose editor, Claude M. Atkinson, is one of the ablest and most forceful writers in the state. Mr. Atkinson's son, Marc, is "a chip of the old block" and has been raised in a printing office. When he reached his majority recently his father took him into partnership and The Mesaba Ore is now published by Atkinson & Son. The son promises to become as famous as his father. Both newspapers maintain first-class job printing plants and each has a typesetting machine.

HIBBING CITY HALL, THE FINEST IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA.

Splendid Public Schools.

School district No. 27, which includes the village of Hibbing, covers six and a quarter townships and has an assessed valuation of more than $100,000,000, a valuation nearly twice as great as that of the Duluth school district.

There are three large school buildings in Hibbing proper—the Lincoln high school, costing about $100,000; the Jefferson costing $60,000, and containing twelve classrooms, and the Washington, erected last year at a cost of $125,000. The latter building has twenty classrooms and nine rooms in the basement, which are temporarily used for manual training work. There are forty-five teachers in Hibbing and an enrollment of 1,498 pupils.

The district also has thirteen schools outside of the village limits, as follows: Brooklyn, Kitzville, Alice, all four-room brick buildings, erected this year; Pool, Leonidas, Carrington, Stevenson, Mahoning, Glen, Penobscot, Kelley Lake, Little Swan and Brown's, all being frame buildings containing one to four rooms. Stevenson is eight miles west, Little Swan sixteen miles south, Glen four miles east and the village limits of Chisholm and Brown's twelve miles north, so the superintendent's livery bills are heavy. These thirteen schools have thirty teachers and an enrollment of 680 pupils, making a total enrollment for the district of 2,178 pupils.

There are more than twenty countries or divisions of Europe represented in the schools—Sweden, Finland, Italy, England, Germany, Ireland, France, Norway, Austria, Holland, Belgium, Scotland, Hungary, Bohemia, Russia, Switzerland, Poland, Sicily and Greece.

It was recognized by the school board that the strongest possible teachers are needed for a school population like this and two years ago, when a vacancy occurred in the superintendency, they hired Herbert Blair, who for six years had been an instructor in the State Normal of Duluth, to act as superintendent, giving him authority to hire the best possible teachers, paying the salaries that would bring them to Hibbing. Mr. Blair firmly believes that the public schools will be improved only when better trained grade teachers are employed. While in the Duluth normal he was granted a year's leave of absence and spent the entire time studying the common schools of Germany, visiting the normal schools, city systems, village systems and one-room rural schools. It was impressed upon him that the average grade teacher in Germany is as well trained as the average school superintendent here and receives about as good a salary as a superintendent here, compared to the wages paid carpenters, plumbers and other skilled artisans of all kinds. That, in brief, Germany has better schools than we have in America, because she pays for better schools.

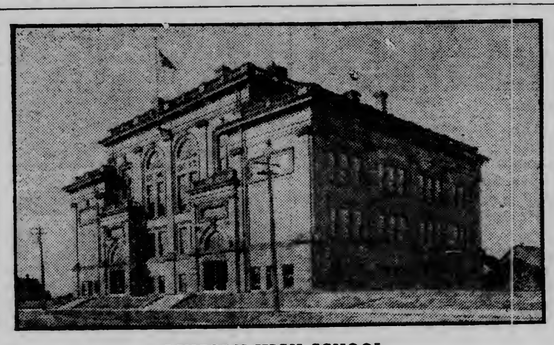
Thirty-six University Graduates.

Having convinced the Hibbing school board that better teachers were necessary, Mr. Blair proceeded to find them. Two years ago Hibbing had six teachers who were university graduates. There are now thirty-six teachers with this training, most of whom are normal trained as well. They have proved in Hibbing, at least to their own satisfaction, that university graduates who have not had the normal school training are not as successful in grade work as teachers who have only had half as long a course in a normal.

The effect upon the pupils of having these specially trained teachers in the grades has been very marked. Two years ago there were 375 pupils in the first grade. This year there are but 300, but the third and fourth grades have over 200 pupils each this year, compared to but 100 in each grade two years ago. The eighth grade enrollment has increased from 43 to 115 in the same length of time and the first year in high school now enrolls ninety-three pupils, whereas only forty enrolled two years ago. This increase of pupils in the upper grades, Mr. Blair feels, is due almost entirely to the excellent work done by the well-trained grade teachers.

No account of the Hibbing schools would be complete without mention of the night school. This is attended mainly by the foreign laborers who desire to learn the English language. The average attendance during the early winter months was more than 300, and it was a problem finding rooms for the twenty-five classes into which they were divided. Two classes were in the auditorium, three in the assembly hall and four in the halls and on stair landings. The reputation of the Hibbing night school seems to have reached even to New York, for in an article on the teaching of foreigners in the June Survey the writer, Miss Sarah Wool Moore of the New York Society for Italian Immigrants, among other things had the following: "A committee [on night school work] would be necessary. Its task would involve much consultation and thought. There should be an assembling and comparison of facts and opinions from Maine to California. The school boards of Hibbing, Minn., of Chicago, Lowell, Pittsburg and Boston would be able to contribute valuable points."

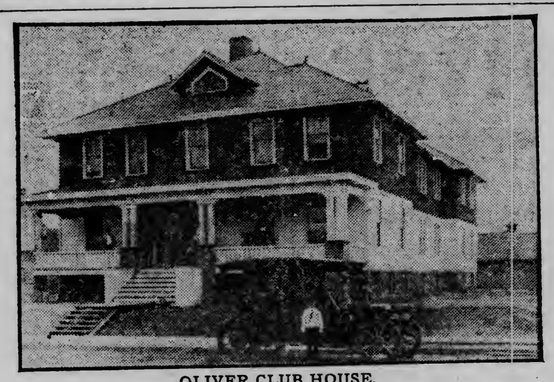
Dr. A. E. Winship, editor for many years of the Boston Journal of Education, visited the Hibbing schools recently and found many things that they do not have in Boston. In his issue of March 30 he devoted more than a page to an editorial on the excellent school work done at Hibbing.



LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL.

The members of the school board which is doing so much for education in the Hibbing district are: G. H. Thompson, president; J. A. Redfern, treasurer; Scott L. Holtslander, clerk; T. J. Godfrey and E. C. Kleffman. Until recently Judge Martin Hughes was a valued member of the board, but was compelled to resign owing to the press of his judicial duties. His successor has not yet been chosen.

Hibbing has quite a number of churches of various denominations.



OLIVER CLUB HOUSE.

There are two of the Roman Catholic faith, the M. E. church, the Swedish Lutheran church, the Finnish Lutheran church, the Swedish M. E. church, the Presbyterian church and the Protestant Episcopal church. These congregations have good church buildings. Other congregations holding meetings but not yet having their own buildings are the German Lutherans, the Jewish people and the Christian Scientists.

There are two large Finnish temperance societies, each of which has its own building and hall. The Socialists also have a hall under the organization of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The Masonic order has its own brick building on Third avenue, opposite the Carnegie library, in the newer section of Hibbing. The Algonquin club, an exclusive social organization, has quarters in Center street. The Oliver clubhouse is pictured on this page, or the next succeeding page. Membership in this club is limited to employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company. The Elks have a large membership in Hibbing and are planning to erect a $25,000 clubhouse.

The United States census, taken nearly a year ago, gives the village of Hibbing a population of 8,832, and Stunz township, in which Hibbing is located and which does all its trading in Hibbing, an additional 5,577, or a total of 14,409. During the last year at least 3,000 has been added to the population of the Hibbing district, not a few of these farmers. A farming community at Little Swan, south of Hibbing, and farmers clear out to the Bear River, twenty miles away, sell their produce and do their trading in Hibbing. Some of the leading men of Hibbing, including Frank Ansley, H. Antonelli and A. E. Dyer, have gone into farming. The farming operations of the three men named are told about on succeeding pages of this issue. This year $50,000 out of $138,000 paid in by the district will be spent by St. Louis county in improving the roads in this section the coming summer, which will make it easier for the farmers to get to market.

Mines of the Hibbing District.

First of all the mines in the Hibbing district comes the Hull-Rust and Mahoning open mines, which are depicted in the big panoramic picture printed herewith. The Hull-Rust mines and the Mahoning mines are operated by different corporations, the Oliver Iron Mining company operating the Hull-Rust and the Mahoning Iron & Steel company the Mahoning mine. Other mines in the district operated by the Oliver company are the Sellers-Burt-Pool, an open pit; Morris, an open pit; Winifred, Harold and Mace, underground mines; Mississippi, Dale, Uno, Pillsbury, Leonard and Monroe, open pits. The Oliver company's Glenn is a shaft and so is the Myers. These are the principal properties operated by the Oliver company.

The independent mining companies are big operators in the Hibbing district, as I showed in my review of the range which appeared in The Herald on Feb. 13 last. The Pickands-Mather company operates the Albany and the Utica mines, underground mining properties, and in conjunction with the Lackawanna Steel company, the Scranton underground mine. The Rogers-Brown Ore company operates the Buffalo and Susquehanna underground mine, which is being stripped.

In the Stevenson mine Corrigan, McKinney & Co. have both an open pit and an underground mine. The Shenango Furnace company operates the Webb and Shenango, both of which are open pit and underground. The Inland Steel company operates the Laura; the Wisconsin Steel company operates the Agnew, an open pit. Capt. Joseph Sellwood of Duluth, president of the City National bank, operates the Cypress, an open pit. The Todd-Stambaugh company's mine, the Morton, is underground. The Republic Iron & Steel company operates the Bray, open pit and underground.

The Jones & Laughlins Steel company operates the Longyear, which is to be stripped; the Nassau, also underground, which is to be stripped; and the Leetonia, underground and open pit. The Meriden Iron company operates the Pierce, underground, and the Maderia Iron company the Maderia, at least 3,000 has been added to the also an underground mine. The Pittsburg Iron Ore company operates the Croxton mine, which is both open and underground.

The principal stripping companies are the Drake & Stratton company, the Winston & Dear company and Butler Brothers. The two former companies have headquarters at Hibbing and the Butler Brothers at Buhl, a few miles away. The principal drillers of the district are the E. J. Longyear company, the Carlson Exploration company and A. P. Silliman, each of whom has a handsome brick building in Hibbing.

Offices are maintained in Hibbing by the following mining companies, which employ large numbers of engineers and other high salaried men: Oliver Iron Mining company, Pickands-Mather company, Rogers-Brown Ore company, Corrigan, McKinney & Co., Shenango Furnace company, Mahoning Ore & Steel company, Great Northern Ore properties, Inland Steel company, Wisconsin Steel company, Todd-Stambaugh company, Republic Iron & Steel company, Jones & Loughlins Steel company, Meriden Iron company, and the Interstate Iron company.

How Farming Pays Here.

It would take pages of this newspaper to do justice to the agricultural possibilities in Northern Minnesota and I shall not attempt the task. I am going to let E. C. Chapman tell you about it briefly. He is one of the most successful and one of the wealthiest farmers in the Hibbing section. He has a 500-acre farm and several hundred additional acres under lease. He fattened and sold 105 head of cattle on Northern Minnesota's rich wild grasses last fall. He has bought five houses in Hibbing and has money in bank to buy more.

Mr. Chapman is a native of New York state. He was born on a farm. He has been in every state in the Union except one. He is conversant with agricultural conditions in every part of the country, and he declares, without qualification, that Northern Minnesota today offers more to the farmer than any other part of the United States. Mr. Chapman is 60 years of age, but strong and active. He regrets that he did not come to Northern Minnesota forty years ago.

In 1902 Mr. Chapman settled on 320 acres of wild land in the township of Fern, nineteen miles northeast of Hibbing. Today you can ride in an automobile from Hibbing right up to the door of his farmhouse. He has about 100 acres cleared. Besides dairying and raising poultry and fattening 100 head of cattle each year he is raising wheat, corn, oats, potatoes and vegetables of all kinds. In his opinion this is the best potato country in the world. For three years he has fattened from 75 to 125 head of cattle for market each year. "This is the best grazing country, the best dairy country in the United States," he told me, "and I have been in every state except one. There is a natural growth of clover over all the cut-over lands. The Finn farmers nearby me cut ton after ton of hay on my land last fall after my cattle had ranged over it all summer. I believe Northern Minnesota will become the best dairy section of the United States. The grazing and water are the best I have ever seen. You can grow as much garden truck here as anywhere in the country. Last fall I dug more than 400 bushels of potatoes to the acre, and I got the first prize for potatoes at the St. Louis County fair here in Hibbing.

"Any man," Mr. Chapman continued, "can make more on ten acres of St. Louis county land than he can make by day's work. A large spring on my place never freezes. A settlement of Finlanders near me are all doing well. They start with nothing and in a few years have fine houses and barns."

Eight Cents a Pound For His Beef.

After he had fattened his cattle—105 of them—last fall, Mr. Chapman wanted 4 cents a pound on the hoof in Hibbing. Local butchers offered 3 cents. He killed the cattle himself at a cost of $1 per head and sold the beef by the quarter, most of it in Hibbing, at an average of 8 cents a pound. Then he had the hides and tallow, and figures that he received the equivalent of 5 cents a pound on the hoof. The cattle were fed entirely on the native wild grasses which spring up on the cut-over lands. They required very little care or labor until ready to kill and no feed except the wild grasses.

Continuing, Mr. Chapman said: "It has cost me only $10 an acre to clear land, including the pulling of all stumps. I have a machine which, with three men, will pull an acre of stumps a day. I have stable room for 100 head of cattle. I am milking twelve cows. I am selling my butter in Hibbing at top prices. I could sell a ton a day here if I could make it."

Thousands of acres of desirable farm lands in all directions from Hibbing hitherto unavailable because of their possible value as ore bearing, have been thrown open to settlement by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, and are offered only to actual settlers at low prices and on long time.

The Hibbing Commercial club will answer inquiries from intending settlers and do everything in its power to help them to choose desirable farms from which they can reap not only independence but wealth.

MESABA RANGE SCENES.

Great Panoramic Pictures By Peter Schawang of Hibbing.

Peter Schawang of Hibbing is the photographer of the Mesaba iron range. His great panoramic views of the greatest open mines in the world are framed in libraries all over the country. Some of his panoramics show a sweep of two miles.

For five years Mr. Schawang has devoted himself to this work. His birds-eye views of Hibbing, Virginia, Chisholm and other range cities and towns have had a large sale, as have his pictures of the immense Rainy Lake lumber mills and logging and street scenes. He has the finest of apparatus and is a photographic artist.

All of the pictures except the portraits illustrating the Hibbing district in The Duluth Herald today are by Mr. Schawang, and the portraits are by Thiel, Hibbing's leading photographer, with whom Mr. Schawang has his headquarters. Mr. Schawang, on short notice, will go anywhere to do panoramic or scene photographing.

MODEL HOUSES BUILT IN BROOKLYN

They Are of Concrete, Perfectly Ventilated and Well Appointed.

The most available and best appointed residence district of Hibbing is Brooklyn, three-quarters of a mile from the railroad depots. It is gently rolling and has excellent natural drainage. Already about 100 homes have been built in Brooklyn, which has its own water and electric light plant. Brooklyn also boasts of some of the most scientific homes in the Northwest, which are built of concrete with particular regard to ventilation.

A. P. Silliman, the mining engineer, is responsible for the erection of these two houses, one of which contains six model flats and the other four. Following Mr. Silliman's ideas, the architects paid special attention to the ventilation, with the result that the buildings, although warm in the coldest weather, are ventilated perfectly.

The houses are of reinforced concrete, with air spaces in all outside walls. Each house has hot water heat and modern electric lighting. Everything else is in keeping. Well lighted pantries and large closets appeal to housekeepers. In building these houses Mr. Silliman has proved that putting in proper ventilation when a house is being built costs very little more than to construct a house without means of ventilation, except by leaving windows open. This new wrinkle in construction is certain to be widely copied.

Brooklyn covers eighty acres and affords room for a delightful residence section. It is being built up rapidly and the prices of its lots and homes are increasing all the time. For those desiring homes or an investment, Brooklyn offers splendid opportunities.

Additional information about Brooklyn may be had of A. P. Silliman, Silliman building, 620 Third avenue, Hibbing.

NEW HOME SECTION ADDED TO HIBBING

Ansley's Addition, Most Favorably Located, to Be Put on Sale Soon.

Nowhere in Northern Minnesota have realty values shown such enormous increases in the last few years as in Hibbing, where many fortunes have been made in real estate. Frank Ansley, who has been on the range nineteen years and in Hibbing nine years, got his start in the hotel business and then doubled his money over and over again in Hibbing real estate. Hunger for the rich soil near Hibbing seized Mr. Ansley and he took up farming on eighty acres adjoining the prosperous town of Alice. But he was not to enjoy that farm long, which is now needed for homes, as it is only a mile and a quarter from the new Missabe depot site in Hibbing.

Consequently the farm has been platted as Ansley's addition to Hibbing and lots will shortly be offered for sale. They will not last long, owing to the congested condition of Hibbing, the heavy demand for home sites and the desirable location of the property. It lies higher than Hibbing, is level and has perfect natural drainage. Ansley's addition is in the only direction in which Hibbing can grow. It is shut off by great open mines on all other sides, and Hibbing is fast creeping up to the new townsite. Ansley's addition is only a mile and a half from Kelley Lake, where are the great ore sorting yards of the Great Northern railroad and only half a mile from the sorting yards of the Missabe road.

The new townsite has been cleared of all stumps and is ready for the planting of gardens. As soon as the frost is out of the ground streets will be graded and a finished townsite will be ready for hungry home-seekers. Frank Ansley, twice mayor of Hibbing, is one of the best known and most trusted men in the city and all over the range, and the fact that it is Ansley's addition will be a sufficient guarantee to investors at a distance, who wish to buy for the rapid rise that has been constant in Hibbing year after year, that they can buy by mail as well as if they visited the property.

But Mr. Ansley is not going to give up farming. He has six forties east of the new townsite to which he is going to move and create a model dairy and truck farm. As a hotel man he knows something about the high prices for all farm products on the range. He believes that more money is to be made in farming than in any other business, and so he is putting capital, experience and brains into agriculture.

Ansley's addition will be placed on sale through W. T. Irwin, the real estate and insurance man, 213 Third avenue, Hibbing.

SUNNYSIDE FOR PLEASANT HOMES

New Addition Has the Usual Success of Hayes & Breen's Townsites.

If the man who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before is to be honored, how about the man who creates many homes where none were before? That is the laudable business in which Hayes & Breen of Hibbing and Duluth, are engaged, and in which they have been singularly successful. Three years ago they platted the Western addition to Hibbing, selling the lots at $75 each. Today the cheapest of the lots command $350. Two years ago they offered the public lots in Roosevelt addition at $100 to $300. Nearly all of these have been sold, and some are held at $500 and upward.

Now Hayes & Breen are selling lots in Sunnyside, immediately south of Roosevelt. In the village of Alice, which adjoins Hibbing and will be absorbed by the latter before long, Alice has been bonded for $90,000 for improvements. Many of these improvements will be made in Sunnyside, which is only a mile from the heart of Hibbing. Sunnyside is level, with fine natural drainage. It has no swamps nor are there any nearby. It has fine spring water. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern and Great Northern railroads cross Sunnyside, and Roosevelt, adjoining, is to have a Missabe station within three blocks of Sunnyside. There are only 316 lots in Sunnyside and they are selling fast, at from $75 to $300.

B. H. Hayes of Hayes & Breen, was with the Great Northern railroad at Hibbing for eight years. Everybody in Hibbing knows, likes and respects him. He served two terms in the Hibbing council and has made considerable money in Hibbing real estate. He has removed to Duluth, the firm having enlarged its field of operations, and has bought the fine home at 1711 East Sixth street. His office is 316 Palladio building.

The other member of the firm, Henry Breen, has been in Hibbing for eight years and is one of the representative business men of the city. He enjoys a popularity equal to that of Mr. Hayes. Mr. Breen is one of the owners of the Central hotel and also the owner of other valuable business property in Hibbing, which has known some phenomenal rises in realty values.

Hayes & Breen are also promoting townsites at Proctor and Duluth, and in the Athabasca district of North Alberta, Can. Lots in Sunnyside and Roosevelt may be bought from Hayes & Breen, Palladio building, Duluth, and Hibbing, or from P. J. Somers, real estate and insurance, 402 Third avenue, Hibbing.

FAIRVIEW HAS A HEALTHY GROWTH

Many More Homes to Be Built in the New Addition This Summer.

Hibbing is so circumscribed in its limits, being hemmed in by great open iron mines, that rents are high and building lots beyond the reach of many people. To meet this condition Fairview was platted and last year, beginning May 19, the initial sale of lots was held, more than 300 being disposed of, 180 being sold the first day of the sale.

The Fairview addition to Hibbing is on the south, only one mile from the new Missabe depot in Hibbing. The change in the depot site has led to a decided increase in the value and availability of lots in Fairview, and they are now much in demand. In the center of Fairview, a $15,000 schoolhouse has been built. It stands on a hill, with a gradual slope in all directions, and is visible from all parts of Hibbing. The schoolhouse is the nucleus of the civic center of the new addition, which has a public park set aside in the center of the townsite. Three streets have been fixed and additional improvements are planned. Last summer a number of homes were erected, and quite a number of lot owners will build the coming summer.

Fairview is the closest of the newly platted additions to Hibbing and has many natural advantages as a place of residence. It has a good water supply, obtained from driven wells, and later on electric light will be had from the municipal plant owned by the vilage of Hibbing, which supplies the cheapest electricity in the state. The townsite is beyond the smoke and soot and blasting that are necessarily a part of all mining operations. The new town is healthful and the ladscape pleasing.

The electric street car line which is to connect Hibbing, Chisholm, Virginia, Eveleth and other range towns, and which the Mesaba Electric Railroad company, has announced, will be completed this year, runs through Fairview, and will give quick transit to all the principal points on the range. This road will carry express matter, parcels freight and United States mails. Fairview is also on the main line of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad.

Tired of paying high rents in Hibbing many people are taking advantage of the low prices, long time and easy payments offered in Fairview to obtain homes of their own. Lots range from $75 to $225 in price, according to location. Good lots for homes may be had at $75 and $100. No lots have been allowed to get into the hands of speculators. All of the purchasers are home builders.

J. B. Connors, of the First National Bank building, Hibbing, is at the head of the Fairview Townsite company. Mr. Connors deals extensively in farm and timber lands, and is an authority on Hibbing realty values.

"SWINNERTON, THE LAND MAN"

He Is Bringing Settlers to Good Farm Lands Near Hibbing.

One of the most useful men in Hibbing is Rupert Swinnerton, "The Land Man," as he is known far and wide, because of his success in inducing farmers to settle on the rich agricultural lands near Hibbing and Chisholm, beyond the iron belt, but near enough to both those splendid markets to enable the farmers to dispose of their products readily. Some of these lands are only four miles from Hibbing, with a good automobile road running to and through them. Other lands he has for sale are within five miles of Chisholm.

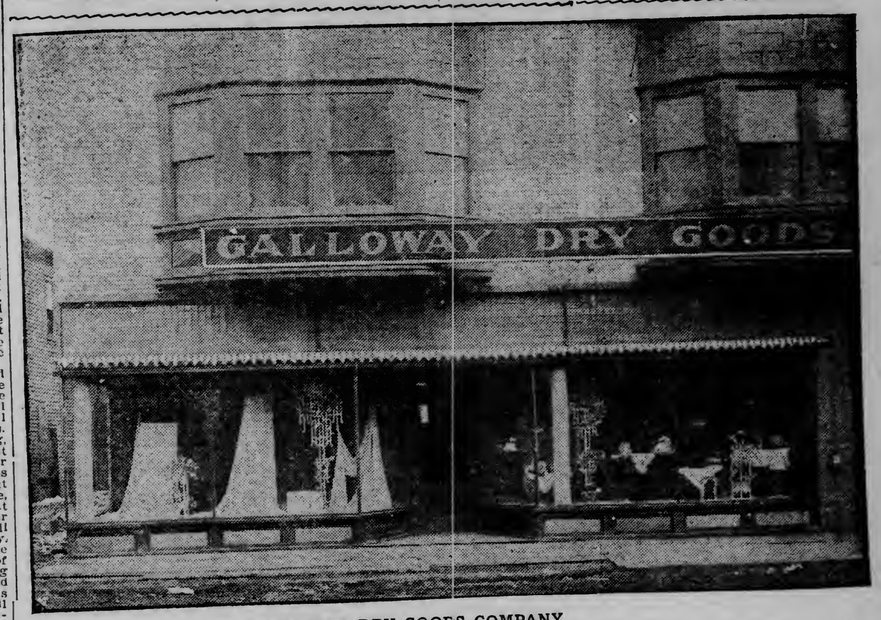
Mr. Swinnerton favors farms of 40 and 80 acres. He is handling the lands of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, which are about the only agricultural lands available in this section. He can offer settlers good farms on long time and easy terms. Mr. Swinnerton controls the sale of 100,000 acres in the vicinity of Hibbing. He also buys and sells mineral and timber lands, and is thoroughly posted on values of city property in Hibbing. Investors and intending settlers will do well to write to him.

INTERIOR G. L. THOUIN HARDWARE COMPANY'S STORE.

The G. L. Thouin Hardware company conducts the largest hardware business in Hibbing. The company carries everything in the way of hardware, guns cutlery, sporting goods of all kinds, paints and oils, and does a general sheet metal business. It reports a better sale of plows and small farm implements of all kinds than ever before, which is an indication of agricultural growth in this section.

The growth of the business has necessitated an extension to the company's building on Third avenue, in the business heart of the city, 25 by 25 feet in size, which has just been completed. Trade, owing to the large stock carried and clean cut methods, is drawn from many miles around Hibbing.

G. L. Thouin and George Greiner compose the company. Mr. Thouin has been on the range eighteen years and in Hibbing eleven years. Before going into business five years ago, he was a steam shovel operator. Mr. Greiner came from Minneapolis to join the firm. Much of the success of the company is due to the personal popularity of its members.



GALLOWAY DRY GOODS COMPANY.

This photograph shows the only exclusively dry goods store on the Mesabn range and the favorite shopping place of the ladies of Hibbing and vicinity. In this big store is to be had everything in dry goods and the latest styles in women and children's ready-to-wear clothing and millinery.

This business has grown in two years from a small single store to its present building, 50 by 85 feet in size. The rapid growth of the Galloway Dry Goods company has been due to clean business methods and reasonable prices for the best goods.

LARGEST OPEN MINES IN THE WORLD.

HIBBING'S BEST DEPARTMENT STORE

Growing Fastest of Any on the Range Owing to Clean-Cut Methods.

The Hibbing Department Store, Inc., on Pine street, between Second and Third avenues, is Hibbing's favorite department store, and is growing faster than any similar business on the range. This is due to its low prices, good values and clean cut methods of doing business.

The store occupies two large floors, 25x122½ feet in size, and employs a dozen people. The store carries a large stock of dry goods of all kinds, men's women's and children's clothing, shoes of standard makes for everybody, carpets and rugs, and the latest styles in millinery.

This big store is conducted by a corporation, of which Charles Hallock is president and treasurer, and B. M. Lippman is vice president and secretary.

SOLDIER, FARMER AND MERCHANT

H. Antonelli One of Hibbing's Leading and Most Useful Citizens.

The best proof of the splendid agricultural opportunities surrounding Hibbing is found in the Hibbing men of means, of whom there are quite a number, who have recently gone heavily into agriculture. Among these is H. Antonelli and the Italian Mercantile company, of which he is president and general manager, who have a 400-acre farm which is being fast developed near the great new powder plant at Wilpen, a few miles from Hibbing. Forty acres have been cleared and eight men have been engaged all winter in clearing.

These eight men will work all summer in raising crops. Much intensive farming will be done by experienced Italian farmers. There are two two-story houses and two big barns on the farm and others will be erected. So far $4,000 has been spent in improvements. Dairying and truck farming is being done, and hogs, cattle and poultry will be added. As one of Hibbing's big retail grocers Mr. Antonelli knows what a high-priced market Hibbing is. In this case the producers will sell direct to the consumers.

Mr. Antonelli is a veteran of the Spanish-American war and draws a pension for a wound he received at the battle of Leech Lake, in the Indian uprising in October, 1898. He came to Hibbing first seventeen years ago and after living a few years in Ely and serving in the army he returned here. He is a leader among the Italian people and a most useful citizen.

Mr. Antonelli has been engaged in the mercantile business for seven years. The Italian Mercantile company does a large business for miles around. Its large store and warehouse is on Pine street. Adolph Sonaglia is secretary of the company, and C. Becchetti is treasurer.

HEAD OF HIBBING MAN OF AFFAIRS

Busy Physician Has Accomplished Much in Four Terms as President.

Dr. H. R. Weirick is serving his fifth term as village president of Hibbing, having been elected for the sixth time on March 14 without opposition, receiving the biggest vote ever cast for the office. He did not serve one of the terms for which he was elected, declining to serve two years ago. That did not deter the people from re-electing him a year ago without his knowledge and while he was taking a much-needed rest at West Baden, Ind. Three days before election his friends began a campaign. The first the doctor knew of it was when he was notified of his election. These few facts will give an idea of the estimation in which Dr. Weirick is held by his fellow citizens.

Many important improvements have been made during President Weirick's administrations, including a new sewer system, costing $125,000 and a new city hall, costing $135,000. Fire limits were established for the business section of the city, including all that portion north of the railroad tracks and Third avenue south to Washington street.

For ten years Dr. Weirick has been a resident of Hibbing, all of that time identified with the Rood hospital, the largest on the range, having a staff of fifteen physicians. He was graduated from Washington and Jefferson college, Pennsylvania, and the medical department of Columbia university, New York city. Dr. Weirick practiced for four years in St. Paul and was assistant city physician of St. Paul for two years before coming to Hibbing. He was appointed recently to Governor Eberhart's staff, with the rank of colonel.

The doctor has made an enviable record, both as a physician and administrator of important public affairs. He is a Mason, an Elk, a Knight of Pythias and a member of other fraternal orders.

FAMOUS AS A FIREFIGHTER

Chief McIllhargey Was for Years a Captain in Duluth Department.

Charles McIllhargey, chief of the fire department, began his career as a fireman in the Duluth fire department under Chief Hathaway, the first chief of the paid department, in 1888. He filled every position in the department from pipeman to captain. His first captaincy was of No. 1 chemical, in No. 1 hall, at that time headquarters.

Mr. McIllhargey spent seventeen years in the Duluth department and at different times was captain of Nos. 2, 3 and 4 engine houses, working under five chiefs, Messrs. Hathaway, Hafey, Smith, Jackson and Black. Capt. McIllhargey resigned from the department on account of ill health and spent a year in the Pacific coast states and Western Canada. The position of captain of No. 4 engine house was held open subject to his return for two years.

The records of the Duluth department show him to have been in charge of the fastest company. After twelve years' service under the critical eye of the former chief and past master in the art of fire fighting, John T. Black, he was commended by Chief Black for being always in charge of the hardest fighting company at a fire and as an officer second to none in the state.

PETER WRING, CHIEF OF POLICE

Best Known Officer of the Range and a Terror to Evil Doers.

Well posted crooks give Hibbing the go-by because they have all heard of Peter Wring, its chief of police, who never forgets a criminal's face he has seen pictured. Wring has been the head of the force for nine years and has a fine record as a thief catcher and preserver of the peace. He served a year on the force when W. J. Power was village president. He was off one year and when Power was re-elected president, was made chief. He has served since under the administration of Peter McHardy and all of the administrations of Dr. H. R. Weirick.

Chief Wring has been on the range eighteen years. He is a striking man, six feet two, well proportioned and in the prime of his manhood. He has personally made many notable arrests of desperate men. One of these, three years ago, is worth relating. It was of three burglars. Two of these were escaped convicts from Stillwater penitentiary. One of them, only a week before, had stood off a score of policemen in Minneapolis with two guns and escaped. Soon after the burglary the chief traced the trio to a room and with another officer entered quietly and quickly, and subdued and arrested the desperados before they could draw a gun.

While he is a strict disciplinarian, Chief Wring stands by his men, who are devoted to him. Hibbing is proud of its chief, who is a diffident man, averse to talking about himself and the clever work he has done.

CITY RECORDER IS AN ATHLETE

Also a Musician of Note—One of the Leaders of the Younger Element.

A. H. Kleffman, village recorder, has lived in Hibbing for thirteen years and came up from the ranks. When he was 17 years old he left Dorchester, Wis., where he was born, and engaged in woodchopping and other hard work at Hibbing for two years. Next he was a delivery man, and having saved up some money set up as a candy manufacturer in the Miles hotel block, which was burned four years ago. He lost nearly all he had, but opened up again on a small scale.

Two years ago he ran for village recorder, but was defeated, the saloon element fearing him because he does not drink, chew nor smoke. Last year he ran again and was elected by the younger men of the city, of whom he is a leader, aided by the best residents of Hibbing. An opponent bobbed up this year, but was beaten, two to one.

Mr. Kleffman is president of the Hibbing City band, in which he plays the B flat cornet, and is also a creditable violin player. For several years he MERCHANTS' & MINERS' STATE BANK BUILDING, THIRD AVENUE AND PINE STREET.

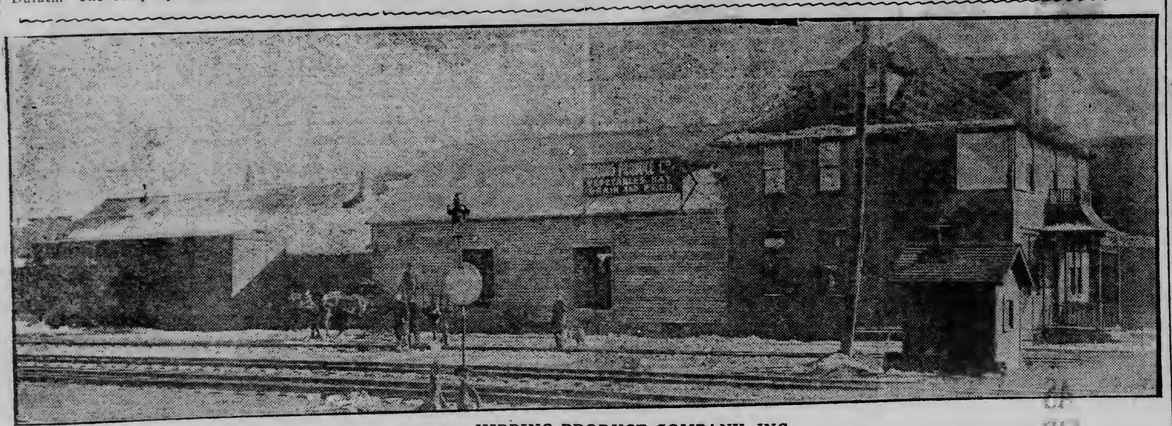
MERCHANTS' WAREHOUSE COMPANY'S BUILDINGS.
This Is the Largest Wholesale House in Northern Minnesota, Outside of Duluth.

The Merchants' Warehouse company is by far the largest wholesale concern in Hibbing, employing thirty men and keeping eight teams of horses busy. The company ships to all points in the northern part of the state and is the largest wholesale house in Northern Minnesota, except in the city of Duluth. The company handles everything in groceries, feed and flour, produce and provisions, and fruits and vegetables. It has trackage for six cars at a time and its warehouses extend for 150 feet along the Great Northern and Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroads. Goods are unloaded from cars directly into the warehouse and from the warehouse directly into cars. The company's business is growing rapidly and it is arranging to add a three to five-ton automobile truck for local delivery to its equipment, and additions to its buildings are contemplated.

The Merchants' Warehouse company also controls the Cash Market stores on Third avenue, adjoining the Carnegie library. These form a splendid modern market, where everything is to be had at bottom prices in groceries, meats, fruits and vegetables. On the second floor are tin, crockery and other light household goods.

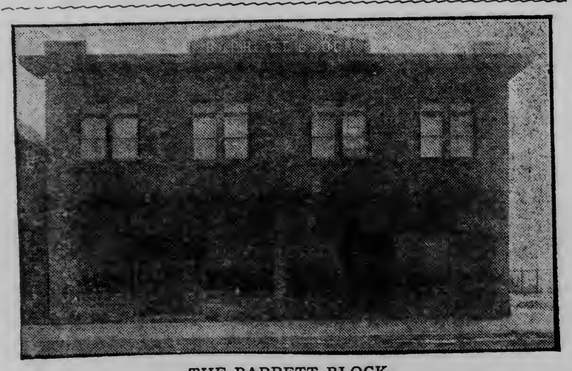
The officers of the Merchants' Warehouse company are Mike Salminen, president; Charles G. Hyry, secretary and manager; John Curran, treasurer. These gentlemen and John K. Makl, August Johnson, Randolph Niemi and George Romani constitute the board of directors.



HIBBING PRODUCE COMPANY, INC.

In the illustration a good part of the rear of the warehouse is hidden by the cars on the side track adjoining the building. This warehouse is the largest in Hibbing, fronting fifty feet on Third avenue and extending 200 feet along the Great Northern railway. This gives an area of 10,000 squafe feet and ample storage capacity for the big business transacted by the company, which makes a specialty of carload lots. It has trackage for five cars at a time.

The Hibbing Produce Company, Incorporated, deals in hay, grain, feed, potatoes, eggs, poultry and veal—in everything, in fact, that the farmers of Northern Minnesota produce. The company ships to all parts of Northern Minnesota, including Duluth. The officers of the company are leading business men of Long Prairie, Minn., Joseph Deuhs, the president, is in the hardware business; W. G. Henderson, secretary, has a general store and deals in farm implements; Con. Keppel, one of the best known and most popular men in Hibbing, is manager, and Frank Gmeiner, bookkeeper.



THE BARRETT BLOCK.

This block was built and is owned by W. C. Barrett, a councilman of Hibbing, who was re-elected to office recently by the largest vote ever cast for a candidate in that city. In this building is a large and handsome mortuary chapel, the only one on the Range; the morgue and other rooms of a first-class undertaking establishment, which is conducted by Mr. Barrett. Across Second avenue from the Barrett block are the Barrett livery stables, stabling sixty horses, where the best turnouts in Hibbing are to be had.

A QUEEN AT HOME.

Girl's Own Paper: Queen Mary is no public speaker, though a widely read woman, without being in any sense a bluestocking and is proficient in Italian, German and French, playing the harp and piano well and being a great knitter and the most expert needlewoman in the royal family. She is rarely without a needle in her hand when at leisure and when she stayed at country houses before her accession the lady in waiting would bring her as a matter of course her needlework bag after dinner and she worked while talking.

She is quite accustomed to the sewing machine and thinks so highly of knitting and crocheting that her sons have been taught to make mittens, simple lace and stockings, while she and her daughter have knitted many stockings for the royal children.

COUNTY SURVEYOR, CITY ENGINEER

A. E. Dyer Has Platted the Last Seven Additions to Hibbing.

The county surveyor of St. Louis county, A. E. Dyer, is also city engineer of Hibbing. He has filled the office last named for five years in a most satisfactory manner and is makjng good during his first year as a county surveyor. Mr. Dyer platted the last seven additions made to the rapidly growing city of Hibbing.

Like many other well-to-do Hibbing men, Mr. Dyer has a forty-acre farm just south of town, in the village of Alice. He is engaged in truck gardening, which is extremely profitable in the neighborhood of Hibbing. Twelve acres of the farm are devoted to garden truck. All the rest is cleared and in meadow. Mr. Dyer will keep several men busy raising garden truck this summer. He says this is one of the best agricultural districts in the country.

Mr. Dyer is a native of Canada. When a child he came to Michigan with his parents. He was educated in the public schools. As an engineer and surveyor he is self-educated, learning his profession in the field by carrying the chain for other engineers. He has a fine reputation for skill and accuracy. Mr. Dyer has been in Minnesota twenty years, and in Hibbing six years.

CITY ACCOUNTANT IS A BUSY MAN

Also Secretary of the Water and Light Board of the Village.

J. L. Stewart is the accountant of the village, which position corresponds to that of city clerk in most cities, with the added duties of an expert accountant. He is also secretary of the water and light board. His combined duties make him a busy man. The office is appointive. Mr. Stewart has held it for three and a half years and was recently appointed for another year by the new council, which has thus shown its appreciation of Mr. Stewart's able administration of the office.

A native of Minnesota, Mr. Stewart was educated in the public schools and the business department of the University of Minnesota. After receiving a business training in St. Paul he came to Hibbing and for five years before becoming accountant of the village he was bookkeeper for the Carlson Mercantile company. Mr. Stewart is a member of the Masonic order, with all degrees, including the Mystic Shrine. He is an Odd Fellow and an Elk.

DEPUTY CORONER EXPERIENCED MAN

Dr. E. J. Pengelly of Hibbing, who was appointed deputy coroner of St. Louis county on Jan. 1 last, has made a fine record in that office. Although he is a young man Dr. Pengelly has had a wealth of experience.

A native of Southern Wisconsin, he was educated in the public school of that state, studied at the University of Wisconsin and was graduated from the Northwestern University Medical school, Chicago, in 1906. For two years Dr. Pengelly was an interne at the Cook County hospital and the Englewood hospital, Chicago, gaining as much experience in that period as could have been acquired in many years of private practice.

Two years ago Dr. Pengelly joined the staff of the Rood hospital, the largest on the range, with fifteen physicians and surgeons. Dr. Pengelly is of pleasing personality and popular throughout the Hibbing district.

THE BEST MEN'S STORE.

Smart Clothing and Furnishings in New Establishment.

At Third avenue and Cedar street, only a block from the railroad depots and the postoffice, the best location in town for the purpose, a first-class men's clothing and furnishings store has just been opened by D. D. McEachin, who built up the largest mercantile business on the range, and who is known to everybody in Hibbing and for miles around. The smartest and best goods are in stock, and all good dressers will patronize McEachin's.

Heading the sales department is "Archie" McFadyen, one of the most popular men and the most experienced in this line of business on the range.

D. D. McEachin is president of the Hibbing Commercial club. No man in town gives more of his time to the public welfare. His multitude of friends will see that McEachin's achieves the success it deserves.

WHOLESALE WINES AND LIQOURS

New Company, Headed By Former Duluth Men, Doing a Big Business.

The Mesaba Wholesale Liquor company, successors to the Geary Wholesale Liquor company, is doing a big business all over the Iron Ranges and throughout Northern Minnesota. Two of the most experienced men in this section are at the head of the new company—Oscar Lindberg, who for eleven years was with Frerker brothers, Duluth, and Edward C. Junker, who was with the same firm for eight years. Mr. Lindberg is president and general manager of the company and Mr. Junker is secretary and treasurer.

The company's office and warehouse is in the handsome Merchants' & Miners' Bank building, Third avenue and Pine street, the two principal business thoroughfares. The company occupies two floors and carries a large stock of whiskies, wines and liquors of all kinds, including imported goods. It makes a specialty of its Old Mesaba Bourbon, which is famous.

BIG PLANT OF C. A. REMINGTON

He Sells Lumber And Other Building Materials All Over the State.

C. A. Remington of Hibbing has been in the lumber business for twenty-six years. He came to Hibbing eleven years ago from Albany, Minn., and has built up the largest business in this line on the Minnesota iron ranges. Mr. Remington is one of the largest property holders in Hibbing. His plant extends for a distance of two blocks along the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and Great Northern railroads, with a switch running the entire length of the yards.

Mr. Remington carries one of the largest retail stocks in the state. No other plant of its kind on the Mesabe range compares with it. Here is everything to build a house, from cellar to roof, including building hardware. He also deals in coal. A large business is done on both the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges and throughout Northern Minnesota generally. Shipments are even made to Southern Minnesota.

When the Security State Bank of Hibbing was organized recently by leading business men of the city, Mr. Remington was persuaded to become its president. The bank had more than $50,000 of deposits offered when it opened its doors, on March 27, and is growing at an astonishing rate, due to the fact that it is owned by Hibbing people and run for Hibbing people. Its directors include some of the solidest and most respected men in Hibbing. The bank has handsomely equipped quarters in the new Security building, on Third avenue, Hibbing's main street, south of the railroads, in the newer section of the town.

Mr. Remington has had no time to hold office and takes no part in politics, although he is active in every movement for the best interests of Hibbing.

CONTRACTORS WITH A REPUTATION

Graham-Young Co.'s Honest Work Makes Them Favorite Bidders.

While the Graham-Young company, general contractors, Rood building, Hibbing, have been in business only two years, the principals in the company have had a long and varied experience as builders and no public work of any importance is let on the range without the company being invited to bid, owing to Messrs. Graham and Young's honest and enduring work. They have made a reputation to be proud of.

Buildings they have erected recently include the fine Gilbert high school, a picture of which appears in this issue; three school buildings in Hibbing, the McAlpine block at Grand Rapids, Minn., and the First State Bank building at International Falls. A specialty is made of concrete and cement work of all kinds.

The company is composed of David Graham and John J. Young. Mr. Graham is an expert carpenter and builder. He was born in England and has been in Hibbing eighteen years. Mr. Young is a native of Wisconsin and came to Hibbing from Chippewa Falls. He has a wide and valued experience in building. He is a bricklayer by trade. For years he superintended the construction of big buildings in Chicago and other large cities and is an authority on building, particularly as to brick and concrete work.

Messrs. Graham and Young always do just what they contract to do. This is becoming known and is a considerable factor in the rapid growth of their business.

THE CASH MARKET STORES.

They Help to Solve the Problem of High Living in Hibbing. The Stores Are Controlled and Operated by the Merchants' Warehouse Company.

MESSNER BROS.' COMPANY'S NEW RETAIL MARKET.

Hibbing has one wholesale and retail house that does a business in excess of $500,000 a year. That is Messner Bros.' company, which sells groceries, meats and farm products of all kinds, and employs a force of forty-five people. This firm sells as many as five carloads of meat a week and orders nearly all its goods by the carload, often several carloads of such staples as coffee at one time. It sells you a pound or a carload, as you may elect, of anything in which it deals.

Its great retail business has outgrown its large quarters on Pine street, and it has just moved into the Close building, pictured above, in Center street, opposite the postoffice and The Hibbing Daily Tribune office, the best location in Hibbing for a retail market. It will occupy the entire ground floor and finished basement, each 50 by 125 feet, giving 12,500 feet of floor space. Messner Bros.' retail business alone is the largest in their line on the range. From their big wholesale brick warehouse, opposite the Missabe depot, they ship goods to all parts of Northern Minnesota. This warehouse, of two floors and finished basement, is 50 by 90, and has a floor space of 13,500 square feet. The company also has retail stores at Marble and Keewatin, in Itasca county, which do a large business.

It has been only five years since the Messner Brothers, J. B., John and Chris, established themselves in a small store in Hibbing. They moved a few years ago and the growth of this big business has compelled them to move again. The firm delivers goods for five or six miles around Hibbing. In summer time it is necessary to employ an extra force of men who work all night putting up orders. The housewives of Hibbing do their marketing at Messner Bros., by telephone, knowing they will get the same excellent service they would if they called at the store. Messner Bros.' success is attributed to square dealing upon a very small margin of profit.

MESABA STEAM LAUNDRY.

Best of Work at Duluth Prices—20 People and Two Teams Busy.

The Mesaba Steam Laundry, of which Fred A. Moore is proprietor, occupies its own two-story and basement brick building, 25 by 100 feet giving 7,500 feet of floor space. It is on Center street, in the heart of town, midway between the postoffice and the city hall. Twenty employes and two teams are kept busy taking care of the large trade. A specialty is made of men's work. Their clothes last longer when sent to this laundry, which does fine work at Duluth prices and returns it quickly.

The building was specially designed for a laundry and is the best equipped for the purpose in Northern Minnesota. A press machine for shirts will be installed shortly, which will further improve the excellence of the service. Mr. Moore has been in business in

YARDMASTER HAS GREAT INVENTION

Steel Tie and Steel Lock Expected to Revolutionize Railroading.

A model of a steel tie and steel lock which have excited widespread interest among the railroad men of the country has just been sent to New York from Hibbing for the inspection of capitalists who in all probability will take up their promotion and manufacture. The tie and lock are the invention of William Brown, yardmaster for the Hibbing district of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad.

The tie is hollow. It is locked with spike and wedge, with a clip between spike and wedge. The spike has been tried on Carnegie steel ties on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad for a year and a half and has proved satisfactory in every way. The tie is practically indestructible and cannot be tampered with.

Mr. Brown has been yardmaster of the Hibbing district for five years and in the employ of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern road for seventeen years. In the busy season he has to move as many as forty trains of ore daily, each train averaging fifty cars of fifty tons each, or 100,000 tons of iron ore daily. He is a native of London, coming with his parents to Port Arthur, Ont., when he was a baby. They removed to Fargo, N. D., when he was about 7, and here he received his education in the public schools. He began railroading when he was 14 and has followed it ever since, a period of twenty-four years.

Mr. Brown has lived in Hibbing five years and nobody in town is more popular. He was urged to run for village president last year but declined, and this year they tried to induce him again to be a candidate, but again he declined. It is unlikely that Mr. Brown will ever abandon railroading, unless his valuable steel tie patents require all of his time and attention.

O. J. TUCKER'S NEW APARTMENT HOUSE.

O. J. Tucker, the bill poster of the Mesaba range, has just completed a model brick apartment house at Washington street and Fifth avenue. It contains four apartments of seven rooms each, with bath and hot water heat, and with separate hot and cold water service. All of the flats were rented before the building was completed.

Mr. Tucker has been in Hibbing eleven years. He does bill posting for manufacturers in all the principal cities. His business has grown to such an extent that he has had to buy an automobile to keep up with his work. Mr. Tucker has a farm which he is developing twelve miles north of Hibbing, on which he baled eighty tons of hay last year. He will engage in dairying and poultry raising for the Hibbing market. As the head of Tucker's famous orchestra, in years gone by, Mr. Tucker was known all over the state. For years he taught the violin and piano, upon both of which instruments he is an expert performer.

POPULAR SALESMAN HEAD OF THE HOUSE

A. W. Schwane, Wholesale Liquor Dealer, Has Had 41 Years' Training.

One of the newest, but most experienced business men of Hibbing is A. W. Schwane, the wholesale liquor dealer, whose large warehouse adjoins the tracks of the Great Northern railroad, opposite its depot. Goods are loaded directly from the warehouse into cars. Mr. Schwane has had an experience in his business of forty-one years. He began as a maltster and distiller and at 21 was distiller in two big Kentucky distilleries in Davis county.

Before establishing his business in Hibbing, Mr. Schwane was a salesman covering this territory. He is well known and very popular all over the range and is rapidly building up a large trade. Range people will be delighted this summer with Mr. Schwane's newest concoction, in which eight fruits are combined, "Cardinal Punch," a non-alcoholic, cooling, delicious summer drink. Mr. Schwane has his own bottling plant. He is famous in Chicago as a connoisseur of good liquors and Northern Minnesota will have the benefit of his experience.

Mr. Schwane is a stockholder in the great Greenbriar distillery, in Nelson county, most famous of all Kentucky counties for good whisky. He will feature Greenbriar and Schwane's 100-Proof, sold only in bottles, and Golden Age and Silver Age whisky, both rye and Bourbon. Mr. Schwane will carry a sufficiently large line of all kinds of liquors, wines and cordials to stock a buffet. His ripe experience—a lifetime spent in one line of effort—will be of much benefit to his many patrons.

SESSION IS NEARING END.

possible to finish them tomorrow. If there is much fighting—and the legislature never was in a scrappier mood—it may take two or three days. But whatever time it takes, this is one thing that must be done. The state probably would wait with reasonable patience for the initiative, the referendum and the recall. It would be able to get along two years without the state-wide primary. It would even exist without reapportionment. But without appropriations there would be neither taxes nor public salaries, and matters would be at a standstill.

The Reapportionment Bill.

Reapportionment is not likely to take up very much time in the senate, though it may take more in the house. The opponents of reapportionment have about talked themselves out. The new bill disposes of many of the arguments used against the Congdon bill, most of which were along the line that the cities ought to be kept down in the legislature, and the new bill keeps them down. There may be discussion of some features of the bill, such as the increase in the number of senators and the arrangements of individual districts, but there will be little debate on reapportionment in the abstract.

The house may dispose of the bill speedily—providing the senate passes it—and again it may spend a day fighting over it. Anybody who predicts what the house is going to do ventures his reputation as a prophet most rashly. But if the senate passes the bill there is little doubt that the house will follow suit, though hardly by so large a vote as it gave the Congdon bill.

Senator Ole O. Sageng is preparing practically a new reapportionment bill, which he may offer as an amendment to the Hanson bill when it is taken up in the senate. It does not differ materially from the Hanson bill, except that it changes some of the districts in the Seventh congressional district, which were altered by the Hanson bill. However, steps are afoot to make some changes in the Seventh district that will satisfy the members from that section, and probably an arrangement will be made by which the committee will offer an amendment taking care of it.

The friends of the Hanson bill will probably stand pat on it and to oppose all amendments from hostile sources. The friends of reapportionment have learned to beware of Greeks bearing gifts, and while they are anxious to whip the Hanson bill into such shape that it will attract the largest possible vote, once they get it ready they will resist amendments from the floor.

Senator Sageng's amendment is by no means to be considered hostile, as he has been one of the stanchest friends of reapportionment.

Under his bill three senators are taken from the First congressional district, two are taken from the Third, and two are added, making a total of sixty-five senators, as in the Hanson bill, as against sixty-one in the Congdon bill and sixty-three in the present senate. This leaves seven senatorial places to be disposed of, and they are assigned as follows One to the Fourth congressional district (Ramsey county), one to the Fifth (Hennepin), three to the Eighth and two to the Ninth. The Second, Sixth and Seventh are left as they are now. The house assignments are about the same as in the Hanson bill, which doesn't differ materially in that respect from the Congdon bill.

Under this arrangement the First congressional district would get seven senators, where it has ten now. According to population, it is entitled to six. The third distrct, which is also entitled to six senators by virtue of its population, would get seven. It now has nine.

The Ralph Drainage Probe.

Some time will be killed in the house, no doubt, by a fight over the report—or rather the reports—of the special committee which has been investigating Drainage Engineer George A. Ralph. Tuesday evening, at an executive session, the report of the expert engineer, who has been looking over some of Ralph's ditches, will be received. Wednesday evening, also in an executive session, the committee will endeavor to agree on a report. It is said, however, that the committee will be divided. The majority report, which will be signed by Representative C. R. Fowler of Minneapolis, R. R. Crane of Grand Meadow and J. P. Moriarty of Belle Plaine, will criticise Ralph's methods but will not ask his removal. The minority report, which will be signed by Chairman Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm and Representative Donald Robertson of Argyle, will probably demand Ralph's removal. In neither case will the charges amount to anything more serious than inefficiency. When the divided report is made there will be a fight over it in the house, as Ralph has friends there who will try to cause the majority report to prevail, while he has enemies who will favor the harsher report. The reports may come in Thursday, and prabably will not be delayed later than Saturday. There will be no session Friday, as that is a legal holiday.

Statewide Primary Bill.

Wednesday the house will take up the statewide primary bill, which the senate passed several weeks ago, and which, thanks to the persistency of Senator Moonan and his fellow-Democrats, is a real statewide primary bill.

If the bill comes to a vote in the house on its merits, it will pass and become a law.

However, powerful influences are being brought to bear against the bill. Every possible attempt to beat it will be made, and as there will be plenty of confusion in the closing days of the session, it may be juggled out of existence.

The direct election of senators is another issue on which there will be more fighting before the end. While the house has passed the Keefe bill, providing the straightout Oregan plan of direct election, the senate has passed the Murray bill, a flabby and futile substitute providing for nomination of senators at the primary election. The house will hardly accept this "abortion," as Senator Sageng called it, though the Republican organization, directed by half a dozen Republican senators who were largely instrumental in putting the Murray bill through the senate, will make a hard fight for it in the house. Republican agents, including these senators, are already lobbying in the house for the Murray bill.

The Keefe bill is at the head of the calendar in the house, and it may yet pass when it is clear that the house will have none of the Murray bill. When it comes up the Republican organization will try to amend it so as to make it take the futile form of the Murray bill, hoping in this way to get it smothered between the two houses in the closing hours.

As usual, the specter of Senator John Lind is what has thrown consternation into the Republican camp and induced the Republican organization to fight against the Oregon plan. Its members profess to believe that if the election of a United States senator is put up to the people, the people will elect John Lind and beat Knute Nelson. Of course if the people want to do that they ought to be allowed to do it, but that is just what the Republican organization wants to prevent.

There is no possibility that the Murray bill will pass the house. It can hardly be reached anyway, and it may be delayed so long that the senate will forget (?) to take up the Keefe bill.

Getting Cold Feet.

Already many Republican senators are experiencing cold feet over their action on the Murray bill. They realize that the people want popular election of United States senators more than they want almost any other election reform, and they realize that the Murray bill is very far from being an answer to this popular demand. Also, they are realizing that Ole Sageng is right when he says that they cannot fool the people with a "skin game" like the Murray bill. The Democrats in the senate will stand pat on the Keefe bill and against hostile amendments, and there is a chance that before the session is ended there will be a division in the Republican ranks on this question, and that Republican senators like Boyle, Dale, Duxbury, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Gunderson, Hanson, V. L. Johnson, Lende, Rustad, Sundberg, Saugstad and Wallace will join with the Democrats to pass the Keefe bill intact. In that event they would be joined also by Senator Frosshaug, Prohibitionist.

Once the break in the Republican alignment begins, it is certain that enough votes will be found to put the Keefe bill through, and then, unless Governor Eberhart vetoes it—which he would hardly dare to do—the Oregon plan of electing United States senators will be applied to Minnesota.

In the meantime the Republican organization is planting mines, arranging torpedoes and otherwise trying to destroy the Oregon plan, as it is trying to destroy the state-wide primary bill, and there are crafty and resourceful men on the job.

What Is a "Progressive?"

The Haycraft-Duxbury-Moonan-Weis bill seeking to undermine the foundations of democracy by decreeing that people in cities shall no longer have the same voice in public affairs as people in the country will not be reached in the house, and if it were, it would not pass. It went the other day to the bottom of general orders, and the house never will reach the bottom of general orders, even if it reaches the top. It has not been on general orders for nearly two weeks, and though it will reach them again before the close it can never finish them.

Speaking of this monstrous proposal, which strikes such a sharp discord with the principle of government by the people as opposed to government by some of the people, here is a natural inquiry:

Is this a "progressive" measure, and what does it mean to be a "progressive," anyway?

Lynn Haines, official character assassin for the "progressives," says that there are forty-six "progressives" in the house, and he gives their names. One of the most interesting and illuminating things of the session is a comparison between this list of "progressives" and the roll call in the house on the Duxbury-Haycraft-Wels-Moonan travesty.

Of the forty-six "progressives" twenty-eight voted for the proposition that this is not a government by and for the people, but a government by people living in the country of people living in the cities.

Eighteen of the "progressives" voted against it.

But out of this eighteen seven live in St. Paul or Minneapolis, leaving eleven who live in the rural districts. Of these eleven ten live in Northern Minnesota, and Northern Minnesota people know too much about injustice in legislative representation to vote to impose injustice perpetually upon a great section of the people of this commonwealth.

That leaves but one "progressive," living outside the cities, who voted against the Wels-Moonan-Haycraft-Duxbury atrocity. His name is Nels J. Holmberg, and he represents Renville county in the legislature. Also, he is one of the newest, falrest members of the house. He is not given to prating of himself as a "progressive" and of everybody who does not agree with him as a crook, but he is given to fair thinking and straight acting, and to right voting.

With this one exception every "progressive" in Southern Minnesota voted for the absurd proposition that a man living in a city and a man living in the country shall stand on two different planes in the government of this state.

Therefore, this must be a "progressive" measure. And if this is a "progressive" measure, that brings up the other question: What does it mean to be a "progressive"?

Either the "progressives" in the Minnesota house of representatives are a travesty on the real article, or to be a "progressive" means to be narrow, venomous, bitter and unjust.

Employers' Liability Bills.

There will be no legislation for the workingman this session, so far as employers' liability is concerned. The pending bills on workingmen's compensation are all so far down in the list that not one of them can be reached, and in point of fact no serious attempt has been made to put any of them through.

There has not even been any advance in this matter by discussion, for there has been practically no discussion except before committees. None of these bills has been considered by either branch of the legislature, and probably none will be. The official workingmen's compensation bill, the so-called McEwen-Mercer bill, has produced bills for extra pay from its authors, and but little else, and it was doomed to defeat from the day it was drawn. As it stands, it applies to farmers as well as to great corporate employers, and anybody who has had any association with the Minnesota legislature knows that nothing more was needed to insure its defeat, because the legislature is dominated by the agricultural interests.

The house has a special order this afternoon on Representative L. C. Spooner's bill creating a commission to propose a plan for consolidating and coordinating the various state bureaus and departments.

The house Saturday afternoon passed the bill by Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis creating an emergency fund which shall be available to relieve those in distress from fire, flood, wind or other general disasters, and levying a tax of one-twentieth of a mill for that purpose. This plan, which was suggested by the late State Treasurer C. G. Dinehart shortly before his death, was put in the form of a bill by Representative Lundeen several weeks ago, and was adopted by the house Saturday. If it goes through the senate it will make unnecessary such hasty and inadequate relief measures as devolve upon volunteers in times of calamity, and will provide a fund that will be immediately available in case of need, and that can be replenished when it is depleted.

Not to Be Compulsory.

The house Saturday afternoon killed the Hopkins bill making the use of voting machines compulsory in cities—except cities of 10,000 and under—by the decisive vote of 59 to 17. Its author said that the use of voting machines in Minneapolis had cut election expenses in two, the saving paying for the machines in eleven years, and that it eliminates fraud. Nevertheless, the house thought the present law, which allows the use of voting machines in any community that wants them, sufficient.

The house also killed the Palmer bill imposing a penalty on people who get information from agents about intending buyers of real estate and then save the commission by going directly to the purchasers. The vote was 23 for and 47 against.

Representative Burnquist's bill reoragnizing the state boiler inspection department by providing for nine congressional district inspectors in place of about seventy-five senatorial district inspectors, failed to pass, getting 50 votes when it needed 61, with 21 against it. On motion of Representative Lundeen, who voted against it for that purpose, the vote was reconsidered and the bill replaced on the calendar. It was defeated once before, but was revived by reconsideration.

Other bills passed were as follows:

By Representative Fowler—Requiring merchants selling stocks of goods in bulk to notify all creditors, so as to prevent fraud.

By Representative Palmer—A new automobile code.

How to Gain Flesh

A simple but sure way to increase the weight, it is asserted by several well known physicians, is to take regularly for several months, one or two 3 grain hypo-nuclane tablets after each meal. These little tablets have the distinguished merit of increasing the read and white blood corpuscles, aiding digestion and promoting assimilation and absorption of the elements in the food which go to make blood and solid tissues. They are obtainable in sealed packages from physicians and well stocked apothecary shops.

LINER PRINZESS IRENE STEAMS INTO NEW YORK

STEAMSHIP PRINZESS IRENE ON THE BEACH.

New York, April 10.—Displaying two black balls, the usual "not under control" signal, the steamer Prinzess Irene today safely reached and passed into the harbor entrance which she missed last Thursday morning, in the fog, burying her nose instead in the Fire island sandspit, where she was fated to be held a prisoner for the better part of four days.

Except for a broken rudder post, the Irene was believed to be none the worse for her imprisonment off the Lone Hill lifesaving station, from which she was so fortunately released yesterday afternoon after her 1,720 passengers had been taken off and landed safely Saturday morning. Because of the derangement of her steering mechanism, however, the big liner was not privileged to come in under her own steam. She was surrounded by a fleet of tugs which had escorted her from Fire Island waters to an anchorage outside the bar late last night, and 5:20 o'clock this morning took up the slack of their hawsers and resumed the work of getting the liner into port.

At 6:45 o'clock the Irene passed in Sandy Hook in tow of the four tugs. At her dock she will be examined by divers and then sent to Newport News for examination in drydock. The greater part of the cargo is still on board and it will be discharged at Hoboken as soon as possible.

It has been an iron rule with the North-German Lloyd that a captain who loses his ship shall be dismissed from the service, but as the veteran Peterssen of the Prinzess Irene will take his ship back across the Atlantic under her own steam, substantially unscathed, it is the assumption here among those who professed to know, that Peterssen's personal grief will be his chief punishment.

He has had a flawless and notable record heretofore, and in New York steamship circles it is believed that if his explanation of the grounding is considered satisfactory, his reprimand will not be severe.

MAYOR SHOULD BE TRAINED FOR JOB

Dr. Cullum Declares Successful Business Man Might Fail as Municipal Executive.

"A man might be the best business man in the world and then be a failure as a mayor."

This is one of the things that Mayor M. B. Cullum of Duluth told the members of the Six O'Clock club of Superior Saturday evening at a banquet held at the Hotel Superior. Mayor Cullum was the principal speaker.

"The phrase 'business man's administration' means but little" said Mayor Cullum, "it is more than business ability that is needed to be a mayor. A man should really be trained to govern. We need schools for such places in this country as in Europe."

In speaking of the commission form of government and giving an example of one of the misuses of the present system in Duluth and Superior, Mayor Cullum declared that it is the idea that an alderman shall get as much of the public money as possible for his ward and that the more he gets, whether he is entitled to it or not, the better alderman he is considered. The possibility of this would be eliminated under the commission form of government, he said.

SUICIDE PACT LIKELY TO PROVE FATAL TO TWO.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 10.—As the result of a suicide pact, S. L. Dania, a Spaniard, 57 years old, and Eva Bovee, his youthful adopted daughter, lie at the county hospital in a critical condition. It is not believed that either will live.

The attempt to end two lives was made Saturday night, and according to the investigations conducted yesterday, it is believed that the shots were fired by Dania from a revolver that the young woman had brought to the hospital where Dania lay in a serious condition as the result of another shooting affray in which he participated a week ago.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

TRACK TEAM LOOKS GOOD

Training Starts at University With Outlook for Point Winners.

Dick Grant Has Hill, Frank Connelly and Other Star Men.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 10.—Training was started last Thursday by Dick Grant, coach of the University of Minnesota track team, in preparation for the conference meet which will be held at Minneapolis on June 3 and 4.

About forty-five men are training regularly every afternoon. Capt Stanley Hill, who has a record of 9 4-5 seconds in the 100 and 22 3-5 in the 220-yard dash, is ineligible at the present time, but will make up his conditions before the big meet. George Vanstrum, a Minneapolis Central high school star, is also out and is showing excellent speed.

In the quarter mile Ted Anderson will surely make a grand showing. Anderson beat Davenport, the Chicago man who holds the conference record in this event, in one of the heats of the recent indoor track meet held at Northwestern university. He finished second in the deciding heat, being only a few inches behind the speedy Davenport. Anderson has done the 440 in 50 seconds flat which is only 1 1-5 seconds slower than the record.

Minnesota has another good man in the 880-yard run in the person of Jack Busch. Busch was ineligible last year, but he has fixed up his troubles with the faculty and will compete this year.

In the mile run, Tydeman and Brown are the best men for this distance. Tydeman holds a record of 4:12 for the miles, but this does not approach the conference record of Baker of Oberlin, who has covered that distance in 4:20 4-5. Brown is a sophomore and while he has not made any approach at record time he is a consistent runner and should give a good account of himself in a year or two.

Connelly, the two-miler, will show up well in his event, as he won second place at the conference two years ago. Last year he was sick a short time before the meet and could not run up to his true form.

Minnesota has several good men in the jumps. Peterson, who tied for first place at the Northwestern meet, is far better outdoors than inside. He jumped 5 feet 11 inches in practice last spring, which is almost an inch within the conference record of French of Kansas university. Whiteman, the lanky basketball center, should make a good man in the high jump. He cleared 5 feet 8 inches last spring without training, and with some practice should better his mark considerably.

Molumby has a record of 24 feet 8 inches in the broad jump, and this should land him within the money, as 22 feet 7 inches won the conference jump Lambert and Nelson are two others who can leap over 20 feet.

Cody, an adopted son of "Buffalo Bill" Cody, Peterson and Lambert are the pole vaulters. Cody can top the bar at about 11 feet, but this will hardly win a place. Peterson and Lambert both can do over 10 feet.

In the weight events Minnesota should show up very strong. Leonard Frank should win at least second place in the shotput, as he heaves the weight about 44 feet when he is in condition. Frank won second place last year and was awarded first place when it was found out that Philbrook of Notre Dame was ineligible to compete in this event Frank should also make a point in the discus throw. Frank's running mate will be Lucius Smith, the husky football man. Smith is no slouch when it comes to heaving the shot, having put the pellet about 42 feet. He, also, is a strong man at the discus.

Just at present the team is without a hammer thrower and good hurdlers, and it is hoped that some good candidate will come out to try for these events.

ANNUAL DINNER OF BOAT CLUB

Members Will Get Together Around the Banquet Tables.

The big boat club banquet will be held this evening at the rooms of the Commercial club. The dinner will begin at 7 o'clock, according to the program, and a large attendance of the members of the club is looked for.

The presentation of the medals to the athletes winning prizes at the club last season, and also the trophies won by the owners of sail and motor boats, will be one of the features of the dinner. It is also expected that the dinner will start the season, a season that promises to be one of exceeding activity. It will be a kind of get-together meeting and for that reason a large attendance of the club members is desired.

It is expected that plans for the season about to open will be discussed at the meeting this evening. There are a number of important announcements to make before the opening of the season, and the officials of the club may have something of interest to announce to the members of the club this evening.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Opening of the Race in the Big Leagues Is at Hand—Jimmy Powers an Athlete—Says Stubby Sam Would Be Easy for Johnson—Work for Insurance Men—Baseball News.

(BY BRUCE.)

WEDNESDAY the race in the two big leagues will open. Baseball, for which we have been waiting long and patiently, is near at hand. If there was a little hat and a college cane at hand, some of the more enthusiastic of us might be tempted to give three rahs with zest and spirit.

As the day for the opening of the race in the two majors draws near the speculation as to the probable pennant winners grows keener. There are those on every street corner who stack their faith on the dear old Cubs in the National. They believe Chance the most astute leader in the older organization, and though some of the players on the Cub payroll are as full of years as the ragged coat of some homeless dog may be full of active insects, some believe that there is much ball-playing ability in these same Cubs.

There is an undercurrent of baseball belief in the team that Johnny McGraw has gathered together for the 1911 race. McGraw is one of the very best advertisers in the world and always much attention is attracted to the spring campaign of the Giants. That team was strong last season, but not strong enough to oust the Cubs, after the Chance machine really struck its stride, and some of us who want to be shown in the case of the McGraw cohorts.

Pittsburg, if all the reports from the war correspondents are to be believed, will be stronger than the team which slumped rather badly last season, and the dopists of the Smoky City figure that their team will run like a rabbit nipped on the shanks by a snappy foxhound.

There is, too, Clark Griffith at Cincinnati. It would be almost sacrilege for the Reds to win a pennant; and yet the critics are at the present time figuring that the old boy at Redland will finish high up in the race.

To the best informed of the critics, it would seem that the race will be between Chicago, New York, Pittsburg and the Reds. If some of the new blood gathered by Chance is as good as the Chicago newspaper boys who have been with the team during the spring training trip imagine, the Chance machine will be in the race right from the jump.

In the American league, most of the critics are picking the Mackmen to repeat. All the logic of the race is in their favor. They have youth and the confidence that comes from any grand showing made by the team. Again, barring Old Roman Comiskey, this long and lean Irishman of Philadelphia is perhaps the wisest man in baseball today. Viewing it these few days before the start of the race in the American, it does look as if the Mack machine should be considered the favorite for bunting honors in the Johnson organization.

There is something great about baseball. There is something in it that stirs the interest of man and renews his youth. The business man will stop you on the street and ask the chances of the team. The great old game has an expansive holding of interest that extends from the news urchin on the street to the big man, high up in office and power, and its intermediate stations include the sweet girl graduate and the mother at home.

We are all glad that the season is almost at hand. We are all glad that the time is near at hand when we will look for the baseball edition. We will all discuss averages, the performance of the stars, the passing of the once great, the coming of some new star. It is full of interest for us all; it is our great national game, and somehow it broadens the spirit of humanity and makes men younger, fuller of the spirit of youth, and better brothers.

Jimmy Powers, the Athlete.

YOU might not believe it, but small James T. Powers has been a very nimble athlete in his time. Jimmy didn't tell any one around Duluth his real age, as far as has been discovered; but even at the present time he is fond of a long hike over the hills, where the going is good and the pace gets the blood to circulating.

"I used to box some, because it made me lighter on my feet, and because there is nothing in the world like exercise for keeping a man young," said James T. "Since I have given up the more strenuous forms of exercise I have stuck to my walking and I am one of the best little walkers in the theatrical business, and my profession boasts of some of the very best pedestrians in the country.

"The other day I was walking with a fellow who had asked me to go out for a bit of exercise. Mind you, that chap walked five blocks and then said he has taken an unusual amount of exercise for the day. I told him that I would take fifteen times that amount of exercise, and the old fellow seemed awfully astonished. When a man tells you he is athletic over a cocktail, don't believe him."

Where Knowledge Crieth Out.

JUST the other day a dark-skinned follower of sports made a vigorous protest against the assertion in this column, holding forth one poor, humble woebegone chance for Samuel Adams Langford in the event of a Queensbury soiree between Messrs. Johnson and Langford.

"I done knows, sah," volunteered the man of color and convictions. "Didn't I jes' live in Chicago when dat Jack Johnson done keep a saloon. Didn't I heah he talk jes' what he done to that Sam McVey man. I done tell you, mistah man, this Langford boy have jes' one chance in a thousand to beat dat Mistah Johnson."

The colored man in question works here in town and is plum peeved that any one is credulous enough to believe that stocky Sam, the beggar of pugilistic activities, should be given anything that even nearly resembles a chance with the present title holder. One chance in a thousand is not considered even a near chance among sporting men who are accustomed to wager over ten iron men on any event of passing interest.

This colored follower of the doings in the world of sport, tho' man who "knowed" Jack in the days before he even thought of owning an automobile; the days before the emoluments of his fistic dexterity had climbed out of the beancounter rating, believes that any man with a great punch will beat Langford, and that stocky Boston black was built for Johnson, quite as completely as plumed hats were constructed to delight the fancy of women and dent the bill book of material man.

Work for Insurance Men.

WISHING to call your attention to a new phase of baseball, gentlemen, you are requested to look this way and observe that Charles A. Comiskey, leading juvenile to the heavy of George Washington in that Father of the Country stuff, has taken out insurance papers on his baseball players. Here's betting that the wrinkle of Commy is quickly followed by some of the club owners.

With accident insurance out on his players, the Old Roman will be getting that little $25 per week back on every one of his hired men who is unable to play the game. In the case of death the large sum of $5,000 will be paid over by the company writing the policy.

If Charles Webb Murphy, the crazy cravat kid, had been original enough and Charles Webb is quite original at that, to think of this insurance thing, he would be some several dollars ahead at the present time.

The Cubs have been the hoodoo team of the National league. Every season there have been a number of Cubs sitting on the bench, the result of accidents. Insurance would have somewhat assuaged the grief of Murphy, for though it is generally believed that Charles W. is fond of pennants, it is also currently reported that he is very fond of common money.

Did You Happen to Notice?

YES, did you happen to notice that the first pictures taken of the Duluth recruits appeared in the Saturday evening issue of The Herald. Did you also notice that the first story of the probable strength of the team appeared in the Duluth Herald?

With the growth of Duluth it is believed that the coming season will be one of the best ever enjoyed by old King Baseball, and The Herald is out to give Mr. Fan the very best.

WITH THE MAJORS IN SPRING TRAINING

Cubs Defeat Colonels.

Chicago, April 10.—The Chicago Nationals defeated the Louisville team of the American association here yesterday 3 to 2.

Tigers Lose to Reds.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 10.—Fine spring weather drew an enormous crowd to League park yesterday and ticket holders were rewarded with seeing by far the best game of the season series. The local team of the National league triumphed over the Detroit Americans by a score of 1 to 0. The pitching of McQuillen and Gaspar were features. Mike Mitchell's single over Delehanty's head enabled Bates to score in the ninth inning. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati Nationals	1	4	1
Detroit Americans	0	3	1

Batteries—McQuillen, Gaspar and McLean; Mullen, Willetts, La Fitte and Stanage and Casey.

Second Cubs Win.

Danville, Ill., April 10.—The Chicago Nationals second team defeated Danville Three I leaguers here yesterday 2 to 1.

Red Sox Win in Ninth.

Kansas City, Mo., April 10.—Three singles in the ninth put Boston the winners over Kansas City yesterday. The visitors tied the score in the seventh with two runs. The score: Kansas city, 3; Boston Americans No. 1, 4.

Cardinals Make Clean Sweep.

St. Louis, Mo., April 10.—The local inter-league series was terminated yesterday with the Nationals unbeaten by the Americans in a single game of the seven played. The Nationals did all their scoring in the seventh inning, making nine runs. Gregg, the Cardinal recruit, pitched the first six innings and held the Nationals down to four hits.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Nationals	9	9	2
Americans	5	12	3

Batteries—Harmon and Bresnahan; Gregory, George, Powell and Clark.

Toronto Beaten.

Louisville, Ky., April 10.—Louisville Americans defeated the Toronto Easterns yesterday 5 to 4.

Denver Loses to Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 10.—Bunched hits in the fourth inning won yesterday afternoon with Fort Worth of the Texas league from Denver of the Western league, 3 to 1.

Game Called in Tenth.

Omaha, Neb., April 10.—To allow the visitors to catch a train, the game between the Boston Americans, No. 2, and the Omaha Western league team, was called in the last half of the tenth. The score was 1 to 1.

Easy for Boston.

Baltimore, Md., April 10.—The Boston Nationals, by heavy and timely hitting yesterday defeated the Baltimore Eastern leaguers 10 to 1.

Toledo, Ohio, April 10.—The Toledo Centrals yesterday won an exhibition game from the Cleveland Americans, 2 to 1.

Miller Seconds Lose.

Evansville, Ind., April 10.—Rube Waddell was hit for three hits, one a home run by Haley, in the seventh inning here yesterday and the Evansville Central league team won from the Minneapolis seconds by a score of 2 to 0.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Minneapolis	0	4	3
Evansville	2	3	1

Batteries—Fiene, Waddell, Sage and Smith; Sterzer, Cantwell and Bowers.

Pirates Lose to Senators.

Columbus, Ohio, April 10.—Pittsburg at one time having a lead of seven runs, was beaten yesterday afternoon by the Columbus American association team, 9 to 8. The score was tied up in the fifth on Camnitz and the winning run was batted in by Lesard and Perring off Adams.

Big Crowd at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 10.—The Chicago American leaguers evened up the defeat of Saturday by handing the Indianapolis American association club the short end of a 12 to 5 score yesterday before a crowd of 10,000.

ULRICH AND SAFTO FUTURE FIGHT CARD.

Reports here today state that a man by the name of Steele, manager of Curly Ulrich, is at the present time negotiating for a battle between Ulrich and Safto, the hard-hitting Minneapolis fighter, who has a string of victories over fairly good men to his credit.

If the fight comes off it will be held at Hibbing or Virginia, according to the information brought here. Steele is from the Pacific coast and was successful in promoting the Proctor battle between Ulrich and McCarthy. He believes that Ulrich is one of the best boys in the country of his weight, for he has not been in this part of the country very long, and he wants the superior fighter to meet some of the best boys in his class.

ENTHUSIASM AT WINONA

Joe Killian Will Arrive in Southern Minnesota Town Tuesday.

Few Changes From Last Year Made in the Pirate Crew.

Winona, Minn., April 10.—Baseball enthusiasm will become concentrated into a live wire in Winona this week, for, be it known, Josephus Patrick Killian, native of Sterling, Ill., will weigh anchor there today and pull into this city sometime tomorrow. His coming will be the occasion for great rejoicing on the part of local fandom and baseball will at once begin to assume definite status and color with the drawing in of the fragmentary strings. Killian will immediately take charge of the reins locally and make preparations for the greeting of the training squad, the first members of which are scheduled to report early in the following week. By the close of that week if the weather permits, the men will have had a number of good workouts.

The bugs in this city ar anxiously awaiting the day when they can begin to "look 'em over" and offer predictions. Killian sometime ago said he didn't lie awake nights to win pennants in the winter but that he reserved all that energy until the summer time. And take it from Joe, he'll muster in a crowd of players, the assembling of which will tune up every sport dopster on the circuit. Already articles carrying an unmistakable trend of fear that Killian will "slip one over" on the rest of the clubs are beginning to find place on the sport pages around the circuit. At the Head of the Lakes the admission is made that Killian has a most promising following but they question that with such a contingent Killian can be able to pull within the salary limit by the required time on June 1. That insinuation has been answered by President Max A. Conrad who gives assurance that there shall be no violation of that requirement here.

Holes Are Filled.

Practically every place on the Winona team is already taken care of. One or two more pitchers will likely be secured and the training squad will be complete. The loss of Crangle in right field and Koepping on second base should give the fans no cause for worry. There is a certainty that the outfield weak last year in certain spots, will furnish the most formidable retaining wall in the entire league. The securing of Malloy and Swanson from Red Wing, both of whom undoubtedly will land positions in the outer garden, was one of the prettiest deals ever consummated in Minny baseball. Graves will without question retain his berth in the center garden.

Killian will be compelled to decide between several candidates for infield positions. It is no secret that he has attempted to dispose of Pitcher Byers and Third Baseman Goodman and likely will close the deal within the next few days. That would leave a vacancy at third and second, Goodman's and Koepping's positions last year. First base is taken care of as well as short for Curtis and Davey will both report here within the next ten days. For the two vacancies, Killian has lined up, O'Leary, Schuler, Leifeldt and Meyers, all men with reputations in baseball. Dang, who may lose his regular berth in left field, is also available for an infield position and may finally land there.

Few New Men.

The management of the Winona team has adopted a policy of signing up fewer and better men. This plan will have a telling effect upon the treasury. Most of last year's team will remain intact and for that reason it will be unnecessary to bring in a large number of men for the training period. The club will eliminate the expense of keeping them here during that time and also will avoid the purchasing of men from other teams.

The policy is an excellent one for a league of this class and this year is being tried by the Wausau management. Economy is the keynote.

It is not improbable that when Killian arrives he will be in possession of a contract for a new pitcher. He has been negotiating for some months with a twirler who worked last year in this league. He refuses to sign up with that club again this year and Killian believes he will be able to land him. He is a crack heaver and a good hitter.

LAST GAMES OF TRAINING SEASON.

New York, April 10.—A true line on the playing timber of the New York National league baseball team may be had this afternoon when they play Jersey City of the Eastern league, at the Polo grounds. Experts who have been with the ball club throughout the training season, say that the players are fit for the opening game of the official season Wednesday with Philadelphia.

Similar reports come from Scranton, Pa., where the New York Americans this afternoon play the New York State league club of that city. Hal Chase will attack the world's champions in Philadelphia on Wednesday.

Manager Dahlen and the reorganized Brooklyn Nationals out for early practice today and will march on Boston Wednesday, prepared to win.

Boston made an offer of $4,500 for Catcher Hartley of the New York Nationals, according to Manager McGraw, who refused the bid. He said he would retain Hartley on his staff permanently. Boston also wanted Catcher Wilson but McGraw said he was not for sale at any price.

Two or three major clubs have spoken for Fullerton, but McGraw lets him go it will be to a minor, where he can get him when he wants him. It is understood that Ernest Lush will get a berth in either Baltimore, Newark or Toronto. He may be a regular New York National player next season.

LA CROSSE LOSES DON CAMERON

First Sacker Goes to Dayton in the Central League.

La Crosse, Wis., April 10.—By a deal closed yesterday afternoon, Don Cameron, the fast La Crosse first sacker, who arrived in the city Sunday night from Oakland, Cal., goes to the Dayton, Ohio, club in the Central league on an optional agreement.

When Cameron arrived here for a visit with his mother, it was confidently expected that he would be ordered to report to a club in the Eastern league, several of the managers in that organization having offered his services. The Eastern league officials tried to purchase his services outright, a deal that Wolverton of the Oakland club refused to consider, and after being willing to take the fast infielder on an optional agreement as proposed by the Pacific coast manager, the Eastern league teams dropped negotiations and the Dayton club stepped in and closed a deal. By the conditions of the agreement, the Dayton club assumes the Oakland contract and the La Crosse man will receive the same salary with the Central aggregation as he would have had had he remained in the West.

In the Central league, which is Class B baseball, Cameron is expected to become a star of the first magnitude. While covering the initial sack with the Oakland club last year, in fast Class A baseball, Don made an enviable record for himself, hitting for an average of .354, many of the hits being for extra bases. In the fielding department he ranked second among the regular first sackers, fielding for an average of .967 in 174 games.

GOOD RECORD FOR LONG RACE

Hust in Fiat Drives 1,491 Miles in Twenty-Four Hours.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 10.—Driving an Italian Fiat of sixty-horse power, Valentine Hust and Frank Vorbeck won the twenty-four-hour race over the Playa Del Rey motordrome yesterday, piling up the remarkable score of 1,491 miles, an average of 62½ miles an hour, breaking the American record of 1,253 miles made by Poole and Paschke with a Stearns car at Brighton Beach Aug. 20 last. An American-made Cadillac of thirty-horse power, driven by Adair and Baudette, was second with a score of 1,448 miles, an average of over 60 miles an hour. Ten cars started the long grind at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon and seven finished.

The race was remarkable on account of the freedom from tire trouble and accidents, and because of the great mileage of the first and second cars.

The race was the first of the kind to be run on a specially constructed speedway in America. The greatest score ever made for twenty-four hours' driving was made by S. F. Edge with a Napier car over the Brookslands, England, speedway in 1907. Edge covered 1,560 miles, but it was a record trial and not a competitive event.

Following was the standing of the cars at the finish:

Fiat, first, 1,491 miles; Cadillac, second, 1,448 miles; Cole, third, 1,219 miles; Cutting, fourth, 1,186 miles; Warren-Detroit, fifth, 1,167 miles; Croxton, sixth, 1,153 miles; Chacht, seventh, 1,013 miles. The Velie, Cameron and E. M. F., did not finish.

KARLSTAD, MINN., HAS ORGANIZED BASEBALL CLUB.

Karlstad, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Karlstad has organized a baseball club and intends to play ball this summer. Dr. J. Turnbull is manager and O. S. Nordin secretary and treasurer. Newfolden has also organized with J. O. Strom as manager, Oscar Stamms secretary and treasurer and Alfred Johnson captain of a very formidable nine. These two towns are the only ones in Kittson and Marshall counties that have started boosting baseball.

"COMMY" TO GET MOOSE

John McGreevy to Head Duluth Delegation Which Will Present Gift.

Stuffed Animal Will Play Large Part in Opening Game at Chicago.

A bunch of Duluth citizens will be in Chicago when the 1911 season is opened at Comiskey's park and will make the baseball fans of the Windy City realize that Duluth, Minn., is very much on the map and is composed of some very live and up-to-date baseball lovers.

John C. McGreevy, former president of the Duluth Baseball association, one of the very best rooters in this city and a man who has always stood for the best in the great national game, and Len Culbertson, Paddy Doran, Dr. F. J. Patton, Charles Campbell and a number of others, will leave here on the night of April 19 and will be the guests of Charles A. Comiskey at the opening game between the Detroit Tigers and the White Sox.

A huge moose that was shot in the woods last fall has been stuffed by Thomas Storey and will play a large part in the festivities incident to the opening of the American league season in Chicago. This moose will be presented to the Old Roman by his Duluth friends. According to the present program, the moose will be placed in the center of the diamond before the game is called, Jack McGreevy will hold it by the horns, and the South side fans will be given a vivid picture of Comiskey in the act of shooting it.

All of the men who will make the trip to Chicago were hunting companions of Comiskey last fall. The owner of the White Sox had the time of his life on the trip and then said something about the moose being the king of the Northern woods. It was after the return of the party, when Comiskey had departed for home, that the Duluth men decided to have the best moose specimen that has been brought to this city for a long time stuffed and presented to the Old Roman at the opening game on the Chicago grounds.

Last fall several Duluthians went down to see the series between the Athletics and the Chicago Nationals. Comiskey heard of their presence in the city and insisted that they occupy seats as his guests in the box of the national commissioners. The Duluth people were given the very best in the city and came home with a warm regard for the Old Roman.

It is expected that the members of the party will have a royal good time, and also that Mr. Moose will prove one of the features of the opening festivities. The South side fans will have a very good opinion of the men from Duluth before the day is over, and also Comiskey's fame as a big hunter will probably grow.

Jack McGreevy holding that stuffed moose by the horns, out there before the thousands, and Charley Comiskey walking majestically out to the mark, as Buffalo Bill used to walk out for the grand salute, bowing to the east concourse and then aiming a trusty rifle at the inanimate figure of the moose.

It ought to be very good. It very likely will.

PLAYING MANAGER IS LEAVING GAME.

New York, April 10.—The discussion as to the relative merits of a bench and playing manager for a baseball team is again under way.

"I believe that before long all managers will be bench managers," says Hugh McBreen, secretary of the Boston Americans. "I think the game is coming to that. Baseball has gone ahead so much and come to be so fast, before long the manager will have all he can do to sit on the bench and direct the play without attempting to get upon the coaching lines. Managers must plan ahead, must be figuring out the next play and upon the lines they are apt to lose sight of moves ahead they have in their minds in the immediate duties of coaching.

"You see a manager coaching at first base one minute and then a situation arises that takes him over to third base, and it doesn't seem to me that he can make these moves and at the same time plan as clearly as if he was on the bench without anything to bother except planning. Then again, by sitting on the bench all the time with his players around him, he is constantly getting their ideas and finding out just what they think of what ought to be done."

Now it just happens that the Boston Americans have a bench manager, which may or may not influence McBreen's opinion; but at any rate it is probable that the secretaries of the New York, Cincinnati and Brooklyn clubs, in the National league, and of the Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Washington clubs, in the American league would agree with him.

The secretaries of the other major league teams would probably declare in favor of the playing managers, who are as follows:

Chance, Chicago, first base.
Clarke, Pittsburg Pirates, left field.
Dooin, Phillies, catcher.
Bresnahan, St. Louis Cardinals, catcher.
Tenny, Boston Dovers, first base.
Chase, Yankees, first base.
Wallace, St. Louis Browns, third base.

The whole question is, of course, largely a matter of individuals and personality and will probably be a source for argument as long as the game exists.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stephenson, who are spending the spring in Daytona, Fla., arranged a program for the closing Sunday evening musicale of the season at the Ivy Lane Inn, at which hotel they have been stopping. The Daytona Daily News printed the following account of the affair:

"At the Sunday evening musicale, this week at the Ivy Lane Inn, which was the final for the present season, the program was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson and Miss Godman, guests of the Inn, assisted by Miss Underhill from the Ridgewood, and Mr. Sengstak.

"Mrs. Stephenson is a very accomplished pianist and delighted with her solo work as also in the concerted numbers. Miss Godman's songs were beautifully given and the flute accompaniment by Mr. Sengstak added much to the effect. This gentleman was also very generous with some beautiful solo work. Miss Underhill, with her sweet, well-trained voice, charmed her listeners, who are gratetful for her ready assent to take part in the evening's entertainment.

"The star of the evening, judging from the applause and insistent encores, was Mr. Stephenson. His musical instrument, of the size and appearance of a 10-cent whistle, and the tones of a piccolo, was certainly handled with great skill in the rendering of the old familiar airs.

"After the musical features were finished, Mrs. Granger of Ohio read some impromptu verses that referred most graciously and kindly to the season just closing at this hotel and calling at the close for cheers for the house which were given with a hearty good will by the guests who this week commence their departure for the North."

WOMEN'S MASS MEETING.

J. Campbell White to Speak at Y. W. C. A.

J. Campbell White, general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, who is to speak at several meetings here this week, will be the speaker at the last of the series of the noon meetings tomorrow at the Young Women's Christian association building at 12:15.

All other meetings which he will hold will be meetings for men and this is to be the only one for women. Mr. White is an interesting speaker and Miss Campbell felt that the women of the city who are interested in this movement ought to have a chance to hear him. The meeting is open and all women interested are cordially invited to attend.

WILL STUDY GRAND OPERA

Walter Smith Receives Encouragement in Paris.

Walter Smith of this city, who is studying music in Paris, has met with encouraging success, and under the encouragement of his teachers has decided to study for grand opera. He has been studying with Seagle, who trains voices for De Reske and has been taking home work from Seagle's assistants afternoons. Next season he will study with De Reske himself. He is also studying French, Italian, German and dramatic art.

His Duluth friends who are interested in him will receive these reports with pleasure.

Should Women Speak in the Churches? Here Are Mrs. Grannis' Views

MRS. E. B. GRANNIS.

Recently the National Christian league for the promotion of purity planned to hold its annual meeting at the Albany cathedral.

Bishop Doane, who has been a great friend of Mrs. Grannis for many years, refused to permit the meeting in the cathedral on the ground that scriptures forbid women to speak in church. A great deal of discussion has been stirred up concerning the matter and Mrs. Grannis has given out the following statement to the Bain News service in answer to the criticisms that have been made.

"Mrs. Grannis asserts she has never received a written line or a verbal reference from Bishop Doane referring to Paul's command to the Corinthians about women keeping silence in the churches. A bishop's mind or heart is never so illuminated or so ignorant that he is in muse to enlightenment from association with wise, progressive women. Even Bishop Doan would admit that he teaches and deshres every woman at every service two or three times each Lord's day to read the service with audible enunciation. The usages of the church which shield the pulpit and the chancel from the voice of her who was commissioned by the Head of the Church to carry the glad tidings of the resurrection to Chrks.'s disciples, need reformation. Such usages reflect in a sense the degradation of Hindoo and other Oriental religions of the people 6,000 years before Christ came. 'The Son of Man had power on earth to forgive sins.' Bishop Doane or no other prelate assumes for an instant that Christ had any human heritage save through his mother, who was in every sense as truly man as if she had been a male-man. All women are men in the generic sense and on a perfect equality with male-men mentally and spiritually.

Cabin Party.

A crowd of young people will give a cabin party this evening at the Wa-Pse-Ke club cabin on Lester river for Miss Irene Krantz, who is the guest of Miss Louana Phelps.

Two Bridge Parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nolte of Woodland entertained at bridge Saturday evening at their home. The game was played at four tables.

They will be hosts at a second bridge party this evening at their home.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Katherine Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, 210 West Second street, to Hugh Brown, also of this city, has been announced.

Entertain at Cards.

Mr. and Mrs. William O'Malley of 1502 London road, entertained at tables of cards Saturday evening at their home. Prizes were won by Mrs. F. J. Small, Mrs. C. D. Frain, Frank J. Small and E. Stebner. Those present were:

Messrs. and Mesdames—
Charles J. Knox, Frank J. Small,
E. Stebner, J. Kennell,
C. D. Frain, J. Mulhern.
A. Segers,

Dinner for Guests.

Mrs. W. F. Mernian of 509 East Third street entertained at a prettily appointed dinner of ten covers yesterday at her home in compliment to her sister, Mrs. J. E. Cummings of Chisholm, who has been her guest, and Mr. and Mrs. Casey and Mr. and Mrs. O'Neil, also of that city, who were guests in Duluth for the week-end. Carnations were used as a centerpiece for the table.

Third Lecture of Series.

Dr. Nathaniel L. Rubinkam has announced the subject of the third lecture of the course which he is to give here the last of this month under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club. It will be "Jose Echegaray and the Great Goleotto." This drama of the Spanish writer is ranked among his greatest works and is the play of which the English drama, "The World and His Wife," is a translation. This lecture will be given on Monday evening, May 1.

The other lectures will be "Tennyson and Darwin," Thursday afternoon, April 27, and "Maeterlinck and the Blue Bird," on Saturday afternoon, April 29.

The proceeds from these lectures will be devoted entirely to the activities of the Neighborhood house, which the club conducts in the West end.

Church Meetings.

A business meeting of Trinity Guild of Trinity Pro-Cathedral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the guild hall. All the members are requested to be present.

Circle No. 3 of the Endion Methodist Episcopal church will meet with Mrs. J. C. Swan, 425 Tenth avenue east, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Glen Avon Mission circle will meet tomorrow evening at the church at 6:30 o'clock. This is a meeting postponed from last week and will be held on Tuesday instead of Wednesday on this account.

THE EVENING STORY

LOVE OR DUTY

By C. Malcolm Hincks.

"Richard Greywood, D. S." The young fellow with the clean-shaven, good-humored face strode briskly along through the streets of the suburb, murmuring the words over and over again. And what a difference those two letters tacked on his name made to him.

He was a detective now; true, a detective in quite a humble way, but attached to the Central Station, with a chance now of marrying pretty Lillian Holt, the daughter of the inspector at his station, who recommended him for promotion.

It was nearly 7 o'clock when he reached the neat little house in the somewhat gloomy street.

Lillian was in the sitting room with her brother, who was having his dinner.

Inspector Holt and his daughter had supper at 9, but Alfred Holt thought it more respectable to "dine" at 7, and he always expected his sister to wait upon him.

He called himself a city man, and told wonderful stories of his influence with the firm; but, as a matter of fact, he was a junior clerk with a salary of $10 a week, and lived on his father's generosity. It was the greatest mystery to Greywood, who saw that the young fellow was a bashful little cad, how Inspector Holt and Lillian both worshiped him, and denied themselves many things on his account.

He glanced up with a frown as Greywood entered.

"Ah, Greywood," he said, with a patronizing air that he always adopted to his father's subordinate; "bit early aren't you?"

"Yes," said Greywood, shortly. "I've got great news to tell your sister."

"Great news!" cried Lillian, who had shyly shaken hands with him, and then drawn away, noticing her brother's frown.

Greywood told them of his promotion, pictured his future in glowing colors, getting as far as "detective sergeant," before he had to stop for breath.

"I am glad!" cried the girl heartily, and then blushed at her enthusiasm.

"I don't see anything to get so excited about," Alfred said, shortly. "Mind you, it's not bad for you, Greywood; but we fellows in the city go up by big leaps. I'm now considering the offer made me by a rival firm at double my present salary."

"Oh, Alfred!" cried Lillian. "That will be good news for father! He—"

"Don't mention it to him yet," cried Mr. Alfred hastily. "I—er—may not be able to accept it. There are many things to think about. Sometimes it's policy to stick to a firm whatever the temptation to leave. You see that, don't you, Greywood?"

"I understand the situation perfectly," said the detective drily. And Mr. Alfred winced under his keen glance, muttered something about an appointment to play a game of billiards, and went out—to Greywood's great joy.

"Lillian," he said suddenly, "now I've got this promotion I shall have a chance of pushing ahead, and then I'm going to ask—"

"Here's father!" cried the girl.

Somehow she did not seem to welcome her parent's return so affectionately as usual.

Richard Greywood had got his first case.

It was not really an important one, but to the young detective it was the most interesting case upon which the police at that moment were engaged.

"I'll put you in charge of this case, Greywood," Inspector Holt had said in his abrupt manner, "and it will give you a chance to show what you are made of."

A butcher's shop in High street had been raided in the night, the till forced open and a little over $25 stolen.

This burglary had followed two similar ones in a comparatively short space of time, and the police were anxious to catch the men or man who they felt was responsible for all three.

Greywood interviewed the butcher, who could tell him little or nothing, as he had not discovered his loss until he had come down the next morning. Greywood came to the conclusion that it had been a single-handed job.

"It's the work of a beginner," he told himself; "the way the till was forced shows that. I reckon it's some area-sneak, who, after his first success, is getting daring."

Then he dicovered marks on the wall that shut off the yard in the rear of the shop from the alleyway leading to some disused stables, and he remembered that the other two shops that had been raided also backed on to this alley, though in the two previous cases there has been everything to suggest that an entrance had been forced from High street itself.

This alleyway ran behind a block of seven shops, the four that had not been burgled. One was a druggist's, another a news agent's, another a grocer shop, and the last, the one nearest the disused stables—was a fish shop.

And Greywood decided that the thief, emboldened by his success, would make another attempt, and he felt certain that the fish shop proprietor would be his next victim, for a roaring trade was done there every night, and the window of the back room would be an easy one to force, for the ancient shutters had a rusty and much worn fastening that any one with the slightest pretensions as a burglar could easily force open.

Three nights from half an hour from closing time of the shop until daybreak he kept a cold vigil in the disused stable nearest the shop, having bored a hole in the door that enabled him to command a view of the wall behind the shop that he felt certain would be the next one to be raided.

Then, on the fourth night, he received his reward; for, just after 1 in the morning, he saw a shadowy form force open the door in the wall at the rear of the fish shop and disappear.

Greywood was out of the stable in an instant, and crept softly along the wall. The door was closed, but not fastened, and he stood, listened intently for a moment, and presently the sound of the shutter being gently forced back came to him.

"I'll catch my man red-handed," he said to himself. And then, after waiting a few moments, he entered the yard and stole softly across to the open window. Then swiftly and silently he climbed in and made his way to the fish shop.

A quick glance around showed the figure of a man working hard at the till, using a strong chisel.

Greywood braced himself for a sharp encounter, measuerd his distance, and sprang on him.

"Ho, ho!" he cried triumphantly. "And you'd better not try any tricks!" Then the light fell on the face of his captive and he let go his hold and staggered back. "Good heavens!" he gasped. "You?"

For the young fellow cowering before him was the son of his superior officer and benefactor—the brother of the girl he loved.

Fads of the Fashions

Old velvet gowns can be renewed with sleeves and bolero bodices of cloth and cloth bands on the skirt.

Some delightful evening gowns have a long scarf of black chiffon over one shoulder only.

Bushy neckties of the finest washing materials are worn with plain coats and skirts.

Huge black hats with profuse trimmings quite often have the wide brims faced with the color of the plain costume worn at the same time.

The fashions of the past month have established beyond a doubt the fact that Empire tendencies will prevail for some time to come. The waist line in both dresses and coats has been heightened, and when the cut of the garment is not pronouncedly Empire, then the trimming is so applied as to simulate the shortwaisted effect.

The vogue for velvet is, if anything, on the increase. We have had the velvet scarf, the handbag of velvet, the velvet shoe and slipper and the velvet parasol, fan and muff, and new ways of using velvet are invented daily.

Borders are one of the chief characteristics of many of the new cotton materials, and are charmingly exploited on the striped and dotted French swisses, cotton voiles and marquisettes, French tulles, mousselines and pongettes.

Shoes may be had to match almost any costume for the street, and as for evening wear, the shoes of satin, velvet and brocade, the slippers of gold and silver, embroidered and lace, with the most fascinating buckles and bows, are a delight.

CAN'T "REFORM" THE DRINKER

You Must First Remove His Terrible Craving for Liquor.

NEAL TREATMENT SUCCESSFUL.

Drives the Poison Out of the System and Sets Up Distaste for Drink.

The drink habit is more than a habit. One doesn't drink today merely because he drank yesterday or last week or last month. He drinks to satisfy a craving which previous drinking induces. The more he drinks and the oftener he drinks, the more and the oftener he wants to drink. There must be some other reason for this than merely that he has got into the habit of drinking. It is found in the fact that the taking of alcohol into the system inoculates it with a subtle poison that cries for more. Alcohol creates an appetite, a craving, a mad desire, which nothing but more alcohol will satisfy. That is what makes drunkards and why drunkards are slaves to the habit. Now to reform the man thus afflicted it is of little use to preach to him of the virtues of temperance and the horrors of drink. He probably realizes them better than anybody. The thing to do is to remove the craving. That is the problem to which in recent years practical temperance reformers have applied themselves. And that is the problem which the Neal treatment has solved. It has done more. It has found a scientific method of replacing the craving for drink with an aversion to and distaste for it. The Neal treatment does not do this by hypodermic injections which scar the body, and undermine the system and leave it open to the attacks of disease. It does it through a simple medicinal treatment with harmless remedies. The Neal treatment cures in three days. Absolutely. Unfailingly. The patient takes no risk, as a guarantee bond is given to effect a perfect cure, to his entire satisfaction, or return the full fee paid at end of treatment. The treatment involves no prolonged absence from business. In three days it is all over and the patient returns to his friends, his family and his home safe and sound, with the craving for intoxicants completely dissipated.

If you are afflicted with the drink habit and really want to be cured, or if you are interested in a friend or relative who needs treatment, write to the Neal Institute Co., corner Belknap and Seventh streets, Superior, for their free booklet giving full information and a copy of their contract. It will be mailed to you under a plain sealed envelope and everything will be strictly confidential. You can be treated at Superior Institute, or the St. Paul, Minn., Institute, 676 Dayton avenue, or at the Minneapolis, Minn., Institute, corner Fourth avenue south and Seventh street, whichever happens to be the most convenient to you.

WILL LOOK OVER ROUTE

Second Ward Residents and Street Railway Officials to Confer.

Extension of Line Up the Hill Will Be Made This Year.

Residents of the Second ward who are interested in the street car extension in that part of the city will meet city officials at Fifth avenue east and Fourth street tomorrow morning and go over the route of the proposed extension together.

The indications are that this will be about the first new extension which will be put in by the street car company. That section of the city has been growing rapidly the last few years, and there is a general feeling that the residents are entitled to an improved street car service. As originally proposed the branch would start at Fifth avenue east and Fourth street, go up Fifth avenue east to Fifth street, along Fifth street to Sixth avenue east, up Sixth avenue east to Sixth street, on Sixth street to Seventh avenue east, and up Seventh avenue east to Eleventh street.

Several minor changes have been suggested, and it is possible that part of them may be made. But in general the route will be about as named. The grade in some places is fairly steep, but it does not exceed 7½ per cent, which is not prohibitive for short distances. It has been stated that eventually this line will be extended to the poor farm.

CLOQUET HAPPENINGS.

First Death From Diphtheria This Year Claims Little Child.

Cloquet, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first death in the city this year from diphtheria occurred Saturday, when George Laniel, 5 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Laniel of Fourth street, passed away after several days' illness. Interment was made Saturday afternoon in the Catholic cemetery.

Norman Dwyer came home from Potlach, Idaho, a few days ago, and will remain here for the summer.

Mrs. Fornance came from Minneapolis Thursday for a few days' visit.

Misses Marian and Winnifred Stockwell of Hudson, Wis., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Farr.

Mrs. M. E. Davis was a Saturday shopper in Duluth.

Mrs. H. B. Allen of Minneapolis is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Maude Smith, who has been visiting at the Patrick Doherty home, has returned to St. Paul.

Mrs. Louis G. Clark and daughter Mildred of Minneapolis are guests of the former's sister, Mrs. J. E. Atkins.

Miss Carrie Sell will entertain the Altar Guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church tomorrow evening.

Dr. and Mrs. T. O. Braafladt entertained at 500 at their home Friday evening.

Mrs. Nellson of Houston, Minn., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Bergstrom.

Harold Hanson has accepted the position of stenographer with the Cloquet Lumber company recently made vacant by the resignation of Clyde Kutzner.

Cloquet will build extensive cement walks this summer, and City Clerk Grenier has called for bids for the materials and work.

Miss Amy Gilbertson of Brainerd was an over-Sunday guest of the Misses Haseby. Miss Gilbertson is attending the Duluth normal.

Albert Jube and wife have gone to Hill City to resido.

Hanford Cox is at home from the state university for a few days.

Mrs. Gust Gilbert leaves this week for Chippewa Falls, Wis., to visit for a short time, after which she goes to Hot Springs, Ark., for the benefit of her health.

INCREASE IN ORE TONNAGE

Great Northern Will Ship 10,000,000 Tons From Allouez This Year.

New Dock Will Be Completed and Capacity of Docks Increased.

It is stated that the Great Northern railroad will ship 10,000,000 tons of iron ore from the dock at Allouez bay. This will be an increase of about 1,500,000 tons over the amount shipped last season. The sliding scale orders providing for an annual increase of tonnage from the United States Steel company accounts for the increase.

New steel dock No. 4, which is under construction at the present time, will be completed by July, according to the plans of the contractor. This will give the company increased capacity at the docks and will also give it greater unloading facilities.

Fifteen miles of double tracking of the line west of Brookston is nearly completed, and about ten miles of tracks to new mines have been nearly completed. The Great Northern has also three lines from the Mesaba range connecting with the main line, which will give the operators every opportunity to rush shipments if necessary, and will also prevent any traffic tieup. Some of the consignment of 750 new cars are being delivered at the present time.

SHOALS REPORTED IN THE HARBOR

Some Dredging of Channels Will Be Necessary This Year.

According to the report issued by Maj. Francis R. Shunk, who has succeeded Lieut. Col. Graham D. Fitch in charge of the harbor here, there are a number of shoals in the vicinity of the Duluth harbor and some in the harbor which had been discovered last fall and which will require some dredging.

There is a narrow shoal, twenty to fifty feet wide and about 550 feet long, lying parallel to the axis of Superior front channel and about 200 feet out from the Northwestern fuel dock, No. 1. At some places there is only a depth of 18 feet. It is very probable that the shoal will be removed by the owners of the dock, as the sand filling in for the dock is said to have been the cause of the shoal.

In the Superior harbor there is said to be another shoal, running out from the south side of the basin, midway between ore dock No. 4 and Pittsburgh coal dock No. 5. The shoal was caused by the filling in of material and will be dredged out some time this summer.

The Superior harbor, right off the mouth of the Nemadji river, which was dredged in 1907 because deposits of the river caused a shoal, has a depth of twenty-two and one-tenth feet, though the dredging was to a depth of twenty-six feet. No dredging will have to be done here at the present time.

BUSY SEASON AT MILLS.

Steamer Lakeland to Take on Cargo at Daisy Mill for First Trip.

The steamer Lakeland, which will be loaded at the Daisy mill tomorrow, will carry the first cargo of the season from the Superior mills down the lakes. The boat will leave the harbor Wednesday.

The mills of the East end will have a busy season this year. The old Anchor mill, which has been shut down for a number of years, may be fitted out with machinery and put in shape for service again this spring.

NO CHANGE IN COAL RATES AT OPENING.

According to the reports from the lower lakes, there will be no change at the opening from the coal rates charged at the close of last season. Then the rate on coal was 30 cents. A prominent shipper of one of the Ohio ports has given it out that he will send out some coal at the opening of navigation and that he has made arrangements for the shipment of this coal with the understanding that the rate will remain unchanged.

The rate to Lake Michigan points will open at 35 cents, according to the same source of information.

Rev. W. Risinger and M. Berglund will conduct services at the Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, every evening this week. They are Sunday school missionaries for the Baptists of Minnesota. On Thursday evening the Sunday school will give an Easter concert at the church.

At Bethany Swedish Lutheran church there will be devotional services every evening and on Good Friday at 10:30 in the morning.

Special services will be held Easter in all of the churches.

OBJECTING TO IMPROVEMENTS

West End Property Owners Do Not Want Streets Paved.

The attitude of some of the West end property holders is meeting with censure from the business men of the progressive type who live in the western end of the city.

The business men want Third street paved. Some of the property owners oppose it. They also want some of the avenues west of Twenty-first avenue improved. This also is objected to by some of the property holders. The Commercial club will probably take up this matter at its next meeting and find out the reason why improvements are objected to.

George M. Jensen, secretary of the club, in speaking of the situation, says:

"During the past two years scores of well-to-do business men have moved from the West end to other parts of the city for this identical reason. They would try to have street and other improvements made in the vicinity of their homes or in localities in which they were interested, but would encounter so much opposition that they would become disheartened and move their families to a part of town where conditions were more in line with their ideas of what they should be.

"Take the avenues west of Twenty-first. With the exception of a very few none are even graded, to say nothing of pavements. There is no question but that improvements of this character add to the value of property, as well as to its appearance, and the satisfaction of the people living on it, but through this mistaken sense of economy, necessary work is constantly delayed. It is only after the most persistent and vigorous agitation that the most urgent improvements can be made and even then there is always opposition from people who think a hovel is a home and rank most improvements as public extravagance.

"There has been considerable talk during the past year or two regarding the pavng of Third street for the ten blocks between Nineteenth and Twenty-ninth avenues, but from present indications it may be another year or two before enything will be done."

West End Briefs.

The Epworth League Sewing circle of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church will entertain Tuesday evening at an experience social at the church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

The regular meeting of the West End W. C. T. U., which was to have been held tomorrow afternoon, has been postponed for a week and will be held Tuesday, April 18, at the home of Mrs. Edward Thorstad of 3004 West Third street.

Rev. W. S. Middlemas of Sandstone, Minn., conducted services yesterday at the Second Prysbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for George T. Wilton, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Wilton of 2701 West Helm street, who died Friday. The funeral was held from Grace M. E. church to Forest Hill cemetery, Rev. J. H. Murray, pastor, officiated.

Mrs. Joseph Peer of 2717 West Fourth street, will entertain the Women's Missionary Society of the Second Presbyterian church at her home Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. John McCloud of the Glen Avon church will speak on "Home Missions."

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church will be entertained Wednesday afternoon at the church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, by Mrs. Leonard Anderson and Mrs. Adolph Johnson.

M. N. Hokanson, a student at the University of Chicago, is a guest at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. E. Harmann of 113 North Twenty-eighth avenue west.

Miss Enid Shaw of the Adams school has gone to Vincent, Iowa, to spend the Easter vacation.

The Lion drug store has moved to the new Anderson-Thoorsell block, 2030 West Superior street.

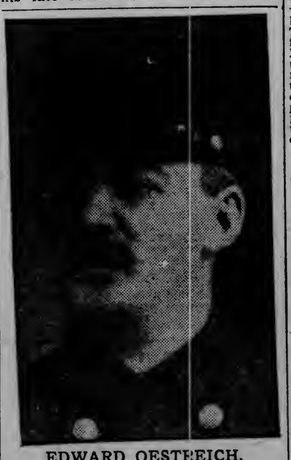
DEATH FOLLOWS AN OPERATION

Well Known Duluth Fireman Dies at St. Mary's Hospital.

The funeral of Edward Albert Oestreich, an engineer at No. 8 fire hall and a member of the fire department the last twelve years, will take place Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence, 305 East Seventh street, and later from the English Lutheran church, Lake avenue and Third street.



EDWARD OESTREICH.

He died about midnight Saturday following an operation at St. Mary's hospital. It will be a fire department funeral and a platoon of police will be in attendance.

Mr. Oestreich was born and raised in Duluth and was one of the most popular men in the department. Before joining the department he was a dredge engineer. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Margaret, 5 years old, his mother, Mrs. Mathilda Oestreich, two sisters, Mrs. H. J. and Mrs. E. F. Sigel of Virgina, and three brothers, Fred of Cleveland and Henry and George of Duluth. He was a member of the A. O. U. W. Lodge No. 105, the Order of Owls, North Star Lodge No. 35, K. of P. and the Duluth Benevolent society.

MEETING OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMITTEE.

The affairs of the year will be wound up by the public affairs committee of the Commercial club at its meeting tomorrow evening. Although the committee will continue to serve until the new committee is appointed by the president after the annual meeting Wednesday night, tomorrow evening's meeting will practically wind up the year of the committee.

The report of the sub-committee which considered methods of dealing with petty offenders will very likely be taken up tomorrow evening also. The report was submitted at the meeting of the committee a week ago last Friday night and action was deferred until Mayor Cullum could attend a meeting of the committee and discuss the subject. The sub-committee reported in favor of the retention of the present jail, the institution of the rock pile as a work test for vagrants and the establishment of a work farm for drunkards and other petty offenders.

Boast 40-Year-Old Mare.

Seney, Mich., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The hamlet of Garnet, Mackinac county, has come to the front with the claim that it possesses the oldest horse in the state. The animal is a mare and is in its 40th year. It is the property of Fred Bernier, who, it is stated, has an authentic record of the horse from the time it was foaled.

SAVE THIS PRESCRIPTION.

The following prescription may prove more valuable than gold in time of need. For weak, deranged kidneys, bladder or other urinary organs, mix one half ounce fluid extract buchu, one half ounce murax compound, six ounces good pure gin. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Any well stocked drug store has the ingredients. It is easily mixed. This quickly restores these organs to their natural power of carrying off impurities. Bachache, rheumatic pains and other well known symptoms must be treated promptly to be safe from more serious kidney trouble.

PLANS FOR NEW PARKS

Strip Along Lake Shore and Street Ends Are Suggested.

Sand Boxes for Small Children Wanted in Vacant Lots.

The parks, playgrounds and docks sub-committee of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club held a meeting today and discussed matters which will be turned over as a legacy to the new sub-committee which it is appointed.

One subject pending is the acquisition by the city of a narrow strip of land from the canal piers to Ninth avenue east, along the shore so as to carry the riparian rights. It is believed that at some future time the land in the space between the canal and Ninth or Tenth avenues will be filled in, if the city purchases a narrow strip so as to obtain the riparian rights, it will have the space for a fine park.

Another proposed public improvement, which the committee has considered is that of utilizing the stub-ends of streets, which will never be used as highways, for park purposes. It is proposed to have the city dedicate all of these streets, with the exception of enough for a path or stairway, to the park purposes. The members of the committee believe that residents having property adjoining such spaces would be glad to improve them and give them attention under the supervision of the park board.

Mayor Cullum said at the committee meeting today that one of the suggestions that impressed him greatly at the recent playgrounds institute was that of providing sand baxes for the children at every possible point that can be used for that purpose. It is pointed out that, although an effort is made to reach the school children by establishing playgrounds near the schools, no effort is made to reach the smaller children. Children play in sand wherever they can and the mayor said that sand boxes would reach probably more little ones than the more elaborate and expensive playgrounds. They could be placed at angles of streets, in unimproved avenues and on vacant lots, giving one to almost every block.

The members of the committee present at the meeting were Mayor Cullum, Bishop McGolrick, E. M. Morgan and C. S. Mitchell.

MEETING WAS WITHOUT RESULT

Fast Freight on Omaha Line Will Not Be Restored.

No decision was arrived at Saturday afternoon at the conference of the Omaha officials and the shippers and business men of Eau Claire over the matter of restoring a fast freight service between the Wisconsin town and the Head of the Lakes.

The Eau Claire shippers say that since the Omaha took off its through freight to Duluth, no adequate service is at hand to permit of the shipment of perishable goods. Fruit growers and commission men say that the Head of the Lakes trade means much to them.

LIQUIDATION IN COPPER STOCKS

Values Recede and Undertone Is Weak—No Trust Decisions.

The copper market continued dull and lifeless. Values weakened after a strong opening. There was liquidation by tired holders. The decision in the Minnesota railroad rate case, which was favorable to the railroads, caused some strength in the rails, but there was so little buying power in the market that stocks moved sluggishly and the fluctuations were narrow.

The report of the United States Steel corporation on unfilled tonnage showed 3,447,301 tons, an increase of 47,000 tons, which was smaller than had been expected. Pressure on Missouri Pacific unsettled the rails and the disappointment of the market that no decisions were handed down by the United States supreme court in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco cases was reflected in the liquidation from tired holders and the downward trend of the market toward the close.

Denn sold at $6.18¾, Warren at $2.25, Calumet & Corbin at 22c and Keating at $2.62½ to $2.56¼.

Amalgamated sold at $62.75, $62.25 and $62.37½, Butte Coalition at $17.50, Giroux at $6, Calumet & Arizona at $49.50, $50 and $49.50, North Butte at $29 to $28.25, Shattuck at $18, Greene at $6.50 to $6.37½, Superior & Pittsburg at $14.12½ to $13.75.

Butte wired: "North Butte officials refuse to confirm report of strike in Speculator shaft, but the fact is, an important discovery has been made at a depth of 2,750 feet in the shaft where a vein fifteen feet wide containing three feet of copper glance has been penetrated. It is uncertain what vein it is, as it is not the Edith May, but is the ore body discovered about a year ago by diamond drilling on the 2,800-foot level of the Diamond mine. There is little doubt that the vein belongs to North Butte.

"It is asserted here that the insiders have known of the strike for several days. The Edith May vein on the 2,400-foot level is proving disappointing, as the ore body is broken and low in grade."

Butte wired: Reports from North Butte Saturday confirm the rumor of a strike of a new vein in the Speculator shaft. The vein is twelve feet wide, and will be opened and drifted on at the 2,800-foot level. The identity of the vein is not yet established. Possibly it has its apex on Tuolumne and the Granite Mountain claims.

Globe, Ariz., wired Paine, Webber & Co.: Live Oak started a second shaft on April 1. This will be a two-compartment shaft and will be sunk at once to the 1,200-foot level. Drill No. 5 is down 570 feet and still in 4 per cent ore, which was encountered at 550 feet. A crosscut from the 1,000-foot level of Superior & Boston will be started to explore the Old Dominion vein to the north of the shaft.

Class Is Confirmed.
Bishop J. D. Morrison confirmed a class of thirty boys and girls at Trinity Pro-Cathedral, Twentieth avenue east and Superior street, yesterday. The occasion was the bishop's annual visitation to the Pro-Cathedral. Palm Sunday was fittingly celebrated in all Catholic and Episcopal churches of the city yesterday.

Wife Was Sleeping.
Members of the family of Joe London, who committed suicide early Friday morning by swallowing carbolic acid, state that his wife did not see him take it. They explained that she was awakened about 4 o'clock in the morning by the baby, and that she heard her husband say, "I have poisoned myself." When she tried to arouse him she received no response and then sent for a doctor, but he was dead before assistance arrived. She was in the room with him but was sleeping when he took the poison.

Stricken With Apoplexy.
Cortland M. Burnett, former roadmaster of the D., M. & N. and at one time a candidate for sheriff of St. Louis county, is seriously ill at St. Mary's hospital, having been stricken with apoplexy at his rooming place, 318 West Second street, yesterday morning. He is well known in the city.

J. L. Washburn Returns.
J. L. Washburn has returned from a Southern trip, having divided the time between Florida and North and South Carolina. Mr. Washburn spent a week at Tarpon Springs in Florida with M. H. Alworth and also spent some time at Belleair, where there is a colony of fourteen Duluth people. Mrs. Washburn, who recently returned from a trip abroad, joined Mr. Washburn at Tryon, N. C., and will return to Duluth later.

Jury Disagrees.
The jury in the case brought against the Section Thirty Mining company by Andrew Holm, who asked $6,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained while in the employ of the company, disagreed at the end of a lengthy session. They were dismissed Saturday afternoon by Judge J. D. Ensign of the district court.

Collins Funeral.
The funeral services of Dolly Hoatson, the 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Collins, were held this afternoon at their residence, 1810 Jefferson street. Interment was at Forest Hill cemetery.

Five Days Straight.
Hiskie Rittinen didn't keep the promise he made to the judge in police court last week when he was arraigned on a charge of being drunk. He said he would keep sober, but he was in again this morning on the same charge. The court gave him five days straight in the county jail. He had $10 bail up, but the court didn't give him a chance to get out on the payment of a fine.

LIFE ON THE ISLE OF PINES

In a letter to W. F. McKay of the county auditor's office, H. L. Shepard of Duluth tells something of life at Santa Fe, Isle of Pines, in the West Indies, where he owns a farm and where he went some time ago for his health.

He states that the climate is delightful. The temperature ranges between 70 and 80, he says.

Mr. Shepard says that the roads on the island are the best in the world and he tells of some fast automobile trips he has taken about the island.

The island is but 30 by 40 miles and its population is from 3,500 to 4,000. These figures include the natives.

Seventy-three automobiles are owned on the island.

Mr. Shepard tells of his grapefruit orchard and the great progress in fruit farming being made by Americans on the island.

He states that his health is much improved and that he expects to be back in Duluth about June 1.

OBITUARY

Maj. Charles H. Devereaux, U. S. A., retired, was found dead in bed in his home on the Fort Thomas military reservation, April 9. Maj. Devereaux was a veteran of both the Civil and Spanish-American wars and won commendation from his superviors because of gallantry at the charge up San Juan hill, during which he was in command of a part of the Sixth infantry. He was 62 years of age. According to the coroner, death was due to natural causes.

Thomas Francis Conroy, known in sporting circles as "Stocking" Conroy, died in Troy, N. Y., April 9. Conroy was a well known heavyweight and was knocked out by Tom Sharkey March 29, 1900, at Baltimore. This ended his pugilistic career.

Mrs. Agnes Fitzgerald, wife of George W. Fitzgerald, former assorting teller in the United States subtreasury, now awaiting trial for the alleged theft of $173,000, died in Chicago, April 9, from injuries received in falling down a flight of stairs.

James Vincent, millionaire lumberman, and California forty-niner, died in La Crosse, Wis., April 8, aged 86.

Farmers Organize at Warren.
Warren, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. E. Brown of Elk River spoke to a large assembly of farmers at the city hall Saturday on the raising of potatoes. A temporary organization of potato growers has been effected in town by electing E. L. Spaulding president and Morris Murger secretary. The farmers of this vicinity intend to give potatoes a good tryout this year and a carload of Early Ohio potatoes has been ordered from Clay county to be used as seed.

OPENING TO BE DELAYED

Boats Will Not Be Able to Pass the Soo on April 15.

Package Freighters Are Being Loaded at Lower Lake Ports.

H. S. Noble, assistant manager of the Mutual Steamship company, and Charles M. Heald, president and general manager of the company, are in the city today inspecting the business of the company here. Both of the officials will leave for the Copper country this evening.

"To my mind there isn't a chance that navigation can open on April 15," said Mr. Noble. "Our boats are loading at Buffalo and some of the other lower lake ports, and some are loaded at the present time. Our boats at Duluth will be loaded before the close of the present week, and we will be ready to sail on April 15, if such a thing is possible. From the present looks of the St. Mary's river, however, it does not look possible.

"At the present time the outlook for the package freight business is very quiet. By that statement don't understand me to mean that the year will not be a good one. I have every reason to think that the present season will be better than last season. But I am inclined to think that it will open very quiet and will gradually increase as the season goes on.

"That is a very much better condition than to have the season open with a hurrah and then slump off before it has been under way for very long. Business conditions are righting themselves at the present time and the people are getting confidence back. This is counting in every line of business and will have its effect on the traffic of the lakes.

"I think that the people are learning that a little optimism is a very good thing. There is a silver lining to the blackest cloud, and I believe that business will soon show a decided improvement, which will be reflected in the steamship business as well as other lines."

EMBRYO REPUBLIC STARTED IN SPAIN

Population of Town in Province of Malaga in Rebellion.

Madrid, April 10.—An embryo republic has been proclaimed at Canillas de Aceitune in the province of Malaga. The populace of the town rebelled against the royal authority, and attacked the barracks of the civil guard. Several persons were wounded in the fighting that followed. Reinforcements of troops are being hurried to the scene.

FRIENDS BID TOM JOHNSON GOODBY

Physicians Believe Former Mayor Will Pass Away While Asleep.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 10.—Former Mayor Tom L. Johnson, who last night was near death, but rallied under the effect of strong stimulants, suffered another sinking spell early today. Despite these relapses, each of which leaves Mr. Johnson weaker, his physician, Dr. Oscar Thomas, says that the former mayor may live through the day, or longer.

Mr. Johnson slept most of the morning, but recognized and talked with his family during the brief intervals he was awake. A few close friends were admitted to the sick room to bid Mr. Johnson goodby. Dr. Thomas, the attending physician, said he probably would pass away while asleep.

At 12:30 o'clock the sick man again sank to sleep. The family and a few friends were summoned to the sick room.

VETERAN EDITOR WILL RETIRE

M. F. Wesenberg, for many years editor and publisher of the Duluth Skandinav, which he founded in 1887, has disposed of his half interest to Serverin Simonson, recently connected with the Bellingham, Wash., World. J. C. Wesenberg, his son, owns the other half interest.

Mr. Wesenberg has been engaged in newspaper work in the Northwest for the last forty years. He came from Norway at the age of 18. He served in the Civil war and was wounded in battle. He came to this state in 1870 and founded a paper in St. Paul, which he later sold. Mr. Wesenberg will remain with the Skandinav as editor for a brief period, and will then retire.

NO TROUBLE EXPECTED.

When Red Lake and Pennington Counties Adjust Debt.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—On the 20th of this month the boards of the county of Pennington and the mother county, Red Lake, meet in joint session to make a division of the county property. This consists of the new $90,000 courthouse, the sheriff's residence and the county jail. The cash on hand as well as the county indebtedness is to be divided. No fear of a dispute is entertained, as the property is tangible and the law specifically directs how it all must be divided between the old and the new county.

COMMERCIAL CLUB NOMINATIONS.

Nominations for directors of the Commercial club, to be voted upon at the annual meeting Wednesday, will close tonight at midnight. Seven candidates have been nominated for the five places on the directorate and it is expected that more nominations will be made by the time the list is closed.

Those nominated are: C. A. Luster, J. A. Ferguson, B. P. Neff, James Maney, W. J. McCabe, P. E. McCormack and B. Silberstein. The retiring directors are C. A. Luster, S. H. Jones, L. C. Harris, J. A. Ferguson and W. H. Hoyt.

The polls will be open at the club Wednesday from 11:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. The annual meeting will be held Wednesday evening, beginnning at 8 o'clock. It is expected that C. A. Luster, who is now president of the club, will be re-elected.

ENGAGEMENT BROKEN.

Cecilia May Will Not Marry Robert Bacon, Jr.

Washington, April 10.—Official society here was surprised to learn today that the engagement of Miss Cecilia May, younger daughter of Col. and Mrs. Henry May of this city to Robert Low Bacon, Jr., son of the United States ambassador to France, had been broken off. Although formal announcement to this effect is made by Col. and Mrs. May, no reason is assigned for the breaking of the engagement. Miss May is one of the belles of Washington and has taken a prominent part in the social affairs of the national capital.

UNFILLED TONNAGE.

Steel Corporation Has More March 31 Than Feb. 28.

New York, April 10.—The United States Steel corporation announced today that the unfilled tonnage on its books on March 31 was 3,447,301 tons. The unfilled tonnage on hand at the end of February was 3,400,543 tons.

ROOSEVELT GUEST OF UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO.

Moscow, Idaho, April 10.—Theodore Roosevelt was the guest of the University of Idaho today.

His address was delivered in the university gymnasium today to an audience of 3,000 persons, while thousands who had gathered from the surrounding country were unable to gain admission.

Steamer Turns Turtle.
Victoria, B. C., April 10.—The little steamer Iroquois, which plies among the East coast islands, turned turtle off Sydney this morning. No details have yet been received.

OUR INVENTIVE GENIUS.

Chicago Inter Ocean: As an inventive genius the American has no rival on earth. If he needs something which is not in existence he proceeds to create it—and he doesn't waste much time over it, either.

The records of the United States patent office show that it received last year 63,293 applications for mechanical patents, 1,155 for design patents and nearly 7,000 for registration of trademarks. More than half the applications for patents were granted—exactly 35,807—while 4,329 trade-marks were registered. All of these were on behalf of citizens of the United States.

From the date of the establishment of our patent office to the end of the year 1870 there were granted to American inventors 120,573 patents, while the total number granted in all other countries in the world during that period was 238,437. From 1871 to 1911 Americans received 809,561 patents, while those of all other nations got 189,654.

The total number of patents issued by the United States to this time is 990,154. This greatly exceeds the total of any other nation. Germany ranks second in numbers with a total of 440,898. Great Britain is third with 425,374, and France fourth with 248,106.

In view of its immediate proximity to the United States and the international marriages of so many of our best young men and women to Canadians, it would be natural to expect great manifestations in Canada of Yankee ingenuity. The truth is disappointing. Up to this writing only 133,000 patents have been obtained by Canadians, including those which careless citizens of this country neglected to secure on their inventions.

But with all their wonderful accomplishments it must be admitted that the inventors of this country still have something—or some things—to live and work for. There remains unsatisfied a longfelt want for a number of things which should make their inventors rich, of which the following are examples:

A front door key that will score a bull's eye on the first trial—at any time of night.

An automobile that will not exceed the speed limit when you're in a hurry.

A church atmosphere conducive of insomnia.

A home-run baseball bat.

A commuter's monthly railroad ticket that always comes out even.

A collar button that will not roll under the dressing case.

Now that we have mentioned these few trifles by way of example, no doubt we shall get them in short order. Anyway, he is a rash man who challenges the inventive genius of the American people.

If "placard publicity" were sufficient to rent or sell property to advantage—wouldn't real estate dealing be a simple occupation?

CONTEST NOTICE—
Department of the Interior, United States Land Office.
Duluth, Minn., March 2, 1911.
A sufficient contest affidavit having been filed in this office by Rikkard K. Niemi, contestant, against Homestead Entry No. 02111, made November 2, 1908, for SE¼ NW¼ Section 32, Township 61 N., Range 13 W., 4th Principal Meridian, by Manu Raukonen, Contestee, in which it is alleged that said Manu Raukonen has never resided on said land and has not improved or cultivated the same for two years last past. And that said alleged absence from said land was not due to service in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States in time of war, said parties are hereby notified to appear, respond and offer evidence touching said allegation at nine o'clock a. m. on April 20th, 1911, before the Register and Receiver at the United States Land Office in Duluth Minn.
The said contestant having, in a proper affidavit, filed March 2, 1911, set forth facts which show that after due diligence personal service of this notice can not be made, it is hereby ordered and directed that such notice be given by due and proper publication.

CASH MARKET BULL FACTOR

Demand Improved and Flour Business Better—Wheat Up.

Government's Report Less Favorable Than Expected.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 10.—The wheat market was nervous with a strong undertone. May advanced 1¼c and July went up a similar distance. Shorts covered freely and the short interest is believed to be well evened up. Belated shorts took punishment. Cash wheat was ¾c over May instead of ½c as heretofore. Durum was ¾c up, oats gained ⅝c and rye and barley were unchanged.

Flaxseed was stronger, advancing 2c. May and July each closed with offers at $2.52. Winnipeg was weaker, May closing at $2.45b. Plata seed at Antwerp for March-April delivery was quoted at arproximately $2.14 a bu including 4 per cent for impurities.

Wheat was erratic but strong today. There was not much interest in the May delivery and shorts were whipsawed by the nervous fluctuation of values in the new crop delivery which induced considerable covering. The government's report made the condition of winter wheat 83.3 per cent of normal. This figure indicates an immense crop although it is lower than the 10-year average which is 86.9. Last year the condition was 80.8. The report was actullay bearish but in relation to expectations of traders it was bullish, as they expected a figure within the range of 83 to 85 per cent with the odds favoring a figure nearer to the maximum estimates. The effect upon the market was of little consequence. Values went forward immediately after the report was issued.

The visible supply of wheat showed a decrease of 1,572,000 bu. The cash business in the Northwest was a factor of strength. The milling demand was reported to be good by the leading cash market. Receipts showed a slight increase. Flour sales were reported as fair. The mill feed market was active which has assisted millers in making attractive prices on flour.

Cables were higher. There was an improved demand from the continent for cargoes. Russian advices were favorable and shipments will be large. The world's movement is large but shorts at Liverpool covered because most of the cargoes in a near position are directed toward the continent.

A report issued by Logan Bros. of Kansas City, estimates the Kansas wheat crop at 81,141,000 bu from an acreage of 6,360,215 sown. The report was based on reports received before the late rains.

The big millers in the Northwest are credited with being long Chicago May wheat.

MARKET GOSSIP

Washington wired winter wheat on April 1 showed an average condition of 83.3 per cent of a normal against 80.8 a year ago, 82.2 in 1902, and 86.9 the ten-year average, according to the April report of the department of agriculture issued at noon today.

The advance in condition from Dec. 1, 1910, to April 1 was 0.8 points as compared with an average decline in the past ten years of 4.4 points.

Rye showed an average condition on April 1 of 89.3 per cent of a normal, against 92.3 a year ago, 87.2 in 1909, and 90.2 the ten-year average.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—World's wheat shipments—Wheat, last week 14,784,000 bu; previous week, 12,144,000 bu; last year, 10,992,000 bu. Corn, last week, 2,517,000 bu; previous week, 3,368,000 bu; last year, 1,543,000 bu. Liverpool—The wheat market opened quiet at ⅛d decline. The weaker American cables at the close Saturday and the heavy world's shipments together with larger shipments from Russia and favorable Russian advices were offset by shorts covering and lighter offers with good speculative support. Following the opening the market turned strong and prices easily advanced ½@¾d with support in the near months. Buying was accelerated by the fact that notwithstanding the heavy world's shipments, a very large percentage of these were directed to continent and cargoes were firmly held at 1½@3d advance and the continent still bidding. Spot markets were firm with an improved demand and there was generally a better inquiry for cargoes. Weekly stocks here showed an unexpected decrease. At 1:30 p. m. the market was very firm and ½@⅝d higher than Saturday.

Corn—After opening ¼d higher, further advanced ¼@⅜d with the scarcity of American offers and strength in spot corn, American grade being a penny higher here, world's shipments were lighter with a better demand here.

A special dispatch to The Herald frob Helena, Mont., follows:

Eastern Valley county promises double the acreage of crops for the season of 1911. Several new traction plowing outfits are on the ground ready to steam up just as soon as the frost will permit. Not less than 200,000 acres will be sown to spring wheat and flax.

Seed flax can be found this year in the farmers' bins, but more or less wheat for seed will be hauled from the elevators. The farmers living on the south side of the Missouri river are looking forward to the construction of the Great Northern cut-off, which will give them better transportation facilities.

The soil of the justly celebrated Beaver valley, in eastern Dawson county, will be ripped up in good shape this season. Thousands of acres of new ground will be sown to various crops, principally flax.

This is the word carried to Glendive by W. H. Frank, who has returned from unloading a gangplow outfit at Wibaux.

"Few persons have any idea of the amount of breaking that will be done around Wibaux this year," said Mr. Frank. "Already sixty-three gasoline outfits have signed contracts for fuel oil, and there are many more who have not signed yet, and will not for a while, believing they will get better prices."

It is apparent that interest in the growth of flax will be almost at a fever heat in Dawson county this season. Newcomers are maing inquiry as to the best time and the best methods of sowing this grain.

A letter from the Montana agricultural experiment station at Bozeman, in response to a request for data for publication, states that the growing of flax is a comparatively new industry in Montana, whereas it has been a prominent feature of agriculture in North Dakota for many years. The farm literature of Montana is deficient in matter pertaining to this crop, but a comprehensive bulletin is in course of preparation and will be ready for mailing in the next few days, when copies may be had by addressing the experiment station at Bozeman.

A Kansas City message from Logan Bros. says: "More than 700 reports received by us from grain men in Kansas indicate a prospective yield April 1 of 81,141,000 bu on 6,360,215 acres sown. These reports were received before the general rains which came over all of Kansas. In compiling these reports we allow for an acreage and prospective of 1,014,812 acres, practically all of which is in south Central, Southwestern and Western Kansas. There are 5,703,000 bu of old wheat back in the state, or about 9 per cent. Country elevators heard from held 2,681,000 bu and elevators not heard from hold probably 1,200,000 more. Mills hold about 4,250,000 bu, making a total of about 14,100,000 bu of old wheat in all positions back in the state."

Messages received late in the day from Winnipeg said that there had been export sales of 1,000,000 bu of Manitoba wheat the previous day, but that only a few loads had been sold yesterday. Export concerns in close touch with the situation at Winnipeg said that there had been less than 500,000 bu done all week and that the buying in of short wheat in the Winnipeg market on a liberal scale Thursday had given rise to the reports of big export business. Much of this buying of futures in the Winnipeg pit was done by export houses which had been short some time and were taking in some handsome profits.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Declines on Bearish Domestic Outlook.

Chicago, April 10.—Wheat today lost all of an early advance and made a further decline, the domestic outlook seeming too bearish for more than a temporary gain in sympathy with a sharp rise at Liverpool. The fact was pointed out that the bullishness in the British market appeared due to a large percentage of the heavy world shipments being diverted to other European seaports. It was believed also that the United States government crop statement would make the condition of winter wheat 86 or 87 per cent, as against 82.5 in December and 80.8 a year ago. Then, too, the weather situation was decidedly favorable, with generally higher temperatures prevailing. Initial prices were ¼@⅝c up. May started at 87¼@87⅝c, the same change from Saturday night as the list taken altogether. There was a quick descent, however, to 86⅞c.

Free sales following the government report offset somewhat the bullish effect. The close was strong with May at 88¼@⅜c, a net gain of 1¼@1⅜c.

Commission house selling weakened corn. May opened ⅛@¼c down to a like amount up at 48⅝@49c, and steadied around 48¾c.

Export sales caused a material advance. The close was firm with May ⅞c net higher at 49⅝@¾c.

Oats trailed the course of other grain, showing a little firmness at the outset, and easing off later. May was unchanged at 31c in the beginning of the session and touched 31⅛c, but receded to 30⅞@31c.

Heavy unloaded provisions resulted from the liberal arrival of hogs. First sales were 5@20c lower, with May options at $14.90 for pork, $7.77½@7.80 for lard and $8.35 for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Advances Sharply on Bullish Government Report.

Minneapolis, April 10.—The government report giving the wheat condition on April 1 at 83.3 per cent was moderately bullish. Local traders expected about 86 per cent. During the late session this caused heavy buying, especially of near months, and the market advaced sharply. May closed 1¼@1⅜c higher than Saturday, July 1¼c higher and September 1⅛@1¼c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 215,000 bu for two days. Minneapolis today received 258 cars of wheat, against 268 a year ago; Duluth 17, against 69; Winnipeg 428, against 252. May wheat opened 93½@93c, high 94⅜@94½c, low 92⅝c, closed 94⅜@94½c. July opened 94⅜@94⅝c, high 95⅜c, low 94c, closed 95⅝c; September opened 88⅝c, high 89¾c, low 88¼@88⅝c, closed 89¾c.

Cash wheat was in strong demand, the market held about steady. Offerings moderate and met with ready acceptance. No. 1 northern sold 2@3c above the May contract. TRADING IS SUSPENDED

While Stock Brokers Wait for Supreme Court Decisions.

Postponement of Decisions Causes Prices to Ease Off Slightly.

New York, April 10.—Opening quotations on the stock exchange today showed a mixture of gains and losses. Canadian Pacific and Northern Pacific advanced ⅝, St. Paul ¾ and Reading ½. National Biscuit and American Car each lost a point.

There was some realizing in the railroad stocks which had made the largest gains at the opening, but the amount sold was not enough to affect prices much. General Electric and Westinghouse Electric gained a point.

After the small amount of business which had accumulated over Sunday had been disposed of the market stopped still, pending word from Washington whether decisions were to be rendered today by the supreme court in the anti-trust cases. The decision on Saturday of the Mninesota rate case in favor of the railroads, which might have stimulated trading in railroad stocks had not this been the supreme court "decision day," had little effect, although railway shares improved somewhat at the opening. Subsequently the market shaded off and at noon the list was virtually on a parity with Saturday's close. The bond market was steady.

The market closed heavy. Prices eased off slightly and most of the list went to slightly below Saturday's close. The failure to derive any sustaining bull ammunition from the Minnesota rate decision and the postponement of the decisions in the trust cases, discouraged early buyers and they let go their stocks. Norfolk & Western sold 1, and Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred 2 points below last week's close.

New York Grain.

New York, April 10.—Close: Wheat, May, 94½c; July, 93⅜@93½c. Corn—May, 56c.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 10.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 8 points with old crop positions selling 8 to 10 points net higher right after the opening on a rush of covering by local shorts whose increasing uneasiness last week as a result of strengthening statistics appeared to be intensified by the relatively firm cables. May sold at 14.65 and July at 14.53 right after the call, or at the highest prices reached since the February break, and while ther was heavy realizing prices reacted only a few points during the early trading. With weather advices generally favorable the new crop was relatively quiet and ruled only 3 or 4 points above the closing figures of Saturday.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 14.75; gulf, 15.00; no sales.

Futures closed firm. Closing bids: April, 14.54; May, 14.67; June, 14.63; July, 14.60; August, 14.09; September, 13.80; October, 12.90; November, 12.83; December, 12.82; January, 18.82; March, 12.82.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 1,200; weak to 10@15c lower; steers, $4.50@6.10; cows and heifers, $2.60@5.25; veal calves, $2.50@6.25; stockers and feeders, $3.25@5.40.

Hogs—Receipts, 2,500; 10c to 20c lower; range, $6@6.30; bulk of sales, $6.10@6.20.

Sheep—Receipts, 600; market 10c to 15c lower; sheep, $1@5.10; lambs, $3.75@6.20.

New York Money.

New York, April 10.—Close: Prime mercantile paper, 3¾ to 4¼ per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.84.15 for 60-day bills and at $4.86.30 for demand. Commercial bills, $4.83½. Bar silver, 53⅛c; Mexican dollars, 45c. Government bonds and railroad bonds steady. Money on call steady, 2@2⅜ per cent; ruling rate, 2⅜; closing bid, 2⅜; offered at 2½. Time loans dull and weaker; 60 days, 2½@2¾ per cent; 90 days, 2¾@3; six months, 3 per cent.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade was less active than earlier in the week. The big lumbering companies are shipping in hundreds of big work horses, which buyers will find cheap at the prices offered, as they want them sold quick without feed bill accruing. They are out of hard work and will go right into the harness and do the heavy spring work. Mules found few takers. Shipments were made to Olds, Mont.; Pembina, N. D.; Glenwood, Minn., and Turtle Lake, Wis.

REAPPORTIONMENT IN PRETTY MUDDLE AGAIN IN THE STATE SENATE

New Scheme Has Been Devised By Southern Minnesota Senators.

Would Leave the Unjust Conditions in the South Undisturbed.

Nine Additional Senators Offered to Northern Minnesota as Sop.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Reapportionment was in a pretty muddle again this morning in the senate. Last night about thirty Southern Minnesota senators, hardly any of whom could be expected to vote for any reasonable reapportionment bill, met quietly and concocted an entirely new scheme of reapportionment, which they presented this morning to the Northern Minnesota senators. Though it was as clear a case of Greeks bearing gifts as the legislature ever saw, at first some of the Northern Minnesota senators were inclined to believe in the good faith of those proposing it. Later a realization that the game is to delay action by any possible means got abroad, and the new plan was not so popular.

The scheme is to leave Southern Minnesota exactly as it is, not disturbing a single senator or diminishing by one Southern Minnesota's vote in the senate, but to add nine members to the senate, making seventy-two in all, and to offer these nine additional senators as a sop. But one would be allowed to each of the three large cities, and the rest would go to the country districts of Northern Minnesota.

Under the Hanson bill there would be seven senatorships to bestow, only two less than the Southern Minnesota scheme, but Southern Minnesota would lose five senators. The difference is all in favor of the Hanson bill. What made the new plan plausible to some is that it vastly increases the control of the country districts and leaves the cities relatively much weaker than they are now, and if the precedent is established it can never be overturned.

Senator Hackey, chairman of the reapportionment committee, this morning moved that the Hanson bill be made a special order for Wednesday afternoon.

Senator Schaller objected and wanted the motion delayed to this afternoon. As it would require a suspension of the rules to make it then, out of order, Senator Schaller said that he was sure there would be no objection to its being made by unanimous consent. So Senator Hackney withdrew his motion and will renew it this afternoon. The

HOUSE KILLS MURRAY BILL

Votes Down Subterfuge on Election of United States Senators.

Distance Tariff Bill Made Special Order in the House.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St Paul, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—By the emphatic vote of 71 to 32 the house yesterday afternoon crushed the pinchbeck imitation of direct election of United States senators which the senate Republicans passed the other day.

In spite of a futile attempt on the part of the more zealous Republican partisans in the house, the bill was indefinitely postponed by the above vote as soon as it reached the house.

This leaves only the Keefe bill, which provides for real popular power in the selection of United States senators, alive and before the legislature, and the chances are that the senate will pass it, though an attempt will doubtless be made by organization Republicans to kill it by amending it into the shape of the Murray humburg.

The Democrats in the senate will stand fast for the Keefe bill, and they will probably be joined by the more liberal Republicans in that body in the

BOXER TO BE TRIED FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Jack Leon of Chicago Knocked Out Billy Dunning Who Died.

Houlton, Me., April 11.—Jack Leon, the Chicago boxer, was indicted on the charge of manslaughter and engaging in an illegal fight by the grand jury which reported to the supreme court today. Leon arrived here last night and is in readiness for his trial which will be held soon.

The manslaughter charge is for the death of Billy Dunning, who died twenty-four hours after being knocked out by Leon in the fifth round of a boxing match at Presque Isle last November.

ALFONSO AN EMBEZZLER?

Member of the Spanish Cortes Says That He Is.

Deputy Ursaiz, Former Finance Minister, Is the Accuser.

Madrid, April 11.—Republicans and Radicals generally are making great capital out of the recent condemnation of King Alfonso on the floor of the cortes by Deputy Ursaiz, formerly finance minister and a leading Conservative.

Ursaiz virtually accused the king of gigantic embezzlement of public funds in connection with the redemption of the national debt, for which Premier Canalejas is striving. The seriousness of the deputy's charge did not dawn upon the people at first, but the Republicans are now scattering an explanation of the charge broadcast, for its effect promises to be more serious than all the campaigning the Radicals have been doing for years.

The statement was called out by a proposition the cabinet submitted to

PEOPLE ARE IN TERROR OF THE BANDITS

Roving Bands Are Committing Depredations in Mexico.

Prompt Measures Taken to Put a Stop to Their Operations.

Poisoned Provisions Left By Rebels Are Burned By the Federals.

El Paso, Tex., April 11.—Advices from Guadalajara state that bandits from the territory of Tepic have raided Palos Verdes, a small town in the Mascota district of Jalisco, killing the local judge, Jose Montes de Oca, and ten other residents. The bandits are said to have secured some money and extensive supplies of corn and beans. A detachment of state gendarmes have been sent in pursuit of the bandits, who are reported still to be in the Mascota district.

Specials to Guadalajara from Merida, the capital of Yucatan, tell of insurrecto activity in the southern states of Campeche and Yucatan. Plantations are being raided. It is declared that a number of Jeniquin plantations have been burned. The aggregate loss is said to be heavy. Among the plantations to suffer loss is that of Olegaro Molina, a former member of the Diaz

MILLIONAIRE SENT UP AS VAGABOND

New Yorker Imprisoned at Brussels Is Finally Released.

Brussels, Belgium, April 11.—The local papers this morning publish a story concerning Ralph Brandreth of New York, and August Mathias, the latter being described as the New Yorker's secretary, in which it is affirmed that through the intervention of the minister of justice the two men have been released from prison after having served only twenty days of a two years' sentence.

According to the published account Brandreth and Mathias were arrested on March 5 charged with having swindled the proprietor of a hotel and were subsequently sentenced to imprisonment as vagabonds. The papers state that an investigation conducted by the minister of justice convinced him that Brandreth was an American millionaire.

ITALIAN COURT TAKES VACATION

Tuesday's Session Occupied With Cross-Examination of Ascrittore.

Viterbo, Italy, April 11.—Today's session of the Camorrists' trial was occupied throughout with the cross-examination of Giacomo Ascrittore, at the conclusion of which an adjournment was taken until after Easter.

Ascrittore denounced Tomasso de Angelis and Gaetano Amedeo as the murderers of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife in order, the state alleges, to shield the real assassins. For two days the prisoner had been trying to convince the jury that he acted in good faith and was not in a conspiracy with the priest Ciro Vitozzi, who told the authorities that he had learned in the confessional of the guilt of the two men. Today Ascrittore insisted that he still believed De Angelis and Amedeo took part in the killing of the Cuoccolos and he posed as a martyr to the machinations of the Carabineers and examining judges. He said:

During the investigation of the murders I was forced to withdraw my eveidence against De Angelis and Amedeo. The Carabineers and the judges prosecuted me for calumny and kept me in jail for nearly four years. Thus they made a martyr not only of me but of my poor mother who in the 83rd year of her life is crying her eyes out."

Ascrittore's reference to his mother drew a chorus of wails from the prisoners' pen, while his accusations against De Angelis and Amedeo provoked counter demonstrations, from the friends of the latter.

BUCKET SHOPS CLOSE.

Omaha, Neb., April 11.—Following the passage last Saturday of an anti-bucket shop bill by the Nebraska legislature, it is announced that all the bucket shops in the state, numbering between thirty and forty, were closed today, although the law is not effective for ninety days. There were but two of the concerns operating in Omaha.

BECOMES A CITIZEN OF UNITED STATES

CAPT. ROBERT BARTLETT.

New York, April 11.—Capt. Robert Bartlett, master of the Peary Arctic ship Roosevelt, became an American citizen today. Capt. Bartlett was a Newfoundlander and accompanied Admiral Peary on his journey to the North Pole. With the exception of Peary, the master of the Roosevelt has been nearer to the "top of the world" than any white man.

COMMISSION GOVERNMENT

Recommended By Governor Wilson in Message to Legislature.

Trenton, N. J., April 11.—Governor Wilson in a special message to the legislature, urges the passage of a bill giving cities a commission form of government that provides for the initiative, referendum and recall. In his message the governor says:

"The bill will enable the people to correct the mistakes of their governors, to adopt measures upon their own initiative, when necessary, and to recall from office unsatisfactory officials. These have proved not only efficient, but absolutely part of what is now known as the commission form of government in various cities of the country." Concluding, Governor Wilson says:

"The changes proposed are not experimental; they have been tested by abundant experience elsewhere and I am sure that it would afford all thoughtful persons cause for serious disappointment if the legislature should not avail itself of this opportunity to show itself allied in this matter as in all others with the impulses of progress now so handsomely manifest in our body politic."

COMMITTEES OF THE HOUSE ARE CHOSEN

Some Surprises Over Selections By Minority Leader Mann.

Choice Places Are Given the Republican Insurgents.

Members of Minnesota Delegation Handle Desirable Assignments.

Washington, April 11.—The standing committees of the house of representatives were elected by that body today, after the full committee lists had been presented by Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee. The Republican members of the respective committees became known for the first time when the full committee assignments were presented to the house.

Prepared by Minority Leader James R. Mann at the direction of the Republican caucus, the minority committee selections contained many surprises for the house.

The desire to accord impartial treatment to the insurgent Republicans is shown in the number of choice committee places given them by Mr. Mann. Two of the leading insurgents, Representatives Madison of Kansas and Lenroot of Wisconsin, are given places on the rules committee, where the Republicans have but four places.

Cannon on Appropriations.

Representative Goode of Iowa is appointed to the appropriations committee, considered a particularly choice berth. Representative Haugen of Iowa is made ranking Republican member of the committee on agriculture; Representative Kopp of Wisconsin is placed on the naval affairs committee; Representative Norris of Nebraska on the judiciary committee

MANY BODIES ARE REMOVED FROM MINE

Nearly 100 Already Taken From the Workings at Banner.

Banner, Ala., April 11.—Removal of bodies from the Banner coal mine near here, where 128 convict laborers were laid last Saturday, was resumed at 3 o'clock this morning, after a temporary shutdown to repair the air fans. Thirty-seven bodies were taken out during the night, making ninety-five recovered so far. No official statement as to the cause of the explosion will be made until the tunnels are cleared and inspection completed. The estimate of 128 dead is maintained.

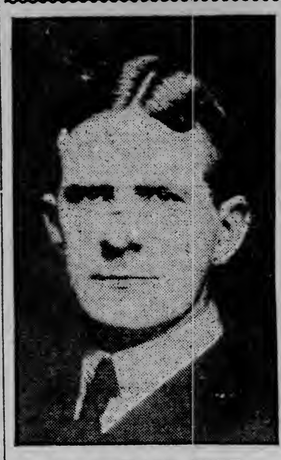
DR. HYDE, CONVICTED OF MURDERING SWOPE, GRANTED NEW TRIAL

Sentenced to Life Imprisonment By Judge Latshaw, July 5, 1910.

Supreme Court Sets Aside Verdict on Appeal of Hyde's Attorneys.

Alleged Slayer of Philanthropist Receives News Very Calmly.

LIFE PRISONER IS GRANTED NEW TRIAL



DR. B. CLARK HYDE.

Kansas City, Mo., April 11.—Dr. B. Clark Hyde, convicted after a sensational trial of the murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, a millionaire philanthropist, was today granted a new trial by the Missouri supreme court, sitting at Jefferson City. Dr. Hyde has been in the county jail at Kansas City nearly a year following a sentence to life imprisonment.

When news of the court's decision reached the county jail Dr. Hyde was taking his usual morning promenade up and down the narrow walk in front of his cell on the third floor.

His lawyers, who had been on hand since 8 o'clock, shouted the verdict up to the noted prisoner:

"You have been granted a new trial."

Hyde stopped a moment in his walk, smiled, and said merely:

"Thank you, gentlemen."

Then, as if some ordinary message had been delivered, the physician continued his walk.

When the other prisoners learned the import of the news a minute later, they crowded around Dr. Hyde and congratulated him. For the first time since his incarceration he mingled with his fellow prisoners.

To newspaper men Dr. Hyde declined to make any comment, saying he must consult his attorneys first.

Prisoners Cheer.

The news traveled quickly from tier to tier and as the prisoners men and women, on the different floors, heard it, cheering that had started in Hyde's corridor spread throughout the entire prison. For fully five minutes the demonstration continued.

HEARING ON DULUTH CASE

Will Be Conducted By Member of Interstate Commission.

Portion of the Testimony Will Be Taken in Duluth.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller today called upon Cahirman Clemens of the interstate commerce commission to urge that when the Duluth rate case is heard it shall be heard by a member of the commission, the great importance of this case being such that it should not be assigned to a subordinate.

Mr. Miller was advised that at present no definite plans as to the dates and places of holding the hearings could be made in regard to the case, but he was assured that at least a portion of the testimony would be taken in Duluth and that the hearings would be conducted personally by a member of the commission. The hearings on this case will, it is said, be held some time in the latter part of June or early in July.

NEW FEATURE IN THE EDDY CASE

Courts Must Determine What Christian Science Religion Is.

Boston, Mass., April 11.—An amendment which is likely to bring the question of what the Christian Science religion is, square before the courts, is to be made to the papers in the suit brought in New Hampshire by the son and adopted son of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy against the executor of her will and officers of the First Church of Christ Scientist of Boston.

In the original bill George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., Mrs. Eddy's son, and Dr. E. J. Foster-Eddy of Waterbury, Vt., her adopted son, ask the court to declare void the residuary clause of Mrs. Eddy's will, leaving about $2,000,000 to the Boston church on the ground that the statutes forbid so large a bequest to a single church.

Yesterday Former United States Senator William E. Chandler, chief counsel for the plaintiffs, announced that he will fight an amendment attacking the validity of the residuary clause as "uncertain."

Mr. Chandler said that the ground to be taken would be that whereas Mrs. Eddy left her property for the promotion of the Christian Science religion, no one knows exactly what the Christian Science religion is, so that unless this matter is determined by the courts the residuary clause is void because of uncertainty.

A hearing in the case is expected in Concord, N. H., some time next week.

It was announced today that Chief Justice Robert M. Wallace, after a conference with counsel for both plaintiffs and defendants in the contest over the will of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, ordered that proposed amendments to the plaintiff's bill in the superior court be filed by April 17, and any replication by the defendants by April 20.

Professor's Body Recovered.

Washington, April 11.—The body of Father Francis Goldbach, professor in Latin, Greek and English classics at Georgetown university, who was drowned in the Potomac river yesterday when his canoe capsized, was recovered early this morning by the police. It probably will be sent to relatives in Baltimore.

FINDS HOUSE IN WOMEN'S HANDS

Speaker Champ Clark Is Given a Suffragette Scare.

Washington, April 11. — Speaker Champ Clark was given a suffragette scare today. As he approached the house chamber he heard a steady beat of the gavel and assumed that the pages were holding a mock session. As he passed through the swinging door he was surprised to find half of the members' seats filled with women and a determined-looking presiding officer occupying his chair. She appeared to be having some difficulty in bringing order among her sisters on the floor.

"What does it mean? Is it a suffragette invasion?" Mr. Clark inquired affrightedly over his shoulder as he beat a hasty retreat.

The speaker was relieved to learn that the invaders were Brooklyn school teachers seeing Washington. At the approach of noon when the regular session was to convene they obediently retired to the galleries.

CLEVELAND IS MOURNING

Death of Tom L. Johnson Sad Blow to Citizens of Forest City.

Prominent Men Pay High Tribute to Memory of the Departed.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11.—All Cleveland is today mourning the death of Tom L. Johnson, which occurred last night. A public memorial is planned and Mayor Herman Baehr announced he would appoint a committee today to arrange for it. The body will lie in state probably on Wednesday.

Scores of telegrams expressing condolence and paying tribute to the worth of Mr. Johnson have come from prominent men in all parts of the country, including Governor Judson Harmon, William J. Bryan, Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York and nearly every congressman from Ohio. Governor Harmon said:

"A more honest man than Mr. Johnson never lived."

Mr. Bryan: "No man in the past generation did more effective work for the people than Tom L. Johnson."

Mayor Gaynor: The country at large

EASTER MUSIC PLANNED FOR DULUTH CHURCHES

H. W. REYNER,
Who Has Charge of the Easter Music in the First M. E. Church.

ALFRED WILEY,
Who Has Charge of the Easter Music at the Cathedral.

In all Duluth churches there will be special Easter music.

The churches are being decorated with Easter lilies and palms, and the celebration of Easter Sunday in Duluth churches promises to be more elaborate than ever before.

The Sacred Heart cathedral, Second avenue west and Fourth street, is always crowded to the doors on Easter Sunday morning. The special musical program will be given there at the solemn high mass at 10:30 Sunday morning. The choir under the direction of Alfred Wiley of Minneapolis will sing Gounod's "Messe Solemnmelle." The choir, with Miss Theresa Flynn as organist, will be augmented for the occasion by Flaaten's orchestra. The offertory will be sung by a choir of orphans from St. James' Orphanage.

The celebration at Trinity pro-cathedral will begin Saturday evening when there will be a baptism service. At 8 o'clock Sunday morning there will be the celebration of the holy communion with Bishop Morrison as celebrant. Immediately after this service a beautiful new memorial window will be dedicated. The window was made by Tiffany. At 10 o'clock there will be a special service for pupils in the Sunday school. At 11 o'clock there will be the regular Sunday morning services, at which time a special program of Easter music will be rendered. Bishop Morrison will preach the sermon. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a children's service.

"As It Began to Dawn" will be one of the big numbers to be rendered by the choir. A. F. M. Custance's arrangement of the "Te Deum" will also be rendered. The soloists will be G. Roy Hall, Jean Wanless and Myrtle Hobbs.

At the First Methodist church the soloists will be Mrs. E. I. Zimmerman and Arthur McFadyen. There will be selections from "The Messiah" and "Creation." The Easter song service will take place at the time of the regular Sunday morning worship. The music will be under the direction of H. W. Reyner.

There will be special music at St. Paul's Episcopal church, under the leadership of A. F. M. Custance.

Programs are being planned in all the city churches, and in some instances outside soloists will be present for the occasion.

The complete programs of Easter music in all the churches will be published in The Herald Saturday.

If you want to rent your rooms advertise them in next Saturday's Herald. Hundreds of people are looking for rooms now for the summer. They will be out in force Easter Sunday. 'Phone your ad in now if you cannot come to The Herald office.

WEATHER: Showers tonight; Wednesday unsettled; not much change in temperature; moderate winds, mostly easterly.

Saturday's Issue Will List Everything for Sale or Rent.

If you have a house, flat or piece of unimproved property for sale or to rent; if you have a room or suite of rooms to rent, be sure to get them listed in next Saturday's Herald. In that issue The Herald expects to have a complete list of all the property for sale or for rent in the city, as well as lands outside the city, and a vigorous campaign is being conducted to call people's attention to the opportunities that will be offered.

Moving day, May 1, will soon be here, and there will be a large number of persons looking about for new locations. Perhaps you have just the thing that will suit their needs. It will cost you only a few cents to tell them about it, anyway, and you may secure a buyer, a good tenant or a roomer.

Next Sunday will be Easter Sunday, and it is likely that many people will be out looking for houses. They will have a Herald list to direct them, and you should be represented there. If you have anything to sell or rent, tell about it just as interestingly as you know how. Don't skimp the ad and spoil it to save a word or two. Describe your proposition as fully as you can, its location, proximity to schools, churches, the business center; whether the house, flat or rooms have light, heat or water; whether there is a barn, chicken coop or a garden; in fact, tell about all the advantages. That is the kind of talk to interest prospective buyers or tenants. They usually want to know the price, too.

Send, telephone or bring your copy to The Herald as early as possible in the week and specify how many times you want it to appear.

CLUB CLOSING UP YEAR'S AFFAIRS

Annual Meeting of Public Affairs Committee and Election of Directors.

The year's affairs are being closed up by the Commercial club. The annual meeting of the public affairs committee will be held tonight. Tomorrow the annual election of directors will be held and the annual meeting of the club will follow in the evening.

The different sub-committees of the public affairs committee will submit their reports at tonight's meeting and the committee will put matters in shape to pass them on to the new committee, which will be appointed after the annual meeting of the club. Although the affairs of the year will be closed up, the members of the committee will hold over until their successors are appointed.

No additons were made to the list of nominations posted in the club yesterday and seven candidates will be voted upon for the five places on the directorate. The polls will be open from 11:30 tomorrow morning until 7:30 in the evening. The annual meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

The officers of the club are anxious that as many members as possible turn out to the annual meeting. There will be a smoker and an informal program of musical numbers and addreses. The progress of the year, which was the best in the history of the club, will be reported.

If you want to rent your rooms advertise them in next Saturday's Herald. Hundreds of people are looking for rooms now for the summer. They will be out in force Easter Sunday. 'Phone your ad in now if you cannot come to The Herald office.

C. M. BURNETT PASSES AWAY

Former Roadmaster of D. M. & N. Succumbs to Apoplexy.

Cortland M. Burnett, 72 years of age, died this morning at St. Mary's hospital following a stroke of apoplexy several nights ago. He has been a resident of Duluth the last eighteen years and was well known here. He was general road master of the D. M. & N. railroad from the time the road was opened until a few years ago. Recently he has been in the employment business at 817½ West Michigan street. He was at one time a candidate for sheriff of St. Louis county.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock from the Elks' lodge, 311 West First street. Rev. M. S. Rice, paster of the First M. E. church, will officiate. Mr. Burnett was a member of the Elks' lodge and of the Masons. The body will be sent to Des Moines, Iowa, for interment.

Mr. Burnett is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Frank Gregory of St. Paul and Mrs. Samuel Cole of Moulton, Iowa. Both were notified of his illness when he was stricken and they are in Duluth, accompanied by their husbands.

RELEASED FROM QUARANTINE

Duluth Man Will See His Family in a Few Days.

A telegram was received in Duluth yesterday from the immigration authorities that the family of Hielel Hantvarg, who were held in quarantine at Boston, had been released and had started on their way to Duluth.

Mr. Hantvarg has been in Duluth four years, and sent for his wife and three children, in Russia, late last year. Affidavits had to be forwarded satisfying the officials that the family would not become public charges. Mr. Hantvarg is a local merchant and has a home all prepared for his family. He has not seen his family in eight years. He was deeply grieved because their detention made it impossible for them to be here for the Passover feast.

PROHIBITION LAW WELL DISCUSSED

North Dakota State Enforcement League Is Meeting at Fargo.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic meeting of the State Enforcement league is being held here today with about 100 delegates in attendance. In the absence of President Lych, Vice President Griffiths of Grand Forks presided. Former Supreme Court Justice Carmody reviewed the historical phases of prohibition work in North Dakota and warmly commended the men to whose efforts it had been launched.

Dr. Beard of Fargo told of the difficulties of enforcing the law because of the lack of proper organization.

Rev. Mr. Anderson of Grand Forks discussed certain phases of temperance work and the benefits of organization.

Dr. Baker of Ohio, who is superintendent of the National Anti-Saloon league, created great enthusiasm by his address. The reports of the state officers was most encouraging and recent arrests and convictions were numerous.

A feature of this afternoon's session was the address by Mrs. Preston Anderson, president of the state W. C. T. U. Rev. Mr. Shute of Bismarck, Mr. Bailey of Devils Lake, and Mr. Glenn of Grand Forks also spoke.

Tonight's closing session will be presided voer by Governor Burke, who will make an address.

NORTH DAKOTA JUDGE MARRIED IN MONTANA.

Helena, Mont., April 11.—Judge Frank E. Fisk of Williston, N. D., and bride, formerly Miss Olive G. Bissell of Vancouver, Wash., are enjoying their honeymoon at the Alhambra Hot Springs, a health resort near Helena. They were married here Saturday by Rev. Newman Burdick, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The bride-to-be arrived from the West Friday, accompanied by her sister, while Judge Fisk reached here Saturday morning from Williston. They repaired to the county clerk's office and secured a license, then hunted up the minister who tied the knot, after which the couple took the train for Alhambra.

OBITUARY

Sam Lloyd, the well known puzzle expert, whose problems have interested not alone the rising generation but others, died April 11, at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., from a stroke of apoplexy. He was 70 years of age. For many years Mr. Lloyd had been famous throughout the country for his popular problems for the amusement of newspaper and magazine readers. In this unique calling he built up a fortune that has been estimated at more than $1,000,000.

B. Cumberland Stuart, president and general manager of the Standard News association, which collect the news of the New York suburbs, died suddenly April 11, at the home of his sister in Paterson, N. J. Mr. Stuart had been an important part of the news gathering and distributing forces of the metropolis for more than twenty years.

Charles Fox, one of the best known hotel men in Southern Minnesota, died at Austin, Minn., April 10, at the age of 67, leaving a wife and four children. He was proprietor of a hotel at McGregor, Iowa, for twenty-one years and moved here in 1893 and built the Fox hotel. He was a Knight Templar and a member of the shrine of St. Paul.

SETTLE CASE OUT OF COURT

North Dakota's Sensational Breach of Promise Case Will Not Be Tried.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Banker Langen of Berlin, La Moure county, will not have to go into court to answer to the $40,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Sophia Knudson of Chicago, as a settlement is reported to have been reached out of court.

EARTH SHOCKS CONTINUE FOR MORE THAN AN HOUR.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11. — The seismograph at St. Ignatius college observatory today showed the record of an earthquake that occurred yesterday, the tremors continuing for more than an hour. The first shock was felt at 12:49 p. m., and the final at 1:56. It is estimated that the center of the earthquake was 2,000 or 3,000 miles distant.

BIG MEETING OF LAYMEN

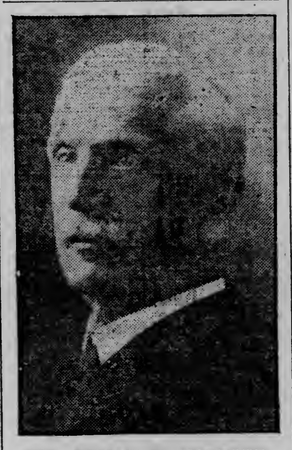
Follow-Up Conference Will Be Addressed By Prominent Speakers.

J. Campbell White Is Moving Spirit in Laymen's Missionary Movement.

The anniversary conference of the Laymen's Missionary movement in Duluth will open this evening, when about 200 members of the mission boards of the various Duluth churches will meet at the Pilgrim Congregational church. The meeting will open at 5 o'clock with prayer. Supper will be served in the church parlors and the conference addresses will be made around the supper table. Although the meeting for supper will be only for those who have handed in their names, it is expected that many others will be present for the addresses and discussions which will follow.

The follow-up conference, which will close tomorrow evening, will be addressed by J. Campbell White, Col. E. W. Halford and Rev. C. C. Rollitt. J. Campbell White is the head and moving spirit of the Laymen's Missionary movement. He has an international reputation as a worker among men, has been engaged in the work for many years and was largely responsible for the movement which swept through the country last year and enlisted many men in the mission work. At the time the conference was held in Duluth last year, preparations were being made for the missionary congress at Chicago and Mr. White was unable to come to Duluth. His visit at this time will give Duluth men an opportunity to hear him and it is expected that many will avail themselves of it.

Col. Elijah W. Halford is a prominent Methodist layman, a paymaster in the United States army from 1893 to 1907, when he was retired by law, with the rank of colonel. He was editor of the Indianapolis Journal for some years, founded the Chicago Inter-Ocean in 1872 and continued as its editor until 1893. From 1889 to 1893 he was private secretary to President Benjamin Harrison. He was disbursing agent of the Behring Sea arbitration commission in Paris in 1893 and has served on important national political committees. He was in the Philippines from 1901 to 1903.



COL. ELIJAH W. HALFORD.

Col. Halford was chairman of the Evangelical Alliance during his residence in the Philippines and has always taken an active interest in mission work. He was prominent in the Laymen's Missionary movement last year and is now active in extending the work by means of the follow-up conferences.

Rev. C. C. Rollittt is department secretary of the Episcopal mission board, with headquarters at Minneapolis.

The program for the meetings follows:

Tuesday, April 11.

W. I. PRINCE, Presiding.

5 p. m.—Meeting for prayer.

6 p. m.—Supper in church parlors.

Addresses around the supper table:

"The Present Working Policy of the Laymen's Missionary Movement," Col. E. W. Halford.

"How the Financial Methods Recommended by the Laymen's Movement are Succeeding," Rev. C. C. Rollitt.

"Important By-products of the Present Missionary Awakening," J. Campbell White.

Wednesday, April 12.

REV. ROBERT KOST, Presiding.

12 noon.—Committee luncheon. (Place to be announced.)

4 p. m.—Conference session.

"The Local Missionary Outlook," W. L. Smithies.

"An Adequate Program of Missionary Finance."

"An Adequate Program of Missionary Education."

"An Adequate Program of Prayer for Missions."

"Why a Great Advance is Imperative."

"A Men's Mission Study Class in Session."

6 p. m.—Supper in church parlors.

Addresses around the supper table:

EVANGELIZE THE WORLD

That Is Object of Laymen's Movement, Says J. Campbell White.

Says Heathen Countries Do Not Resent Coming of Missionary.

J. Campbell White, head of the laymen's missionary movement, at the Spalding hotel today, gave some interesting facts in connection with the tremendous movement which has for its object the evangelization of the entire world in this generation.

There are at the present time something like 600,000,000 people who have no idea of Christianity, he said.

Though the movement has been on foot for just about three years it has grown to tremendous proportions. Last year the income donated to the cause was over $3,000,000 and Mr. White says that the present year will witness a growth to $5,000,000.

"Just what we are doing at the present time is teaching our idea of the missionary work to the different local committees," said Mr. White today. "When you stop to think that we have visited something over seventy-five large cities in this country and twenty-five in Canada, you may grasp some idea of our work. We have been out to the Pacific coast, the meeting here ending our work until after Easter.

"With the county as the unit the work will eventually be carried on as a permanent institution. Understand, we have the permanent idea in our minds, and our great work at the present time is to teach the different local committees our idea of the work and let them carry it on and also expand the work in their different localities.

"Soon we will have eight secretaries in this county and one in Canada, which will facilitate the work. That will take some of the work of general organizing out of our hands. After that step we will not have to visit so many centers and can also keep in closer touch with the work.

Missionaries Welcome.

"The work is tremendous and its growth has been nothing less than wonderful. There is a mistaken idea that many of the countries which have not received Christianity are opposed to the receiving of missionaries. This idea is quite out of date. It is a grievous mistake. In the past ignorant people of some uncivilized countries have undoubtedly misunderstood the work and aim of the missionaries. For that reason they have doubted them. That misapprehension has been removed and these countries today stand ready to welcome the coming of the missionary.

"There are millions of people in this highly civilized age entirely ignorant of the first principles of the Christian life. It is our aim to reach every one of these people; to Christianize the world. The idea has met with a wonderful reception in the United States and Canada. Money has been subscribed freely toward it, and the money so far subscribed has been put where it will do permanent good. This money is an annual offering and is assured for the future, and therefore the work is gathering force and momentum and will continue to increase each year."

Col. E. W. Halford, just recently retired from the United States army, to which he was appointed by President Benjamin Harrison, is vice chairman of the executive committee of the missionary movement, and has a long and illustrious record as a newspaper man and politician.

He was for years the editor of the Indianapolis Journal and was the editorial founder of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. After printing the first edition of the Chicago paper and working on it for two years, he returned to Indianapolis and continued his labors on the Journal.

He was the private secretary of President Harrison and has also been very prominent in politics in his native state. He was with the United States army in the Philippines and while there became interested in the missionary movement. Since his retirement he has become connected with the laymen's missionary work and is now giving all his time to it.

MUCH TALK OF RECIPROCITY

Four Parties Now Represented at Washington, Says A. W. Frick.

A. W. Frick, president of the Board of Trade, has returned from an Eastern pleasure trip. He stopped in Washington, D. C., on his way home.

"I heard considerable reciprocity talk in Washington," said Mr. Frick, "but it was difficult to tell much about the situation. There are practically four parties represented in congress: The progressive Republicans, progressive Democrats, conservative Democrats and the 'old guard' Republicans. What is going to come out of that mix-up nobody knows.

"Champ Clark seems to have a happy faculty of getting factions together and he may be able to do something.

CIRCUIT OF THE GLOBE

Duluth Man Returns From Eight Months' Tour of World.

Visited Japan, Malay States, India, Egypt, Paris and London.

F. A. Day of Richardson, Day & Harrison, has returned from a trip around the world which occupied about eight months. He left here on the Western route instead of Eastern, as taken by most travelers, and joined a party at San Francisco.

He spent a month in Japan, visited Korea, crossed over to Port Arthur and Dalny, went through Manchuria and visited the famous battlefield of Mukden. He went to Pekin, Hongkong and Canton. The plague had not then broken out in China but there was considerable Asiatic cholera.

Mr. Day went to Singapore and then visited Java. He spent three weeks in the Malay states, journeyed to Burma and through India and Ceylon. He went to the base of the Himalaya mountains. In the far distance he saw Mount Everest and from an elevation of 8,000 feet he had an unobstructed view of the range of 28,000 feet in the air, forty-five miles distant.

When Mr. Day arrived in India there were 9,000 cases of plague reported daily and when he left 28,000 people were dying every day from the scourge. He returned home by Cairo, Paris, London and Southampton, landing at New York.

After considerable experience, Mr. Day found that the cost of living and the cost of traveling in the far East and Europe are less than in this country. After living in the United States, said Mr. Day, an American is not inclined to make any protest against the tactics used in Europe to separate him from his money.

TRIBUTE TO TOM L. JOHNSON

Flags on Duluth Municipal Buildings Fly at Half Mast.

Flags on the public buildings are flying half mast today in respect to the memory of the late Tom L. Johnson, Cleveland's great ex-mayor. In common with the public of the country the people of Duluth honored and reverend Mr. Johnson for his many accomplishments, not only for his own city but for municipalities generally.

"Every mayor in this broad land who is familiar with and appreciates the splendid services of Tom L. Johnson will fly his flag at half mast today," said Mayor Cullum in speaking of him.

"Mayor Johnson of Cleveland was the last of three great mayors, and perhaps in accomplishment the greatest. He has made Cleveland the best city in the United States, and the people of that city owe him a debt of gratitude that they can never repay. He gave his life and his fortune to their services."

PATENTS TUG HOOK.

North Dakota Farmer Has Conceived a Novel Device.

Drake, N. D., April 11.—H. D. Odegard, a prosperous farmer living a few miles west of here, has been granted a patent on his invention of a tug hook and several manufacturers are anxious to take the contract for manufacturing them. The hook is so constructed that the lines or reins will not catch in it nor is there any possibility of the tugs coming down after they are once in the hook. It is conceded by everyone as the most perfect hook ever invented.

RIGHT TO DISPERSE CROWD.

No Damages Where Injured Party Fires Into Noise Makers.

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—A jury in Judge Brill's court decided Monday that a man has a right to use a shotgun in dispersing a crowd of New Year's revelers.

John K. Cook asked $2,000 damages of Andrew Indyklewecz, because Indyklewecz peppered Cook's 18-year-old son with birdshot New Year's night.

The son was one of a party of revelers that disturbed Indyklewecz. The jury returned a verdict for the man with the shotgun.

MORPHINE RELIEVED PAIN—THE GREAT KIDNEY REMEDY RESTORES TO HEALTH.

For the past few years I suffered greatly from what three physicans called neuralgia of the stomach. The doctors treated me without any success and I called in a fourth doctor, who pronounced my disease gall stones. I suffered intense pain and the only relief the doctor could give me was by injections of morphine. I was so completely discouraged that I had almost given up hope when a neighbor told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. I decided to try it and began its use at once and after taking nine bottles was completely cured, not having a spell of sickness in over two years.

I have so much confidence in Swamp-Root that I never fail to recommend it to my friends who may have kidney trouble of any kind. I feel certain that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root saved my life, why should it not do likewise to others who take it in time.

HOLY WEEK IN DULUTH

Strict Observance in Catholic Churches—Jewish Feast of Passover.

Masons Gather for Annual Reunion and Maundy Thursday Banquet.

This is Holy week, a week of special observance in all Christian churches and of especially strict observance in the Catholic, Episcopal and other ritualistic churches. Being the week of Christ's passion and death, that sorrowful period in the history of the Christian world is commemorated by ceremonies intended to bring forcibly to the minds of the worshipers the sorrows and sufferings of Christ and the lessons they teach.

In the Catholic churches the Lenten observance took on added rigor with the beginning of this week, Palm Sunday. The story of Christ's passion was read at all Catholic churches Sunday, and palms were blessed and distributed in commemoration of Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem when he journeyed back to the Holy City, ostensibly to observe the Jewish feast of the passover, but really to endure the sufferings and death which were his mission on earth.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of this week the tenebrae will be observed in Catholic churches. It consists of the chanting of the portions of the divine office, known as the matins and lauds, with the lamentations of the prophet Jeremiah. The chanting is attended by the extinguishing of lights on a triangular candlestick until only one light, that representing Christ, remains. The total darkness that attends the hiding of that light signifies the darkness in which the world was immersed at the death of Christ, and the reappearance of the lighted candle signifies the resurrection.

Maundy Thursday.

Maundy Thursday will be observed by special services in all Catholic churches, the sad note of Holy week being tempered somewhat by the joy of celebration of the institution of the Blessed Sacrament by Christ at the last supper. In cathedrals, the bishop on Maundy Thursday blesses the holy oils to be used in the ceremonies of the church during the year.

The ceremonies of Friday have a tone of solemn sadness in the commemoration of the death of Christ. There is no consecration of the Host in the mass of Good Friday, that being the only day of the year on which the mass is not attended by the consecration. The Host offered in the mass is consecrated on Maundy Thursday, and the mass of Good Friday is known as the mass of the Presanctified.

Saturday the ceremonies are in preparation of the celebration of the resurrection. In addition to the mass on the morning of Holy Saturday, the ceremonies of blessing the new fire and incense, blessing the pascal candle and blessing the baptismal font and the holy water are observed.

Feast of Passover.

Almost coincident with the Christian observance of the passion, death and resurrection of Christ, is the Jewish observance of the feast of Pasech or the passover. The passover begins with the setting of the sun tomorrow evening and ends with the same hour seven days later. It is probably the most rigidly observed of the Jewish feasts, its observance extending to all Jews, orthodox or reformed. Leaven in either liquid or solid form is not permitted to be eaten and matzos, or unleavened bread, takes the place of the usual wheat bread. The home feast chiefly takes place on the eve and first night of the period of the passover and is a very impressive and rigidly observed ceremony. During the first two days of the passover period, all Jews refrain from manual labor. Four days of routine life follow and for the remainder of the period, the faithful refrain from manual labor and attend morning and evening synagogue services.

Masonic Exercises.

The annual reunion of the Scottish Rite Masons of Northeastern Minnesota opened at the Masonic temple this morning. It continues in constant session until midnight Thursday, at which time the ceremony of the "Tenebrae" takes place.

This is the big gathering of Scottish Rite Masons of the year and winds up the actual work until fall. Masons come from all over Northeastern Minnesota to attend the celebration of the events up to Thursday night.

Last year there were 500 present at the Maundy Thursday banquet. This year it is expected that there will be many more.

The symbolic lights will be extinguished Thursday evening. They will be lighted again Easter Sunday. The Maundy Thursday feast is sacramental and brings out all the members who can possibly attend.

Music will be a feature of the celebration. It will be under the direction of A. F. M. Custance. The thirty-second degree, the highest that can be conferred outside of Washington, will be exemplified on Thursday afternoon just before the feast.

There will be speeches and Flaaten's concert band will provide the music during the supper.

HOUSE KILLS MURRAY BILL

work of making the Oregon plan into Minnesota law.

However, a determined fight on the part of the partisan Republicans to kill the Keefe bill, either by amending it to death or by voting it down, can be counted upon.

As soon as the bill came into the senate yesterday afternoon Representative Henry Rines of Mora, Republican, moved that it be indefinitely postponed. Representative Joseph R. Keefe of North Redwood, author of the Keefe bill, supported his motion.

Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm pleaded for giving the Murray bill consideration, and so did Representative Lennon and Frankson.

Representative Rines said that the house had gone on record as to the kind of bill it wants, and that if it killed the Murray bill, the senate would have to pass the Keefe bill.

Representative Moyle Edwards of Breckenridge moved as a substitute for the Rines motion that the bill be placed on general orders.

A Mere Subterfuge.

Representative W. I. Nolan of Minneapolis said that the Murray bill was a mere subterfuge and that if the house held it on general orders it would never be reached, and the senate would never reach the Keefe bill. The Murray bill, he said, does not carry out the pledges that have been made to support the direct election of United States senators.

Representative Edwards' motion to put the bill on general orders was defeated, 38 for and 54 against, and the Rines motion indefinitely postponing the bill was adopted, 71 to 32, the roll call resulting as follows:

For killing the bill—Andrew Anderson, A. V. Anderson, J. J. Anderson, Boothroyd, Bouck, Burnquist, Campbell, Clarke, Conley, Davies, R. C. Dunn, Edwards, Fuchs, Greene, Herzberg, Hillman, Hoffman, Holten, Holmberg, Hurley, Jelinek, J. N. Johnson, J. T. Johnson, Just, Keefe, Kelly, Kneeland, L. J. Lee, J. F. Lee, Lennon, Lindberg, McDonald, MacKenzie, McMartin, Mattson, Mettling, Minette, Moriarity, Morton, A. Nelson, Nolan, Nye, Nygren, O'Brien, Orr, Palmer, Peters, Ole Peterson, Pfaender, Putnam, Reed, Ribenack, Rice, Rines, Robinson, Saggau, Schiller, Schwartz, Skartum, W. T. Stone, Sulerud, Thielen, Untiedt, Utecht, Virtue, Voxland, C. H. Warner, E. Warner, Washburn, Webb, Wisniewski—71.

For saving the bill—Aker Borgen, G. W. Brown, L. D. Brown, Christie, Congdon, Converse, Crane, Denzer, Diessner, Fowler, Frankson, Hafften, Healy, Henlon, Hopkins, Kiemer, Knapp, Knutson, S. N. Lee, Lundeen, McNeil, H. Nelson, Perry, A. J. Peterson, J. E. Peterson, Robertson, Rustad, Sampson, Sullivan, Wescott, White—32.

Absent or not voting—Davis, Speaker Dunn, Farley, Ferguson, Harding, Hauge, C. E. Johnson, Kunze, Libera, Lydiard, Nash, O'Neill, Papke, Spooner, C. E. Stone, Whiting—16.

Duluth Dock Site.

The house yesterday afternoon adopted the Cheadle senate resolution providing for a joint committee of six senators and seven representatives to investigate the bills leasing the Oneota state elevator site to the city of Duluth for a public dock site. The following committee has been appointed: By Lieut.-Governor Gordon—Senators Cheadle, Sundberg, McGrath, Odell, Clague and Moonan; by Speaker Dunn—Representatives Knapp, O'Neill, R. C. Dunn, Rines, Mattson, Pfaender and J. N. Johnson.

Distance Tariff Bill Revived.

The first fruit of the recent decision of the federal courts against the Minnesota rate cases was the revival in the house yesterday afternoon of the Cashman distance tariff bill, which was killed in the senate some time ago, but has been sleeping quietly in the house committee on railroads for months, there being no disposition to bring it out because of the faction of the senate.

One of the chief arguments against the bill was that it would interfere in the pending rate cases, prejudicing the state's interests therein, and now that the state has lost, even though there is still the supreme court ahead, the legislature is losing interest in the rate cases as an argument against more railroad legislation.

On motion of Representative Crane, author of the house copy of the Cashman bill, the house yesterday afternoon, by a vote of 77 to 24, withdrew the bill from the railroad committee and made it a special order for Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Representative Nye of Minneapolis, when the motion was made, said that it was an utter waste of time for the house to consider a bill which the senate had killed.

Representative Kneeland of Minneapolis said that the senate had considered the bill for two months, and that there was not time in which the house could give it decent attention. Besides, it would affect the state's chances in the rate cases before the supreme court of the United States.

Representative Conley said that Southern Minnesota was interested in having the bill brought out.

Speaker Dunn expressed from the chair his interest in having the bill considered, saying that the occasion for it was the radical action of the federal court, practically wiping out the railroad and warehouse commission and its functions.

The St. Louis county members, except Representative Healy, voted to call the bill from the committee.

On motion of Representative Knapp the senate bill giving Duluth an experiment farm was substituted for the house bill, which is now a part of the special order for local bills.

Consolidating State Departments.

Representative Spooner's bill providing for a committee to look into the matter of consolidating and co-ordinating the various state departments, of which Representative Nolan is co-author, was a special order in the house yesterday afternoon, but some of the members balked at the proposed appropriation of $15,00, and for that reason and because the bill is not yet printed, it was laid over until Wednesday morning. The house adopted an amendment by Representative Fowler increasing the membership or the committee from three to five, the additional members to be appointed by the governor, so that there shall be two members of the house, appointed by the speaker, a member of the senate, appointed by the lieutenant governor, and two members to be appointed by the governor.

The house yesterday afternoon killed the Holmberg bill regulating the grading and sale of apples in this state, and Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm led the fight against it, being supported by other representatives of the cities and by some country members. The vote for the bill was 33 with 61 against it. The arguments against it were to the effect that it would make apples costlier to the consumer and that it would serve to keep out foreign apples.

Representative Burnquist's bill providing for a new system of boiler inspection, which has been defeated twice in the house, came up for the third time yesterday afternoon and was adopted, 82 to 21.

The house passed, 67 to 6, the bill by Representative A. J. Peterson providing the nominal tax of 3 mills on the dollar on all moneys and credits.

The bill by Representative White, punishing minors and drunkards who buy liquor when it is forbidden them, was killed in the house by a tie vote, 45 to 45.

Congdon School Bills.

The senate in committee of the whole yesterday afternoon advanced a ladge number of bills to the calendar. Among them were the two Congdon bills regulating the finances of the Duluth school district so as to limit the total tax levy to 12 mills and the bonded debt for 3½ per cent of the assessed valuation, and two require the consent of the city council before bonds can be issued.

Representative Lundeen's bill increasing the limit of damages recoverable for death by wrongful act from $5,000 to $7,500 was advanced to the calendar by the senate, as were the following other measures:

By Representative Kunze—Proposing a Constitutional amendment providing an educational qualification for county superintendents.

By Representative Skartum—Punishing the use of false weights and measures.

By Representative Conley—Requiring safety devices on corn shredders.

By the house committee on temperance—Providing penalties for those who induce prohibited persons to enter saloons.

By the house committee on temperance—Providing punishment for giving or selling liquors to minors, drunkards and other prohibited persons.

By Senator Stebbins—Regulating the sale of turpentine.

By Representative Lennon—Providing that peddlers licensed by cities of more than 50,000 need not pay other license fees.

By Senator Rockne—Proposing a Constitutional amendment authorizing a tax on employers and employes to provide a workingmen's compensation fund.

By Representatives Ole Peterson, Pfaender, Keefe, Holmberg and Hopkins—Creating Fort Ridgley state park.

House Night Session.

The house last evening took up the special order on local bills again, grinding through a number of measures of more of less consequence.

The senate bill by the St. Louis county delegation providing for a sub-experiment station and demonstration farm at Duluth at a cost of $65,000 and another at Waseca at a cost of $35,000, which was on the special order, was placed at the head of the calendar, on motion of Representative Chester A. Congdon of Duluth.

Opposition was made to the motion, which was supported by Representative Spooner, but it prevailed.

Representative Crane, when the bill was reached, wanted to lay it over, but his motion was lost, 34 to 35.

Ole Peterson's bill providing for a monument at St. Peter to the late Governor John A. Johnson, was also placed on the calendar, though there was opposition from J. T. Johnson and others. R. C. Dunn, "speaking as John A. Johnson's defeated opponent," supported the bill.

Bills Passed.

The following bills were passed:

By Senator Boyle—Increasing the expense allowance of the St. Louis county mine inspector from $300 to $600 a year.

By Senator Boyle—Repealing the law under which the range assistant county attorney was appointed by the county board. Under the general salary bill passed by the delegation, the appointment is left to the county attorney.

By Representatives Robertson and Mattson—Authorizing the state drainage commission to co-operate in constructing another outlet for Snake river, in Marshall county.

By Representative Sulerud—A similar provision for Wild Rice river, Norman county.

By Representative Harding—Providing for a commission to have charge of the Minnesota exhibit at the San Francisco exposition, and appropriating $5,000 therefor.

No play in recent years has attracted the widespread interest in New York that has attended "The Spendthrift," Porter Emerson Browne's four-act drama, which will be seen at the Lyceum tonight. The play deals with a timely subject of domestic extravagance and the high cost of living.

It is heralded as one of the great

A quarter of a century spent as a vaudeville performer has made "Jim" Cullen known from Portland, Me., to Portland, Or., and from Duluth to New Orleans. He is appearing on the Orpheum bill this week, playing his first engagement in Duluth, but during his twenty-five years of experience as a vaudeville performer he has visited every city in the United States of more than 25,000 inhabitants, and most of the smaller ones. This is his thirteenth successive tour of the Orpheum circuit.

During his long experience in vaudeville, Mr. Cullen has acquired a "don't worry' philosophy, which has made him one of the most popular performers in his line of business. He is good humored and smiling no matter what comes his way; cheerfully takes whatever position is assigned him on the bill, and works just as hard when there are 100 people in the audience as when the house is sold out.

"There is all kinds of fun to be found in this world, and any number of good people, if you just hunt for 'em," is his philosophy, and it has made him a friend in every employe at the Duluth Orpheum this week.

The famous Howard, Adams, Hough musical show, "The Girl Question," one of the most brilliant successes ever achieved at the La Salle theater, the home of musical comedy production in Chicago, will be presented next Sunday afternoon at the Lyceum theater by the Mack-Leone players.

There will be an added chorus and the full strength of the company will be employed in the production, which will be one of the biggest offerings of the Mack-Leones in this city.

Miss Maude Leone will be cast for the part of Jo Forster, the waitress who is in love with Con Ryan, and Con doesn't even know it. In this part Miss Leone is expected to even outdo the hit she made as Mary Jane Jenkins in "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway."

As a novelty, the act which is being presented by the U. S. A. Boys at the Empress this week is about the best seen in this city for many months. Their act includes a fancy drill that is remarkable for the speed and precision with which it is executed, a gatling gun drill that gives one an idea of the terrible effect one of the death-dealing machines would have in a real engagement, and a sham battle that is very thrilling and realistic. These boys show the results of some very careful and capable drilling and this is especially true of the gatling gun drill.

The sham battle is staged in a very natural manner and the scenic and electrical effects are beautiful. During the battle the boys introduce some wall scaling that is a revelation for speed and accuracy. This is an act that should be seen by every one, as it gives the ordinary citizen an idea of the manner in which drills are carried on in the United States army and the manner in which the U. S. A. Boys present their drills could not be improved upon.

New programs of photoplay are being presented at the Odeum and Lyric theaters this week. "Priscilla and the Umbrella" is the feature photoplay at the Odeum and "The Way of the Transgressor" at the Lyric.

In the former two young men have a tempestuous time fighting for the good graces of Priscilla. She succeeds in ridding herself of one of them by a clever subterfuge, which brings the second to her feet and proves his worth, while the former is shown up in his true light.

The other pictures at the Odeum are "A Republican Marriage," a dramatic film telling of an incident of the French revolution, and "Who Gets the Order?" a comic film telling of the fight for an order between two traveling salesmen and the efforts they make to land it.

The two remaining films at the Lyric are "Her Adopted Father," a dramatic film telling of the events in the life of a fishermans' daughter, and "April Fool," a big comedy film showing the pranks of some children on All Fools' Day.

Continuous performances are given every afternoon and evening.

North Dakota Appointments.

Bismarck, N. D., April 11.—Hail Insurance Commissioner Gilbreath has appointed C. G. Parsons of Fessenden as his deputy and Helen Fauske of Portland, will be the stenographer in the department.

Orrine for Whiskey and Beer Habit

Orrine is the standard remedy and is every where recognized as the most successful and reliable home treatment for the "Drink Habit." It is highly praised by thousands of women, because it has restored their loved ones to lives of sobriety and usefulness, and the weekly wages which at one time were spent for "Drink" are now used to purchase the necessaries and many comforts of home. Any wife or mother who wants to save her husband or son from "Drink" will be glad to know that she can purchase ORRINE from W. A. Abbett and if no benefit is obtained after a trial, we will refund the money.

ORRINE is prepared in two forms, No. 1, secret treatment, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. ORRINE No. 2, in pill form, is for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. ORRINE costs only $1.00 a box. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to ORRINE CO., 457 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. ORRINE is recommended and is for sale in this city by W. A. House-Cleaning Time Is Here Again! Ready?

Spring cleaning means lots of hard work at best—make it as easy as possible by using as many labor-saving appliances as you can! Consider the Thurman Electric Vacuum Cleaner, for instance—it does the work of many hands and does it MORE THOROUGHLY than hands can possibly do it. it SUCKS up the dirt from rugs and wall-hangings, WITHOUT REMOVING; it gets down into the crannies of the chair-upholstering and drags out all the dirt, dust and moth eggs. You don't have to dust after a Thurman Cleaner—there isn't any!

Now here's a SPECIAL proposition for a few housewives for this Spring Cleaning. If you don't want to buy a Thurman, or if you want to test it out thoroughly in your own home before buying — let us send one out to your house, with a demonstrator to show you how to work it—let us leave it there two days, long enough to clean the whole house thoroughly, let us then either make a deal with you to OWN this automatic housemaid, or else we will take back the cleaner and charge you but Five Dollars for the two days' use of it, the services of our man and hauling both ways! We haven't many of these wonderful cleaners in stock—get your order in early if you want prompt service! A 'phone call is sufficient.

Two Sisters Killed.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., April 11.—Two sisters, Alsena and Anna Loeffel of Huron, S. D., were killed yesterday in a runaway at Wagon Mound, Mora county. They had been visiting their father, William Loeffel and were awaiting the arrival of their brother, Rev. Emery Loeffel of Huron and his bride.

One Year for Cow Poisoning.

Eau Claire, Wis., April 11.—John Gamouf, the town of Pleasant Valley farmer who was convicted by a jury of poisoning cattle belonging to his neighbor, Edgar Jacot, was sentenced to one year at Waupun by Judge Wickham.

BELIEVED TWENTY LIVES WERE LOST

Sinking of Little Steamer Results in Heavy Loss.

Victoria, B. C., April 11.—It is believed that twenty lives were lost when the little wooden steamer Iroquois, plying between Sydney, Vancouver Island and the islands of the Gulf of Georgia capsized soon after leaving Sydney yesterday.

The purser, who had a record of fares collected, is among the dead, and it is not likely that the exact number that perished will ever be known. Four passengers and seven members of the crew were saved and four members of the crew and probably sixteen passengers were drowned.

Following is a partial list of the dead:

Passengers—
D. H. DAVIDSON.
—— BRYDEN.
MRS. HOUSTON AND CHILD.
Crew—
A. OLSON, fireman.
HERBERT HARTNELL, steward.
A. G. MUNROE, purser
Chinese cook.

Following is a list of the passengers saved: H. S. Moss, Victoria; John Bennett, laborer, bound for Pender island; Miss M. McFarland, school teacher; H. J. Hartnell, the steward's brother; crew, Capt. A. A. Sears, master; J. L. Bizer, mate; Thompson, engineer; M. Phillips, deck hand; two Indians and one half-breed.

WOMAN'S REALM.

"I felt that the Duluth Matinee musicale can hold its own with other musicale clubs of the country," said Miss Ruth Rogers in her report of the biennial convention of the National Federation of Musical clubs which was held the last week in March in Philadelphia and to which she went as delegate from the Matinee musicale of this city. She gave this report at the last meeting of the year held yesterday afternoon at the auditorium of the Y. W. C. A.

"I had opportunity to talk with representatives from various clubs and I feel that no club is doing more and many of them not as much according to their membership and possibilities.

"The convention is a great stimulus to musicians and authors and a great deal of enthusiasm is aroused through these meetings."

She spoke of the compositions offered in the prize contest which the federation carries on and said that those contributed by women were sadly lacking in harmony, but full of melody, and what the clubs needed was a study of the history of music, for without the knowledge of what had already been done, nothing good could be accomplished.

One of the speakers at the convention said that Americans were trying too hard to put something new and individual into their music. But that just as Americans are the descendants of the Europeans, so their music must be the outgrowth of what is best in European music.

She reported one of the speakers in a talk on music in the public schools as saying: "Public school training in music is the most important of all musical training. The greater majority of children leave school in the seventh and eighth grades and what music they get before that is consequently the basis of their musical ideals. Therefore this basis must be of the best. One of the greatest things which we have to fight musically is the music in the Sunday schools and churches throughout the country."

She went on to say that the children in the churches and Sunday schools are urged to sing louder and louder until their voices are strained and their ideas of music are started in the wrong direction.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read showing a most careful resume of the year's work, after which Miss Florence Hyland, Miss Alfhild Nordby, Mrs. O. J. Larson and Miss Ruth Alta Rogers rendered a pleasing program with Miss Carlotta L. Simonds accompanying.

At the close of the program the following officers were elected by the active members of the club: President, Mrs. George Richards; vice president, Mary Syre Bradshaw; recording secretary, Mrs. Cornelia Edison; treasurer, Bernice Crowley; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. Herbert Jones; librarian, Mrs. Ernest Lachmund; directors for two years, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Fred Bradbury and Isabel Pearson.

SWEDISH SONGS AND DANCES

MME. HILDA HELLSTROM-GAGNEE.

Mme. Hilda Hellstrom-Gagnee will give a concert here Wednesday evening, at the Bricklayers hall at Nineteenth avenue west and First street. She will appear in different Swedish National costumes and many of her songs will be accompanied by a Swedish dance.

She will be assisted by Annar Myhre, baritone and Miss Eva Ashworth, pianist. One of her numbers which is especially interesting to a Swedish audience is a "potpourri of Swedish folk melodies" arranged by herself.

WILL HELP BEAR QUEEN'S CANOPY

DUCHESS HAMILTON.

The duchess of Hamilton is one of the four duchesses chosen to bear the canopy of Queen Mary at the coronation. She is of especial interest because she is chosen to take the place of the duchess of Marlborough who was one of the canopy bearers when Queen Alexandra was crowned. It is said that the queen wished to choose another American in place of the duchess of Marlborough, whose separation from her husband made her selection in the matter seem inadvisable. But only two were available—the duchess of Manchester and the duchess of Roxborough, and neither of these was tall enough.

NEW ADDITION READY.

Subscriptions Will be Received for Furnishing Rooms.

The new addition to St. Mary's hospital is now ready for the furnishing of the rooms of which there are fifty-eight to be completely furnished. These will all be fitted out by contributions and many have already volunteered to take care of one or more. The Sister Superior at the hospital has charge of the furnishing of the rooms and any one who is interested in helping, can communicate with her for particulars.

SECRETARY APPOINTED.

Vacancy Is Filled in Office of the Y. W. C. A.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Young Women's Christian association, which was held this morning at the association building, Miss Millie Older, who has been office secretary for several years was appointed general assistant secretary, that place having been vacated by Mrs. Cecil Hockin, after her marriage last month. Mrs. Hockin was Miss Margaret Stewart and has held that position for several years. Miss Carrie Woodward of South Bend, Ind., was appointed office secretary to fill Miss Older's place. She is expected about the middle of May.

SPEAKS TO WOMEN.

J. Campbell White Talks at Y. W. C. A. Meeting.

J. Campbell White gave an interesting talk to the women at a mass meeting this noon at the Y. W. C. A. on missionary work. He is the general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary movement and came to Duluth to hold several meetings for men here. Miss Campbell, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. arranged this meeting that the women might have a chance to hear him.

He spoke of the golden jubilee which the women are holding throughout the country in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organized missionary work among the women of the country. The missionary work for men has been organized but five years.

He gave a good many statistics showing the need of work along these lines and said that the men could be interested in the work greatly through the influence of the women.

There was a good attendance at this meeting and much interest was manifested in the talk.

Easter Flowers and What They Will Cost in Duluth

EASTER FLOWERS.

Easter lilies, per bloom or bud	$ 0.25
Violets, per bunch	1.00
Sweet peas	1.00
Roses, per dozen, $3 to	4.00
American Beauties, $8 to	15.00
Daffodills and jonquils, 50 cents and	.60
Hydrangeas, per plant, $2 to	5.00
Azaleas, per plant, $2 to	5.00

Easter day, with its profusion of flowers, is near, and Duluth florists are well stocked with magnificent blooms to supply the big demand for Easter flowers. Easter is a little late this season and some of the later spring flowres are out.

The lily, of course, holds first place in the rank of flowers for this season, and is being sold at the usual price of 25 cents a blossom or bud. Lovely double violets and the fragrant single ones are being featured as Easter gifts, and sweet peas, too, are plentiful. Some of the stores are selling them for 35 cents a bunch, and others are 50 cents a bunch. Roses and other cut flowers are priced a little higher, of course, owing to the big demand for them, and spring plants, too, are higher than they will be later. The American Beauties are retailing for from $8 to $15 a dozen. The Chicago florists have reported a scarcity of these flowers for the Easter trade, owing to the too free cutting of the plants at Christmas time.

The hydrangea and the azolia plants are popular spring plants and are selling from $2 to $5 according to the size and profusion of blooms.

Duluth Oratorio Society Will Be Reorganized

For some time past there has been a movement among vocalists of the city, to reorganize the Duluth Oratorio society, and during the last few days those most interested are in a position to state that the society which gave such represenative renditions of Handel's "Messiah," Coleridge-Taylor's "Hiawatha," Grieg's "Olaf Trygvasson," and other oratorios, will be a strong feature of Duluth's musical life next season.

It is probable that Horace W. Reynor will be the conductor. Rumors were circulated in the city that Mr. Reynor was planning to leave Duluth for the Twin Cities, but they are untrue. It is true that Mr. Reyner's services as a choral conductor are in demand, and that next season the Twin Cities and Stillwater may claim a portion of his time, but Duluth will continue to be his home, he states, and it is with the object of retaining his services as conductor, and arranging dates with the Minneapolis orchestra for next season, that the reorganzation is being completed now. Mr. Reynor has been highly successful in his choral work in St. Paul this winter, and it has been considered strange that in his home city there has been no great choral concert under his direction during the last two years.

It is proposed to give a choral concert with the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra in the late fall, and to combine with the samc orchestra and give a great spring festival at the close of the season.

The organization is well under way, and next week there will be a full meeting in the rooms of the Commercial club on Monday night, with T. W. Hugo in the chair, when further announcements will be made.

H. E. Voigt is acting as secretary pro tem.

Musical and Dramatic Entertainment

THE EVENING STORY

A FAITH CURE

By Oliver Sandys.

"Talking of remedial measures, I have a pain," I said. Emily sat up in her chair. We had been discussing Christian Science, of which she professed herself a firm adherent.

"You imagine you have a pain," she debated. "It isn't really one. Anyway, I can cure it."

"Generally speaking, I have implicit faith in your capabilities. But this seems more a question of faculty; and how can you cure a pain that isn't there—here, I should say?"

Emily frowned. "Please don't try and be funny, or obtuse. What I can do is to convince you that the pain is only imaginary."

"First of all," she went on inexorably, "where do you think you feel it?"

"It is a curious sinking sensation," I commenced; "a sort of flutter—in the region of the—"

"Diaphragm?"

"Certainly not. It sounds a most unpleasant word, suggestive of 'Little Mary' or—"

Again she interrupted. "You are mixing things up. The diaphragm is a cut above 'Little Mary.'"

Not long ago Emily took it into her head that her mission in life was nursing, and for three weeks she was a probationer in a Philadelphia hospital. She would have remained longer, she said, but she didn't like cleaning dishes.

"My pain," I proceeded, "is in the region of the heart. Its principal symptom is a violent thumping, which occurs whenever I am in the company of a particular person."

"I'm glad to hear she's particular," she averred.

"How do you know the person I mean is a she?"

"Oh, by deduction—and other things. By the way," she asked satirically, "are you describing the pain or the girl?"

"In a sense, both. The girl is the cause of the pain."

"There you are! Get rid of her, and the pain will go."

"I might do that," I pondered, while Emily's brows began to meet in a resentful way; "but I'm not sure I want to."

"The fact is," I proceeded, "she is deliciously pretty, her eyes are like stars, and her lips—"

"Never mind her lips," admonished Emily.

"If I didn't mind them, I should kiss them," I argued.

"All this has nothing to do with your pain."

"Indeed it has. For instance, when I am not with her I experience a sort of empty sensation."

"Try some other girl," she suggested, rather shortly.

"I have tried—several."

"Poor things!"

I did the frowning this time. "Why?" I asked. "I can assure you they were quite useless as prophylatics. They bored me to distraction."

"No?" beamed Emily.

"Fact," said I solemnly, and waited.

"Let's get back to your pain. Do you feel it now?"

"Just now I'm in the throes!" I declared.

"You don't seem to mind—much."

"I don't. Curious, isn't it?"

"Not at all. The whole thing's imaginary, and, of course, curable. It's only a question of treatment."

"Skilled, kind treatment is what I want," I observed pointedly. "Mine is a serious case."

"In serious cases I believe in drastic remedies," observed Emily in a superior tone. "But first close your eyes and listen to me."

"There is no such thing as pain——"

"I rather like oratorios," I said. "But I thought——"

"There is no such thing as the girl you have been talking about," she continued, ignoring my interruption.

"Oh, come!" I pretended, opening my eyes. "I'll give way about the pain if you insist on it, but the girl, no; she's very real."

"Very well." I'll admit her existence," she amended, "but she's quite different from what you think."

"I don't agree. You see, I know her very well indeed."

"Shut your eyes again, and describe her."

"I can do it better with them open," I argued.

Emily's face wore an expression of command.

"O, very well," I grumbled, and obeyed her. "Let me see, she's rather short and stumpy, with red hair, an insignificant nose, Grecian eyes—"

A little gasp of indignation brought me to a stop.

"Did you speak?" I asked.

"I wouldn't interrupt you for the world," was the petulant answer.

"Where was I?"

"An insignificant nose and Grecian eyes," emphasized Emily. "What a taste!"

"The poor thing can't help it. But now I come to think of it, I was mixing them up. That one's married—to a short-sighted German, I fancy."

"I can well believe it," she murmured.

"The girl who gives me the pain is quite different. She's as pretty as paint."

"Paint! You mean—"

"Like a picture, or a piece of fine porcelain. Her coloring is delightful; her hair a net of gold, like ripe corn with the sun shining on it—"

"Then it's probably dyed," cried Emily sharply.

"Well, you ought to know best," I ventured.

"Why? My hair is not golden. It's golden brown."

"Do you mind if I open my eyes?" I asked, and taking silence for consent gazed at her with lengthy satisfaction.

"Her hair is exactly the same color as yours," I remarked.

"Then it's not dyed," said Emily decisively.

"And her eyes," I went on, "are like stars—midnight stars. Dark blue."

"Oh, you are too silly for words!" A great change hed come into her voice. My description had evidently mollified her. "Whoever heard of dark blue stars! I suppose you think you are in love with her. The truth is you merely imagine it, like you do the pain."

"I am sorry to contradict you," said I; "but I am so firmly convinced of the reality of my feelings that, although I know her to be a handful, I have already sounded her father—"

"What did he say?" she broke in suddenly.

"He said: 'Do what you like my boy, I've been trying to manage her for nineteen years, and I haven't succeeded yet.'"

"That's exactly the sort of thing my father would say," she murmured suspiciously.

There ensued a pause.

"I think," she hesitated, "that your case is worse than I thought."

"It's chronic, incurable," I nodded.

"Not if you never see the girl again. At least, not until you've got over it. You must simply eliminate her from your life."

I sighed heavily—a 16-20 horse power on the brake sigh—rose dejectedly, and gathered my hat and stick.

"Why, where are you going?" she faltered.

"To get you out of my life! Out into the lonely pathetic world with my pain," I lamented. "Since your pathological knowledge cannot cure me, since you even seem to lack faith in my case, there is nothing else for it."

I moved toward the door. Emily's cheeks flamed.

"Oh, wait!" she cried. "I—I may have a wrong diagnosis. I—I've forgotten to examine your heart. Please sit down."

I subsided into the comfortable basket chair. Adopting an air of professional gravity, Emily bent forward until her head rested against my chest—much too lightly.

"You'll hear it better if you keep it closer," I suggested.

"Be quiet!" she admonished. "I'm listening!"

She listened so long that I simply had to kiss one of the tantalizing little curls two inches from my nose.

"I'm afraid my case is quite hopeless," I muttered in excuse.

"I don't believe you want to be cured," was the muffled reproof.

"Oh, I don't mind the pain a bit—under this treatment."

"You must have plenty of faith," said Emily.

"And hope?" I augmented.

"Yes," she whispered.

The Kitchen

Hints on Cake Making.

In every branch of cookery the greatest care must be exercised to follow the rules exactly and ingredients must all be weighed not thrown in haphazard quantities anyhow, but precisely in the manner indicated. Attention to little things may mean the complete success of the cake.

Everything used in cake-making must be perfectly free from damp, or the result will be heaviness and generally a "sad" condition as down east people say.

In mixing sugar and butter heat the latter gently before beginning, and in mixing eggs and sugar do not attempt to add more than three eggs without adding a little flour now and then.

Some fruits, such as cherries, are better when rubbed with flour so as to prevent their sinking to the bottom of the tin.

Flour should be perfectly free from lumps; currants and raisins cleaned and dried.

All tins should be well buttered, and in case of scorching it is a good plan to cover them with a piece of parchment paper

As much care is necessary in the baking as in the mixing. Sponge and all light cakes, with those small ones baked in patty tins, require a quick oven, whilst ordinary cakes of the sultana and seed species are most successful when cooked in a moderate oven. The oven should not be opened until at least twenty minutes after the cake has been put in, and if it has to be closed again it must be done gently.

When the cake appears cooked, insert a knitting needle and if it is perfectly clean, then the cake is done.

To Keep Kitchen Tables White.

Have a bucket of warm water and a nice clean flannel. First wet the table and sprinkle over it a little common whiting or powdered bath brick; then scrub well with soap and a nice clean brush the way of the grain. Next rinse with clean water and wipe as dry as possible.

Roasting a Bird.

When cooking a bird in the oven roast it in the usual way until it is nicely browned, then turn back upwards and let it remain so until done. This causes the gravy to run into the breast, making it soft and tender.

Fads of Fashions

New chenille rugs in solid colors, with white borders and fringe, are designed for country house use.

• • •

Japanese silk embroidered skirts are very popular for table, piano or other draperies; they come in the mandarin yellow, embroidered in black, blue and blended colors.

A novelty is a Kurdish cradle direct from Persia; it is made of a Persian rug on a square frame, and it resembles our own square canvas hammocks. The corners are finished with tassels in the color of the rug.

Among the newest guimps are those of colored chiffon cloth with white or black net, especially the latter.

One of the newest pins for the hair has a pronounced outward curve at the top on the order of a hooked handle. This enables it to slip over the puff and curls so much worn.

The newest handbags are quite small, doubtless in contrast to the mammoth ones we have been carrying. The favorite shape is oblong, about seven inches wide and five deep.

For children the materials most in vogue are cotton voile and "aeronette," a new open-meshed fabric that is very practical. Heavy pique and white and natural colors in linen are good, while sheer batiste, lawn and coarse linen still hold their own.

The latest touch in embroideries on lunch cloths is to form them of alternate stripes of lace and fine linen. Filet, fine cluny and copies of the old venetian laces are used for these insertions, and a border of lace to match completes the cover.

A USELESS EXISTENCE ENDED

BECOMES A VICTIM TO NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The dandruff germ is a busy little microbe constantly at work and always doing the same thing. Apparently with fiendish intelligence it burrows down into the hair follicles, destroys the hair life and finally crowds out the hair, causing baldness.

There are two sure ways of stopping the harmful career of this invisible microbic growth. One is to wait until the germ has induced incurable baldness, after which the atrophied hair follicle offers no sustenance to the germ; the other is to USE NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE.

The dandruff germ cannot exist where Newbro's Herpicide is used intelligently. By killing the dandruff germ, it thus checks further accumulations of scarf skin and prevents the hair from coming out.

While many imitations and substitutes are offered for Newbro's Herpicide there is nothing "just like it" or "just as good."

VACANT LOTS FOR GARDENS

Bishop McGolrick Suggests Practical Aid to Homecroft Movement.

Asks Owners to Lend Land to Those Unable to Pay Rent.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Now that the time approaches for the cultivation of garden plots and the beautifying of our city grounds, I take opportunity of presenting a simple request in behalf of a large number of residents who lay no claim to even the smallest plot of ground.

The recent lectures of Mr. Maxwell, and the course of instructions given at the Y. M. C. A. under the management of the Commercial club have developed a widespread interest in mother earth and the coming in contact with her both for health and fruitfulness.

A fairly large number of our people, who are not poor, would wish both for themselves and their children the use of some vacant lots for such plain gardening as would conduce both to health and profit.

Personally, wherever opportunity offers, I encourage every man paying rent, to purchase lots sufficiently far from the city street and alleys to enable them to possess a green sward upon which their little ones can enjoy themselves and a garden plot rich in vegetables and small fruit.

The ideal life for a city man is to have a little farm—a few acres—where he can potter around of a bright morning before going to his office, and in the long summer evenings use a hoe which is a thousand times better than a golf stick.

We are soon to have a course of practical lectures on home gardening and in view of this fact, I beg from our land proprietors the use of such vacant lots as may be convenient to those who are anxious to do a little gardening.

It will be a pleasure to ask the owners of such plots in behalf of all who apply to me during the coming spring.

The Commercial club is already providing suitable seeds; the Twentieth Century club has done much to encourage boys and girls to raise flowers and fruit trees, prizes being also awarded to the children who are most successful.

One of the really important benefits to our city is the centre of an agricultural school, which, under the supervision of the state agricultural college, will bring results both to farmer and citizen more than can be told in a brief letter.

The Commercial club is to be congratulated on this excellent work; in a short time we shall see the practical gains.

When our boys and girls are not ashamed to thrust their hands into the kindly soil, nor afraid to bend their backs in loving labor amid flowers and fruit trees, they will have learned an important lesson in self-improvement and culture. Better than a dry lecture in botany at the school desk will be the knowledge gained by watching the seed germ afresh and stem and flower beneath the pure air of heaven. Then, too, the love of country life may grow, and the thousands and thousands of acres now lying in waste and a desert may be made to blossom fair as a garden of the Lord. May God speed the work.

JUDGMENT REVERSED.

New Trial Ordered in the Case of United Hatters.

New York, April 11.—The long standing controversy between the Danbury, Conn., hatters and the union known as the United Hatters of North America, was brought up again yesterday by a reversal of the judgment for $232,240.12 which Loewe & Co., of Danbury obtained as damages for the union's alleged boycott of the hat manufacturers' interstate business.

The United States circuit court of appeals on a writ of error reversed the judgment of the circuit court in Connecticut and set it aside, ordering a new trial. The verdict upon which judgment was originally entered, was practically directed by the courts, which left to the jurors merely the matter of damages, as the "only question with which they could properly concern themselves."

The jury assessed the damages at $74,000 which in accordance with the conspiracy provision of the Sherman law, the court trebled. Judge Lacombe wrote the opinion rendered yesterday in which Judges Coxe and Noyes concurred finding that the lower court erred in directing the verdict.

Discussing the points raised on appeal Judge Lacombe said that the assignment of error which is upheld, is the action of the trial judge in taking the case from the jury and "himself deciding every question except the amount of damages."

Dr. Hyde was tried, was hearing a highway robbery case in the criminal court when the decision was announced to him.

"I shall read the opinion with interest," said the judge, who went on with his case.

A significant point in connection with the Hyde decision is that it comes on April 11, exactly one year from the date that his trial began here.

An important point in the decision remanding Hyde was that the court said Judge Latshaw's action in ordering Dr. Hyde locked up during the progress of his trial, was "improper and unjustified."

Mrs. Hyde had been waiting anxiously this morning in the office of John A. Cleary, one of her attorneys. Ten minutes after the word had come from Jefferson City, she appeared at the jail. She was admitted immediately to the cellroom and rushed to that occupied by her husband. She embraced and kissed him.

Soon husband and wife were joined by the physician's attorneys, Frank Walsh and Mr. Cleary, and an earnest conference ensued.

The supreme court, in setting aside the verdict of the trial court remands Hyde "to the custody of the marshal of Jackson county without bail."

Later, both Dr. and Mrs. Hyde each gave out a statement. Dr. Hyde said:

Hyde Disappointed.

"Of course, I am disappointed that my case was not reversed outright. I shall, however, struggle on with an unbroken spirit, confident that I will convince not only the officers of the law, but the world, of my complete innocence of the terrible charges laid against me. In the darkest hours of my affliction I have been sustained by the loving kindness of countless friends who believed in my innocence, as well as a firm belief in the justice under our system of laws, while mistakes of judgment upon the part of court and jury may temporarily intervene, yet in the end justice is sure to prevail.

"I look forward with serene confidence to my acquittal in my next trial. I have learned that a man can stand anything with a wife like mine believing in him and sustaining him."

Mrs. Hyde's statement follows:

Law a Mystery to Mrs. Hyde.

"I was sure the supreme court would free my husband. The law is a mystery to me. I was at Clatin's side during every hour of the time he was charged with committing these offenses against those who were near and dear to me. I know the utter falsity of the charges against him. I would suffer again what has been worse to me than a thousand deaths rather than to have had a hand in the attempt to destroy the life and character of an innocent man such as my husband. Of course, I will hope on and on. I know the law will give my husband back to me, not because I love him and he loves me, but because he is innocent."

The court's action remanding Hyde without bail cast a gloom over the Hydes and their attorneys. Frank Walsh, Hyde's chief attorney, had just previously expressed his belief that the physician would be soon at liberty.

Court officials and attorneys agreed that the higher court's action on this point was final.

Virgil Conkling, county prosecutor, was keenly disappointed over the verdict and declined absolutely to talk about it.

History of the Case.

The Missouri supreme court's decision today was on an appeal of Hyde's attorneys for a new trial. He had been sentenced July 30, 1910, to life imprisonment by Judge Latshaw. Sept. 23, 1910, his attorneys asked the highest court in the state for a new hearing, charging error in 255 points. These included the following allegations:

That the indictments were illegal and the evidence insufficient to support the allegations; incompetent testimony was barred and incompetent testimony received; that prejudicial remarks were allowed by the prosecutor, and by the court; that the court should not have revoked Hyde's bond during the trial, and that the verdict was the result of passion and prejudice.

The chief evidence attacked was that of the Chicago and Michigan toxicologists who examined the viscera of the dead Swopes; an especial attack made on Prof. Vaughn of Michigan, who testified he found strychnine in the liver of Col. Swope.

Dr. Hyde was found guilty of murder May 16, 1910. His inability properly to explain the purchase of capsules of potassium cyanide was chiefly responsible for his conviction. He said it was used to kill cockroaches; the prosecution said it was to kill members of the Swope family and asked "does a man kill cockroaches with poison capsules?" Two days and a half after the arguments ended the verdict was returned.

Series of Tragedies.

The first of the series of tragedies in the Swope family was the death of James Moss Hunton Oct. 1, 1909. The prosecution charged Hyde bled the patient beyond the limit of recovery, purposely.

Two days later Col. Swope was stricken with convulsions and died. Witnesses testified that a few minutes before the convulsion Dr. Hyde had given Col. Swope a capsule—similar to the cyanide capsules it was shown he bought. The colonel's will, leaving $1,600,000 to relatives, was filed, and then Miss Margaret Swope, a niece of Col. Swope, became ill with typhoid fever. Then Chrisman Swope and two other relatives mentioned in the will became ill of typhoid. Dec. 6 Chrisman Swope died, having convulsions similar to those of his uncle, the colonel.

Two days later two more girls—legatees under the will—became ill with typhoid fever, and the nurses at the trial testified Hyde had inoculated the sick persons with the fever germs. The repeated and continued illness and the two sudden deaths aroused suspicion, and a secret autopsy was made of the exhumed body of Col. Swope and later that of Chrisman. On the toxicologist's reports and the testimony of a druggist who sold Hyde the potassium, as well as that of nurses in the Swope home and of the typhoid patients, Hyde was convicted.

Mrs. Hyde stuck by her husband and against her relatives, and went on the stand on his behalf, but in vain. Hyde claimed the men had died of natural causes, said the cyanide was to exterminate vermin, and said he had purchased the typhoid cultures to experiment with.

Free Remedy Helps Children

Many a mother has learned of a way of avoiding sickness in her family, especially among the children, by the use of a free sample bottle of the famous laxative, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This offer of the doctor's to send a free sample bottle has been responded to by thousands of women in all parts of America.

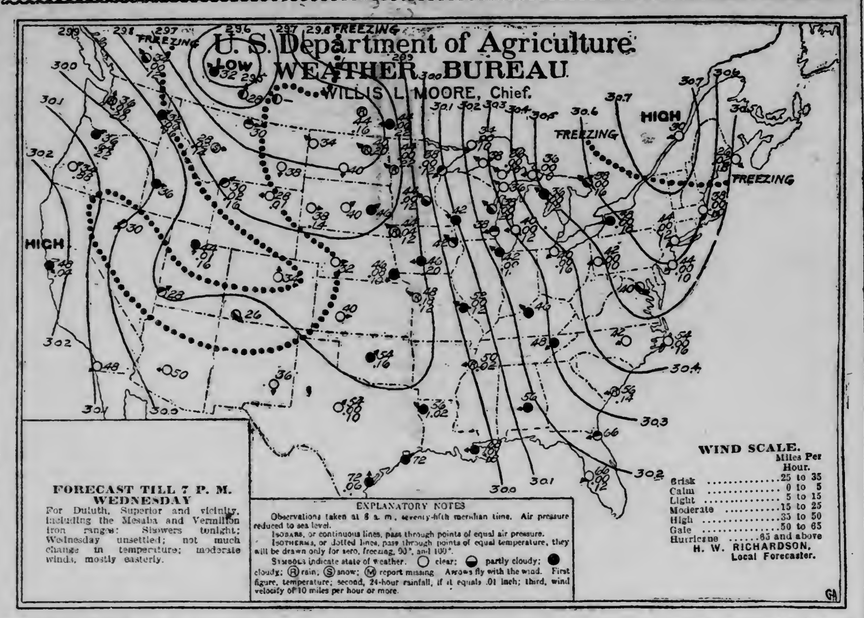
This Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a truly wonderful laxative and especially adapted to the needs of babies and children because it is pleasant to taste and no child will refuse it. Then, it is mild and never gripes. It is all that a child's remedy should be, though it is a good laxative for the whole family because it is effective at all ages. It is simply not dynamic like salts, pills and powerful cathartics, which should not be given to children anyway.

Nine times out of ten when a child complains and you don't know exactly what is the matter with it, it needs a laxative—its bowels are constipated. Syrup Pepsin will correct the trouble, tone up the child and soon it will be well again—over night wonderul results have been secured with Syrup Pepsin.

You can buy it of any druggist at fifty cents or a dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size, but you are invited to make a test of it first at the doctor's expense. Send him your address today and he will send you a free sample bottle direct to your home. Then when satisfied buy it of your favorite druggist.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy end his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldewell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER



RAIN

One wouldn't say that the temperature is ideal for spring, nor are the low-shoe boys entirely comfortable, despite their show of bravado. However, after winter lingered as long as it did this year, nobody is complaing about the prevailing conditions. The temperature dropped only to 36 deg. last night and yesterday's high mark was 47 deg. A few April showers are on the cards for tonight, with little change in temperature.

Cold, windy weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 5:27 and it will set at 5:51 this evening, giving thirteen hours and twenty-four minutes of sulight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours the disturbance overlying Alberta has caused rains in Washington, Oregon, Northern California, Northern Utah, Wyoming, Manitoba, Eastern North Dakota, Western South Dakota, Eastern Oklahoma, Eastern Texas, Louisiana, South Carolina, Arkansas, Western Missouri and Western Iowa, besides warmer weather to the eastward of the Mississippi valley. Somewhat cooler weather prevails over the Rocky mountain region principally due to slightly higher barometric pressure in that section. At the Head of the Lakes rain is quite probable tonight but the temperature is not expected to change materially, during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, April 11.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Iowa—Unsettled, with showers tonight or Wednesday.

Upper Michigan — Unsettled, with showers tonight or Wednesday; warmer tonight.

Wisconsin — Showers tonight and probably Wednesday.

Minnesota—Showers tonight; Wednesday unsettled.

North and South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday, except threatening in east portion tonight; cooler Wednesday.

Montana—Generally fair tonight and Wednesday, except threatening in west portion tonight.

Upper Lakes—Moderate winds, mostly southeast; unsettled and warmer; showers tonight or Wednesday.

Shippers' Forecast—Protect thirty-six hour shipments of perishables against temperature about 30 deg. in the Dakotas and Western Minnesota.

MINISTERS GO TO VIRGINIA

Meeting of Duluth Presbytery to Be Held in Range City.

Ministers and lay delegates from the Presbyterian churches in the vicinity of Duluth are passing through the city today en route to Virginia, where the annual spring meeting of the Duluth presbytery will open tonight. All Duluth Presbyterian churches will be represented by their pastors and one lay delegate from each church.

The Duluth presbytery includes nine counties of Northeastern Minnesota. Meetings are held each spring and fall, the spring being the more important gathering. Rev. William O. Garrett of Coleraine, the retiring moderator, will preach the opening sermon tonight. At tomorrow's session the reports of church work will be made. Tomorrow night "Sky Pilot" Higgins will deliver the principal address.

Rev. H. B. Sutherland of Lakeside is the stated clerk of the presbytery, Rev. J. C. Faries of Glen Avon is chairman of the home missions committee and Rev. J. A. McGaughey is chairman of the foreign missions committee.

HOLD-UPS WEAKENED

In Attempt to Rob Omaha Train Near Midvale.

St. Paul, Minn., April 10.—There was an evident attempt to hold up Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Train No. 6 shortly after 9 o'clock last night near Midvale, six miles from here. The engineer noticed a red light on the track ahead and stopped the train. The fireman, going ahead to investigate, found that the lantern rested upon a number of railroad ties piled across the track. The brakeman, who went to the rear to protect the train, was fired upon by some one in the dark. Only one shot was fired and it went wild. The track was cleared and the train proceeded to Chicago.

Local officials think that the hold-ups did not have the nerve to carry out their plans.

SOUTH SHORE AGENT'S DWELLING IS DESTROYED.

Negaunee, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. B. Lenhart and family, at Eagle Mills, were burned out Sunday noon. A part of their household goods were saved, but the dwelling occupied, which was owned by the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, was a total loss. Mr. Lenhart is the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway company's Eagle Mills agent.

MOORHEAD ASSURED OF FINE NEW HOTEL.

Moorhead, Minn., April 11.—"A new first-class hotel for this city is a sure thing" is the statement of the committee of finance of the Commercial club after completing a day's canvas among local merchants for money to purchase a site. The original cost of the site is $25,000. The hotel company will donate $6,000. St. Paul brewers who have branch houses in this city have given $5,000, the local banks $5,000 and local business men will make up the remainder.

Do Not Show Your Age in Your Complexion

By DOROTHY VENN

(From San Francisco Examiner)

What woman would not look young if she had a clear, soft complexion?

Perhaps the most wonderful skin treatment is one of the most simple. Dr. Takka Quoido, Japan's famous skin specialist, gives San Francisco women the following advice:

Yes, we never grow old in Japan—I mean the women's faces never show age. All Japanese women use mayatone dissolved in witchhazel, and massage the solution thoroughly into the face, neck and arms once or twice a day. This treatment is absolutely harmless even to a baby's skin and gives wonderful results, removing all manner of facial blemishes. It also prevents the growth of hair. You never saw a Japanese woman with hair on her face.

"Take a small original package of mayatone and dissolve it all in eight ounces of witchhazel, and you are supplied with this aid of youth."

REACHES HUSBAND JUST BEFORE HE PASSES AWAY.

Fargo, N. D., April 11.—Racing as fast as galloping horses and an express train could carry her, Mrs. Walter F. Wells of McVille, N. D., won out in her race with death by arriving at the bedside of her husband in a local hospital just five minutes before he passed away.

AWARDED $12,000 FOR LEG.

Helena, Mont., April 11.—Henry Russell, a saddleman, who was run over by an engine in the Livingston yards two years ago, losing his right leg was awarded a verdict against the Northern Pacific Railway company for $12,000 by a jury in district court here.

CLAIMS HE WAS DECEIVED.

Illinois Man Brings Action Against Minnesota Land Company.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 11.—J. K. Miller has begun an unusual suit in the United States court in this city against the North Dakota Land & Investment company. Mr. Miller alleges that he was formerly a resident of Illinois and that on one occasion he visited Clay county and examined the soil on a certain farm there and found it to be very good. Later the defendant company persuaded him to buy a half section of land in that county for $17,600 by representing to him that the soil was of the same character as that of the farm which he had previously examined. He asserts that the soil of the farm which he was induced to purchase was not like that of the land he had examined, but was a poor, light, sandy soil, and not worth nearly as much as he paid for it. He therefore sues for $5,000 damages.

Health and Beauty Queries

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Madge: For your hollow cheeks and wrinkled face I recommend frequent applications of a good greaseless complexion cream jelly, also brisk massaging. By stirring together one ounce almozoin, two teaspoonfuls glycerine and one-half pint cold water, allowing to stand over night, you will have an extra good complexion cream jelly. Use this also for massaging. It will clear up your skin fine, removing all dirt from the pores, and soon you will find your complexion smooth, plump, fresh-looking and unwrinkled. This is an excellent cream for treating blackheads, freckles and roughness of the skin, and will rid your face of those very large pores. I have never found anything to equal almozoin cream jelly for improving a complexion.

S. R. O.: If your superfluous flesh proves annoying and distressing, try the following fat reducer, which has given excellent results: Dissolve four ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints hot water; when cool strain and take a tablespoonful of the liquid before each meal. This remedy is harmless. By avoiding very rich foods and taking plenty of exercise, you will find this remedy will cut down your weight very rapidly.

Nadie: To strengthen your weak eyes and rid them of that dull, overworked look, put in each eye daily two or three drops of a fine, strengthening tonic made by dissolving an ounce of crystos in a pint of water. This eye tonic is a very soothing and strengthening and by using it regularly, in a short time it will make your eyes strong, clear and sparkling. I find it unequaled as a good eye tonic for treating weak, inflamed, expressionless eyes.

Lovera: (a) Don't worry. What if your hair is a little thin, looks stringy and is hard to do up and make look nice. There is a remedy for all this. Shampoo your hair once in two weeks with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, rinsing afterwards in clear water. The rich, cleansing lather will please you. This will rid your scalp of dirt and dandruff and make your hair soft and glossy. Your hair will dry quickly and be so fluffy and nice you will forget your hair troubles. But don't wash your hair with soap. The alkali in soap ruins the hair gloss, makes it streaky and dead looking. (b) To make an excellent skin whitener and complexion beautifier, see answer to Miss E. R.

Miss E. R.: A lotion that will help your red hands, dark face and neck permanently can be made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint of hot water and adding two teaspoonfuls of glycerine. This lotion will whiten and beautify your skin and take away that coarse, muddy look you have. This is much better than face powder, as it does not show on the skin and will not rub off easily, like the powder does when you wear a veil. Spurmax lotion is inexpensive and will give any sallow, oily skin a pinkish, youthful appearance. It is fine for cold sores, tan, freckles and as a protection to the face against winds and changes of weather. I am sure you will like spurmax lotion very much.

Jessie H.: Some sage dressings are beneficial to the scalp, but I never recommend them on account of the danger of staining or discoloring the hair. If you want a good, dependable remedy for dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, try an ounce of quinzoin dissolved in one-half pint each of alcohol and water. This will put your hair and scalp in a healthy condition. Apply the tonic twice a week, rubbing it gently into the hair roots. It is free from oil and makes a fine dressing for the hair. I know of many who were troubled with "hopeless" cases of dandruff and falling hair that found this an ideal tonic.

Mercedes: You say your complexion is lifeless and you are constantly tired and drawsy. This comes from too little exercise and an over-indulgence in heavy foods, causing a sluggish condition of the blood and a lack of proper nourishment for the body. Here is a simple and inexpensive recipe for an excellent blood tonic and body builder. Buy at any drug store an ounce of kardene and put in a half pint alcohol, then add a half cup sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. This tonic expels impurities and enriches the blood. It will give you renewed energy and your complexion will assume its natural health-tint.

Muriel M.: You can restore the youthful tint, gloss and brilliancy which blond hair should have, if you get an ounce of marlax at the druggist's and steep in a pint of water. Before using, cleanse your hair with canthrox and dry, then wash with marlax tea, rinse in clear water and dry. This is simple, inexpensive and gives a true blonde color to hair which has lost its freshness. Its use will cause no possible injury to hair or scalp.

Marjorie: Cutting the hairs on your lip and cheeks only causes them to grow in thicker and darker. Powdered delatone is the best thing to use. Get an ounce of delatone at the drug store and with some water mix enough powder to make a thick paste. Spread on hairy surface and let remain two or three minutes, then rub off and wash the surface and you will find the hairs are gone. While delatone is a trifle expensive it is reliable and seldom requires a second application.

This Prescription Knocks Rheumatism

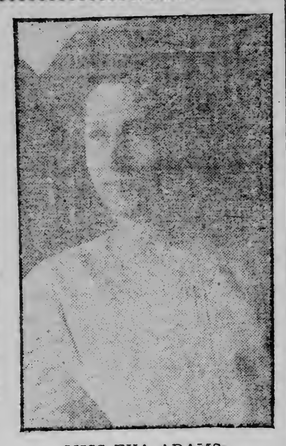
The only logical treatment for rheumatism is through the blood. A prescription, which has recently proved wonderfully effective in hospital work is the following. Any druggist has the ingredients or will quickly get them for you. Any one can mix them. "One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Toris compound; half pint first class whiskey." These to be mixed and used in tablespoon doses before each meal and at bedtime. This cured thousands here last winter. It relieves immediately.

NEWS OF THE WEST END

SOLOISTS ON EASTER PROGRAMS

MISS MILLIE OLESEN,
First Norwegian Danish Church.

MRS. MAE E. BAILLIE,
Central Baptist Church.



MISS EVA ADAMS,
Grace M. E. Church.

Special attention is being paid to Easter song services in the various West end churches this year. In nearly all more or less elaborate programs have been arranged, in which either the choir or the Sunday school children, or both, will take part. There are a number of good local singers who will appear as soloists on the various programs of the day.

At the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church, Twenty-fourth avenue west, on Easter Sunday morning, there will be a special song service. Miss Millie Olesen, a soprano, will sing the solos and will be assisted in her work by the choir. The program will be an elaborate one and much preparation has been put on it. In the evening the Sunday school Easter festival will be held. Songs and recitations will be given by the children and Rev. Edvard Erickson, pastor, will give a talk to the children. Miss Eva Adams will be the soloist at the annual Easter exercises of the Sunday school of the Grace M. E. church, which will ho held at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. A lengthy program will be given by the Sunday school children and Miss Adams will sing several selections. The annual benevolent offering will be taken up at this time. In the evening, devotional services will be conducted by Rev. John H. Murray, pastor.

At the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and Fifth street, the choir will assist the soloist, Mrs. Mae E. Baillie, a soprano, in rendering a well planned program of Easter music. There will be special music at both morning and evening services and Rev. J. Wilfred Loughridge, pastor, will preach.

At the other West end churches there will also be suitable exercises. The Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, will hold three services during the day, one at 11 o'clock in the morning, one at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and one at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. At St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street, there will be two services during the day, at 11 o'clock in the morning and at 8 in the evening. There will be special music by the choir and Rev. W. E. Harmann, rector, will preach. At the First Swedish Baptist church, Twenty-second avenue west, on Sunday, there will be the usual services with a special musical program under the direction of Prof. N. E. Erickson. Mrs. Carl Hagberg will be the soloist. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor, will preach. On Thursday evening the Sunday school will have its annual program. At Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, the choir will sing at the morning service and the children's festival will be held in the evening.

BRIDE OF ONE MONTH DIES

Mrs. Agnes Freeman Passes Away After Four Days' Illness.

Was Married March 11—Was Formerly Miss Agnes Carlson.

Mrs. Agnes Freeman, a bride of a month, died early today at her new home, 2113 West First street. Heart trouble of four days' standing was the cause of her death. She was 28 years old and the wife of John Freeman.

They were married in Duluth March 11, just a month today. Although the bride has lived in the city for the past seven years, she has no relatives in this country except two uncles residing in Brainerd. She was a native of Sweden, where her parents now reside. Her maiden name was Agnes Carlson.

Freeman is employed as a lineman for the Duluth Street Railway company, and has been a resident of the West end for the past five years.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms, 2118 West First street, to the Scandinavian Union cemetery at Hermantown. Rev. Carl C. Olson, pastor of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, will officiate.

Mrs. Paulson's Funeral.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Mrs. Anna L. Paulson, aged 49, wife of Nels Paulson of 1114 Garfield avenue, who died Friday. The funeral was held from the Olson & Crawford undertaking rooms at 1:30 o'clock and at 2 o'clock from the First Swedish Baptist church to Park Hill cemetery. Rev. Swaney Nelson, pastor, officiated. Besides her husband, Mrs. Paulson is survived by six children.

Apel Funeral.

The funeral of Edwin Apel, aged 13, who died at the home of his stepmother, Mrs. Louise Apel of 2113 West Fourth street Saturday, was held this afternoon from the undertaking establishment of Olson & Crawford to Union cemetery. Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, officiated.

West End Briefs.

Mr. and Mrs. Sands Van Wagner, who have been West end residents for a number of years, left yesterday for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will make their future home. Mr. Van Wagner formerly conducted a clothing store on West Superior street at the West end.

C. H. Glover, who has been visiting his family at 1902 West Second street, left yesterday for Gamel, where he is employed. His daughter, Miss Ruth Glover, accompanied him on a few days' visit.

The Misses Pearl and Ruth Hanson of 1523 West Superior street returned yesterday from the state university at Minneapolis, and will spend their Easter vacation with relatives and friends.

A. B. Anderson of the Anderson-Thorsell Furniture company has gone to Minneapolis on a business visit.

Edward Mentzer of 2117 West Second street, a student at the state university, is spending his Easter holiday vacation with friends and relatives.

Andrew Nystrom, who has been a guest at the home of M. L. Johnson of 2611 West Fourth street for the past few days, has returned to his home in Minneapolis.

Dr. A. Osterberg has returned from a visit at Milaca, Minn.

M. C. Milton of Cloquet has returned to his home after a visit with West end friends.

Mrs. Fred McCormick of Eighteenth avenue west has as her guests, her brother, Lewis Dersmah, and Mrs. Dersmah of Kenton, Mich.

A Reliable Medicine—Not a Narcotic.
Mrs. F. Martl, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." All druggists.

BLACK BEARS AT LESTER PARK HAVE AWAKENED

It will soon be time for black bears to interfere with the Woodland car service.

The shaggy black fellows are awakening.

Two bears owned by John T. Condon at Lester Park awakened Sunday. They had been asleep since Dec. 1.

They awoke Sunday and began to look for something to eat. If all black bears are alike, those which sleep in the woods will soon show themselves.

A dark hole had been provided for the long slumber of the Lester Park bears, and into it they crawled before Christmas.

They slept all winter, curled up in a ball with their paws in their mouths, and did not awake until Sunday. They are thin and ravenously hungry, but apparently in fighting trim.

WALSH COUNTY BOARD MAKES ROAD APPOINTMENT.

Grafton, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The taxpayers of Walsh county petitioned for the appointment of a superintendent of highways but the commissioners turned them down and refused to make the appointment. The new law does not seem to prove popular but in most cases the taxpayers have petitioned against the appointment with a similiar result.

WOMEN GRATEFUL TO GERMAN SCIENTIST

(From Medical Anzeiger)

Womankind owes much to Prof. Weingarten for this discovery. The creation of alatone, the therapeutic value of which has been so amply demonstrated, obviates the necessity of women consulting the family physican upon a subject of such delicacy. While the doctor may lose his fees in such cases, a broader, more humanitarian view compels us to welcome this new treatment as a benefaction of far-reaching importance.

Think of the misery that alatone saves, the operations prevented and hospital confinement avoided.

That the unnatural secretions, as well as acompanying odor, are so promtly and effectually stopped makes this a veritable boon to womankind, considering the vast number affected. The antiseptic and germicidal qualities insure not only hygienic cleanliness of the parts, but harmlessness of treatment. That alatone is already on sale at drug stores generally throughout Europe and America is evidence of its merit.

CAMP COOK LOSES MIND

Herbert Bibbin, Working Near Baudette, Is Committed to State Asylum.

Imagines Foes Are After Him and Arms Himself With Rusty Ax.

Bemidji, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grabbing an ax and rushing to the door of his tent late at night while others were asleep Herbert Bibbin sought to defend himself against imaginary foes in such a strenuous manner that boded ill for his companions and resulted in his being arrested.

Bibbin was brought here and examined before Judge of Probate M. A. Clark as to his sanity, found to be mentally irresponsible and ordered committed in the state hospital at Fergus Falls.

Said He Could Not Sleep.

Bibbin was employed as camp cook in a lumber camp near Baudette, in the northern part of Beltrami county, and last week he first manifested signs of his hallucinations He complained he could not sleep being highly wrought up and finally got so bad that during the night he would do the ax stunt. Grabbing the woodsmen's implement he would rush in his night clothes to the door of the tent and brandishing it in a menacing manner command his foes to "come on." His companions became alarmed after he attacked some of them and had him arrested. He was brought here and his commitment followed.

RAINY RIVER HAS LITTLE FERRY WAR

International Falls and Fort Frances in Squabble Over Boat Service.

International Falls, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a merry row on between ferry men of this city and Fort Frances, the Ontario town across Rainy river. It has been a bloodless battle so far and there is not much probability of international complications resulting, although feeling is naturally worked up on both sides.

L. W. Wilson of this village, part owner of the international ferry running between the towns, was arrested yesterday at Fort Frances, then, by way of retaliation, two Canadian boatmen were arrested here.

Two Mayors on Board.

Mayor A. E. Colborn of International Falls and Mayor D. T. McKenzie of Fort Frances are members of a sort of an arbitration board that will attempt today to unravel the tangle.

There was a ferry war a short time ago which lasted two weeks. Wilson put a steam ferry into commission when it ended. Yesterday morning the department of immigration at Ottawa wired Inspector Osborne to inspect Wilson's boat when it had been "properly equipped and cleared" from here. Presumably for the purpose of inspection, the inspector instructed Wilson to land at the ferry dock at Fort Frances.

The Fort Frances court of assizes issued an injunction restraining Wilson from landing. But Wilson landed none the less and was immediately arrested by the high sheriff.

Two Canadian boatmen were soon after arrested here, charged with violating the city ordinance in having failed to take out licenses to conduct their ferry. Their hearing will take place today.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. ARCHIE McDONALD.

International Falls, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. Archie McDonald, on Sunday, reached the fiftieth milestone of their married life, and the event was celebrated by a gathering of their children and grandchildren at their home in this city, where they have resided for the past few years, coming here from Bemidji.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald were born in Eastern Ontario, where fifty years ago their lives were joined in marriage. They are still enjoying the best of health and entered heartily into the enjoyment of their golden wedding celebration. Many of their friends called upon the aged couple and assisted the relatives in making the occasion one never to be forgotten by the good people who have rounded out such a splendid period of married life.

MOTT, N. D., ENJOYS BOATING ON LAKE

Northern Pacific Dam Across Cannonball River Has Formed Lake.

Mott, N. D., April 11.—Since the Northern Pacific people constructed their big $50,000 dam across the Cannonball river at Mott, it affords an excellent opportunity to the amusement of boating. Already a number of gasoline yachts and rowboats have been ordered and will be seen on the river this summer. The water is plenty for boating and is backed up for miles west of the county seat. Many a pleasant evening will be spent rowing this summer as soon as weather conditions will permit.

Prof. Hoverstad of the A. C. has promised to enlist his services with the government toward securing for this section of the state a consignment of fish to be cast into the river near Mott. If this can be done, it will afford the finest kind of fishing a little later on. Spend your summers at Mott—and winters, too; they're not bad.

BULLET WOUND IN LEG.

North Dakota Farm Laborers Engage in Serious Row.

Carrington, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Magnus Salm is laid up at the Sigmund Holland farm home with a bullet wound in his leg and Chris Hogan, his alleged assailant, is held at the county jail here as the result of a shooting affair of which little has been learned as yet. The two men were farm laborers and have been in this vicinity for several days, apparently the best of friends. The wounded man claims he had been badgered by his copanion until he became frightened and decided to leave him. When he started out across country to the Holland home where he was going to work Hogan chased him and when out of the city opened fire on him. Hogan denies the story and claims to know nothing of the shooting.

NO FIRE ESCAPE; NO RENT.

Decision By St. Paul Judge That Will Have Sweeping Effect.

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—Landlords of flat buildings and other high buildings who do not furnish proper protection in the way of fire escapes and fire extinguishing apparatus, in compliance with the state law and city ordinances, cannot hold their tenants to the terms of a lease.

This is the substance of a decision by Judge Dickson in the Ramsey county district court.

C. W. Stickney occupied a flat building owned by John Lenthold, and after six months moved out and cancelled his lease on the ground that the building was not equipped with fire escapes and fire fighting apparatus.

Mr. Lenthold sued Mr. Stickney and the court's opinion given above is the result.

BLAMES DRINK FOR ACT.

Carlton County Watch Thief, Admitting Crime, Pleads Drunkenness.

Carlton, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In district court Judge Homer B. Dibell yesterday sentenced Frank Roosnall, a Finn, aged 21, to pay a fine of $50 or spend sixty days in the county jail. Roosnall pleaded guilty to stealing a watch from the pocket of Charles Hill at Cloquet some weeks ago. The watch was recovered and the accused pleaded he was intoxicated at the time of the larceny and did not know he had taken the jewelry until he was arrested. Attorney Spencer J. Searls acted for Roosnall.

McDONNELL AFTER ANOTHER.

Duluth Contractor Seeks Big Grand Forks Paving Contract.

Grand Forks, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bids for street paving will be opened at the meeting of the city council this evening and representatives of the various companies that have submitted bids are already in the city. Among them are John A. Smith of the Kettle River company of Minneapolis, P. McDonnell of Duluth, E. F. MPhail of the Bithulithic company of Winnipeg, H. K. Sennec of the Granitoid company of Chicago and W. J. Putnam of the Westrumite company of Chicago.

There will be no sentiment expressed as to what kind of paving shall be laid until after the opening of the bids.

COL. BRYAN WILL OPEN CHAUTAUQUA.

Redwood Falls, Minn., April 11.—Col. William J. Bryan will open the Redwood Falls chautauqua on the evening of June 30, according to advices received from Manager Halladay. The local management expects this year to be the biggest and best chautauqua ever held in this part of the state. The grounds are the most beautiful in the state and are located near the proposed new Ramsey state park.

Three Horses Starve.

Williston, N. D., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three horses were found dead in a shack by R. C. Snook on the Mrs. George McIntosh farm west of this city and that they had starved to death was evidenced by the fact that the door panels had been eaten and the window casings and frames chewed to bits. It is supposed the animals had been forced into the shack during a storm and were unable to get out after getting the door closed upon them.

Finds Deer in Trap.

Menominee Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. M. La Court and Thomas L. Carey, while inspecting timber in the Randville district, came upon a deer caught by the neck in a snare. The captive animal, a magnificent doe, when freed from the trap, followed the lumbermen a considerable distance, as if to show its gratitude for their kindness.

Jamestown Man Sentenced.

Jamestown, N. D., April 11.—John Groothius, convicted in county court of maintaining a common nuisance on Elder avenue west of the river, was sentenced to serve a term in the county jail of ninety days and the usual fine. Sentence was imposed by Judge Hemmi of the county court.

EPISCOPAL RECTOR SUCCESSFUL FARMER

REV. WILLIAM POYZEOR.

Crystal Falls, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. William Poyzeor, an Episcopal clergyman, has made a great success of agriculture in this district. He tells the following story which aptly illustrates the value of Upper Peninsula farm lands:

"My attention was called, only a few years ago, to a man who wanted to sell his 160-acre farm and move away. The man was fairly begging for that amount and was unable to get it. Finally a saloon keeper advanced him $200 on the land and he struck out for the Klondike.

"A few months ago this land was sold, and those 160 acres which would not bring $300 a few years ago, were purchased for $6,000. This was a case of a gold mine at a man's foot and he failed to see it."

DOWNWARD COURSE

Fast Being Realized By Duluth People.

A little backache at first.

Daily increasing till the back is lame and weak.

Urinary disorders quickly follow.

This is the downward course of kidney ills.

Don't take this course. Follow the advice of a Duluth citizen.

Edward J. Hoppman, 422 W. First St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I have looked upon Doan's Kidney Pills as a good kidney medicine ever since I first tried them about twelve years ago. An account of my experience was given for publication at that time and in 1904 and in 1908, I again indorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. At the present time I take pleasure in repeating my statement. My kidney trouble was evidenced by sharp pains in my back and I was also annoyed by a kidney weakness. In the morning when I got up, I was tired and all run down. Doan's Kidney Pills completely stopped these troubles. Since then, I have used this remedy and it has done good work."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Minneapolis—Crushed under a load of old lumber which upset at Second street, between Fourth and Fifth avenues southeast, early Sunday Domenico Prestia, 3852 Fortieth avenue south, was so badly injured that he died a few moments later. Death was due to a fracture of the skull. Prestia was 39 years old and single.

Crookston—The case to determine whether Ada went wet or dry at the last election, on before Judge Watts last week, was adjourned till next Wednesday at 10 o'clock to give the attorney general of the state time to file a petition of intervention.

Aitkin—At the annual election of the fire department these were elected; Chief, Frank Erickson; first assistant chief, H. W. Kast; second assistant chief, H. J. Petraborg; secretary, D. E. Way; treasurer, Peter Larson; department delegate, Frank Erickson.

Crookston—At Argyle, G. W. Balfour, a Great Northern brakeman, of this city, was the victim of a painful accident. He was helping unload a crate containing a buggy when his head was caught between the crate and the car, tearing it painfully. Dr. Stuhr dressed the wound and he was brought to this city.

St. Cloud—Mrs. Melinda Cooper of Riverside, Cal., widow of John Cooper, formerly of St. Cloud, has donated to the new Methodist church of St. Cloud, a fine farm situated three miles from St. Joseph and nine miles from St. Cloud. Arthur Cooper and Rev. F. W. Hill, pastor of the Methodist church, drove out to the land and pronounce it an excellent donation.

Motley—Mrs. C. E. Sams died Wednesday at her home here after a short illness. She was one of the oldest settlers in Motley, coming here thirty-five years ago when there were only three houses in the town. The deceased would have been 73 years old had she lived until Sept. 19.

Brainerd—Edward Strehlan died at the Northern Pacific railway sanatarium Friday. The deceased was born in Garusee, Germany, on Jan. 22, 1856, and was a resident of Brainerd since 1891. He was employed in the car shops of the Northern Pacific railway nearly the entire time. The deceased leaves a widow and two daughters. The funeral was held Monday.

Plummer—Hans Bergh and Miss Annie Johnson were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at Red Lake Falls, the bride being attended by the Misses Mary and Minnie Bergh and the groom by Pet Johnson and Henry Torske.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Neenah—A short while after Owen Jones, who was visiting a neighbor, was taken with a severe coughing spell he was seized with terrible pains in his side. Physicians examined him and found two ribs had been cracked from severe coughing. He will be operated upon.

Sheboygan—A new concern, the Wisconsin Dredge & Dock company, capitalized for $30,000, involving Sturgeon Bay and local capital, has entered the field. The officers are: President, Joseph Wolter; vice president, August Riebolt, Sturgeon Bay; secretary and treasurer, C. A. Reiss, Sheboygan.

Stevens Point—C. E. Urbans, assistant superintendent of the Soo line at Chicago, succeeds A. J. Van Valkenburg, superintendent of the Chicago division north and west of Stevens Point.

Neenah—Attired in a silk hat and Prince Albert coat, John McCourt, said to be of Fond du Lac, walked into a millrace. But for the assistance of millhands he would have drowned. "I guess I made a mistake," he gurgled as he was pulled out.

Wausau—The Rothschild park pavilion of the Wausau street railroad company, five miles south of here, was destroyed Sunday in one of the most damaging fires in years. Rothschild park was Wausau's most popular outing and amusement place. The damage is about $17,000. Insurance is $12,000.

Milwaukee—Joseph L. Williams, second oldest mail carrier in point of service at the main office and third oldest in the city, celebrated his thirty-eighth anniversary as a mail carrier Monday. Mr. Williams has reached the age of 66.

Eau Claire—The result of the recent vote for the extension of the power line to Altoona have been overwhelmingly in favor of the franchise. This means that Altoona will receive light and power from the local company for lighting, and that possibly the new shops of the Omaha at that point may be run upon electric power until the new machine shops are installed.

Sheboygan—It is reported here that the Milwaukee Northern line will build to West Bend this season and that for that purpose a $4,000,000 mortgage bond has been issued by the company. The proposed extension is in line with the policy of the company, but this is the first real move to that end. Bonds for the amount have been issued.

AFTER THE GRIP PURIFY THE BLOOD

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are the Best Blood Builder and Will Cure You as They Cured This Woman.

It is of the utmost importance to your health, if you have suffered from the grip, that you cleanse the blood of the lingering germs and put it in condition to resist disease.

After the acute attack the sufferer is left with a debilitated system, is short of breath upon the slightest exertion and is affected by every change of weather. The system is in such a weakened condition that it is powerless to resist the attack of such diseases as pneumonia and bronchitis.

This is a condition which emphatically calls for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine for this purpose for they act directly on the blood which they cleanse of all impurities. They tone up the nerves and give health and strength to the debilitated system.

The debility which follows an attack of the grip can only be cured by making the blood rich and red. This Dr. Williams' Pink Pills never fail to do promptly and it explains how they cured Mrs. F. R. Boyd, of No. 607 South Ninth street, Minneapolis, Minn. She says:

"I was never well after an attack of the grip a few years ago until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before this I had found nothing that helped me. I was all run down, pale and thin. My appetite was poor and my head ached continually. I didn't feel like myself at all.

"Someone finally recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I found them just the medicine for my case. They gave me a hearty appetite and a good, clear color. I got back my vitality and was soon a well woman. I can safely say that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do all that is claimed for them. I heartily recommend them."

If you are suffering from after-effects of the grip or other wasting disease, try the remedy that has cured so many stubborn cases, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A copy of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," is free on request.

EX-MAYOR TOM L. JOHNSON SUCCUMBS TO LONG ILLNESS

Well-Known Public Man Passes Away on Monday Evening.

Cleveland Ohio, April 11.—Tom L. Johnson, twice congressman from the Twenty-first Ohio district, four times mayor of Cleveland, champion of the 3-cent street railway fare, and prominent advocate of the single tax theories of the late Henry George, died in his apartments in the Whitehall, East One Hundred and Seventh street, at 8:45 o'clock last night after a long illness. Death was caused by cirrhosis of the liver. He was 57 years old.

Mr. Johnson had been ill for more than a year, but his condition was not thought serious until he suffered a relapse on Wednesday, March 15. He had been gaining strength ever since he came home after spending the summer on Nantucket island. Saturday night, March 11, he left his apartments and attended a banquet of the Nsi Prius club, an organization of Cleveland lawyers. He remained there until 2 o'clock a. m. Sunday, and when he returned to his home, he complained of not feeling well.

The following Wednesday his condition was such that he was obliged to go to bed. From that day to the time of his death his condition was grave, though several times he made seemingly impossible rallies. Despite the fact that he realized he did not have long to live the former mayor was cheerful and optimistic almost to the last.

Tom L. Johnson, once referred to himself in a public address as "a stormy petrel," and this metaphor aptly described him and indicated the course of his career. From the time he entered the offices of a Louisville Street Railway company as a boy of 15, until his defeat for a fifth term as mayor of Cleveland May 2, 1909, he was ever in the center of some storm, political or financial. And, he often said, it was thus that he enjoyed himself best.

Born in 1854.

Johnson was born in Georgetown, Ky., July 18, 1854. He was christened Thomas Loftin, but he always preferred to call himself Tom L., and so he was known from boyhood. He started to work in a Louisville traction office and when still a youth secured sufficient backing and bought a controlling interest in the Indianapolis street railways. In the '80s with his brother Albert he came to Cleveland and became interested in the street car systems here and assisted in their consolidation. He became a director in the Cleveland Electric Railway company and in 1901 was elected a member of congress from the Twenty-first Ohio district, serving two terms as a "single taxer." When he was defeated as a candidate for a third term, he went to New York, disposing of his traction interests in Cleveland and acquiring control of the Nassau street railway line in Brooklyn.

While engaged in business in Cleveland he sold his Indianapolis traction holdings and acquired control of the Detroit car lines, and it was then that he first proposed the 3-cent fares. The citizens of Detroit, however, rejected his proposition that they buy his road and establish that rate of fare and he retired from Detroit.

Enters Steel Business.

He also entered into the steel manufacturing business at Johnstown, Pa., and Lorain, Ohio. These interests he successively disposed of and when in 1900 he sold his Brooklyn Traction line, he was left free of business cares. He returned to Cleveland and in April, 1901, was elected mayor of Cleveland on a platform which promised universal 3-cent car fares.

After a fight with the street car company, which lasted until 1908 and through four elections, in each of which he was triumphant, the Cleveland traction lines passed into the hands of the Municipal Traction company. After six months' trial of operation at 3 cents, the people at a referendum election voted out the franchise and the municipal company passed into the hands of a receiver, where it remained until February, 1910. One more attempt was made by Mayor Johnson to secure the passage of the 3-cent grants, but his proposals were rejected at an election held Aug. 3, 1909. His own defeat followed three months later and on Jan. 1, 1910, he surrendered the reins of office to the present mayor, Herman C. Baehr. Two months later the 3-cent fare was established, the result of Mr. Johnson's efforts.

Nominated for Governor.

In 1908, while Mr. Johnson was mayor of Cleveland, he was nominated for governor by the Democrats of Ohio, but was unsuccessful at the election.

Crushed both in health and in spirits after his defeat by Mayor Baehr, the former mayor went abroad. He had hoped to regain his health, but came home no better. Last summer he spent in a cottage on Nantucket island. When he returned to Cleveland in the autumn, he appeared to be recovering and said he never felt better. However, he was soon confined to his home again and left it but few times.

Besides his wife, Mr. Johnson is survived by one son, Loftin, and a daughter Mrs. Bessie Mariani.

Passed Away Peacefully.

Mr. Johnson passed away so quietly and peacefully that his death almost escaped notice from the watchers. Dr. Oscar T. Thomas at 8:45 o'clock last night felt the unconscious dying man's pulse, and two minutes later announced that he was dead. In addition to Mrs. Johnson, Loftin Johnson and Mrs. Elizabeth Mariani and James Tyler, the dead man's faithful valet, those in the apartments when death came were several intimate friends.

From early morning Mr. Johnson had been in an unconscious condition with the exception of a brief interval about 6:30 o'clock this morning, when as his wife, daughter and son were bending over him, he roused from his stupor sufficiently to open his eyes, smile faintly and whisper "hello." That was the last word uttered by the former mayor, for he at once relapsed into unconsciousness.

One Conductor Helped Back to Work.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes: "I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism and used two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy with good effect. The third bottle put me on my feet and I resumed work as conductor on the Lexington, Ky., Street Railway. It will do all you claim in cases of rheumatism." It clears the blood of uric acid. PREDICTS BUMPER CROP.

Expert of State School of Agriculture Very Optimistic.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bumper crop for the coming year is the prophecy of Prof. Andrew Boss of the school of agriculture, who sees in the recent precipitation of rain and snow a vast benefit to the Minnesota farmer.

"Although the average time for the beginning of seeding is April 14," says Prof. Boss, in referring to the crop outlook, "but it can be done with safety now. It was a good thing the cold spell set in to hold back the farmer. After the recent storms there will be a tendency for settled weather. The soil has plenty of moisture for the germination of the seed and all we will need will be the useful April and May rains to give us the best crop conditons in years."

LOOKS FOR GASOLINE WITH LIGHTED MATCH.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 11. — Leo Bluckner, while trying to put a gasoline launch in order in the Menominee river, Sunday afternoon, lit a match to see if there was gasoline in the tank. There was. The explosion threw Buickner out of the boat and he almost drowned before he was rescued. A physican had him removed to Emergency hospital, where it was said he will be disfigured for life if he recovers.

HAS POWER TO INVESTIGATE

But Council Has No Right to Remove Water Board Members.

Specific Charges Wanted From Hillsiders---Workhouse Gets Black Eye.

The council was informed by City Attorney Bert Fesler last evening that it has complete power to make a thorough investigation of the water and light department, but that it has no power to make removals.

He stated that specific charges would have to be made, and acting upon his recommendation the members of the hillside clubs who recently filed a lengthy communication with the council criticizing the board, were asked by the council to prefer such specific charges. The committee representing the clubs consisted of Peter Olson, Chan Smith and Joseph Le Moignan. It was stated that two of these men had said that they did not desire to make any specific charges. The city attorney explained that if any charges amounting to malfeasance in office were presented, the usual procedure in such cases could be followed.

The attorney informed the council that the city has no legal power to build a workhouse. The report was made following the recommendations along this line made by Mayor Cullum in his annual message to the council last month. It was explained that before the city can do anything in this line the legislature will have to pass a special bill or the city charter will have to be amended. The mayor strongly criticized the present method of handling petty offenders, and it is probable that further action along this line will be taken at a later date. There is a strong sentiment favoring a workhouse or a farm, and it is so insistent that it will not drop out of sight because of the report made last evening.

The committee on drains, sewers and sanitation reported on the much-discussed Woodland trunk sewer as forecasted in The Herald last evening. The committee stated that in view of the unanimous demand for the sewer planned by Prof Bass, it would be agreeable to its construction provided Prof. Bass supervised the work. The Woodland property owners will have to assume the responsibility, and they stated at the public hearing last week that they were willing to place their confidence in Prof. Bass. A resolution was passed asking H. B. Fryberger to ascertain upon what terms Prof. Bass will agree to supervise the work, and to report to the council. If satisfactory arrangements can be made, the council will order the smaller sewer.

The amendment to the Canadian Northern franchise enabling it to put posts under its trestle over Fifty-ninth avenue west came in for another long discussion last night. The outcome was that the matter was referred to the city engineer for a report and the franchise amendment laid over until it is received. A West Duluth delegation was present to protest against the posts in the center, claiming that they would be an obstruction to the street. The railroad people state that a girder 10 to 13 feet wide will have to be swung across the street if a clean span has to be put in, and they claim that this would be a greater obstruction than the posts.

The city engineer reported that the estimated cost of the proposed sanitary sewer in Park Point from the canal to Thirty-eighth street, is $19,642.70. This would make the cost to the property owners about $32 a lot. It is stated that there is a great need for the sewer across the canal, as the district has been building up at a rapid rate. The cost per lot being so small it is thought that little opposition will be made to it, and that it can be built this summer.

The health department sent in a request for an appropriation of $400 with which to buy a garbage wagon to replace the present garbage cart and another horse and harness. The health commissioner said that he believes the district now getting a municipal collection of garbage could be doubled and the efficiency of the service greatly improved. The matter was referred to the finance committee and the committee on city property.

The board of public works was ordered to proceed with the paving of Thirteenth avenue east between Second and Fourth streets. The estimated cost of the job is $4,500. The board was directed to discontinue proceedings for the improvement of Twenty-first avenue east between London road and First street and on Sixth avenue west above First street.

A report was called for as to the comparative cost of maintaining two horse conveyances and an automobile. This is the result of the request made by the engineering department and the board of public works for an automobile for their combined use. The departments claim that they have so much ground to cover that a horse is practically useless.

A resolution was passed directing that water be turned on at the drinking fountains of the city as soon as the weather permits.

Alfred Le Richeux was hired to audit the books of the city for the year 1910. Mr. Le Richeux has done this work for several years past.

• • •

Joseph Randall, chief of the fire department, reported that thirty-one hydrants should be installed upon the new water extensions approved by the council.

Two Die in Well.

Winnipeg, Man., April 11.—Joseph Sparks and Hugh Cameron died from the effects of gas while descending into a well on a farm near Moosomin, Sask., yesterday. The bodies have not yet been recovered.

YOUNG MOTHERS

The greatest crisis in a woman's life is when first she becomes a mother. All the physical strength of her nature is demanded at such times, and it is necessary that her system be thoroughly prepared for the event, in order that her health be preserved for future years. Mother's Friend is woman's safest reliance; it is a medicine for external use, composed of oils and other ingredients which assist nature in all necessary physical changes of the system. Its regular use before the coming of baby prepares the muscles and tendons for the unusual strain, aids in expanding the skin and flesh fibres, and strengthens all the membranes and tissues. Mother's Friend lessens the pain and danger at the crisis, and leaves the mother in such healthful condition that her recovery is always rapid and natural. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. TOM L. JOHNSON.

Rarely does an individual who has held no prominent national office rise to a position which enables him to exert a powerful influence upon the entire nation. Rarely does a man in any station of public life maintain his hold upon the people after a political reverse. There have been strong characters in American history that stamped an indelible sign on American life, but the possessors of those characters have, in nearly every instance, found themselves discredited personally when their political or official influence had suffered a decline.

These facts but help to make more striking the story of Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland. In the beginning of his hard battle for civic freedom he won the attention of the nation; in the height of his struggle he was given unstinted praise for his ability and his singleness of purpose, even by the men who did not agree with his beliefs; and even when, misunderstood and repudiated by many of the people in whose interests he was fighting, he suffered a defeat that to a weaker man would have meant a broken spirit, he rose superior to his conquering enemies and the discouragement natural to an apparently beaten fighter, and proved that the principle for which he fought was not to be crushed by the defeat of even its strongest champion. He was rewarded by seeing one of his most cherished dreams brought at least a part of the way toward realization. He will be rewarded yet further by the honor which men will give to his memory.

Even in his last days and hours of life Tom L. Johnson gave inspiration to those about him. With the specter of the tomb ever at his side he maintained a cheerfulness beyond the understanding of many men who have far less reason to yield to despair. And at the last he seemed to regard the coming change, not as something to be dreaded, but as the approach of peace and calm that were to give rest to one who had lived in the midst of strife. He went to his chamber in the silent halls of death with a smile upon his lips. It was as if he but folded himself in the drapery of his couch and lay down to pleasant dreams. Even in the homely greeting, "Hello," the last he gave to those who surrounded his resting place, there breathed the cheer and hope and courage that were such strongly marked features of his whole life.

Tom L. Johnson's fight was the fight of the cities against corporate and capitalistic control. His faith was the faith of the municipal patriot. His theories, however others may differ from them in the details of performance, were founded on his belief in the right of the man to a man's rights and privileges, and his spirit was that of one who, having adopted a faith and found it good, gladly spends effort and time and fortune in the interests of that faith and of the humanity for which it stands.

Tom Johnson of Cleveland will figure no more as a man in the political or civic battles of his city or his country. But the example and memory of the man will continue to inspire others to honorable purpose and zealous public service as long as his memory remains with the American people, and that will be as long as the American republic exists.

JUST AN IMAGINARY LINE.

One of the most striking things about the present relations between the United States and Canada is the fact that these two immense countries are bounded by each other for an extent of some 3,700 miles, and that in that entire space there is not a fort or arsenal or military camp to protect one from the other. The line that marks the place where one may step out of the United States and into Canada or vice versa is wholly imaginary. A man might stub his toe in Canada and fall entirely within the States.

Or put it like this: A man might sit at a table in one of these two countries, with his chair resting wholly within the other country. Every morsel that he took from his plate with his fork or spoon would be an imported article before he began to masticate it. It seems queer to think of it that way, and yet the situation is entirely possible. And entirely practical, too, unless there happened to be a customs officer handy, who would insist on his paying a duty on every mouthful of potato and every bit of steak and every bite of bread and butter that he happened to put into his mouth during the meal. Add those little items of duty to the cost of the meal and it would prove a pretty expensive dinner before the diner was through with it.

But the relationship of the two countries is even more close than this. The New York World, in one of its series of articles on reciprocity, puts that phase of the matter thus:

"The fact is that farming in the United States and farming in Canada supplement each other. A free exchange of products cannot fail to be beneficial. That the purchasing power of the Canadians is very great is shown by the extensive commerce that has developed in spite of high taxes. Canada has no cheap goods with which to swamp us, and it has no pauper labor to be considered. Distance from markets accounts for any prices it may make on its own products that are lower than ours.

"In the mere matter of convenience, reciprocity would be worth millions to people in both countries living near the boundary. The barrier now existing is wholly artificial, and the customs regulations are vexatious as well as costly. At every point on the international line trade is as natural between Canadians and Americans as in this locality is it between New Yorkers and Pennsylvanians.

"The reciprocal agreement means a great deal to all of the people of both countries, but to those who are settled near the border it is a measure of personal liberty of commanding importance."

The World puts the matter in plain language. Why should an artificial barrier exist to hamper trade between two contiguous bits of territory? The situation is much as if there were a tariff wall between the states in this country. It is to the interests of all that the barrier be removed, that commerce be allowed to take its natural course and develop to its full volume. Free trade is impossible owing to Canada's refusal to grant it. The reciprocity agreement as it has been presented to congress represents the terms on which the governments of the two countries are agreed, and that is as far as it is possible to go at present.

There is no reason for congress to hold back in the ratification of the agreement. No amount of talk could cover more ground than was covered by the representatives of the two countries in the negotiations at Ottawa and Washington. Nothing is to be gained by delay in ratification. Then why delay it? Congress has met for that express purpose. It should get through with the reciprocity agreement first of all, and then take up other measures if the members see fit.

EXTRA! ALL ABOUT THE GAME!

Recognizing the interest which Duluth people take in the games of the three largest baseball leagues and the organization of which the Duluth club is a member, The Herald last year undertook the publication of a baseball extra, in order to give the people the earliest possible information as to the results of the various contests. The reception which The Herald's extra got was most gratifying. It showed public appreciation of the trouble and expense to which the publishers went in getting out such an edition, and they in turn felt amply justified in having started the "extra."

This year The Herald proposes to resume publication of the baseball extra, and will begin issuing that edition on the day the "big leagues" start their regular schedules. The Associated Press furnishes the earliest possible returns on these games, and The Herald, as a member of that organization, can give its readers prompt and reliable reports on the diamond contests. The local interest in the games of the American league, National league and American association is greater in Duluth than in most cities not included in either of those circuits. Therefore The Herald will furnish the returns on these games throughout the entire season, by means of its baseball extra. This edition will be issued as soon after the regular afternoon edition as the reports of the games have been received, and since the Associated Press has facilities for getting the returns direct from the various local fields, The Herald extra will be on the streets within a few minutes after the last game is finished.

Tomorrow afternoon, then, will see the publication of The Herald's first "baseball extra" for the season of 1911. Watch for it, and get the earliest possible information on how the teams begin the season.

HE IS AFTER BIG GAME.

If President Taft has taken to "playing politics"—and some men who ought to know a political game as far as it is visible say that he has—he has gone into it on a mighty big scale. Granting, for the sake of argument, that the charge is well founded, consider the effect of this effort the president is making to secure an arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain. It is one of the most stupendous propositions ever advanced in international history. If the plan of the president develops into a realization, the position not alone of President Taft, but of the United States, in history and in world politics will be among the most remarkable ever known.

The possibilities that lie behind this proposal for an arbitration treaty with England are set forth in an interview with Representative Bartholdt of Missouri, published in the Washington Star. Mr. Bartholdt is quoted as saying:

"As soon as the treaty with Great Britain is concluded, France will come in. Japan is eager to do so, and Germany must follow. These five nations, bound by a great arbitration treaty, will guarantee world-wide peace. Disarmament will follow, and instead of armies and cannon and guns, there will be an international police force to enforce the decrees of the tribunal that will pass upon all questions."

Representative Bartholdt may be set down by some as a dreamer. Certainly, in these days of rumors of wars, the idea of assured peace among the nations seems visionary. And yet there is reason in the congressman's interpretation of what the accomplishment of such a treaty might bring forth. Even with the United States and Great Britain the only parties to it, the force of the compact would be felt in every phase of international affairs. If, as the gentleman from Missouri predicts so confidently, France, Japan and Germany were to enter into a similar agreement, there is no part of the world that would not be more or less directly under the influence of the treaties.

President Taft, it is easy to see, has undertaken a big thing, a task that even so short a time as a century ago would have been scoffed at as absurd. Yet his proposal is meeting with favorable consideration in the Old World, and there seems to be good reason to look for a realization of at least the first step in the great movement that is predicted. Perhaps, even in this generation, we are to see the beginning of the abolition of international warfare, with the certain ultimate development that has been sneered at within the memory of present day high school boys—the virtual disarmament of the great powers.

Chauncey Depew is saying nice things about President Taft. It must be that Chauncey has found an empty nest in the lame duck marsh.

Dr. Hill of the state board of health says Minnesotans pay $40,000,000 a year to the doctors. Evidently this state is a promising field for a "Double Red Cross crusade."

Some Democrats say Champ Clark's presidential aspirations may hurry congress into favorable action on reciprocity. It sounds fishy, but if it's true, here's to Champ and his aspirations.

A PERSONAL EXPLANATION

By SAVOYARD.

This morning my friend, Bob Gates, of the congressional press galleries handed me a newspaper clipping that he informed me was an editorial from the Fort Worth, Tex., Record, accusing me of the horrible and revolting crime of inconsistency, that "bugaboo of little minds." Private letters also from Texas have come to this town warning timid folk of my awful perversity in this behalf.

It seems that Senator Joseph W. Bailey, some years ago, made a speech on the "judicial power" nominated in the Federal Constitution, and it challenged my attention and extorted my admiration. I had no hesitancy in complimenting the mental endowments and legal attainments of the senator, and I still say it was a great speech and worthy to rank with those of our eminent constitutional lawyers, few of whom ever dealt with a legal question in a way that was not Greek to me, though some forty years ago I was a "near-lawyer" myself. I also said that Mr. Bailey must be a man of force to substitute his idea of "near" tariff protection for the splendid Democracy of R. Q. Mills, and make it go down in Texas and in the South, or words of that import.

But does my administration of Bailey as a lawyer estop me from challenging the heresy Mr. Bailey deals out as a statement? I trow not. What I said of Bailey on the judicial power, and on the tariff, as well, might have found precedent in Shakespeare:

"Respect to your great place! And let the devil
Be something honor'd for his burning throne."

I care nothing for consistency when it conflicts with conviction, and I would write what I believe today though it contradicted everything I believed and all I wrote yesterday, and I would not give a snap of my finger for a newspaper, or a journalist, that would not do as I do in that particular. I have no patience with those newspapers edited by the money downstairs rather than the brains upstairs. Their preachments are flimsy, flatulent, vapid, insipid, reckless, contemptible, infamous, and their owners are sycophants and cowards, liars and slaves. What my mind forges and my conscience approves my pen will write and it will write none else. Thank God, there are brave newspapers in the land and they illustrate all that Thomas Jefferson meant by a free press.

But this time I am innocent of inconsistency. I still say that Mr. Bailey's speech on the judicial power, whether it is sound or not, is a great effort, and I will believe and I now say that Mr. Bailey's stand on the tariff will make Texas a Republican state, if Texas follows him. As well eat the devil as to drink his broth.

And speaking of consistency, what is Mr. Bailey's record on that? William M. Springer, a Democrat from Springfield, Ill., was chairman of the committee on ways and means of the Fifty-second congress, of which body Joseph W. Bailey was a member. Mr. Springer assailed the tariff in detail. He brought in numerous bills that the Republicans, in derision, called "pop guns," and each of them put a raw material on the free list. The first was wool and at that time Texas was a wool state. Did Mr. Bailey oppose it? No, he swallowed free wool, free lumber, free coal, and everything else free that Springer set before him. Nor is that all. In the next succeeding congress the Wilson bill was gorged with free raw materials as it passed the house of representatives, and Mr. Bailey supported it, though a score or so of half baked Democrats voted against it. So, if the Fort Worth Record would scalp a man for inconsistency let it chase Mr. Bailey out of the woods.

Morrison and Carlisle, Mills and Wilson, all held that free raw materials is the A B C of tariff reform. And mark you, West Virginia, whence hailed William L. Wilson, is an enormous producer of coal, lumber and wool. Kentucky grows more hemp that all the other states together; but Democratic Kentucky voted free hemp, a pure raw material, because to tax it imposed an additional burden on the man growing cotton in Texas. And Texas ought to be honest enough and generous enough and proud enough to vote for free wool for the child sleeping under blankets in Kentucky.

It is true that hemp, a raw material, is taxed in the Payne-Aldrich monstrosity; but it was done on motion of W. O. Bradley, a Republican senator from Kentucky, who is in exact agreement with Bailey as to raw materials. I don't blame Bradley. He believes in it because it is Republican doctrine to tax the masses to enrich the classes. I don't remember how Bailey voted on the hemp proposition, but if his consistency harked back to 1894, he voted for free hemp; but if he conformed to his present evangel, he voted for the tax and thus imposed additional hardship on the Texas cotton farmer, whom it is impossible to protect and who pays the tax on raw materials. How a cotton farmer, whether owner of the soil or renter, can follow Bailey is incomprehensible. I know cotton bagging is made of jute and perhaps more things other than hemp, but the higher price of hemp, the higher the price of all fibers that compete with it. And that is fundamental.

It cannot be too frequently repeated and it should never be lost sight of, that as to raw materials Mr. Bailey is in precise accord with Aldrich, Cannon and Dalzell—except they call it what it is, protection, and he calls it what it is not, revenue. The effect is the same, strictly the same. For example, the tax on lumber yields less than $5,000,000 revenue and bestows on the lumber trust more than $75,000,000 protection—unless the foreigner pays the tax, as Aldrich says and as Bailey dare not say. No wonder the lumber trust estimates Lorimer's vote in the senate as precious!

But just think of it! The Texas gorged with the glory of the Alamo and radiant with the glory of San Jacinto, the Texas made so illustrious by the deeds and the creeds of Sam Houston, Albert Sidney Johnston, Louis T. Wigfall, John H. Reagan, David B. Culberson, Roger Q. Mills and others—this Texas is now to be deformed into a miserable Lazarus and sit down at the gates of congress to get the miserable crumbs that fall from the tariff table, while the dogs of monopoly lick his sores! How do you like it, you cotton grower, the bone and sinew of the Imperial Commonwealth? You will pay his unnecessary and onerous tax.

And with what grace does Texas reproach Pennsylvania touching the tariff, if Texas is to prey at the same dump of garbage? If it is virtue to protect the lumber of the lumber trust, how can you make shame of the protection awarded the steel of the steel trust? All the difference is that one is grown in Texas and the other forged in Pennsylvania. Get your Bible and read St. Paul:

"Wherefore, come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing and I will receive you."

If this misconception between Texas and Pennsylvania has not been solemnized, in the name of political morals and in behalf of public decency, I forbid the bans.

Now I don't say that Mr. Bailey is conscious of the manifest fact that in his stand for taxed raw materials he is fetching and carrying for the Republican party, but that is precisely the effect of his action, as witness a circumstance that occurred at a meeting of the Texas Cotton Growers' association, or something like that. A Mr. Hudspeth, a Democratic state senator, announced that he was a protectionist, and incidentally he conveyed the secret that Senator Bailey is our greatest statesman. "These be thy gods, O Israel!"

Don't you see the leaven working? Not even in Texas is there room for a protectionist, undisguised, in the Democratic party. Now, it is not six inches from where Hudspeth stands to the Republican camp. I hear this man is coming here to persuade Oscar Underwood, Ollie James, Claude Kitchin, Cordell Hull and the others to retain wool on the tax list. He will get a cold potato. The Democratic house is going to send to the senate the same wool bill, in principle, that Mr. Bailey supported in 1892 and 1894 and it puts wool on the free list.

And there is no room in the Democratic party for anybody who opposes that bill.

TWO HARBORS AND THE LATE TRAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The longer the Duluth & Iron Range railroad continues to disregard the wishes of its patrons in regard to afternoon service, the stronger the desires of the patrons for adequate service become. A train out of Duluth at 2:45 in the afternoon, the last train of the day, is no accommodation to the people of Two Harbors and the Vermilion ranges. When we go to Duluth we want a little time to attend to business and the Iron Range doesn't give us the time unless we contribute to the prosperity of Duluth hotel keepers. I am glad to see The Herald taking this matter up.

The last Iron Range train out of Duluth for the day should leave not earlier than 5:15. Then we would have an opportunity to transact our business and would, perhaps, be able to see a theatrical performance once in a while. We are entitled to some consideration. The Iron Range railroad is a common carrier, required to carry passengers as well as iron ore and the passengers who contribute to the earnings should be considered when schedules are made out. It would not cost the Iron Range a cent more to start its train at 5:15 from Duluth and it would be a great convenience to its patrons.

French Tobacco Monopoly.

Consular Reports: France received in 1910, which was an average year, 33,842 metric tons of leaf tobacco. Nearly half of these imports came from the United States. The quantity entered for consumption into the country was 27,789 tons, valued at $5,811,423, the transit trade and re-exportation to the colonies amounting to 6,053 tons. The special importations of manufactured tobacco were composed of 13,951,400 cigars, 145,700 pounds of cigarettes, and 7,275 pounds of other tobacco, of an aggregate value of $639,795.

The latest statistics concerning the French tobacco monopoly show that the receipts of every nature in 1909 amounted to $94,316,355, an increase of $1,777,361 over 1908. The sales of manufactured tobacco for the year aggregated $93,966,090 and the net profits $76,770,136.

The tobacco production of the country is almost equal to the importation. The 1909 figures were as follows: Total yield, 27,134 metric tons; value of crop, $4,462,669; number of planters, 48,395; area cultivated, 37,156 acres; average yield per acre, 1,610 pounds; average value of yield per acre, $120; average price paid by the state, 8.7 cents per pound.

Modern Problems.

Life: If it requires thirty years of intermittent prosperity to produce a bread line a block and a half long, how much prosperity will be required to get rid of it?

If one anti-trust law can produce 1,000 trusts, what would be the cost of living if we had two anti-trust laws?

If, in order to preserve peace, it is necessary to spend annually $14,393,595, what would it cost to preserve a good, healthy war when we once got into it?

OPTIMISM.

If at the rainbow's end
You've missed the pot of gold,
Don't backward turn and wend
Your way o'er the weary wold.

If when you reach the dock
You find your ship delayed,
Don't turn from sea and rock
Heart-broken and dismayed.

Your ships may all go down
And your rainbow end in mist;
Fortune may on you frown,
And all your powers resist.

Your dreams may not come true,
The magic lamp fail to burn;
The things you fain would do
May perish at every turn.

Forget your own vain hope
And lift up some wretched soul
Who naught can do but grope
With death as the only goal.

Labor and smile and pray;
Sow joy with a spendthrift hand.
Live only for today
And you shall possess the land.

A Big Task Before Him.

St. Louis Republic: The sum of $405,417.58 is to be set aside out of the estate of the late George S. Myers, St. Louis multimillionaire tobacco manufacturer, to be used in improving the mind of George Myers Church, a grandson of Mr. Myers, during his college career. This news comes from San Bernardino, Cal., where the administrator has just asked leave of the court to sell a stack of railroad bonds to raise the money as provided in the grandfather's will.

Assuming that young Mr. Church apportions his income after the manner of the average college boy, he has an imposing job before him. A college boy spends money for banjos, bulldogs, frat pins, tennis racquets, cigarettes, bouquets — if he is a fusser — auto rides, boat rides, beer, ponies, boxing gloves, board, clothes, including sweaters, dinky little caps, fancy vests and silk socks.

He also spends money for tuition, books and other academic uses. The $417.58 which is attached to the round sum will probably do for that item, and the $405,000 stands out boldly and alone to cover the balance of the list. Allow him $1,000 a week for board and room and forty weeks to the college year. That only uses up $160,000 and leaves $245,000. He can buy a new auto every year at $10,000 a throw and that still leaves $205,000 to get rid of. The highest price a dog ever sold for was $10,000. Let him have a $10,000 bulldog and cover the matter of sporting goods, musical instruments, florists' bills and the like with another $10,000, and he still has $185,000.

Allow him $500 a week for clothes throughout his college career and that makes $80,000, which, by knocking off $5,000, to be used for tips, brings him down to $100,000. To use that all up he will have to drink a million glasses of "suds" and smoke just a little less than one thousand 5-cent cigarettes a day during his course.

A Nebraska Function.

Grand Island Independent: What has been described as one of the most pleasing social affairs of the season thus far in Grand Island transpired at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Thomas, 413 East Seventh street, Friday evening. There was a quality about the function, the social amenities were so well rendered, the friendly intercourse so evenly dispensed, and everybody was so companionable and hospitable that there was not left the tiniest bit of room for anything which might savor of uncouthness or selfishness.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1891.

At a meeting of the committee appointed by Willis A. Gorman Post, G. A. R., to make arrangements for Memorial day, the following sub-committee was appointed: Music, Comrade Gearhart; finance, Comrades Holden and Dalley; flowers, Comrade Osterhout; invitations, Comrade Gearhart; speakers, Comrade Farrell. The invitation of Rev. George H. McClelland to hold Memorial Sunday service with the First Baptist church was accepted.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the New York Tribune was celebrated in New York last night. Among the speakers were James G. Blaine, George William Curtis, Chauncey M. Depew, Charles A. Dana and Roswell G. Horr. Edmund Clarence Stedman read a poem and Walter Damrosch led the orchestra.

Fred Russell, until recently timekeeper and clerk in the city engineer's office, has been engaged by the council as auditing committee to look over the accounts of the various departments during the past year.

C. B. Richmond of Pelican Lake is a new arrival in West Duluth.

C. A. Everitt of West Duluth has decided to retire from the furniture business and is closing out his stock.

H. C. McCrane & Co. of Minneapolis were in West Duluth looking for a suitable location for their sleigh and wagon works.

The Women's Christian Temperance union of this city has long recognized the need of such an institution as the Bethany Home for Fallen Women in Minneapolis. Steps are now being taken to establish one here, and Mrs. Van Cleve of Minneapolis will make an address on the subject during her visit to Duluth next week.

A. J. Mathewson of The Herald staff is on the sick list.

Ex-City Clerk Budden will open a grocery store at the corner of First street and Second avenue west, in partnership with Ole Olson.

Mr. Falkner of Danville, N. Y., at one time clerk for A. J. Whiteman in Duluth, is on a few days' visit here.

Messrs. Hetherington and Ramsdell, late of the Ramsdell Engraving company of Minneapolis, will start an engraving business in Duluth in about two weeks.

Clan Stewart has elected Chief A. S. Wilson as delegate to attend the convention of Royal Clans at Buffalo in June. C. Thomson was appointed alternate.

A. Hirsch returned yesterday from a trip through Wisconsin, where he purchased thirty-one head of cattle for the Willowdale farm, owned by E. P. Emerson and himself.

R. F. Nachtriele, formerly manager of the American District Telegraph company at St. Paul, is visiting Duluth friends.

W. H. Richardson, head salesman for the Duluth Shoe company, has arrived. He was formerly identified with Gotzian & Co. of St. Paul.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Based on a Supposition.

Cannon Falls Beacon: If the Canadian reciprocity treaty is defeated in the senate it will be because of opposition in the West; an opposition that has but a supposition to support it and not an entirely logical opposition at that. For instance it is argued that because of the possibilty or probability, of the treaty being adopted the price of wheat has fallen off some 8 or 10 cents; but on the other hand, whereas it is conceded that under the actual operation of the treaty barley would suffer as much as wheat, if not more, barley has not been so high since the season of 1907-08. This condition argues one of two things, but it cannot argue both; either there is one law governing the price of barley and another governing the price of wheat, or the treaty talk is not to blame for the decline in the price of wheat.

More Than a Mere Name.

Thief River Falls Times: A compromise reapportionment bill has been introduced in the legislature and the action of the house and senate is awaited with interest. The legislators have probably discovered that Northern Minnesota is more than a mere name.

Could Hardly Do Worse.

Madison Western Guard: The Sauk Center Herald wonders what the Minnesota legislature would do without P. J. Youngdahl to tell it what to do. The Guard ventures the guess that it couldn't do much worse than it does Undoubtedly.

Mankato Free Press: A reapportionment bill that will not legislate the senators out of office will no doubt receive the support of members of the upper house.

Practice More Difficult.

Wabasha Herald: The Socialists are effulgent and florescent so far as theories are concerned, and promises also, but when it comes to practice they cave in and wither. In Milwaukee they are wrestling unsuccessfully with the problem of 20,000 unemployed workers, despite the fact that they boasted, before their election, that there would be no unemployed wage earner in the city when once they guided the reins. Selah!

A Man of Knowledge.

Hibbing Tribune: Hibbing will not get a state building to house the records of the state and afford office room for its mining inspection department. It's not that the state hasn't got the money but that Senator Frank Clague, chairman of the senate finance committee thinks that the purpose of the bill is simply a "cunning plot" on the part of the "steel trust" to get an office building.

Great man, Clague. He ought to write a book about what he knows about Northern Minnesota. He could do it easy.

Needed Strapping at Home.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle: They may have overdone the spanking business at the Red Wing Training School—in fact it seems certain that they have—but all the same we'd hate to have to handle a bunch of young terrors like that without something of the kind to fall back upon as a last resort. The most of the lads at that place got there because of insufficient judicious strapping at home.

Boyle For Congress.

Cambridge North Star: Senator Boyle of Eveleth may be a candidate for congress from this district next year. He is classed as a level-headed progressive Republican.

Good Advice.

Madison Independent Press: If the legislature of Minnesota would do less quarrelling and a little more actual work the members would come a little nearer earning their salaries.

"Smile, Please!"

Stillwater Gazette: Did you ever notice—of course you have—how foolish some people look in a photograph or a picture, when they produce a sickly smile on the face that would look so much better in repose. And men may come and women may go, but that style will probably go on forever.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A stitch in time may save a hole in the hosiery.

The small boy's stomach is usually in apple pie order.

Pasting old jokes in a scrapbook is one way of filing saws.

Pain has been known to transform a child into a groan person.

The alligator has a great snap, but even a lazy man doesn't care for it.

Pointed Paragraphs.

It's awfully hard for dyspeptics to pose as optimists.

All married men are heroes, but they can't always prove it.

Hard on Professors.

St. Louis Globe: College professors going into politics—politics can stand it, but will the professors, after they find what politics is?

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Puck: The Captain (1500)—So the dungeon game won't work?

The Warder—No. Somebody smuggled an empty hogshead and a couple of wall mottoes in to the prisoner, and he thinks he's in a Rathskeller.

London Opinion: Cheerful Old Idiot—I say, you'll excuse me, but d'you know that you are the thinnest poll e-man I've ever seen.

Robert—Yes, I'm a new hand, and haven't got to know the cooks yet!

Washington Star: "I have always worked ten or fifteen hours a day," said the boastful man.

"Well," replied the perverse philosopher, "it must be remarkably easy work, or you couldn't do so much of it."

London Tatler: Stout Lady—I'm afraid that you are rather young for the situation. Are you sure you could cook dinner for a large party?

Applicant—Oh, yes'm. Why, the last party I was with was quite as large as you are.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "My husband is just awful when he wants to find anything. You never saw a man throw clothes around the way he does."

"Where did he learn to be so untidy?"

"Why, he was in the New York customs house for four years."

Chicago Record-Herald: "I should hate to live after all my friends were dead."

"I don't blame you. It's always hard to borrow money from strangers."

New York Sun: Knicker—Why did you think the burglar was a married man?

Bocker—Because when I asked him the time of night he said 12 instead of 3.

Washington Herald: "If you are looking for bargains," said the broker, "I can suit you. I can offer you some stocks at 10 cents a share."

"But why are they so cheap?" demanded the lady shopper.

"You see, they have been slightly damaged by water."

Life: The Wife's Caller (lightly)—These husbands of ours need watching from morning till night.

The Other Wife—(less lightly)—Say rather from night till morning.

Mexican Herald: Boyle—Is O'Brien any better—I dunno.

Doyle—Yis, he was out av his head all night. But he's back in again this mornin'.

Mayor Cullum Gives Council Evidence Against Saloon Keeper.

Would Prevent Dives Being Operated in Connection With Saloons.

Mayor M. B. Cullum last evening recommended to the council that the saloon license of Dunlap & Thatcher at 228 Lake street south be revoked, if conditions at the place are found to be as brought out in the recent trial of Minnie Cookman, former woman barber, who was recently convicted of running a house of ill fame upstairs at that location and of selling liquor without a license.

The mayor called attention to the fact that the testimony at the trial showed that he woman had an agreement with the saloon men to sell only a certain brand of beer upstairs. This agreement, of which it appeared there was but a single copy, was produced in police court by the local agent of a brewing company, who had kept it in his safe.

A copy of this agreement was furnished the council by the mayor, who attached it to his communication, which was referred to the police and license committee for a report and investigation. The members of this committee are Aldermen Hoar, Wharton and Curren.

The mayor's recommendation came as a surprise to most of the aldermen, who had no idea of its coming. It is in line with the mayor's policy. Among the aldermen, also, there is a sentiment that saloons should not be allowed to operate in connection with disorderly houses, as shown in this case by the agreement between the Cookman woman and the saloon men. Only a short time ago a license was refused to Alec Tifer at 1902 Garfield avenue on similar grounds, residents having complained that he conducted a house of ill repute with the saloon.

ESTIMATE IS CALLED FOR

City Will Ascertain Cost of a Municipal Electric Lighting Plant.

City Engineer Given $2,500 to Employ Expert Assistants.

The city council last evening passed a resolution calling upon the city engineer for an estimate of the probable cost of constructing a plant for furnishing electric light, heat and power for Duluth which will give substantially the same service as now given by the Duluth-Edison Electric company.

That the report of the engineer may be complete, and that he may secure the assistance of a competent electrical engineer, the same resolution carried with it an appropriation of $2,500. All or part of this money may be used by the engineer at his discretion.

The resolution was introduced by Alderman Shartel following the reading of a communication from City Attorney Bert Fesler advising the council that the legislature had passed and the governor signed, a bill enabling the city to issue bonds above its legal indebtedness for the acquisition of a municipal electric light, heat and power plant. The measure was fathered by State Senator Harry W. Cheadle, who was elected city clerk at the annual meeting of the council last month. His bond has been approved and it is expected that he will resume his duties in a short time. He will be working with the council when the report is made to that body by City Engineer Thomas F. McGilvray.

The resolution passed last night is as follows:

"Resolved, That as preliminary to the consideration of the passage of a resolution by this council determining the necessity or propriety of acquiring property and constructing a plant for furnishing electric light, heat and power to the city of Duluth and its inhabitants, and as preliminary to the ascertainment of the cost of such plant, the city engineer is hereby directed to furnish to this council an estimate of the probable cost of erecting such a plant with capacity to furnish substantially the same service heretofore furnished by the Duluth-Edison Electric company to the city and its inhabitants, such estimate to be made on the basis of securing electric current from the Great Northern Power company.

"Resolved further, That there is hereby appropriated from the general fund the sum of $2,500, or such portion thereof as may be necessary in the opinion of the city engineer for the employment by him of an electrical engineer or other assistants needed by him in preparing such estimate."

$50,000 LIFE POLICY IS SOLD FOR ONLY $50.

St. Paul, Minn., April 11.—T. L. Schurmeier, trustee of the Sharood Shoe corporation, acting under instructions from G. S. Ives, referee in bankruptcy, has sold the insurance policy on the life of C. K. Sharood to Lucius Beebe & Sons, wholesale leather dealers of Boston. The Boston company was the only bidder and secured the policy of $50,000 for $50.

This policy was taken out by the Sharood Shoe corporation about four or five years ago and was issued by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York. The company made a loan upon the policy of $6,450, and the interest on this loan and premium, amounting to $2,537.50, are due April 9, which necessitated the sale of this asset in advance of the others. The purchaser of the policy is one of the heaviest creditors of the Sharood Shoe corporation.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIBBING ELKS HAVE BIG MEET

Twenty Candidates Initiated and Dutch Lunch and Smoker Enjoyed.

Hibbing, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.—The Hibbing lodge of Elks initiated a large class last night in their hall in the Rood building. The proceedings started at 8:30 and lasted until long after midnight. The initiation was followed by a Dutch lunch, and many Elks were present, the dimensions of the hall being inadequate to accommodate the big crowd. Twenty new members were added to the roll and among them were many well known merchants and residents of Hibbing. Many of the members are said to be in favor of moving to a larger hall until a site for their own new building can be secured, the chief obstacle being the difficulty in getting a piece of land at anything like a reasonable figure on which to build.

Hibbing Briefs

Miss Eaton of St. Paul is in the city taking the place of a Hibbing teacher during a short leave of absence.

Carl Thiel and Peter Schawang, the photographers, have placed an order for a Packard runabout to use in connection with their business.

Miss Isabella McKay has returned after spending a month's vacation at Sault Ste. Marie.

Frank Tobin and Miss Gorman were members of a theater party on April 9.

Miss Carlsen, and some of her colleagues of the Chisholm educational staff made a tour of inspection of the Hibbing schools yesterday.

Frank A. Tobin of the Itasca Bazar Co., who recently underwent an operation at the Rood hospital, has recovered.

James Ryan went to Duluth Sunday to attend the session of the Knights of Columbus.

SOCIALISTS HAD LARGE MEETINGS

Gatherings at Virginia, Chisholm and Hibbing Were Well Attended.

Hibbing, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Socialists of the range communities are very much pleased over the success of the meetings just held. The gatherings at Virginia, Saturday night, Chisholm Sunday afternoon and here Sunday evening were large and enthusiastic, being attended in all by 2,000 or more.

The meeting at Virginia, Saturday evening, as stated in Monday's Herald was a record breaker, nearly 1,000 being in attendance.

Karl's hall at Chisholm was crowded to the doors Sunday afternoon when addresses were delivered in several languages and the resolutions adopted. The meeting here Sunday night was equally large and enthusiastic. At the three meetings Prof. Lannki of the Finnish college at Smithville spoke in Finnish, Mr. Malotte of Hancock spoke in Croatian, Mr. Demayo of Hurley, Wis., spoke in Italian, and Prof. C. D. Walker of Gray Eagle spoke in English, all of them demanding that the legislature enact an eight-hour law.

The resolutions adopted at the Chisholm and Hibbing meetings were the same as those adopted at the Virginia meeting Saturday night, the substance of which was printed in Monday's Herald.

HAS SON AT GILBERT.

Mrs. Tremewan, Marquette County Pioneer, Buried at Ishpeming.

Ishpeming, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Tremewan, one of the pioneer women of Marquette county, who died Friday at the home of John Hoskings, her son-in-law, was held at 2 p. m. yesterday from the First Methodist church.

The deceased was the widow of George Tremewan, who died some years ago. Mrs. Tremewan resided in Champion and Humboldt before locating in Ishpeming. Her age was about 70. She is survived by two sons and two daughters. The sons are John Tremewan of Butte, Mont., and George of Gilbert, Minn. The latter arrived in the city Sunday. The daughters are Mrs. John Hosking of this city and Mrs. W. H. Tremewan of Iron Mountain.

CHISHOLM LOT IS UNDERMINED

Cave-in Results and Nearby Residents Are Given a Big Scare.

Chisholm, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sunday afternoon people living on Hemlock street and along Central avenue, were excited on account of a big cave-in of the lot on the corner facing Hemlock street, the property of Mr. Donovan of Hibbing.

From the sounds of the blasting coming from underneath the homes in block 28, the residents have for weeks surmised that their houses were being undermined, but upon mentioning the matter to the mining officials, they were assured that as yet the three drifts leading in the direction of their homes had not reached any further than Central avenue, and as a bed of deep taconite is said to be directly beneath the avenue and no ore is supposed to be beyond it, the residents felt fairly safe as to the ground beneath which their homes have been built. But Sunday afternoon when one of the women on Hemlock street was finishing up her after-dinner kitchen work, glancing casually out of the window, she was shocked before her eyes the lot adjoining her's, suddenly open up, leaving a hole twenty feet in diameter and ten or fifteen feet deep, proving conclusively that the drift had reached beyond Central avenue, and confirming the residents in that part of town in their opinion arrived at by the sounds of the blasts.

In time the matter will be satisfactorily adjusted, but at present the excitement over the cave-in is considerable.

ITEMS FROM COOK.

Personal and Other Notes From Northern St. Louis County.

Cook, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hans Johnson has sold his farm to Mrs. Wesling of Virginia, Minn., and will open an ice cream parlor in the building which will be vacated by Aug. Buboltz in about a month. Buboltz is intending to build a large store building with basement and will keep a line of general merchandise taking farmers' supplies for same.

Miss Florence Walker visited in Virginia last week.

Mr. and Mrs. August Buboltz are the proud parents of a young son, born at St. Luke's hospital, Duluth.

Thomas Rankin visited Cook on business over Sunday.

Mrs. James Beatty and daughter Ethel were in Virginia Saturday.

William Beattie of Lewiston, Mont., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Mary O'Nair on her homestead west of Cook.

Dr. Crowe of Virginia was called to Cook last Sunday because of the serious illness of John Buboltz.

Andrew Scott, who has been sick recently went to Duluth Saturday to consult a doctor.

Henry Dewees went to Virginia to file on his homestead Saturday. It is located about twelve miles from Cook.

Herman Olson's family have been quarantined for the last few weeks on account of scarlet fever.

CHISHOLM BALL TEAM.

Steps Taken to Reorganize Nine for Season of 1911.

Chisholm, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chisholm is assured of another good baseball team the coming season. At a recent meeting in the village hall, Hackett, McLeod, Wiley, Ploof, Tripp and Sherman, were appointed a committee to look up suitable grounds, and to arrange for the expenses of maintaining a ball team during the coming season. J. L. Leighty was elected manager.

A new theater has been opened in Chisholm on Lake street known as the "Apollo." The Peterson building next to Elmer Swanson's has been remodeled in the interior and fitted up for a playhouse. Messrs. Herman Lammi and John Erickson are the promoters of the "Apollo."

Johnson & Koivisto, tailors, are putting up a new store on Lake street next to the Maine Clothing company. The building is already enclosed and the prospects are that before the month is over, they will be able to move in. At present they are renting a building ton First avenue, near to the postoffice.

Gus Apel, ex-chief of police of Chisholm is spending a few days in Duluth. Mrs. Apel accompanied him as far as Duluth, and will continue her journey to her home in Southern Wisconsin.

Chief of Police Simonsen has appointed Martin Conners as night clerk and John Perko has been put on as patrolman to take Conner's beat.

The Shannon livery is to have an auto in connection with the livery business.

WRING AFTER SCORCHERS.

Six Miles an Hour the Maximum Speed in Hibbing.

Hibbing, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing chauffeurs who run their machines faster than six miles an hour in the village limits will run afoul the police as Chief of Police Pete Wring has issued orders to gather in anyone exceeding that maximum. He says that patience is no longer a virtue with the speed cranks and hereafter all who exceed the limit will be arrested and tried.

"That someone has not been killed in Hibbing by automobiles is a wonder," says the chief. "Even in the downtown district where women and children frequently crowd the streets, machines come tearing around the corners at high speed. The time to put a stop to this business is now before some person is either killed or badly crippled.

"My men are thoroughly instructed and they will arrest every offender, regardless of who he is or where he comes from. We mean business."

AURORA AMATEURS WILL PRESENT PLAY.

Aurora, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The play "Mr. Bob" will be given Thursday night at the Finnish hall under the auspices of the high school band. The play is a clever two-act comedy and will be put on by local talent. The band boys have made much progress during the past winter and are anxious to secure enough money for uniforms. The play will be followed by a dance.

ALLEGE RUZZITO FIRED TWO SHOTS

Being Tried at Hibbing for Alleged Assault on Agnew Mine Boss.

Hibbing, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first case called in district court was that of State vs. Bruno Ruzzito, Billie Rich, which is still on trial.

The charge is that of assault in the first degree, the allegation being that Ruzzito was discharged on Nov. 30 last and on the morning of the following day he went to the office of the Agnew mine in the morning and drew his time and at 5:30 in the evening of the same day he is alleged to have fired two shots with a revolver at Charles Green walking boss of the Agnew mine.

Both shots missed in spite of the fact that the shooting is said to have taken place at a range of only a few feet. The first witness called by the prosecution was Charles Green, who testified as to the firing of the shot and the chase and arrest of Ruzzito. He was followed by Oliver Owen Ormond, the engineer on the engine that passed the scene a few moments after the affair. Considerable effort was made by the defending counsel to make this witness state just exactly the distance between the place the men came up from the mine and the place the shooting occurred but without effect and the judge intervened stating that "the evidence of the witness with regard to this matter would be of no value if it were merely a guess."

Court Reporter Had Pistol.

Roy Hutton, bookkeeper and Henry Little, sheriff, testified as to the firing of the shots. Considerable interest was manifested when Court Reporter Clarence Dwyer was cross-examined as to having been requested to take charge of the revolver with which the shooting was done. After stating that the revolver had been handed to him with the request to take it to Virginia, he was asked where he left it over night and what the condition of his office was on the morning after. He stated that he found the marks of revolver bullets on his table and the wainscoting of the room on a level with the table.

The following compose the jury trying the case: E. J. Maleth, Eveleth; L. J. Pearson, Duluth; John A. Redfern, Hibbing; W. J. Dwyer, William J. Cowan, Hibbing; Daniel Siegel, Eveleth; John A. Curo, Duluth; J. L. Stewart, Hibbing; Gus Leander, Eveleth; S. J. Mussolf, L. D. Sullivan, Virginia; D. W. Lundell, Chisholm.

TOWER SAYS FAREWELL.

To Rev. A. S. Jamieson Who Will Soon Leave This Field.

Tower, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. James Presbyterian church was well attended Sunday at both the morning and evening services. At the morning service the communion was administered by the Rev. A. S. Jamieson of Duluth. In the evening the services was in the nature of a farewell, as Rev. Jamieson is to leave soon for the Pacific coast. His evening subject was "The Ideal Church," and the sermon was a thoughtful and helpful one and favorably commented on by many in attendance. Rev. Mr. Jamieson will be very much missed from this field.

After a meeting of the Aid society of the church, a farewell reception was tendered the Rev. A. S. Jamieson. He has supplied the pulpit here on numerous occasions the past year and a half. He is soon to leave for California where he will probably do supply work for a time at least. He was presented with a useful gift as a token of the appreciation in which he is held here.

AURORA SPORTSMEN TO ORGANIZE GUN CLUB.

Aurora, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Aurora sportsmen are arranging to organize a gun club for the coming summer. There are a number here who enjoy shooting at the clay birds and among them are some first-class shots. A meeting is soon to be held when an organization will be effected and a trap and other paraphernalia ordered. It is thought that twenty members will be secured at the start.

SMALL TOWER FIRE.

Tower, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—About noon yesterday fire was discovered in the residence of Mrs. R. G. Murray near the brewery. The fire department responded promptly and extinguished the blaze with small loss. Considerable furniture and bedding on the second floor was damaged by water. It is understood there was no insurance.

Eveleth Mayor Entertains.

Eveleth, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor and Mrs. Jacob A. Sarri, entertained Sunday evening at their home on Jones street in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nelson, old residents of this city who leave soon for Pasedana, Cal., where they will make their future home.

A hop will be given at Walon Lahde hall, May 5 by the junior class of the local high school.

Work on the erection of a two-story residence on the site of the Spruce tennis court will soon be started for Capt. W. J. Steads, formerly of Chisholm, who recently succeeded Capt. Bartle, as head captain of the Spruce and Cloquet mines here.

Frank Karacks was fined $40 yesterday morning in municipal court by Special Judge Neil McInnis for carrying concealed weapons.

COUNCIL FILLS MORE POSITIONS

Two Harbors Lawmakers Appoint City Engineer and City Electrician.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council held a long session last night and transacted a great deal of business. The matter attracting most attention was the appointment of a chief engineer. The water and light committee recommended that a new man be secured for the position. The council went into a committee of the whole, Bergren in the chair, and an interesting discussion took place. The application of W. R. Coleman, the present chief, was received and also that of William Forger. A communication was received from the North Shore lodge of machinists, requesting that a machinist be given the job. The names of Silas Irwin, present electrician, and Aaron Elg, a machinist, were put forth, and there was a discussion as to their merits.

Elg is Given Job.

Upon the matter being put to a vote, Elg was recommended for the position by the committee of the whole by a vote of 4 to 3. The council acted upon the recommendation and Elg was appointed chief engineer of the water and light plant with a salary of $125 per month, an increase of $25 over the present salary. It was stated during the discussion that the plant would have to undergo a complete overhauling and the electric generators taken apart and fixed.

S. S. Irwin was appointed city electrician at a salary of $110 per month. Applications from Oscar Beckman, Frank Peterson and Herman Anderson for licenses as city scavengers were received. In the past there has been but one city scavenger, but it was suggested that the three applicants be appointed to hold the position jointly. The matter was acted upon. The Maline band asked permission to have the use of the council chambers on Tuesday and Friday evenings for practice, their request being granted. Communication was received from the mayor making the following appointments: For the library board, Mrs. A. P. Overland, W. B. Woodward, Rev. T. Stanley Dadams. Resolution allowing claims against the city was passed.

Several matters were brought up after the regular routine of business. It was stated that the present charter commission seemed to be a "farce" because it was incomplete. It was recommended that the vacancies be filled at once, by the district judge.

Finds City Books O. K.

August Omtvedt was present and stated that he was through auditing the books up to the first of the year. He had found that with the exception of a few clerical errors, the books were correct. He stated, however, that MacAlpine was behind in his work and that in his opinion too much work was put upon him. Omtvedt was given until May 1 to audit the books up to date and give a statement of the financial condition of the city.

A noticeable thing occurred in the first of the meeting when the clerk was requested to read the minutes of the preceding meeting, something which he has not had to do for a long time.

EVELETH CHILD IS SCALDED TO DEATH

Falls Into Tub of Hot Water and So Badly Burned, Death Results.

Eveleth, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frances, the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tehoschik of the Spruce location died yesterday from burns sustained Saturday. While playing about a tub full of hot water the child fell back into it and was badly scalded before taken out.

The deceased was very popular and the only girl in the family. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning from the Holy Family church with Rev. Father M. Bilban officiating. Interment will be made at Greenwood cemetery, Virginia.

Old Female Resident Dies.

Mrs. Alex Horschak died yesterday at her home in the Adams location after a month's illness. She had resided here for many years and was very well known. She is survived by her husband, who is employed at the Adams mine, and seven small children, who range in age from 4 to 12.

Her funeral will be held this afternoon from the Holy Family church with Rev. Father Bilban officiating. Interment will be made at the Greenwood cemetery, Virginia.

EVELETH PLANS FOR RANGE MEET

Commercial Club to Entertain Councils of Range at Electric Road Gathering.

Eveleth, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the Commercial club meeting last evening the following were elected as members of the public affairs committee: John J. Gleason, John Glode, Solomon Sax, David A. Larin, George A. Whitman, George A. Perham, James A. Robb, Neil McInnis and James C. Poole. They were instructed to confer with the various councils of the range and representatives of the proposed range electric roads, who will meet here, April 26. Efforts will be made to induce the range roads to establish their proposd pumping station at the local lakes.

Solomon Sax, John Glode and George A. Perham were appointed to confer with the Steel corporation officials relative to securing permission to use the plot of ground between A and Chanler avenues and Pierce street and Fayal road for park purposes.

Want Charter Work Pushed.

The secretary was instructed to inform the city clerk that the club was in favor of having the old charter commission members resign and steps taken immediately to reappoint a new commission so that it may be possible to submit the new charter at the fall election. The recommendations of the civics improvement committee, that a park board be appointed by the council, uniform tree planting provided, prizes awarded for best kept lawns, a city market for farmers established, paving of alleys between Monroe and Jones streets and Douglas and Adams avenues, and the removal of electric and telephone poles to adjacent alleys where possible, were referred to the council with the club's approval.

Health Commissioner N. C. Bulkley announced that steps were to be taken by local meat dealers to provide a sanitary slaughter house, with sewer connections, within the city limits which will climinate the open slaughter nuisance, that is being used near the city limits.

NEW VIRGINIA INDUSTRY.

Minnesota Screen Company to Put Up a Plant.

Virginia, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lumber has already been purchased and the construction will begin at once on the building, 50 by 50, to be erected by the Minnesota Screen company, a local corporation, on lots just purchased in the southern part of the city, along the Missabe tracks near the Gilbert road.

W. W. Woodward, former local agent for the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg railway, will be manager of the plant, and when it is ready for operation it is expected that the company will employ between fifteen and twenty men in turning out the window screens.

The company has applied to the city council for the vacation of an alley running through its property in order to give it more room for storage and other purposes.

PRESBYTERY AT VIRGINIA.

Many Eveleth Members of Church to Attend the Meeting.

Eveleth, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many local Presbyterians will also be at Virginia tomorrow evening to attend the public meeting of the annual spring gathering of the Duluth Presbytery, when addresses will be given by Rev. Mr. Jamieson, pastor-at-large, and Rev. Mr. Higgins, the Sky Pilot.

EVELETH ELKS WILL ATTEND VIRGINIA MEET.

Eveleth, Minn., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nearly 100 members of the local lodge of Elks will attend the entertainment to be given by the Virginia order tomorrow evening.

The local Elks will install officers Friday evening at Elks' hall. The new officers are headed by Exalted Ruler George E. McCormick and Secretary W. G. Sutherland.

cabinet. The managers of the Santa Rosa plantation in Yucatan and the Kayal plantation in Campeche are said to have been killed.

Food Poisoned.

Mexicali, Mex., April 11.—Col. Mayot, commander of the federal forces operating in this vicinity caused to be burned yesterday all provisions abandoned by Stanley Williams' filibustering American band, after the flight of Saturday.

According to survivors of the latter force, Mayot's suspicion that the food was poisoned, was well founded. One guerilla said that enough cyanide had been mixed with the flour to have killed the entire federal army.

Both Col. Mayot and Gen. Salinas, the latter in command of the guerilla garrison here, returned to the Cudahy ranch the stock stolen by Williams' raiders. Part of the stock was abandoned after Saturday's fight and the rest brought here.

Capt. John Price, an English veteran of the Boer war, has taken command of the Williams band.

During his last illness Mr. Johnson was requested to write his autograph in the birthday book of Miss Louise Graham, a friend of the family. Commenting on the paragraph he selected Mr. Johnson's secretary remarked on its appropriate sentiment. Mr. Johnson said he "Hoped it would be so," and signed his name to the following quotation: "His face was a thanksgiving for his pert life and a love letter to all mankind."

When Arthur Fuller, the chauffeur for Mr. Johnson visited the patient Sunday afternoon, he remarked that his employer was still smiling.

"Yes, Arthur, I'm dying, but I still have my smile and I am going to die smiling," replied the former mayor. And he did.

The body of Former Mayor Johnson will be laid to rest Thursday in the Johnson family lot, Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y., in the very shadow of the monument that marks the grave of Henry George, the great single taxer, whose disciple Johnson was. This together with the information that in accordance with the dead man's wishes there will be no public services here it was announced today, following a meeting at the home of City Solicitor Newton D. Baker.

Cleveland's only opportunity to pay tribute to the former mayor will come Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the body will be taken from the Johnson family apartments to the station to be sent to Brooklyn. The route by which the body will be conveyed has been announced so that the people of the city may view the cortege.

The funeral services will be held at 11:30 o'clock Thursday morning at Greenwood cemetery. Rev. Harris R. Cooley, a close friend of Mr. Johnson and head of the city administration's correctional department while he was mayor, will have charge.

ALFONSO AN EMBEZZLER?

the cortes to pay at par for a large issue of bonds, originally sold at a very low figure. The amount of the "rake-off" the holders will secure, if the plan goes through, is about $5,600,000.

Alfonso owns most of the bonds.

"This suggestion," declared Ursaiz, "is an immorality, an embezzlement. And it is the king who proposes this crime."

Espana Nueva, a Progressive newspaper, has been printing the amounts paid to members of the royal family on each preceding day, with the return they rendered. A typical record is as follows:

Paid to the king, 19,445 pesetas ($3,900); his elder son, 1,388 pesetas ($277); his wife, 1,250 ($250); his mother, 694 ($139); his aunt, Isabel, 694 ($139); his aunt, Eulalia, 418 ($83) his aunt, Paz, 418 ($83); his sister, Maria Teresa, 418 ($83); total, 24,725 pesetas ($4,954).

In return for this sum the king attended mass, took part in a polo match and assisted at an equestrian tournament. We do not know of any donation that he made.

SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN THE HAIR

Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair, with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to old-time, tiresome methods of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Special agent, Max Wirth, 13 West Superior street.

REAPPORTIONMENT IN PRETTY MUDDLE AGAIN IN THE STATE SENATE

object of the delay was to consider the proposed new plan.

In the meantime friends of reapportionment are working to hold in line those who ought to be for the Hanson bill, including Senator Hanson himself, who is inclined to favor the Southern Minnesota device.

The senate this morning passed a very important bill by the senate committee on taxes and tax laws, providing that all assessments for purposes of taxes shall be at one-third of actual value. As introduced, the bill provided that 50 per cent should be the basis, but Senator Moonan and others objected, because that would increase the farmers' taxes, and an amendment by Senator G. H. Sullivan, making it one-third, was adopted.

The senate made the Red Wing training school report a special order for tomorrow night.

The house put in the morning on temperance bills, passing three before a recess was taken at noon with two remaining undisposed of. The special order on the appropriation bills was delayed until after the temperance measures are disposed of. There was little opposition to the senate bill by Senator Lende giving any person caring for an intoxicated person right of action for compensation for so doing against the person causing the intoxication, provided the law has been violated. The vote was 90 to 14.

The R. C. Dunn bill, prohibiting county boards from granting liquor licenses except in hamlets, was passed, 67 to 47. A hamlet, in the bill, is described as an area half a mile square, containing at least 100 people.

Representative Rice gained some votes for the bill by an amendment including railroad towns with a postoffice, station, general store and grain elevator, though his amendment was opposed by the friends of the bill.

The house also passed the senate bill by Senator Hanson, prohibiting the sale or gift of malt liquors, whether intoxicating or not, in any place except a licensed saloon. This bill is aimed at the numerous blindpigs which cover their dispensing of intoxicants under the pretense that they are selling malt. The vote was 98 to 13.

This afternoon the house will take up Representative Robinson's bill prohibiting the distribution of intoxicants to houses of prostitution and blindpigs, and the Hoffman bill providing for a low license for the sale of fermented malt liquors in original packages, not to be drunk on the premises.

Old Methods Dead.

Among the relics of old days, is the toll gate, only a few being left in this country, about the only one of moment being in the rocky mountains. The old rustic toll house and gate where the toll keeper collected fees, is as obsolete as the dead languages. So must all old methods go, even the old musty-piped, germ-filled tank plan of making lager beer, which has been brought to the new scientific plan of serilized making, which are in their height of perfection in making golden grain belt beers. WHAT I WENT THROUGH Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

SUNNY MONDAY

There is not an ounce of rosin in Sunny Monday Laundry Soap. Rosin is used in all other laundry soaps—because it is cheaper than the fats and oils used in Sunny Monday. Sunny Monday costs more to manufacture than any other laundry soap of which we know. It is kind to clothes—will not shrink flannels or woolens, or turn clothes yellow.

Sunny Monday is just as pure as its whiteness indicates; it is the safest and most economical laundry soap you can use.

PREVENT COMPLICATIONS

Medical Scientists Tell How Serious Troubles Arise From Neglect of Simple Maladies as Kidney Disease, Cancer, Catarrh, Consumption, Rheumatism, Etc.

A man will repair his home every once and a while to make it last him a lifetime, but he will neglect his own body, which needs repair many a time more than a house does. He will go year after year without doing the least thing for his health, which is a thousand times more important than all the riches he can ever gather in his lifetime. The human body with all its organs and its highly developed brain and nervous system is the most wonderful of all creatures and far more complex than any machine, and needs repair far more than people give it. Why do people suffer? Simply because they neglect to tend to diseases right in their start. This is true of cancer, which starts as a little spot, which itches, forms a scab, festers and finally involves the whole area and destroys every tissue it reaches. People are under the impression that the malady will subside, but instead another trouble arises from it and from this in turn more serious troubles are the consequence. This is true of consumption, which starts with a little cough and ends with decay of the lungs. Bright's and kidney disease took its start with a simple well-known and widespread malady among men and women. It first started its decay locally, then lays the foundation for further troubles in your old age; it then travels up to the bladder, which decays, and if you leave your urine stand you can detect a good portion of your bladder in it as sediment. But the disease, being millions of germs, will not confine itself to the bladder alone, but will travel through the ureters up into the kidneys, causes their decay and goes into the blood, bringing on the excrutiating pains of rheumatism.

In actual cures of diseases these Experts are superior and have no equals in this part of the country, and if you are afflicted with any diseases of a chronic nature, do not fail to consult them, for they are the Specialists who have actual and lasting curative results. Their method is marvelous and thousands of Duluthians are praising theid science and skill. You are cordially invited to consult them free of charges and they will explain why they can cure any of these diseases regardless of age and complications. Their offices are crowded from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. No. 1 West Superior street, Duluth. Sundays, 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

OPEN SEASON FOR TROUT

Enthusiasts Will Cast Their First Lines Saturday and Sunday.

Ice in Streams—Woods Are in Bad Shape for Traveling.

Chester creek,	Talmage river,
Lester river,	Rocky run,
Tischer's creek,	Beaver creek,
French river,	State Line creek,
Sucker river,	Silver creek,
Knife river,	Net river.
Gooseberry,

These are but a few of the many streams both east and west of Duluth that will hold dangling lines on Saturday and Sunday next, the date of the opening of the trout season.

These names are given as all the streams are close to the city. At the first of the season the most enthusiastic fishermen is unwilling to risk a long trip because he knows how uncertain the conditions are.

All the streams mentioned are within easy access of the city and city fishermen will try out their luck in them before taking the longer trips farther up the north shore and to the west of the city.

At present the most optimistic of the fishermen state that the conditions are not good and that there will be but few trout caught before May 1 or May 15.

There is still a good deal of ice in the creeks and they are high. The woods are also in bad shape for traveling. At present the fish are getting all they want to eat and it will not be until the streams are clear and lower than they are at present that the fishing will be good.

WITH THE MAJORS IN SPRING TRAINING

Giants and Brooklyn Win.

New York, April 10.—The first touch of anything like baseball weather here came with a warming sun yesterday and two of the three local clubs of the major leagues played and won exhibition games on their local grounds.

Manager McGraw of the Giants put the regular team in the field against the Jersey City Eastern League club and overwhelmed them, 16 to 5, scoring ten runs in the third inning. Mathewson pitched seven innings and was found for eight scattered hits. Raymond finished the game with two hits.

The Brooklyn Nationals had harder work in beating the Newark Eastern leaguers. The game was eleven innings, with Brooklyn using three pitchers. The score was 4 to 3.

President Thomas J. Lynch of the National league will announce today the assignment of umpires for the opening games.

Tigers Win Without Stars.

Dayton, Ohio, April 11.—The Detroit Americans, minus Cobb, Crawford and Morlarity won yesterday's game from the Central League club here, 7 to 2. Five of the Detroit runs were made off Winchell, who was wild.

Columbus Makes Great Finish.

Columbus, Ohio, April 11.—After Pittsburg had gone three runs ahead in the last inning of yesterday's game on account of Shortstop Mahling's overthrows, Columbus' batters got to Pitcher Ferry and secured the four runs needed to win before anyone was out. Columbus, 10; Pittsburg, 9.

Miller Makes Four Homers.

Evansville, Ind., April 11.—In a game with the Evansville Central league team yesterday, McElvey of Minneapolis, made four home runs, a double and a single in six trips to the plate. Minneapolis won, 18 to 11. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Minneapolis	18	20	5
Evansville	11	14	2

Batteries—Opplne, Chase, Sage and McElvery and Smith; Withers, Barke, Von Hatschfeldt, Meiers and Jacobs.

Sox Recruit Is Strong.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 11.—Baker held Indianapolis of the American Association to three hits, none of which developed a run, in a game yesterday won by the Chicago Americans, 5 to 0.

Scranton Club Blanked.

Scranton, Pa., April 11.—The New York American league team easily defeated the Scranton club of the New York State league here yesterday by the score of 10 to 0. Scranton, in addition to poor work at the bat, played a miserable game in the field.

Athletics Take Series.

Philadelphia, April 11.—The Philadelphia Nationals captured the final game of the inter-league series with the local Americans yesterday but lost the series by three games to two. The score of the final game was 5 to 2, the Nationals hitting to better advantage.

Reds Defeat Rochester.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 11.—Cincinnati National league team had no trouble in defeating the Rochester Eastern league team here yesterday, 9 to 5.

Naps Win in Eleventh.

Toledo, Ohio, April 11.—Toledo and Cleveland engaged in their first extra inning game of the season Monday afternoon, Cleveland winning in the eleventh, 3 to 1.

FRENCH ARE PEEVED, SAYS WILLIE HOPPE.

Willie Hoppe, the world's billiard champion, and his bride returned last week from France. The couple have been visiting abroad for the past six weeks:

Hoppe said that his being stopped from playing one of his early exhibition games in Paris was the result of jealousy. The police, he stated, stopped him from playing, as they said that gambling was going on in the same building. The French players were not stopped, however. Hoppe engaged in forty-five match games during his sojourn in the French capital and won thirty-eight. Hoppe scored a grand total of 15,000 points and made a grand average of 70, a mark which, he says, has never been reached before.

One of the first things Hoppe did after his return was to issue a challenge to billiardists who might care to oppose him. He bars no one, and says he is willing to play a match against any of the stars for $10,000 a side. Hoppe's father-in-law, Thomas Walsh, of 141 West Ninety-sixth street, who met the champion at the pier, was asked if he was opposed to Hoppe's playing and answered that he was far from such a feeling.

"Willie is the greatest billiard player in the world," said his father-in-law, "and I want to see him play. I am willing to back him, and am ready to put up $25,000 for a match game against any of the leading billiardists."

OLD ROMAN OFFERS $15,000 FOR JOHNSON.

Chicago, April 11.—President Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox, today offered President Noyes of the Washington American club $15,000 for the release of Walter Johnson, Washington's great hold out pitcher.

This is said to be the largest sum ever offered for a baseball player, Marquard of the Giants and Russell of Philadelphia having been bought for sums said to have been $11,000 each.

JOSS IS THROUGH.

Experts Believe Cleveland Star Has Pitched His Last Game.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11.—It is the opinion of the experts here that Addie Joss, the star pitcher of the Naps, has reached the end of his baseball career. Last August Joss threw his arm out and was forced to quit. He figured that a long rest would restore it to its normal condition. This spring the lanky flinger appeared to be in good shape and thought his arm was as good as ever. After twirling a game in Chattanooga, Tenn., recently, Joss collapsed. He is now at his home in Toledo, where he will rest up for a long time, in hope that his unfortunate affliction might be remedied. Few of the Cleveland players believe that the great Addie has any chance whatever to regain his past form. Every time he throws the effort causes him intense pain. The Naps will miss Joss greatly this season.

CAMNITZ WILL OPEN.

Big Howard Will Pitch for Pirates Against Griffith's Reds.

Pittsburg, April 11.—Pittsburg will open the season on Wednesday at Cincinnati, with the same line-up as it did in the opening game with St. Louis last year, except in one instance. Hunter will guard the initial corner, while a year ago Sharpe took care of it. Last night it was assured here that the batting order for the first game will be: Byrne, Leach, Clarke, Wagner, Miller, Hunter, Wilson, Gibson, Camnitz.

It is almost certain that Camnitz will pitch the game although Liefield and Adams are said to be under consideration by Captain Clarke. Camnitz has pitched the opening game in each of the past three seasons and won them all. The Pittsburg club has not opened at home since 1893, when it was beaten by Cleveland, 7 to 2.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE TO BEGIN SOON AT YALE.

New Haven, Conn., April 11.—Nearly sixty men answered the call for candidates for the Yale football team last night and the spring practice which will begin after Easter and will be longer and harder than in previous years. In speaking of football at Yale, Walter Camp complimented the last team in its "garrison," but said such finishes were becoming too frequent for Yale teams.

There must be more preliminary practice he said, and Yale must develop a forward pass and greater efficiency in drop-kicking.

JOHNSON AND McALEER AGREE ON TERMS.

Coffeyville, Kan., April 11.—Pitcher Walter Johnson, who arrived here Monday from Washington, started back last night, after his disagreement with Manager McAleer of the Washington Americans had been adjusted by telegraph.

He will arrive in time for the opening game. Before leaving here he stated that he had refused to sign a three and a two-year contract, insisting it be for only one year, and that he won his point.

BANQUET IS BIG SUCCESS

Boat Club Dinner Shows Much Enthusiasm for Coming Season's Events.

Trophies and Cups Given Out and Plans of Club Outlined.

Merry athletes and the less strenuous members of the Duluth Boat club, gathered around the banquet board last evening at the Commercial club, listening to flowery oratory, to some good stories, eating a corking good dinner and more important still, at least to the athletes, receiving the medals and trophies which have been held over since the close of the 1910 season.

Medals and fobs were presented to the oarsmen, while the members of the junior eight, which won the club cup, had the honor of having their names engraved on the emblem of the local championship. The winners of canoe races and the lapstreak races also received trophies of their athletic prowess.

In the motor boat department some very handsome trophies were awarded. The Kelley Hardware cup, won by Dick Schell, is a beauty, and several other of the cups were very handsome. The beautiful cup won by "Billy" Jones with his twenty footer, is another handsome trophy.

The crew of the winning Scud received one of the finest cups presented last evening. The trophy is large and of beautiful design and is a fitting emblem of the efforts of the crew. Several other cups were presented by Sailing Captain Charles Brewer as well as several club burgees.

In the field sports department, which includes, as Capt. Klichil stated last evening, about everything from shuffle board to tennis, there were also some very appropriate prizes given out. The unique design of the fobs won by several of the athletes made these some of the most prized of all the trophies offered.

President Julius Barnes presided at the banquet. In a few remarks he told of the big summer activities before the club and asked for the co-operation of all the club members for the success of the carnival. He also urged the athletes of the club to redouble their efforts and to achieve the greatest success in the history of the Duluth Boat club the present season.

Capt. Dan Mahoney was one of the speakers and also urged the members of the rowing department to make the effort of their lives to carry off some of the honors at the coming regatta.

Albert Ames, secretary of the club, went into elaborate detail in describing the coming carnival. After Mr. Ames' talk the members present had a very good idea of the bigness of the water fete which will be staged in July.

The captains of the four departments all made short talks and presented the trophies to their various departments.

There were about eighty members gathered around the festive board and the spirit manifested and the general get-together tendency augurs well for the most successful season in the history of the club.

Following are the prize winners:

ANNUAL MEETING OF CURLING CLUB

Election of Officers; the New Rink; Distribution of Prizes.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Duluth Curling club will be held tonight at the Commercial club.

The meeting will be at 8 o'clock and the business meeting proper will be followed by an informal smoker and entertainment.

It has been the custom each year to hold an annual banquet at this time, but the idea was given up this year.

Besides the election of officers, the matter of a new rink will come up for discussion tonight. The new rink and the proposition of buying the property are still up in the air, and it is expected that some definite action will be taken tonight.

Those who won prizes during the curling season will get their rewards tonight. Other routine business will be discussed.

MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS AWAIT SEASON'S OPENING

Confidence High in Breasts of Both Athletics and Chance's Cubs.

Giants, White Sox, Griffith's Reds and Highlanders Are Very Hopeful.

New York, April 11.—It will be "play ball" on big league fields tomorrow for the start of the regular playing season and major league clubs had their final fling with the minors today. In this city the National leaguers, as the last touch in their long conditioning process which started two months ago down in Texas, had the Newark Eastern league team for their opponents. The somewhat milder weather encouraged the veterans to limber up and the work of the afternoon was expected by Manager McGraw of the National league team to put his men in fine fettle for the clash with Philadelphia in the opening game at the polo grounds tomorrow.

The Brooklyns went up to Lawrence, Mass., for the windup of their exhibition series in a game with the New England league team. They will keep moving right on eastward and appear in Boston in the National league curtain-raiser with Fred Tenney's men there tomorrow.

Admirers of the local American leaguers will not have a chance to see their pets in action on a local field this season until April 20, when the season at American league park will be opened in a game with Washington. The Americans rest up in Wilkesbarre today, indulging only in light practice and then move over to Philadelphia, where the world's champions will be encountered in the opening game of tomorrow.

Athletics Confident.

Philadelphia, April 11.—Full of the spirit that carried them to baseball glory last fall, the world's champion Athletics will open the American league season at Shibe park, Wednesday, with New York, which team expects to make a strong bid for the pennant this year.

For the first time since the American league has been organized, the Philadelphia representative in that circuit will start the season with a "standpat" team. Connie Mack, their astute leader, has looked over the veterans and has tried out his youngsters and has decided that the men who brought the highest honors in baseball to this city are good enough for another campaign.

The only position in doubt is left field, which gave the tall manager considerable worry last year. Mack has picked "Bill" Hogan from California, to fill the place, but the manager now says that to win the position he will have to play better ball than he has shown by Amos Strunk, who is putting up a game that pleases Mack.

The Philadelphia pitching staff, one of the strongest in the league, has been strengthened by the addition of "Lefty" Russell, who may take a regular turn in the box. Bender, the sterling Indian pitcher; Coombs, who won the three games he pitched in the world's series; the trusty Plank and Krause are in shape for the opening of the season, but it is expected that the Indian will open the season against the New Yorkers.

Much is expected of the Philadelphia Nationals this year by reason of the addition of several lively players acquired through the Cincinnati deal. Manager Dooin thinks he has the right combination for a winning team and declares that he expects to be one of the two teams that will fight it out next fall for the world's championship. The Philadelphia Nationals open the season at New York the same day the American league season opens here.

Season Opens in Boston.

Boston, Mass., April 11.—The baseball season opened in Boston today with a game between the second team of the Boston American club and the Harvard varsity. The American squad reached their home grounds during the forenoon after a two-days' trip from Omaha, Neb., and a short practice drill was held for the train-weary players.

The original plan to send the first team to the home grounds for the first local game of the season was abandoned on account of the opening game with Washington tomorrow.

New York Teams Fast.

New York, April 11.—"Two pennants for New York" is the cry of New York's army of baseball enthusiasts who confidently expect the two local nines to capture the coveted banners in both the National and American leagues this season. Hence there is keen interest in the opening game Wednesday, when a line can be had on the New York Nationals in their clash with the Philadelphia club. The New York team of the American league will not show on the hill top until April 20, when they play Washington.

Pitcher Mathewson has a sore finger on his left hand, and probably Ames or Raymond will be on the mound for the Giants in the opening event.

Manager Chase of the Americans has strengthened his infield with Hartzell at shortstop and Johnson at third base and with a stout pitching staff he says he expects to finish one, two.

Brooklyn has hopes of landing in the first division of the National league, and Manager Dahlen depends in no small measure on his pitching staff to carry him through. Dahlen says he has a lively bunch of youngsters and will make trouble for the leaders.

Hope in Red Land.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 11.—In case fair weather heralds the National baseball season in this city Wednesday there is hardly a doubt that League park will receive more patrons than on any previous opening day. Baseball is at fever heat, caused possibly through the many predictions that have emanated from leading baseball writers that Cincinnati will finish one, two, three in the race this year.

The Cincinnati team is far from being in perfect condition. Since the arrival of the team from its Southern training quarters at Hot Springs, Ark., two weeks ago, it has encountered only one day of fair weather. As a result, seven men have been reported on the hospital list, suffering from colds and the grip. Notwithstanding this, Griffith believes his regulars will round into form in time to present his strongest lineup on opening day. The Pittsburg team is scheduled to arrive here Tuesday afternoon.

Sox and Cubs Ready.

Chicago, April 11.—Better prepared to play championship baseball than they have been since the spring of 1906, the Chicago team, champions of the National league, will open the season here Wednesday with the St. Louis club. Manager Chance believes that Chicago will again win the pennant race, but in the same breath names New York as the most formidable contender.

The team is in splendid condition, and is almost the same club that won the championship last year. The third base position alone is changed. Heine Zimmerman has been picked to fill the place made vacant by the veteran Harry Steinfeldt, who was sold to St. Paul.

Although Pitcher Overall is lost to the club, Manager Chance is pinning his faith to Mordecai Brown, the three-fingered pitcher, who has meant so much to the club in winning four pennants in the last five years. Reulbach and Pfiester, veteran pitchers, are going at top speed, and Chance expects much of them, while Cole, Foxen, Ritchie, Toney and Weaver give promise of holding up their end of the work.

Much is expected of the Chicago American league club this season. Manager Duffy has the material for a team of veterans or youngsters, whichever may prove best. The team will open the season at Detroit with the following probable lineup:

Tigers in Good Shape.

Detroit, Mich., April 11.—The first of the Detroit players who will be in the lineup when the club meets Chicago in the opening game of the American league season here Wednesday, reached Detroit early Monday. Among the first were Mullin, Crawford, Cobb, Willett and Summers. All of the other players will be here by this afternoon.

Although the days of idleness at Indianapolis and Cincinnati, caused by bad weather, resulted in several of the veterans taking on flesh, Manager Jennings, says that the squad left Monroe, La., the training camp, in such splendid shape that all of the regulars can be expected to start the season in good condition.

According to President Navin and Manager Jennings, the final disposition of the recruits will not be made until after the season opens. The officials have already stated, however, that Walter Schaller will be retained as substitute outfielder. Gainor will be on first base, in all probability, one of the new pitchers, Lively, the Pacific coast recruit, Covington and Mitchell have been highly spoken by Jennings and Battery Coach Sugden. It has not been stated officially as yet whether Works and Stroud of last year's staff will be retained.

George Mullin is the pitching choice for the opening game and Schmidt probably will catch.

RED SOX WILL TAKE SHORT TRAINING TRIP

Players of Kid Taylor's Superior squad will report at Racine, Wis., April 17. According to the word that has been received from the Kid, there will be at least eighteen players in the party.

A week will be spent in training at Racine and the following week will be spent at Fond du Lac and Oshkosh. During the two weeks the players are away from the home town they will play games with the teams of the three towns named. The members of the Red Sox brigade should return to Superior in the very best of condition.

More players will be picked up on the return to Superior. Taylor has over twenty-five players on his list at the present time, and those players who are not taken on the trip will join the squad at Hislop park and will be given a chance to show their worth. The team will be back on the first of May and will have a few days' practice before opening the spring series with Darby O'Brien's colts.

LEHTO IS AFTER FINLAND'S BEST

Duluth Wrestler Reaches Europe in Search of New Laurels.

Karl Lehto, the claimant to the Finnish heavyweight wrestling championship, is at the present time in Helsingfors, Finland, arriving in that city but a day or two ago. Lehto has gone to Finland to attend the world's championship Graeco-Roman wrestling tourney for men of all weights and may take part in some of the events. He believes that the experiences he has had at catch-as-catch-can work in this country will assist him materially in the tournament if he does take part. There will be contestants from all parts of Europe, including Finland, Russia, Siberia in Asia, Norway, Sweden, England, Germany, Austria and France.

Lehto expects to return to the United States next winter if he can put on about twenty pounds in weight between now and that time. It is said that the climate of the northern countries of Europe is very good for wrestlers who desire to put on weight and to continue their training work at the same time. Lehto also expects to meet the resident champion heavyweight wrestler of Finland in a catch-as-catch-can match in the near future.

On his return to the United States Lehto will seek matches with Cutler, Ordemann, Westergaard and others of the American topnotchers.

POSTAL SLUGGERS ORGANIZE.

North American Messenger Boys Are Looking for Baseball Games.

The North American messengers have organized a baseball team and will be known as the Postal Sluggers. They challenge any team in the city of their class.

Mike Kroff was appointed captain and manager. Any teams looking for games can arrange them by notifying Mike at his residence, 2320 West Sixteenth street or at the messenger office. The lineup follows:

EDDIE McGOORTY GETS DECISION IN ENGLAND.

London, April 11.—Before the National Sporting club last night, Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh, Wis., won a 15-round middleweight contest from Pat O'Keefe, welterweight champion of Ireland, on points.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Morris' Status in the Boxing World—Abie's Mournful Time—The Presentation to Comiskey—More of Morris—Pennant Predictions—"Bill" Jones and "Dick" Schell as Orators — The Boxing Bill — Hold-Out Players.

(BY BRUCE.)

AFTER reaching Pittsburg, which is smoky and filled with cafes where men imbibe freely, Michael Cassius Schreck gave forth an interview that was one of the first, if not the first, he had given on his impression of Carl Morris, the pugilistic mystery of the wild and uncultivated West, as far as wildness and uncultivation is known in this passing day.

While Schreck gives Morris credit for being a regular bear cat, little credit can be attached to the saying of lost Mike. He was beaten by Morris and knows that he will never fight the man from Oklahoma again. If he did, he would very probably have said that he was out of condition and that he could beat him in a return engagement. He has nothing to lose by praising Morris, and hence the praise.

This is not knocking the big Casey Jones of Oklahoma. It is not the aim of this column to knock without cause. Knocking is generally foolish and futile, as some have observed in the past. When the opinion is expressed that Morris will never make a champion, it is simply an honest one, forced on facts that have come to this column from men who generally know what they are talking about.

A lot of people would be very much surprised if the writer were at liberty to publish the name of a certain man who fought Morris under an assumed name. The promise was made not to mention his real name, and that promise will not be violated. This man told the writer that Carl Morris was about as far from being a champion as Ed Dunkhurst was the night old Bob Fitzsimmons struck that terrific wallop on his protuberant stomach.

Already interest is dropping out of the Morris case. Jim Flynn and Jim Barry have tried to get on a fight with the "hope" and both have failed in their efforts. Morris is being coaxed along and some day will blow up, like some old nag that has been doped and has run a race on unnatural strength and stamina. The champions of the past have not been men built like Morris, and the chances are that, were any tough middleweight to fight him now, or a year from now, Morris would receive a licking that would make Oklahoma forget the "hope" stuff.

The Money He Will Lose.

CRUEL physicians have ordered Abe Attell to drop ring activities for at least six months. Worse and more of it: he may not be able to fight for a year, or forever. Boys with close pencils and mathematical brains have come to the conclusion that the injury to Attell will cost the Hebrew in the enighborhood of $50,000 and that's a swell neighborhood.

Think of the mourning in the heart of Attell. He is thrifty and loves money. He knows that his days and evenings in the ring are numbered. He had planned to clean up a large and luscious bunch of coin. Bang! goes that scheme into a cocked hat. Poor Abie; just what will that boy do?

John McGreevy and the Moose.

THERE are a lot of Duluthians who would like to see genial John McGreevy hold the horns of the mausered moose when old Charley Comiskey raises his stage rifle and gives the worshipping fans on the Chicago South side grounds a near imitation of a hunt in the wilds of Northern Minnesota.

That moose incident ought to bring down the house. They are not used to such things down Chicago way, and they welcome with open arms anything new. Comny stands as high as the Alworth building with the fans of his town, and if Jack McGreevy should happen to push the moose over when the blank cartridge reports, the fans down Chicago way will yell their heads off.

P. S.—The Duluth crowd will have a very nice, pleasant, genial time in the Windy City as the friends of Comiskey. He owns most of the city.

Will Willie Tell?

WILLIE McCARNEY is the name of a man mixed up with the Morris machine. In Kansas City he gives out some cheer stuff on the Sepulpa cyclone. From the published report of his conversation it is certain that Carlo will not fight until some ancient specimen of the golden days of boxing has been dug up. Jack Munroe and Kid McCoy are reported as oligible. The men behind Morris are scouring the confines of the country and it may be necessary to go to England, as there are not many more of the aHrt and Schreck kind left running free and untrammeled.

Will Willie tell all he knows? Probably not.

Many Pennants Are Won.

IT IS a very poor big league manager who has not claimed a pennant. Not to claim a pennant at this stage of the race shows lack of confidence. Murphy and Chance have claimed the rag for the Cubs, and Old Roman Comiskey has come blithely forward and stated that he sees no reason why the gay gonfalon should not flop at the South side park at the end of the present season.

Griffith of the Reds and McGraw of the Giants, as well as elongated Connie Mack, the man with the perpetual look of sadness, have also come to the front and toed the pennant prediction scratch. To date, about the only teams that have not been heard from in the pennant-predicting line are the Washington and St. Louis Americans and the Boston Nationals.

These teams have hope—at least they say they have—and so everything is merry and fine. That is one of the fine things about baseball.

The Chooser of Words.

THROUGH much advertising and little denial, it has been generally believed that William Tecumseth Jones is an authority on gasoline and the quickest way to take an engine apart. After last evening it will have to be admitted that William is there with the stuff that placed Noah Webster's name in all the schools.

Bill speaks with conviction and unction. There is a rhythm and conviction in his speech that has been lacking in the progress of some of the boats he has driven in the past. The speech in question was delivered last evening at the boat club dinner, and was a gem of scintillating wit and rose like a duck with a broken wing to its climax. Thunderous applause greeted the efforts of the speaker. Thus, judging by success, it is to be hoped that William will be one of the speakers at many functions to be given in the future.

Schell Was Also There.

IT MIGHT also be mentioned that Richard Withington Schell was at the festive board and delivered a piece of oratory that for honeyed sweetness and kindly kidding was by far the best effort of the evening. Mr. Schell is from the South and has an abundance of the honey stuff.

Boxing Across the Bay.

THERE is a rumor which walketh forth, saying that some fellows across the bay have purchased land and will in the near future construct a clubhouse and auditorium combined for the purpose of holding boxing bouts. If this really does happen lovers of clean sport in this city will see the spectacle of an injustice that permits one city to enjoy clean boxing conducted in a decent and businesslike way, while a larger city just across the bay is not allowed to witness one of the cleverest of sports.

Those who have been looking for some action upon the part of the legislature in regard to the six-round boxing bill, have always given up hope. There are but a few more days of work for the legislature, and there is every reason for believing that the decent boxing bill measure that would put the sport on a decent basis, will not be given any consideration at all.

The people in this section of the state want boxing and have looked to the passage of this bill to give them sport and permit them to hold it in a manner legal and without the association that has attended the game of boxing in many parts of the country.

If the bill fails of passage, and hope is dangling by a single thread at the present time, fights on the "quiet" will probably be held in the future, as they have been held in the past, and some of these righteous lawmakers will go home with the idea that they have killed a very pernicious measure.

Those Merry Holdouts.

INDEED, the holdouts, of whom there seems an amalgamated corner, are coming in clusters this spring. There are Steinfeldt, whom Mike Kelly would like to have for his St. Paul team, and Beaumont and George Stone and Walter Johnson and Overall and Willis and others. The holdout is a stubborn chap and is a thorn in the side of the manager.

Steinfeldt's Release Approved.

New York, April 11.—The release of Harry Steinfeldt from the Chicago National league team to St. Paul was announced last night by President Lynch as approved by the National league.

RAVINES TO BE FILLED

Traction Company Will Dump Earth Under West Duluth Bridges.

Dilapidated Structures Will Be Replaced at But Little Expense.

Through an agreement which was reached at the council meeting last evening between the city fathers and the street railway company, a number of the bridges in the western end of the city will be replaced at little or no cost to the city. A permit was ordered to be issued to the traction company, allowing it to occupy certain streets in the vicinity of the bridges, in order that fills may be made.

On Oneota street at Fortieth and Forty-third avenues west, where there are old and dilapidated structures, the ravines will be filled by the street car company. The earth will be obtained from various jobs of construction work which the company has under way or will have started by the time that the fill is started.

On Grand avenue or West Third street three fills will be made, at Twenty-sixth, Sixty-first and Sixty-sixth avenues west. Miller's creek runs through the Twentysixth avenue west ravine and this fill probably will not be completed owing to the fact that the city has built no culvert under the bridge. Culverts may also have to be placed under the fills on Grand avenue, but it is not thought that any will be required on the Oneota street jobs.

DROWNED IN EIGHT INCHES OF WATER

Post Mortem Examination Held Over Body of Kalle Tamminen.

A post mortem examination held yesterday over the body of Kalle Tamminen, the man found lying in eight inches of water in a creek at Eighty-first avenue west, showed that Tamminen had met death by drowning. The death certificate was so signed by Dr. David Graham.

The dead man had $1.25 in his pockets in addition to letters and receipts to identify him. His indentity was established by Nick Christopher of 148 St. Croix avenue, who was acquainted with the dead man.

Tamminen was last seen at his boarding house at St. Croix avenue two week ago. He has a daughter living in Finland. He was 45 years old.

The funeral was held this afternoon from the Filiatrault undertaking rooms to Oneota cemetery.

CLUB HOUSE FOR TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

Steps to secure property for the site of a clubhouse or meeting hall, have been taken by the Swedish-Finnish Temperance Society of West Duluth.

A deal is being negotiated for the transfer of a property at Fifty-second avenue west and Bristol street, and it is probable that this will be the site of the new building. A lot 33 by 100 feet, at the southeast corner has been picked out, but the deal has not been closed.

A neat and substantial hall will be built this summer at a cost of between $3,000 and $5,000. The society now has over 100 members in the western end of the city and is growing satisfactorily.

Last year the national convention of the order was held in West Duluth. The meeting place is now at Vasa hall on Ramsey street. Rev. Matt Effelstrom, who is pastor of the Finnish Baptist church, is also one of the grand officers of the order and has his headquarters in West Duluth. He is the editor of the official organ of the society, which is issued in small magazine form every month.

Take Off Excess Fat

There is; and it is none other than the tablet form of the now famous Marmola Prescription, known as Marmola Prescription Tablets. You can well expect a reduction of from 10 to 16 oz. a day without dieting or exercising. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists at 75c for a large case.

FRED BUJOLD DIES.

Well-Known Resident of West Duluth Passes Away at His Home.

Fred Bujold, 50 years old, for a number of years a resident of West Duluth, died today at his home, 6512 Polk street. He is survived by a wife and three children.

The funeral will be held Thursday morning at 8 o'clock from the St. James Catholic church, Fifty-seventh avenue west, with burial in Calvary cemetery.

Mr. Bujold was a member of the St. James Court No. 614, Catholic Order of Foresters, which will meet this evening at Gilley's hall to arrange to attend the funeral.

West Duluth Briefs.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Bethany Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will be entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Mattson of 505 South Sixty-sixth avenue west.

Special services, in observance of holy week, will be held Thursday and Friday evenings at Bethany Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, Sixty-fifth avenue west and Polk street.

P. H. Martin will return Thursday from St. Paul, where he is transacting business.

H. H. Hewitt of Superior, formerly of West Duluth, was a business visitor in the western end of the city yesterday.

D. Elias of Hibbing was a visitor in the western end of the city today.

Frank E. Watson left today for Adolph, Minn., on a short business visit.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Western Curling club will be held this evening at the rink, Fifty-seventh avenue west and Bristol street.

A large delegation of West Duluth people will attend the annual banquet of the Proctor Commercial club, which will be held at the Proctor Y. M. C. A. building.

Haitien Youth Shot for Revolutionary Utterances.

Cape Haitien, Hayti, April 11.—At daybreak a feeble minded youth of 22 years paid with his life for the indiscretion of an anti-government utterance. The summary punishment meted out left an unpleasant impression.

The Haitien is described by his friends as irresponsible, while some say that his head had been turned by the recent sinister events in the republic. At any rate his fervor carried him away yesterday afternoon and he harangued a crowd with sentiments distinctly revolutionary. Last night he was arrested and this morning he was shot.

Today the police are searching for the young man's chum.

Beer Bottle as Weapon.
Mike Sissila was arrested last night on a charge of having hit Alex Johnson on the head with a beer bottle in a drunken row on Lake avenue. Johnson was not badly hurt, but sustained a cut which bled considerably. He was fixed up by Police Surgeon Murphy. Johnson was booked on a charge of being drunk. He pleaded guilty and Sissila not guilty. Their cases were set over until this afternoon.

Arrested for Second Time.
Lena Peterson was arested the second time in a week last night on a charge of selling liquor without a license in a boarding house on St. Croix avenue. She was convicted on the last charge and fined $100. If she is convicted the second time it is likely that she will get a straight jail centence. She will be tried this afternoon.

EASTER APPAREL

For the Boys of Duluth

Boys, here's a new Easter Suit for you!

Go to the Columbia for it and you'll save time and money. No trouble to be properly fitted and to find a suitable pattern at any price you are allowed to spend.

Popular Russian Suits in greys, tans and other shades, for ages 2½ to 7, and at prices from $1.95 to $10.00.

Handsome Norfolk and Sailor Suits are the leading styles for ages 5 to 10. Here in a large variety of patterns in the new grey and tan shades. Also a big line of blue serges. Prices $2.00 to $12.00.

Manly double-breasted and Norfolk Suits are the styles in vogue for boys 7 to 18 years of age. Fancy mixtures and plain shades. Greys and tans have the call this season, with the old reliable blue still a favorite of many boys, $2.00 to $12.50.

Leaders we are—more than ever—in fitting out the young men of this city. An entirely separate department is devoted to serving them with clothes from the best specialists in young men's clothes.

Checks and stripes are in the front rank this spring, but greys and blues still retain their old popularity with many neat dressers. $10 to $30.00.

No other store in Duluth shows such complete and up-to-date selections of Boys' and Young Men's Furnishings as is to be found at this store.

Hats, caps, shirts, waists, cravats and everything else to complete the Easter outfit. And everything at lower prices, quality considered.

SUPERIOR SOCIALIST LOSES ON FLIP OF COIN

John Bradshaw, Republican, Will Retain His Seat on County Board.

John Bradshaw, Republican, who was tied for Third ward county supervisor with Felix Winquist, Social Democrat, each having 157 votes, won the place last evening at the council meeting at the flip of a coin. The candidates had agreed on this way of disposing of the affair. This will be Bradshaw's second term on the board.

At its meeting last evening the council took action towards the purchase or construction of a municipal water works and passed a resolution asking the city attorney to obtain permission from the public utility commission for the city to either buy or build a plant and if secured, to order a special election and pass upon the matter of a bond issue.

Mayor Crumpton and Street Commissioner Anderson have formulated plans for keeping the streets of Superior in excellent condition this year. This will be done by oiling the streets paved with macadam, the aim being to keep down the dust.

HEAVY FINE POSSIBLE; GRAY LET DOWN EASY.

Although a fine of $4,500 was possible under a strict interpretation of the law pertaining to the leaving of building material in the street after the expiration of the time, Thomas Gray was let off easy with the minimum fine of $5, when arraigned yesterday in police court on this charge. The provisions of the ordinance are that a fine of $5 to $50 for each forty-eight hours that obstructions are allowed to remain in the street.

Elmer Eno was sent to the workhouse for thirty days for stealing a bicycle.

Contract Awarded.

Blakely & Reichel were last evening awarded the contract for the addition to the Webster school at Itasca, the improvement to cost $2,996. The addition will double the size of the building and will be begun at once.

MEASLES BAR THE NEW AMBASSADOR

Unable to Occupy Mexican Embassy on Account of Sickness.

Washington, April 11.—A stranger in a strange land, the new Mexican ambassador to the United States, Senor Manuel de Zamacona E. Inclan, is barred from his official residence here. Measles in the family of the former ambassador, Senor de la Barra, has prevented his successor from occupying the embassy. The three children of the De la Barra family are down with the disease, but are convalescing. Senor Zamacona presented his credentials to the state department today and later will be formally received at the White House by President Taft.

Cures Sore and Tired Feet.

Ordinary antiseptic vilane powder has many valuable uses, but probably few persons know what wonderful power it has over sore, tired, aching or calloused feet. It draws all the soreness out, checks excessive perspiration, prevents congestion and cold feet, while it removes corns, bunions and callouses. Many physicians know its worth, and the public can be saved much suffering by this knowledge being imparted.

If the reader wishes to try it, obtain of any leading druggist two ounces of vilane powder. To a gallon of steaming water add a teaspoonful of the powder and a tablespoonful of salt, and keep the feet immersed from 10 to 20 minutes every night for several weeks.

INTERVENED IN DRUNKEN BRAWL

Shogan Said to Have Shot to Prevent Victim Using Knife.

George Shogan, arrested on a charge of having shot Mike Wukkas at New Duluth last week, was bound over to the grand jury after a preliminary hearing which was concluded in police court this morning.

The testimony showed that Mike and Nick Wukkas, who are not related, but get the same name because they came from the same place in the old country, got into a drunken row on their way home from a New Duluth saloon shortly before 11 o'clock. Mike, it is claimed, drew a knife, and would have stabbed Nick had not Radi Wukkas, who gets his name in the same way as the others, intervened.

Nick then started to run to the boarding house, with Mike in pursuit. It appears that Shogan heard the men yelling, and hastening outdoors with his revolver, shot Mike to prevent him from stabbing Nick. It is not clear, however, whether he shot when outside the house, or from the inside, the testimony on that point being conflicting.

The case against Mike Unkovich, charged with carrying concealed weapons in the shape of a big knife, was dismissed, as it was shown that the knife was not in his hands.

"CHILDREN'S BUREAU"

May Be Added to Department of Commerce and Labor.

Washington, April 11.—A "childrens' bureau" to be established in the department of commerce and labor, is provided for in a bill introduced in the house today by Representative Barhart of Indiana. The bureau, to be under the direction of an expert in juvenile hygienics and ethics appointed by the president and approved by the senate, is designated to investigate all matters pertaining to child welfare, particularly infant mortality, physical degeneracy, sanitary conditions of schools, orphans' homes, child labor and other subjects pertaining to the children of the country.

CHARRED INFANT'S BODY IS FOUND IN SUIT CASE.

Calumet, Mich., April 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In a suit case left on a Milwaukee train from Chicago here yesterday was found the charred body of an infant so badly burned the sex could not be determined. The police are investigating with no clew to work on.

FORT BRADY, MICH. MAY BE ABANDONED.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 11.—According to Maj. Durfee, commanding officer at Fort Brady, Lieut. Col. Charles B. Norton, inspector general of the war department, has recommended the abandonment of that post. No official reason was given out. Fort Brady is the only post of the Great Lakes between Chicago and Duluth.

The post is situated on a ridge of hills overlooking the town and river. It was moved to its present site in 1895.

THOUGHT HE WAS SEEING SNAKES

Huge White Reptile Forty-Eight Feet Long in United Doctors Waiting Room.

Although the man who brings in this report is not a drinking man and does not "look upon the wine when it is red"—or any other color, for that matter—yet for a moment yesterday afternoon he thought he had a vision of snakes, when George Wenzel stepped into the waiting rooms of the United Doctors on the third floor of the Columbia building, and said to the interviewer, in the presence of some twenty waiting patients: "Here is something I have to show you," saying which he held up a bottle containing a large, flat slimpy reptile which he said measured forty-eight feet in length.

"What do you call that ugly thing?" asked the interviewer, becoming interested, for he had never seen anything like it. "Dr Duckworth says its a tape worm," was the answer, "and I will tell you where it came from. My wife, Verona, had been doctoring with several doctors for stomach trouble for more than a year, was in a hospital for more than two weeks last summer, but all the doctors she had and all the medicine she took did her no more good than so much water. I just kept my nose to the grindstone paying doctor and medicine bills. None of them seemed to know what ailed her, and about the only thing they did was to give her morphine to quiet the terrible stomach pains. This ruined what little appetite she had and she became so thin and weak that for days at a time she was unable to do her own housework. Knowing that a number of people with whom I was acquainted had been cured by the United Doctors, I made up my mind to bring my wife to them, which I did. Within five minutes they told her just what the trouble was, she took the medicine they gave her, and in this bottle you see the result. Now her appetite is splendid, she eats well. She sleeps well and is strong and well. I know there are many others who are afflicted just as she was and I know the United Doctors can cure them. Publish these facts, for the people ought to know them."

The United Doctors are now permanently located on the third floor of the Columbia building. They are not here for a day or a month, but permanently for all time. When a United Doctors' institute is once established in a city it always grows and stays there.

Examination and consultation is free to all, but these specialists reserve the right to refuse to treat any case which they consider incurable.

WOMEN ARE PRISONERS

Held By Mexican Rebels in Stockade in Lower California.

State Department Orders an Investigation to Be Made.

San Diego, Cal., April 11.—Mexican rebels are holding a number of American women and children captive in a stockade at Alamo, Lower California, it became known here today. The prisoners are said to be at the mercy of their captors and to have suffered insults and indignities. Protests have been made to Secretary of State Knox and Senator Perkins, chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, has been advised.

Among those held captive are G. Raffi, his wife and five children of San Diego. The names of the others have not been disclosed. The appeal to Secretary Knox was made by O. Henry Savage of this city, a relative of Mrs. Raffi.

News of the condition of prisoners at Alamo was brought to Ensenada last week. Savage said today and reported to George B. Schmucker, United States consul, as well as to Governor Celso Vega of Lower California. Savage charged that Vega did not send relief and Schmucker ignored the complaint.

Wired to Knox.

Fearing for the welfare of the prisoners in the hands of the rebels, who are said to be commanded by Simon Berthold, Savage wired Secretary Knox Sunday afternoon as follows:

"Members of my family and other American women and children held at Alamo by rebels. Unable to obtain food or relief. Wires to Ensenada are down. Am reliably informed that Mexican governor, lower California declines relief. Will you order warship to Ensenada to rescue? Please answer

"O. HENRY SAVAGE."

The following telegram was received by Mr. Savage yesterday:

"The ambassador at Mexico City has been instructed by telegraph to request the Mexican government to extend protection to the American citizens mentioned in your telegram of yesterday and the American consul at Ensenada has been instructed by telegraph to investigate and report and to ask the governor for needed protection for these people.

"PHILANDER C. KNOX."

State Senator Leroy A. Wright telegraphed news of the situation to Senator Perkins yesterday afternoon in the hope that the latter would use his influence at Washington to secure quick action.

The case was taken also to Rear Admiral Chauncey Thomas, commander of the Pacific fleet, who was urged by Savage to send a warship to Ensenada. Admiral Thomas said that he could not act without orders from Washington.

All attempts today to secure information on the subject from the United States consulate at Ensenada have failed, and no statement can be secured from the Mexican officials in Lower California.
